GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—O—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superseding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily operated, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The design is superior to any other in point of ease, lightness of knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a lifetime and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for useowing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

ROUP

NEW HAVEN, Dec 11, 1862.

Having been taught that medicines, in order to be valuable, must originate with some particular faculty or school, we considered patent medicines, (so called,) a humbug, until after losing our beloved child with Croup, we were forced by the suffering of another, from the same disease, and the advice of friends, to try Coe's Cough Balsam. Little Eddie had gone, and, though we loved him, we would not call him from his quiet rest, to share the sorrows of this unfriendly world. But Willie, is there no remedy for thee? We found it in Coe's Cough Balsam. It relieved him in about twenty minutes, to our great joy, and the surprise of others. We cannot be hired to dispense with this priceless blessing, and we are glad to learn that Mr. Coe has made arrangements with parties, whereby it may become more extensively known. In view of this let me say to every parent, when your child is suffering with Croup, give this Balsam, give it freely. If we did not believe it to be the best remedy for you, we certainly would not say it.

Truly yours,

MONEY EASILY MADE,

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so.—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

Address, ABEL J. WILLARD,

Another feature which deserves particular attention is the Wilcox Patent Needle, which cannot be set wrong.

"It is emphatically the good, low-priced Family Sewing Machine that the public have long been waiting for."—Boston Transcript.

"It is indeed a wonderful production, and, for family use especially, no other will bear any comparison with it."—Phila Evening Journal.

"We must, in justice, express our confidence in the merits of the Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine. We consider that a great desideratum has been supplied by it, in proving, beyond doubt, that two threads are not, as was supposed necessary to a good machine.—Christian Advocate and Journal, June 21 1860.

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness; for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

Over Five thousand Bottles have been sold in its nasive town, and not a single instance of its failure is known.

We have in our possession, any quantity of certificates, some of them from

EMINENT PHYSICIANS,

who have used it in their practice, and given it the preeminence over any other compound

It does not dry up a Cough, but loosens it so as to enable the patient to expectorate freely.

Two or three doses will invariably cure tickling in the throat.

A Half Bottle has often completely cured the most

STUBBORN COUGH

and yet, though it is so sure and speedy it its operation, it is perfectly harmless, being purely vegetable. It is very agreeable to the taste, and may be administered to children of any age

In cases of Croup we will guarantee a cure if taken in season.

☞ No Family should be Without it. It is within the reach of all, the price being

ONLY 25 CENTS

And if an investment and thorough trial does not "back up" the above statement, the money will be refunded. We say this, knowing its merits, and feel confident that one trial will secure for it a home in every household

Do not waste away with Coughing, when so small an investment will cure you. It may be had of any respectable Druggist in town, who will furnish you with a circular of genuine certificates of cures is has made.

Absent Years.

Say not that friendships soon decay,
That early memories perish,
And hearts that once were fair as May
Fond thoughts no longer cherish.

Oh tell me not that drys of joy,
Give place to years of sorrow;
That Time will brightest hopes destroy,
Or wreck them ere the morrow.

Life's young romance was never formed,
As mists at morn to vanish
Before the glow of sun that warmed
And came the night to banish.

The hopes of youth are all too fair
To fade and leave no symbol;
The future only can impair
When ages away and tremble.

What treasure in the thought! as years
Roll on in quick succession,
That, like the planets in their spheres,
The heart has its possession,

And if we knew that friends of youth,
Who echoed to our laughter,
In years are life life became uncouth,
Foosook or scorned us after:

We would not, were the world our own,
Give aught for their affection,
Nor ask, though else we lived unknown,
A single recollection.

The friendship that the stronger grows
As youth to manhood changes,
And in the midst of sorrow glow's
Is that which ne'er estranges.

The eye that beamed with love in youth,
Can smile again as surely;
In after years it can, in truth,
The glance retain as purely.

Then tell me not that friendship dies
Ere life has passed its morning,
And that the treasures most we prize
Will fade and give no warning.

For eyes with love light are aglow,
And hearts with love are teeming
And e'en within this world of woe
Fair smiles of joy are beaming.

Truth Stranger than Fiction

In the autumn of 1817 while the woods were bright with the variegated hues which follow the light touches of early frost, a solitary traveller, was quietly pursuing his way through a dark, broad, lonely forest, in the south western part of the state of New York. He had ridden three miles since seeing a human habitation; and he had two to go before he could get sight of another. He was descending a hill into a gloomy looking valley through which flowed a shallow but swift running stream; and on reaching the stream; and on reaching the stream he permitted his thirsty beast to stop and drink.

At that moment a man came out from a cluster of bushes into the road or horse path on the other side of the stream.

This man was dressed like a hunter, and carried a rifle on his shoulder. In his general appearance there was nothing that indicated hostility or a wicked design, He was of medium size, compactly built, with intellectual features, and a certain air of gentility—seeming rather as one abroad from some settlement for a days sport than a professional hunter.—All this the mounted traveller carefully noted before he crossed the stream to continue his journey, and when they came near together, a pleasant salutation was exchanged.

'Fine weather for travelling, sir,' remarked the man with the gun.

'And for hunting, also, I should suppose,' smiled the other.

'Yes, there is game enough,' replied the other; 'but I am not a good hunter, and can only show one bear for my day's work thus far, and that is almost useless to me; because I have no means to take it away. I would willingly give a dollar for the use of a horse like yours for a couple of hours. If you could spare five minutes or so, I would like you to see the bear. It is only just back behind these bushes some two hundred yards from here.'

'I will not only look at it,' replied the traveller, dismounting and fastening his horse, 'but if not to heavy, I will carry it for you, seeing I am mounted, and you are on foot.'

The hunter thanked him pleasantly, and then as if to make himself agreeable and keep up the conversation, inquired where the other was from, whither journeying, and so forth, and learned in reply, that the latter resided in Albany was a merchant in good business, and was traveling partly with the view of making an extensive land purchase for future speculation.

"Well, here we are!' exclaimed the hunter, as the two emerged from the thicket, through which they had slowly forced their way into the more open wood here we are! and I now will show you as fine one fat a beast as you ever saw.'

He stepped back some eight or ten feet, deliberately raised the piece to his shoulder and pointed the muzzle directly at the head of the traveller. There was a flash, a loud report, and the victim fell like a log, his face covered with blood.

This might, or might not, have been the first crime committed by the man with the rifle. But as the traveller fell the rifle slipped from his hands and he shook violently from head to foot; yet he ran to his victim, and hurriedly robbed him of his purse, a pocket book, a gold watch and chain, some curious seals, a diamond breast pin, and a diamond ring, which he fairly tore off from his finger. He then dragged his body into the thicket, picked up his rifle, and plunged madly through the bushes to the road, mounted the horse, and dashed away from that terrible scene.

We must suppose a lapse of twenty or thirty years.

In the spring of 1837, there lived in the city of New York, a banker, and a millionaire whom we shall call Edward Stephens. He owned a palatial mansion splendidly furnished, in the very heart of the town, and he and his wife were among the leaders of the fashionable world. They had a beautiful daughter just turned of sixteen, who was about to be married to a foreign nobleman, and great preparations were making for hat event.

One day about this period, as the great banker stood conversing with a gentleman from another city, who had called to see him on business, he observed the latter suddenly turn pale and begin to tremble.

'My dear sir,' he said in the usual tone of off hand sympathy, 'what is the matter? are you ill?'

'A little faint sir, but nothing to cause any alarm,' replied the other hurriedly.—'I am subject to similar spells. If you will excuse me I will take a short walk and return in better condition.

In ten minutes he did return, said he was quite well, calmly proceeded to finish his busines with the banker and took his leave.

It was perhaps, a week after this, that one night the great banker was sitting before the fire in his library when a servant came in and presented a letter. He took it with a yawn, opened it in the most indolent and indifferent manner possible, but had not read a dozen words before he came up with a start, turned deadly pale and trembled so that the paper rattled.—He finished the note—for it was rather a note than a letter—worked one hand nervously at his throat, and with the other clasped his forehead and temples.—For a minute or two he seemed to be choking into calmness, by an iron will, some terrible emotion, and he so far succeeded as to address the waiting servant in an ordinary tone.

'James,' he said, 'tell me who gave you this letter?'

'A man sir, and he said he'd wait for the answer.

'Then he waiting?

'Yes, sir.'

'Very well; show nim in.'

Soon there was a light tap on the door and the banker said 'Come in' in an ordinary tone.

The servant opened the door, ushered in the stranger, and immediately withdrew. The latter was a man verging on sixty, of rough appearance and course attire. He wore an old gray overcoat, buttoned to throat, and a pair of green goggles, and his whole dress was completely saturated with rain.

'Take a seat,' said the banker, pointing to a chair near the fire.

'No, thank you, I'll stand,' was the gruff reply.' 'You got my note, and of course know my business!'

'You allude to this, I suppose!' returned the banker, producing the letter which had caused him so much perturbation a moment before.

'Yes.'

'I do not understand it! you must have made a mistake.

'No, no mistake at all, I was present twenty years ago come the tenth day of next October and saw you shoot him and if you go to deny it, I'll have you in prison before morning. I've laid my plans and got everything sure, and if you go to playing innocent and refusing my terms, I'll take care to see you die stretching hemp.'

The banker turned deadly pale.

'What do you want?' he groaned.

'A hundred thousand dollars—not a cent less!'

'I cannot—it would ruin me!'

'Just as you say!' rejoined the other, moving towards the door; you know what'll follow if I go this way.'

'Oh stay! do not go out!' cried the man of crime in terrible alarm.

He argued, urgued pleaded implored for mercy at a less fearful cost. In vain. At last the banker seeing ruin, disgrace and death before him, if he refused—agreed to meet the stranger, with the required sum on the following night, in front of St. Paul's Church. Both were punctual to the fixed time, and his bills and checks, to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars changed hands.

A month later there was a tremendous run on the bank which Stephen Edwards was owner. It was soon broken—closed. The Sheriff was set to work by his eager creditors and all the real estate and personal property of the late millionare was seized and sold, leaving him a beggar and the just claims unsatisfied. Fashionable friends deserted the family, and the proud nobleman refused the hand of a ruined banker's daughter.

In the very midst of this disgrace and tribulation, Stephen Edwards encountered the man who had turned so pale and became so agitated in his presence a short time before.

'Your face seems somewhat familiar but I cannot place you,' returned Edwards.

'Permit me to bring myself to your recollection then as I wish you to know me. A little more than six weeks ago, I was talking with you on business, and you observed that I turned deadly pale and agitated.

'Ah, yes, I remember you now.'

'Let me tell you why I was thus affected.

My eye had just chanced upon a curious seal, which once belonged to a merchant named Philip Sidney, who was shot in the Western part of this State twenty years ago, and on looking at your features closely, 'I knew you to be the villain who perpetrated that foul deed!

"Merciful God!" exclaimed the banker, with a blanched face and quaking form.

"Yes I knew," pursued the other, "and a week after, I disguised, and had an interview with you in your mansion. You remember that of course?"

"But," gasped the trembling wretch, "did I not pay your own price to keep my fatal secret?"

"Yes with that very money, and what other I could command I was enabled to buy up enough of your own bills to cause that run on your bank which broke it and forced ruin upon your bank and upon you!"

"And what would you now that I am ruined?" inquired the other, with the deadly calmness of desperation.

"Now that I have had my revenge, I want you to know that I myself am the man you attempted to murder and did rob! I am Philip Sidney! Behold the scar where the ball struck and glanced!" and he lifted his hat and showed it.

"God be praised!" ejaculated the other, "God be praised that you are still living," and unable to restrain his emotion, burst into tears. "Oh, sir," he continued, "you have taken a load from my conscience—a weight from my soul! Though poverty, beggary, disgrace and death are staring me in the face, I am happy in the knowledge that I am not guilty of murder—more happy than I have been for years, with all the luxurious surroundings of wealth! It was my first and last crime. I have never been able to tell how I was tempted to so outrage my nature as on that fearful occasion. Now, sir, do with me what you will—only, I pray you, do be merciful to my innocent family!"

'Forgive you!" returned the other, extending his hand. 'I forgive you! You have been fearfully punished already and God has seen proper to preserve us both and bring us together, let us hope it is for our present salvation and endeavor so to live as to deserve the blessings we receive! I will restore you enough to place your family above want; and for the rest, I trust we shall both remember that we shall soon have to render an account of our stewardship in another world!'

Philip Sydney kept his word, and with a fresh start in the world and now an easy conscience, the still enterprising Stephen Edwards accumulated a very respectable fortune, much of which was spent in charity.

Philip Sydney died in 1847, and Stephen Edwards in 1854.

From a private source we have all the facts we have recorded.

Is not truth stranger than fiction?

Interesting Incident.

A correspondent with the Army of the Potomac gives the following incident that actually occurred. Amidst all the horrors of war, many incidents occur amusing in themselves, and which sometimes, under the most trying circumstances, are provocative of mirth, and form subjects for camp stories months after. I have seen soldiers chase hares and pick blackberries, when a shower of the leaden messengers of death was falling thick and fast around them, and do many other cool and foolish things. But the following which actually took place at Mine Run, surpasses anything I remember to have ever seen or heard. On one of those biting cold mornings, while the armies of Meade and Lee were starting at each other across the little rivulet known as Mine Run, when moments appeared to be hours and hours days, so near at hand seemed the deadly strife, a solitary sheep leisurely walked along the run on the rebel side. A rebel vidette fired and killed the sheep, and, dropping his gun, advanced to remove the prize. In an instant he was covered by a gun in the hands of a Union vidette who said:—"Divide is the word, or you are a dead Johnny." This propposition was assented to, and there between the skirmish lines. Mr. Rebel skinned the sheep, took one half and moved back with it to his post, when his challenger, in turn, dropping his gun, crossed the run, got the other half of the sheep, and again resumed the duties of his post amidst the cheers of his comrades, who expected to help him eat it. Of the hundreds of men arrayed against each other on either bank of that run, not one dared to violate the truce intuitively agreed upon by these two soldiers.

Hints to Correspondents.

The following simple rules for the guidance of those who write for the press, if observed, would save editors and printers a world of trouble. Correspondents should adhere to them:

Number the pages in the order of their succession.

Write in a plain, bold hand, with less respect to beauty.

Punctuate the manuscript as it should be printed.

For Italics, underscore one line; for small capitals, two; capitals, three.

Take special pains with every letter in proper names.

Review every word, to be sure that none is illegible.

Put directions to the printer at the head of the first page.

Don't depend on the editor to correct your manuscript.

Don't ask him to return the copy.

Don't press him to tell you why he refused to publish your article.

Make the Capital P's above the line, and J's with the bottom running below the line.

Fond of his Crowd.

A young man, clad in homespun, was standing in Court S-reet the other day, devouring a doughnut, when he was accosted by one of a half dozen genteelly dressed idlers with:

'Just come down?'

'Yes, guess I have; great place this, ain't it, yeou?' said the countryman.

'The so, how's your marm?' asked the city buck, bent on sport with the greeny.

'Well, she's pretty well. She sent me down here on business.'

'She did? What kind of business are you on?'

'Why, she wanted me to come down to Boston and look around, and find half a dozen of the biggest fules to edicate 'em, and I rather guess I've got my eyes on 'em now,' said the stranger, taking in the whole crowd at a glance. The next moment he had the edge stone to himself where he quietly finished his doughnuts.

Picket Stories.

Funny things occur on picket. A day or two ago, just at the breakfast hour, when the aroma of good coffee is doubly delicious, our pickets were accosted by a voice from the rebel side, a few rods distant, with:

'Hallo, there!'

'Hallo, yourself!'

'What are you doing over there?'

'Making some coffee. Have some?'

'Will you let me come over?'

'Yes.'

'Will you let me come back?'

'Yes.'

'Honor bright?'

'Yes.'

And over he came. His coffee drank, he smacked his lips and said:

'Well, that's very nice. We don't get any of that over on our side.'

Then casting his eyes around, scrutinizing the neat appearance of our men, he continued:

'Well, you look very comfortable. Al of you live so?'

'Yes.'

A few moments more of silence, and he broke out:

'Well, I like the looks of things here. I believe I won't go back.'

And he didn't.

Elsewhere on the lines they are not so sociable, though they have generally quit the practice of shooting our men.

'Where's Beauregard?' asked one of our men.

'Where's Banks?' sings out the rebel.

'Why don't the balloon go up to-day?' asks a rebel near the New Bridge battery, who fired a few shots at the balloon the other day.

'Waiting for gas,' say our men in reply.

Exchange of papers have been frequent, and sometimes they meet half-way, and have a sit-down chat on a stump or rail. A couple met this way, yesterday:

'Ain't you tired of this war?'

'Yes, and I wish I was out of it—its [illegible] replies the rebel.

'If they'd leave it to you and me,' continued our man, 'we would settle it without any more fighting wouldn't we?'

'Yes, sir,' said the rebel, with emphasis.

And so they would. If left for the pickets to settle, the whole thing would be soon and amicably arranged, and the real rascals punished.

A Beautiful Reflection.

Bulwer eloquently says: "I cannot believe that earth is man's abiding place, It can't be that our life is cast up by the ocean of eternity to float a moment upon its waves and then sink to nothingness! Else why is it that the glorious aspirations, which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts, are forever wandering about unsatisfied? Why is it that the rainbow and clouds come over with a beauty that is not of earth, and then pass off and leave us to muse upon their favored loneliness. Why are the stars, that hold their festivals around the midnight throne set above the grasp of our limited faculties, forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And, finally, that bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view, and then taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affection to flow back in Alpine torrents upon our hearts? We are born for a higher destiny than that of earth;—there is a realm where the rainbow never fades where the stars will be spread before us like islands that slumber on the ocean and where the beings that pass before us like will stay in our presence forever.

☞ 'Captain,' said a son of Erin, as a ship was coming on the coast in inclement weather, have ye a almenick on board?' 'No, I haven't.' 'Thin be jabers, we shall have to take the weather as it comes.'

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 12, 1864.

"Loyalty to the Constitution not Treason."

Such is the heading of three last articles of our correspondent "O," and it is the enunciation of a great and important truth.

But while this is so, we should not allow ourselves to forget that the converse of this proposition is also equally true, namely, that Treason is not Loyalty to the Constitution.

Now, this is just what, all those who make a great show of extreme attachment to the Constitution, a cover and pretense for an uncompromising opposition to the government, and everything which it has undertaken in defense of the country, or support of the Constitution, seem to suppose the public are too obtuse to comprehend. But we should not be greatly surprised if they should find in the end, that in this, they have been reckoning without their host.

It is really amusing to hear men who spend day after day in denouncing and slandering the President, and all his Cabinet, and the government officials generally, with a reckless falsity, and directness of criminal charges, that, if spoken against any private individual, would render them severely punishable at common law, go on to tell, with solemn faces and sober words, how all freedom of speech is gone, and our liberties are usurped and overthrown. And yet, these are the very men who talk the most, and in fact almost incessantly, about bastiles, and usurpation, and violated constitutions.

As our correspondent does not see fit to inform us what particular clause, or clauses, of the Constitution he considers violated, nor yet wherein they are so, we are of course unable to determine to what he does refer; but while he was upon the subject, it seems to us that it would not have been amiss for him to at least have given us to understand, whether he regards the people of the United States as made for the Constitution, or the Constitution for the People, and secondly, whether, in his opinion, the President has any right or power under the Constitution to suppress the rebellion, or can only negotiate with regard to it.

We do not, of course, know what his views are upon this subject, but conclude from his writings, that they coincide with those of Ex. Gov. Barry, who assumes that the President has no right under the Constitution to make military resistance to rebellion in any State, and that in attempting to do so, he has made himself, and ought to be held to be, only a usurper.

Our correspondent speaks frequently of, "we, the conservative men of the North," in distinction from war democrats, and the republicans, but seems to forget that it must depend entirely upon what it is conservative of, whether conservatism is desirable or not.

Now, if we have not entirely failed to understand his meaning, and we think we have not, the formula of his conservatism runs as follows:

We are conservative of the Constitution, because the Constitution is conservative of Slavery and Slavery is conservative of the democratic party.

But republicans deny that the Constitution does either favor or support slavery, and of course if they are right in this, his whole reasoning in that regard falls to the ground. Whether slavery is conservative of the democratic party, or not, we leave for the gentleman to decide for himself, simply adding that republicans, believing that human slavery is opposed to the best interests of the whole country, and that the interests of the country are far above and beyond those of any, and all party, are therefore opposed to it.

After carefully reading the whole of our correspondent's recent articles with a view to ascertain if possible what are the real grievances of which he complains, and what it is that he really desires, we are only able to discover that he most cordially and uncompromisingly hates all republicans, and especially the war democrats who are acting with them, and most earnestly desires the restoration of the democratic party to its former power.

Now all this is well enough in itself, but as the people have decreed it otherwise, and have not as yet shown any disposition to regret, or reverse that decree, we do not see any resource left, but to bear is as philosophically as possible.

So long as this gentleman and those who act with him, continue to indulge in that intensely bitter partisan spirit which seems to occupy and actuate them, no reasonable amount of concession could by any possibility secure their co-operation; nor indeed could any true republican, or war democrat, consent to sympathize or co-operate with them; and while we must regret the factious, and unreasonable, and even more than semi-treasonable character of their opposition, it is some consolation to know that no very inconsiderable portion of their own former party adherents will equally and persistently refuse it any sympathy or support.

It is, of course, wholly useless to hope to satisfy, by concessions, one who can only see in the appointment of officers from an opposite party by our President, a refusal to overlook party lines, or an admission that he has not men enough in his own party fit to fill these offices, or a disposition to talk of something else besides subjects of partisan difference, a toning down of principle and acknowlment of wrong, and any acting in concert with the government in suppressing the rebellion, as an evidence that a man was never really a democrat.

We are not disposed to follow Senator Douglas into another world to ascertain his present views; we only know that when last known here he was truly loyal, and have no sort of idea that were he today among us he would be found in any sort of sympathy with either treason or traitors.

With regard to that kind of trash which our correspondent says the government has put forth in the shape of greenbacks, we have not as yet discovered any disposition on the part of the people, nor even on the part of the gentleman himself, to refuse to take such as are offered to them

We did not of course pretend that the Free Press and Watchtower were the only papers teaching this "New Gospel of Peace" so much admired by some. We see the same doctrines earnestly advocated in the Chicago Times, New York World and Richmond Enquirer.

We shall not attempt to answer the declamations of our correspondent's last three columns, for we are frank to admit that it is wholly unanswerable.

While there has been no lack of a general fault finding with all that the government has, or has not done, the gentleman does not, while tearing down the old, seem to propose any thing new. He does not tell us how many should be raised for crushing out the rebellion; does not even say whether he thinks the rebellion ought to be crushed out or not; nor, if so, how it ought to be done. He only knows that every thing that has been done is wrong; and, so far as we can discover, only wrong because it has been done by republicans and not by democrats.

Now we have no disposition nor desire to support any party, as such, but we cannot, or we think, oppose the government, nor abandon what we believe to be the true interests of the whole country, for the sake of accommodating those who deem it a grievance that President Lincoln, elected as he was by the republican party, does not ignore the choice of the people, eject all republicans from office and put democrats in their place, and then himself resign, and give over the whole reins of the government into the hands of what is, at best, only a faction of the old democratic party.

Now this is not very likely to be done, nor have we, as yet seen any evidence that were the question again to-day submitted to the people, they would not by a largely increased majority re-elect President Lincoln.

We think our correspondent over estimates the embarrassments likely to arise from divisions in the republican party, and sadly underrates the serious divisions that do exist in his own. But this it is not necessary to discuss, as a few months at farthest will satisfy, we trust, the most skeptical with regard to this.

Now if any one thinks, as Gov. Barry substantially asserts, that in this whole war the rebels are much nearer right than those who are spending both life and treasure to put it down, they can say so; but we sadly misjudge, if it is not a record which neither they nor their children will be at all proud to meet in the years to come.

If to have been a Hartford Convention Federalist was a hissing and a bye-word for more than a quarter of a century, what will it be, shall we conclude, in the long future opening up before us, for a citizen of the North to have been in open sympathy with the Enemy in these darkest days of the Rebellion.

A PREDICTION.—Horace Greeley, in an article on Nevada Territory, makes the following prophecy:

"We predict that the child is born who will see this country produce gold and silver to the amount of two hundred millions dollars per annum; and then we will have greenbacks and gold at par, unless the former, being more portable, should, at some points, command a small premium. Uncle sam has his difficulties, but he is not going to fail.

From the N. Y. Times.

How the Rebellion is Abetted.

Gold at 175, and Congress with tax bills, tariff bills, bank bills, every financial measure, lifeless and shapeless, engaged in putting down freedom of debate in the National Capitol! In the name of loyal people we protest. It is a disgrace and an outrage. We tell these men at Washington that passion is making them mad. It is an absolute infatuation that has seized them. Their words strike upon the ears of the people like the gibberish of Bedlam. Where have the senses of Congressmen gone that they don't realize the terrible burdens that rest upon the people, and the fearful dangers that confront the government? Do they call themselves loyal men, and yet play these fantastic tricks? By their debauts, the prices of everything that sustains life are rapidly mounting. The currency is gradually turning into worthless rags. Inch by inch, foot by foot the government moves up, straight before the eyes of its guardians, toward the bottomless pit of bankruptcy, yet distant, but unless they act, inevitable. Not an arm do they yet raise to save it. If they had but done the duty they were put to do, the credit of the government would still be resting on its old foundations. They have neither done it nor made any rational effort to do it. It is not misfortune, but guilt, that rests upon them; not failure, simply, but faithlessness. It is astonishing, it is astounding, that the House, after this long and flagrant neglect of duty, should turn upon one of its members in this fierce fashion, for encouraging the enemy by words—by words which were made of air, and which, if theo had been let alone, would have straightway vanished into air. It is the wildness of the fireman who stands motionless while the flames are gathering headway, and falls foul of the man who declares that the fire will not be subdued. It is the inaction of these so-called loyal servants of the people that is aiding the rebellion ten thousand times more than the so called disloyal speeches of the malcontents of the House. Not words, but acts, are to decide this war. Unfaithfulness in respect to the former shrinks into insignificance; it is absolutely nothing, when measured against that other unfaithfulness in act, of which the House is every day making itself guilty. Not content with the fatal dereliction of neglecting indispensable action, this body must superadd an equally fatal positive act. Unsatisfied with helping on the Southern rebels by depriving our government of the sound credit which is its life, they must put into the hands of the Northern copperheads a weapon of more deadly potency than they have ever yet handled or hoped for. How is it possible for true men so to misunderstand the American people, as to suppose they will submit quietly to this destruction of free debate in the council halls of the nation? What hellebore have they been drinking in Washington that has drugged their old perceptions? Are we to be told that American liberty is of that bastard type these men would make it? Has it, indeed, so degenerated since it was transported from its native land? Is our national Capitol so much below Parliament House, that men may only talk in it "by the card," and with bated breath? For the last hundred years who has heard of a parliamentary expulsion in England for words spoken in debate? If the House of Representatives expel Mr. Long, as attempted, it will prove beyond all possibility of question or cavil that that the freedom of debate under our boasted republicanism, is not even what it was under the British monarchy, against the tyranny of which we we revolted. Every American school boy knows that the language used in Parliament against the government in favor of the American rebels, was a hundred times stronger than any that has been used in Congress against our government in favor of the Southern rebels, and that it was used with perfect impunity in the face of overwhelming government majorities. Said Lord Chatham, in the House of Commons, in 1777, "If I were an American, as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop was landed in my country, I never would lay down my arms—never, never, never!" Has anything like that been heard of in Congress from the sympathizers with our rebellion? Said Fox,—"There is not an American but must reject and resist the principle and the right." The worst that Mr. Long said falls far short of that. Nothing is gained by saying that the American rebellion was right, and the Southern rebellion wrong—that Chatham's arguments were good and Long's arguments bad. To the strong majorities in Parliament our rebellion was just as hateful, and the necessity of supporting government, in a war already undertaken for the maintenance of its authority, just as imperative as can be here even with our own Congresional majorities in respect to our own rebellion. They did not curb the speech of the sympathizers with our rebellion, simply and solely because they did not have the constitutional power to do it. Neither does our constitution give any such power. We use plain language, because the crisis demands it. It is no time for honeyed speech, either toward men or parties. The cause of the country alone has claim. We will not look passively on while that cause is crippled, either by mistaken friends or malignant foes. It is sure of triumph if those who are specially deputed to save it, the leaders in the field, the legislators and administrators in civil life, and the conductors of the public press through which public opinion mainly speaks, do their duty faithfully and well. But if there be unfaithfulness in any of these spheres of action, untold calamity may come. We are as sure as of the sun at mid-day that the people are not satisfied with either the past inaction or the present action of their Representatives in Congress; that among great numbers of those most earnest in their loyalty, there is a discontent verging closely upon disgust. This discontent we do not deplore. It comes from the very highest and best qualities of the American nature. Were it absent we should despair of the Cause. A people that could be unmindful of that neglect in their public servants as these Representatives have displayed during the four months they have been in session, at such a critical period for the government, and that could be insensible to the violation of parliamentary freedom, the most sacred principles in every representative government, would be a people alike unworthy and unable to maintain a conflict like this for the salvation of human freedom. Thank heaved, it is not so. There is discontent, for the most part silent, as yet, but, for all that, profound and intense. The so-called servants of the people in the Capitol of the nation are the source of it and the object of it. It behooves them to give it heed.

The News

Tuesday, May 11, 1864.

The News from Virginia is of the most encouraging character, and gives great cause for exultation. The fighting on Friday was very severe, and Lee pursued his old tactics of concentrating his whole force upon our left, center, and right, successively. The severest contest took place on the right flank, where the rebels were repulsed in two charges with great loss, and were compelled to fall back, leaving their dead and wounded on the field. On Friday night Lee commenced retreating toward Spottsylvania, pursued on the following morning by Gen. Grant. At this place Grant compelled Lee to again attack him, on Sunday morning, when the enemy were again repulsed, and Gen. Grant flanked him. The latter is now between Lee's army and Richmond. In the last contest at Spottsylvania Gen. Grant captured 2,000 prisoners. The general result is a most glorious success to our arms, and over which we have good reason to rejoice. We are pained to announce the death of Gen. Wadsworth, who fell in the battle of Friday. The death of the rebel Gens. Jones and Jenkins, and the wounding of Longstreet, Hunter and Pickett, are announced.

Gen. Butler is still active at the south of Richmond. It is known that he has been operating on the railroad between Richmond and Petersburg, and has cut off all railroad communication between those two places, thus preventing Beauregard from joining and bringing reinforcements to Lee. The latest reports confirm the evacuation of Petersburg by the enemy after burning the city.

Our forces have now occupied Fredericksburg, which has been used as the depot for our wounded.

The President has issued an address recommending all patriotic citizens of the United States to give thanks to God for the recent successes to our arms in Virginia.

Wednesday, May 12.

An official dispatch from Gen. Butler, of the 9th, states that a body 1,700 colored cavalry occupies the advance towards Richmond. Gen. Butler has destroyed many miles of the railroad between Petersburg and Richmond, cutting off Beauregard and and a large portion of his forces from Richmond. He also whipped the rebel Gen. D. H. Hill on the 9th, killing and wounding a large number, and capturing many prisoners. He is in a strongly fortified position at Bermuda Landing, and considers himself able to hold it against the whole of Lee's army. Butler has also captured Fort Darling, a stronghold on the James river, within six miles of Richmond.

We have some further details of the great battles of Friday, and the strategic operations of Saturday. The contest of Friday was exceedingly desperate, and on the whole, as it appears, resulting in advantages to the enemy, which were, however, regained by the skillful manipulations of Grant on the following day. On Saturday, Lee seemed intent upon severing Gran's communications with Germania Ford, which, it is stated, our commander was inclined to permit him to accomplish. Burnside was pushed forward on Lee's right toward Spottsylvania, which movement threatened Lee's own communications with Richmond. This operation had the desired effect, and Lee, discovering that his own rear was thus placed in danger, found it necessary to abandon his own purpose, and withdraw to a new line of defense, which some say will be the North Ann River, and others think he can find no tenable position this side of Richmond. This, it will be observed, was the status on Saturday evening. Since that time we have the dispatches of Secretary Stantan to Gen. Dix, dated Monday afternoon, showing that successes have been realized which are not yet reported in detail that Grant was "On to Richmond," and had taken 2,000 prisoners. The rebels made a stand at Spottsylvania Court House, where further fighting had taken place on Sunday, but the official dispatches of Secretary Stanton state that no general battle occurred. Our army is represented as being in excellent condition with ample supplies. Gen. Grant was engaged on Monday in bringing up a further quantity of supplies for his army. In the fighting at Spotsylvania Maj. Gen. Sedgwick, commanding the 6th corps, is reported killed, having been shot through the eye. Our wounded in the recent battles are reported at 15,000, most of whom are at Fredericksburg. This is doubtless a large estimate, as previous dispatches placed our total loss in killed, wounded and missing, at 12,000.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers in this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

Over Eight Per Cent Interest,

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 20th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the
First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Fenton, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS

which are depositaries of Public money, and all

RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depository Banks,) will furnish further information on application, and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Died,

Union Township Convention.

All electors of the Township of Tecumseh, who are in favor of supporting the Administration in a vigorous prosecution of the war for the suppression of the rebellion, are requested to meet in "Union Hall," in the village of Tecumseh, on Thursday the 14th inst., at one o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of choosing delegates to represent said Township in a County Convention to be held in the City of Adrian, on Saturday, the 14th day of May, inst.

By order of Township Committee.

☞ On Saturday evening, May 7th, Rev. E. Klumph, addressed the people of Ridgeway on the subject of temperance. The audiance was respectable, and the address pertinent and effective. A number of names were added to the pledge, and the temperance organization was revived by electing J. C. Freer, President, Justus Lowe, Vice President, G. Harrington, Treasurer, Peter Sharp, Secretary; and Rev. E. Klumph, G. S. Boss, G. W. Clark, J. M. Miller, R. Cadmus, S. Hause and Samuel Linn, Executive Committee.

The Red Mill.

We paid a visit to the Red Mill, of Brownville, a few days ago and found the millers engaged in cleaning house.—Mr. Anderson, the proprietor of the mill has been making a great many extensive improvements in it, and among them we noticed a new scroll head Suction Fan, used for cleaning the wheat of all its impurities, lately constructed by that excellent master mechanic and mill right A. Hendry. The millers assures us that it works like a charm, and from the appearance of it we fail to perceive how it could do otherwise. It would be an excellent plan for our farmers to have their seed wheat run through this cleaner.—We understand that Mr. Hendry is about to put one of these machines into the Globe Mill.

E. Moorhouse presides as head miller, and a better one cannot be found in the State, as he thoroughly understands the working of a mill from the smallest screw to the largest water wheel.

☞ The advertisement of the U. S. 10-40 loan appears in our columns this week. This loan is very popular and is being rapidly taken. Those who invest in it will aid the Government, and receive their interest in coin or its equivalent.—There is no safer way of investing money and it is incumbent upon all patriotic citizens to do all in their power to sustain the government, and add to the credit of its securities. This they can do by taking the loan. The Government needs the money for the prosecution of the war; and relies upon her citizens for it; and it is gratifying to know that all over the country a desire is manifested to invest in Government, rather than in other securities.

As a flavoring for mince pies and other cooking purposes it is the best, economical article that can be used, being one half a dollar cheaper by the bottle, and nearly two dollars per gallon cheaper than other Brandies sold for that purpose. Wherever it has been introduced it has found rapid sales, and is daily gaining in popularity, giving in all cases the utmost satisfaction. Call for "Roback's Catawba Brandy," which may be found for sale by Druggists, Grocers and Dealers generally throughout the West.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—O—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleandd or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

ROUP

NEW HAVEN, Dec 11, 1862.

Having been taught that medicines, in order to be valuable, must originate with some particular faculty or school, we considered patent medicines, (so called,) a humbug, until after losing our beloved child with Croup, we were forced by the suffering of another, from the same disease, and the advice of friends, to try Coe's Cough Balsam. Little Eddie had gone, and, though we loved him, we would not call him from his quiet rest, to share the sorrows of this unfriendly world. But Willie, is there no remedy for thee? We found it in Coe's Cough Balsam. It relieved him in about twenty minutes, to our great joy, and the surprise of others. We cannot be hired to dispense with this priceless blessing, and we are glad to learn that Mr. Coe has made arrangements with parties, whereby it may become more extensively known. In view of this let me say to every parent, when your child is suffering with Croup, give this Balsam, give it freely. If we did not believe it to be the best remedy for you, we certainly would not say it.

Truly yours,

It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so.—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. DR. JOHN L. LYON'S

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

The Tears of one who Loved Him.

He has left this world of sorrow,—
And many weep over his fall;
But the tears of one who loved him,
Were the bitterest tears of all.

He was true to his God and Country—
And now her fallen son;
But the tears of one who loved him,
Will fall, though his country has none.

She'll wait in vain for his footstep;
But—O, she waits in vain—
She finds in the sad reality,
That she never shall see him again.

O, she'll whisper his name in dreaming,—
And the shadows upon the wall
Are only changing visions,—
And no voice responds to her call.

But his work on earth is ended—
He is borne on wings of love,—
He has left us lone and sorrowing,
To join loved friends above.

Parents, and brothers, and sisters,
Your grief is deep, I know;
But the tears of one who loved him,
When will they cease to flow?

You cannot miss him as I do—
That smile and loving tone;
You have other loves around you,
But I am left alone.

Where is the healing for sorrow?
Does it come through the flight of years?
O, if the future is brighter,
I cannot see it through tears.

TAKING TOLL.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

Mr. Smith kept a drug store in the little village of Q—, which was situated a few miles from Lancaster. It was his custom to visit the latter place every week or two in order to purchase such articles as were needed from time to time in his business. One day he drove towards Lancaster, in his wagon, among other things, was a gallon demijohn.—He called first on the grocer's with the inquiry.

"Have you any common wine?"

"How common?" asked the grocer.

"About a dollar a gallon. I want it for antimonial wine."

"Yes; I have some just fit for that, and not much else, which I will sell at a dollar."

"Very well—give us a gallon," said Mr Smith.

The demijohn was brought in from the wagon and filled. And then Mr. Smith drove off to attend to other business.—Among the things to be done that day was to see a man who lived half a mile from Lancaster. Before going out on this errand, Mr. Smith stopped at the house of his particular friend Mr. Jones. Mr. Jones happened not to be in, but Mrs. Jones was a pleasant woman and he chatted with her ten minutes or so.—As he stepped into his wagon, it struck him that the gallon demijohn was a little in his way, and learning he was out, he told Mrs. Jones.

"I wish you would take care of this until I come back."

"O, certainly," replied Mrs. Jones, with the greatest of pleasure.

And so the demijohn was left in the lady's care.

Sometime afterwards Mr. Jones came in and among the first things that attracted his attention was the strange demijohn.

"What is that?" was his natural inquiry.

"Mr. Smith from Q——?"

"Yes."

"I wonder what he has here?"

The cork was unhesitatingly removed and the mouth of the vessel brought in contact with the smelling organ of Mr. Jones.

"Wine as I live!" fell from his lips.

"Bring me a glass."

"Oh! no, Mr. Jones, I wouldn't touch his wine," said Mrs. Jones.

"Bring me a glass. Do you expect I'm going to let a gallon of wine pass my way without exacting toll? No, no! Bring me a glass."

The glass, a half pint tumbler, was produced and nearly filled the execrable stuff—as guiltless of grape juice as a flyer's hat—which was poured down the throat of Mr. Jones. "Pretty fair wine that; only a little rough," said Mr. Jones smacking his lips.

"It's a shame! remarked Mrs. Jones, warmly, for you to do so."

"I only took toll," said the husband laughing. "No harm in that, I'm sure."

"Rather heavy toll, it strikes me," replied Mrs. Jones.

Meantime Mr. Smith having completed most of his business for that day stopped at a store where he wished two or three articles put up. While these were preparing he said to the keeper of the store.

"I wish you would let your lad Tom step over for me to Mr. Jones'. I left a demijohn of common wine there, which I bought for the purpose of making into antimonial wine."

"Oh! certainly," replied the store keeper.

"Here Tom!" and he called for his boy. Tom came, and the storekeeper said to him.

"Run over to Mr. Jones' and get a jug of antimonial wine which Mr. Smith left there. Go quickly, for Mr. Smith is in a hurry."

"Yes, sir," replied the lad, and away he ran.

After Mr. Jones had disposed of his half a pint of wine, he thought his stomach had rather a curious sensation, which is not to be wondered at, considering the stuff with which he burdened it.

"I wonder if that really is wine?" said he turning from the window at which he had seated himself, and taking up the demijohn again. The cork was removed and his nose applied to the mouth of the huge bottle.

"Yes it's wine; but I'll vow it's not much to brag of." And the cork was once more replaced.

Just then came a knock at the door. Mrs Jones opened it and the storekeeper's lad appeared.

Mr. Smith says, 'Please let me have a jug of antimonial wine he left here.'

"Antimonial wine!" exclaimed Jones, his chin falling and a paleness instantly overspread his face.

"Antimonial wine!" fell again, but huskily from the quivering lips of Jones.—"Send for doctor, Kitty, quick. O, how sick I feel.—Send for the doctor, or I'll be a dead man in half an hour."

"Antimonial wine. Dreadful," exclaimed Mrs. Jones, [illegible] and frightened as her husband. "Do you feel sick?"

"Oh! yes. As sick as death!" and the appearance of Mr. Jones by no means belied his words. "Send for the doctor or it may be too late."

Mrs. Jones ran first in one direction and then in another, and finally, after telling the boy to run for the doctor, called Jane, her single domestic, and started her on the same errand.

Off sprung Jane, at a speed far outstripping plug that of John Gilpinn.—Fortunately the doctor was in his office, and he came with all the rapidity a proper regard to the dignity of his profession would admit, armed with a stomach pump and a dozen antidotes. On arriving at the house of Mr. Jones he found the sufferer lying upon a bed, ghastly pale and stretching terribly.

"Oh, doctor! I'm afraid it's all over with me," gasped the patient.

"How did it happen? what have you been taking?" inquired the doctor, eagerly.

"I took by mistake, nearly a pint of antimonial wine."

"Then it must be removed instantly," said the doctor; and down the sick man's throat went one end of a long flexible India rubber tube, and pump, pump, pump, went the doctor's hand at the other end. The result was very palpable. About a pint of redish fluid, strongly smelling of wine, came up, after which the instrument was withdrawn.

"There, said the doctor, I guess that will do. Now let me give you an antidote." And a nauseous dose of something or other was mixed up and poured down, to take the place of what had just been removed.

"Do you feel any better now?" inquired the doctor, as he sat holding the pulse of the sick man, and scanning with a professional eye, his pale, that was covered with a clammy perspiration.

"A little," was the faint reply. "Do you think all danger is past?"

"Yes I think so. The antidote I have given, you will neutralize the effect of the drug, as far as it passed into the system."

The full sight of Jane through the street, and the hurried movements of the doctor, did not fail to attract attention.—Inquiry followed, and it came noised about that Mr. Jones had taken poison.

Mr. Smith was just stepping into his wagon, when a man came up and said to him.

"Have you heard the news?"

"What news."

"Mr. Jones has taken poison!"

"What!"

"Poison!"

"Who, Mr. Jones?"

"Yes, and they say he cannot live."

"Dreadful! I must see him." And without waiting for further information, he spoke to his horse, and rode off at a gallop for the residence of his friend.—Mrs. Jones met him at the door, looking very anxious.

"How is she?" inquired Mr. Smith, in a serious voice.

"A little better, I thank you. The doctor has taken it out of his stomach.—Will you walk up?"

Mr. Smith ascended to the chamber where lay Mr. Jones looking as white as a sheet. The doctor was still by his side.

"Ah, my friend," said the sick man in a feeble voice, as Mr. Smith took his hand, "that antimonial wine of yours has nearly been the death of me."

"What antimonial wine?" inquired Mr. Smith, not understanding his friend.

"The wine you left in the gallon demijohn."

"That wasn't antimonial wine."

"It was not!" fell from the lips of both Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

"Why, no, it was wine that I had bought for the purpose of making antimonial wine."

Mr. Jones rose up in bed.

"Not antimonial wine."

"No."

"Why the boy said it was."

"Then he didn't know anything about it. It was nothing but some common wine which I had bought."

Mr. Jones took a long breath. The doctor arose from the bedside, and Mr. Jones exclaimed.

"Well, I never!"

"Good day," said the doctor and went down stairs.

"So you have been drinking my wine, it seems," laughed Mr. Smith.

"I only took a little toll," said Mr. Jones, back into whose pale face the color was beginning to come, and through whose paralyzed nerves was again flowing from the brain, a healthy influence, "but don't say anything about it. Don't for the world!"

"I won't on one condition," said Mr. Smith, whose words were scarcely coherent, so strongly was he convulsed with laughter.

"What is that?"

"You must become a teetotaller."

"Give me a day or two to make up my mind."

"Very well, and now good-bye."

PROFANITY.—There is something so low, vulgar and wicked, in swearing, that it is surprising that men, who wish to be considered wise and polite, should be found so much in the habit of it. It is not, however, peculiar to the inferior circles of life, but prevails among the great and honorable, so called. Wise and suitable reproofs of this sin have had a good effect, as the following instance shows:—

Mr. John Howe, being at dinner with some persons of fashion, a gentleman expatiated largely in praise of Charles I., and made some disagreeable reflections upon others. Mr. Howe observing that he mixed many horrid oaths with his discourse, took the liberty to say, that in his humble opinion, he had omitted one great excellence in the character of that prince; which, when the gentleman had pressed him to mention, and waited with impatience to hear it, he told him it was this: "that he never was heard to swear an oath in common conversation." The gentleman took the reproof, and promised to break off the practice.

INTEMPERANCE.—It is related of Alexis the poet, that from every season of the year he drew arguments to furnish a new title to his intemperance; the spring, he said, required liberal drinking in sign of joy for the renovation of nature; the summer to temper our heat and refresh our thirst; it was due to autumn because it is dedicated to the vintage; and winter required it to expel the cold, which would otherwise congeal the blood and spirits.—Thus he pleaded for the allowance of his excess. And so men, in the several ages of life, that are corresponding to the season of the year, frame some excuse to delay repentance, and give color to their rebellion against God, who commands us to hear his voice to-day, obediently and immediately, upon no less penalty than being excluded from his blessed rest for ever. Heb. iv. 7, 8.

Garabaldi has left England because, it is asserted, the English Government notified him that the attention he was receiving from the people was exciting the ire of Louis Napoleon.

Uncle Toby on the Miseries of Printing a Newspaper.

"I pity the printer," said my Uncle Toby. "He's a poor creature," rejoined Trim. "How so?" said my Uncle. "Because in the first place," continued the corporal, "he must endeavor to please everybody. In the negligence of the moment, perhaps a small paragraph pops upon him; he hastily throws it to the compositor—it is inserted, and he is ruined to all intents and purposes."

"Too much the case, Trim," said my uncle, with a deep sigh: "too—much—the case." "And please your honor," continued Trim, elevatang his voice, and striking into an implorable attitude, "and please your honor this is not the whole." "Go on, Trim," said my uncle, feelingly. "The printer, sometimes," puraued Trim, "hits upon a piece that pleases him, and he thinks it cannot but go down with his subscribers; but, alas, who can calculate upon the human mind?

"He inserts it, and it is over with him. They forgive others, but they cannot forgive a printer. He has a host to print for, and every one sets up for a critic. The pretty miss exclaims—'why don't he give us more poetry, more marriages and bon mots? away with these stale pieces.'

"The politician claps his specs on his nose, runs it over in search of some violent invective; he finds none; he takes off his specs, folds them, sticks them in his pocket, and declares the paper good for nothing but to burn. Every one thinks it ought to be printed expressly for himself, as he is a subscriber; and yet after all his complaining, would you believe it, sir," said the honest corporal, clasping his hands, beseechingly,—"would you believe it, sir, there are sometimes subscribers who cheat the printer out of his pay? Our army swore terribly in Flanders, but they never did anything so bad as that." "Never," said my uncle Toby, emphatically.—Tristram Shandy.

The Widows' Mite.

The Spirit of the Fair, the daily journal published by the newspaper committee at the great Metropolitan Fair, N. Y., gives the following interesting history of a one dollar greenback in the "Curiosity Shop:"

A pastor in an inland town had called upon his congregation to contribute to the Sanitary Commission, and had met a liberal response. The next day a woman, who depends upon her daily work for her suppport and that of her children, brought him a dollar bill to be added as her mite to the collection. The pastor declined to take it, telling her she ought not to give so much; but the woman insisted, adding, "We've had it in the house many weeks; we cannot spend it."

Seeing that the bill was much torn, and supposing that she had difficulty in passing it, her pastor said, "Oh, I'll give you a good bill for it."

"No, that's not it. It was in brother Sam's pockets when he was wounded. He's dead now, and we have his torn pocket book; and mother said (the mother is a widow, and he was her only son,) "We will give that dollar to the Sanitary Commission; we cannot spend it."

The pastor redeemed the bill for $2., and now sends it to be disposed of at the Fair. Fifty dollars have already been offered for it, but we felt sure that this gift of two widows, of a ball marked relic of their son and brother will yield to the soldiers' treasury an hundred fold. No necessity could have compelled them to spend it, but the cause consecrated it as a holy baptism for the dead.

The new two cent piece contemplated by Congress will resemble a gold coin. On one side there is a wreath of wheat, in the centre of which is stamped "2 cents," and the words "United States of America." On the other side there is the shield of Liberty, bearing the words, "God our trust."

When Cromwell first coined his money, an old cavalier, looking upon one of the new pieces, read this inscription on one side: "God is with us;" and on the other, "The Commonwealth of England." "I see," said he—"God and the Commonwealth are on different side."

It is estimated that when the quotas for the armies are filled, there will be 953,561 men in the field supporting the Union cause.

A joker, learning that an absconding debtor had resolved to settle in California, said that he was glad to hear that he intended to "settle" somewhere.

TIME.—It is of the utmost consequence that we improve our time. "Never!" says one, "delay till to-morrow what reason and conscience tell you ought to be performed to-day. To-morrow is not yours, and though you should live to enjoy it, you must not overload it with burden not its own". "God, (says another,) who is liberal and generous in his other gifts, teaches us, by the economy of his Providence, how circumspect we ought to be in the right management of our time; for he never gives us two moments together; he gives us only the second as he takes away the first and keeps the third in his hands, leaving us in absolute uncertainty whether he will give it us or not."

BERLOGY SARSAGE ACCORDING TO JOSH BILLINGS.—Take an eelskin and stuff it with ground cat; sesin it with Scotch snuf and persimmin ile; lay it on a hog pen to dri, and then hang it up by the tule in Duch grocery for ait months for the fize tu give traid marx, then it is reddy for use and can be cut up into rite lengths and sold for perlice clubs

Punch says: "Women are said to have stronger attachments than men.—It is not so. Strength of attachment is evinced in little things. A man is often attached to an old hat; but did you ever know of a women having an attachment for an old bonnet?"—Echo answers—"Never!"

A country schoolmaster once asked one of his pupils if he had seen an elephant's skin. "Yes sir, I have," shouted the young hopeful. "Where?" inquired the schoolmaster, amused at the boy's earnestness. "On an elephant," was the reply, accompanied with a most provoking grin.

If you husband chews, thank God that he dosen't smoke. If he chews and smokes, thank God that he does not take snuff. If he does all three, thank God he'll not live long.

Some people were hit when a Chicago clergyman said: "Shoddy comes from the devil, and those who supply shoddy to the gallant soldiers, go to the devil."

DINNER AS AN EDUCATOR.—You will find that a great deal of character is imparted and received at table. Parents too often forget this, and, therefore, instead of swallowing your food in sullen silence instead of brooding over your business, instead of talking severely about others, let the conversation at the table be genial, kind, social and cheering. Don't bring disagreeable things to the table in your conversation any more than you would in your dishes. For this reason, too, the more good company you have at your table the better for your children. Every conversation with company at your table is an educator of your family. Hence the intelligence, and the refinement, and the appropriate behavior of the family which is given to hospitality. Never feel that intelligent visitors can be anything but a blessing to you and yours. How few have fully gotten hold of the fact that company and conversation at the table are no small part of education.—Dr. Todd.

Too fearful to contemplate.—There is a work advertised, called "Every Man a Lawyer." What a state of society!

An eminent stateman once said: "Give me the money spent in war, and I will purchase every foot upon the globe. I will clothe every man, woman and child in an attire that kings and queens would be proud of. I will build a school house on every hill-side and in every valley on the whole earth, and supply those houses with competent teachers. I will build an academy in every town and endow them; a college in every State and fill them with able professors. I will crown every hill with a church, consecrated to the promulgation of the gospel of "peace."

CREDITING VETERANS.—Orders have been received by the Provost Marshal in reference to crediting veterans. It orders that each sub-district may receive the proper credit for all veterans to whom they have paid local bounties, certificates of credit should at once be forwarded to the Provost Marshal's headquarters in reference to re-enlisted veterans, who have not been paid bounties, but to whom the sub-districts intend to pay bounties, the same plan will be adopted. This is a very important matter, and those interested will do well to profit by the notice.—Det. Adv. and Trib.

Temperance Meeting.

In another column of this issue will be found the notice of another Temperance Meeting. These meetings have been somewhat more frequent of late than in time past. More than this, They have been more fully attended, and, of far greater interest. We are more than happy to mark this feature of the temperance sentiment and enterprise. Those of us who were upon the stage of action, and who were engaged in the temperance cause from twenty five to thirty years ago, used to find these assemblages and their guings full of life and interest—perfectly thrilling to the communities in which they transpired. Indeed the mere recollections of those old conflict; and achievements, stirs us anew and causes the life blood to tingle, like a current of electricity, to the end of our fingers.

But, for some strange reason, scarcely to be divined, temperance meetings of late years have fallen off in numbers and still more in interest. Not, surely, because the old battles were fought to a complete triumph, leaving nothing farther to be done. The woes of rum drinking were never driven from the land. O, no. With all the successes of those bygone efforts—and wonderful they were—there were still, active fountains of the liquid fires; there were all the appliances of the rum dealer to diffuse his poison; there were, in fallen man, everywhere the same desire to quaff the intoxicating cup, and, drunkeness, has been all along a prevailing and grievous evil in the land. Our own community has been, all along, a prevailing and grevious evil in the land. Our own community has been no exception. Of many moral and religious virtues; of many philanthropic impulses; and, no strangers to good-doing we have strangely winked at the unlawful trafic in rum among us, and, the unceasing efforts of unprincipled grog shops to debauch our youth, and lead them over the drunkard's path to the drunkard's grave and hell.

Of late, however, a wonderful change appeared to have taken place in the public mind upon this subject. We say wonderful, because it was entirely spontaneous, it was so general; so rational; and, above all, so in accordance with what is demanded by the present state of things. It has said, and, is still declaring that the evil has gone on too long, and too far, and, if LAW has any force, it must and shall be stopped. Accordingly it has convened several very full meetings of the most intelligent and virtuous citizens of the place; called out one of the ablest reports upon the laws regulating the trafic on alcoholic liquors, and the feasibility and duty of enforcing them to which we have ever listened; and originated some measures for ridding ourselves of the evil which has already proved efficient in a very high degree. So happy a beginning is likely to go on. If we are not astray in our estimations, the meeting now notified and at hand, will be one of more than usual interest and encouragement. We are pleased to notice a special invitation to the Common Counsel of the village to be present, and, from the favor with which they have already looked upon the enterprise we are led to anticipate their attendance and co-operation. Indeed we hope that all our citizens will do themselves the favor to be at Bidwell's Hall on Friday—to-morrow evening.

GRATUITOUS PRINTING.—The following very sensible remarks from an exchange, almost every publisher will heartily endorse. We have had considerable of this kind of experience ourselves.

"It has been the custom of all associations and individuals to impose upon editors the publication of resolutions, obituary notices, advertisemens of benevolent enterprises and various other articles of limited or individual interest without charge. We have done quite our share of that kind of work. If associations consider it due to disensed members to pass resolutions testifying to their virtues and condoling with their relations, they must henceforth consider it due to publishers to pay for them; and if literary, school and other associations cannot exist without gratuious printing, they must be too slightly priszed to promise substantial benefit to the members. Until we find teachers who teach gratis, butchers who furnish steaks and roasts without charge; lawyers who counsel without fees; farmers who donate their wood and produce, &, we must decline being in the list of printers who print without compensation."

For the Tecumseh Herald.

An Attack Repelled.

It will be noticed, by your issue of last week, that the author of your editorials has again unfortunately fallen under the control of his evil Genius, and is now pouring out viols of wrath on the devoted heads of his political opponents, with an unsparing hand.

It appears, while under this influence, which seems to be a kind of periodical disease, that he suffers amazingly from the imaginary wrongs supposed to be perpetrated by democrats upon his political friends. We all remember with what zeal and earnestness he labored, through the columns of our local paper, in 1860, in the defense of "honest John McKinney," the republican State Treasurer, against the "slanderous attacks of the rascally democrats" who charged him with stealing the people's money, and how he persisted in denouncing the charge to be a "democratic lie, got up for political purposes," and refused to be convinced of the fact, until after election, and until "honest John" was trotted off to our State Prison.

In like manner we find the same gentleman exercised now, in the year of 1864, defending the "pure and lofty patriotism" of his friends at the National Capital and elsewhere, against the suspicions of democrats, and some pretty broad hints from Republicans, that the honesty of these Patriots is not perhaps so pure and unsullied as he would have us believe.

But while we thus find him sometimes engaged in defending rather unlovely characters, I do not question but that he sincerely believes them to be just as honest, and as patriotic, as he represents them; I only say, that I believe it to be the gentleman's misfortune, during the whole of his political life, to occasionally let feeling and passion usurp the place of reason and sound judgment, and, while in this state of mind, says and does many things which in his cooler moments causes him many regrets, as it certainly does his best friends. Being a man possessed of many amiable qualities, and of generous impulses, it is truly to be lamented that he should at any time be found indulging a feeling which tends only to tarnish his own good name.

It must have been while laboring under one of these paroxysms, that the article of last week was written. In no other way can we account for such an unworthy production, emanating from so respectable a source; for if we except the first two paragraphs, it does not contain one single sober thought. No principles of governmental policy are advocated, or defended. Vituperation, sarcasm, taunts and sneers,—and all evidently flowing through the most bitter channel—are the elements of which it is composed. If argument had been advanced, it might have been met by argument; but I confess my inability to answer a sneer.

The gentleman seems to have entirely forgotten the principle points under discussion. It will be recollected that he set out by explaining to us, that this people, and the managers of this government, were "drifting away." This point however I readily yielded, but with this difference of feeling: that while he exulted at the idea that we were getting far away from "ancient land marks," I deplored it as a great national calamity. He next charged that all "grumblers," or, in other words, all those who criticise the acts of our rulers were traitors and in sympathy with rebellion; and again he assumed that President Lincoln was not a partisan. These last propositions I disputed, but whether successfully, or whether the gentleman sustained his position, it is for the readers of the Herald to judge.

But this "editor" seems determined not to see or understand anything that is beyond the range of radical logic. In former communications I took occasion to state, that devotion to the Constitution as handed down by the Fathers of the Republic, and the preservation of the Union under it, as well as a strict observance of the laws made in persuance thereof, has ever been, and now is, leading principles of the Democratic party. I also attempted by argument to show, which argument was based on the opinions of some of our wisest and best men of both parties—that if, instead of the wild and revolutionary schemes inaugurated by vicious and fanatical men, and which have been of such an immense advantage to the rebellion—a sensible policy had been adopted—a policy based on the principles of the Constitution, and one that would have united the friends of the government not only at the North, but throughout the land, and divided the councils of its enemies at the South, and honestly carried out by wise and patriotic statesmen, we would not to-day have been compelled to witness the horrible spectacle now presented on the battle fields of Virginia, where tens of thousands of our brave and noble youth lie weltering in their blood; but we would long since have seen a Union restored, and peace throughout all our borders.

Yet, though I have endeavored to explain the true position of conservative men,—but here, by the way, let me explain, for the benefit of the gentleman, what I mean when I speak of conservative men, as he does not seem to know: I mean that class of men, of all parties, who aim to preserve the Constitution of our country from ruin, innovation, injury, or radical change; and I use the term to distinguish them from that other class, of whom the N. Y. Times says that "their passion is making them mad," and that "their words strike upon the ears of the people like the gibberish of Bedlam." I hope this explaunation will put the gentleman right on this point, and that he will hereafter know what we mean by the word conservatism. But, to return, I have said that, although some pains have been taken, heretofore, to instruct the gentleman with reference to our views on the question before us—which the reader will remember, if he does not—he coolly turns around and expresses his entire ignorance of them, and remarks that he "does not know what our real grievances are." "The gentleman does not, while tearing down the old, seem to propose anything new"—"does not even say whether the rebellion ought to be crushed out or not"—and after many other equally sage remarks, represents us to the public to be of "more than semi. traitorous character." This is regular radical logic, and of course demolishes all argument, with one dash of the pen.

Democrats of Tecumseh, how do you like the epithet hurled at you by this editor? Do you think you merit it? Do you not love your country, its laws, and its institutions, as well as he who seeks to brand you with the infamous name of traitors? I know you do, and the alacrity with which you responded to the call of your country, in its time of need, attest that fact, and places the patriotism of the Democratic Town of Tecumseh far beyond the reach of a virulent partisan calumny.

The gentleman thinks that he has discovered that your correspondent "hates all republicans"—seeming to forget the fact, that the law of hate exclusively belongs to the radical party—to the regular "blood letters"—that class of men, who threaten vengance and death to every human being—except Negroes course—who refuse to bow the knee to their new, and peculiar doctrines. There is another law, however, which is written down in a sacred book, and by which some men prefer to be governed, and not having, I hope, entirely forgotten its teaching, allow me to say to the gentleman, that no one can hold in higher esteem, as citizens, the good Republicans of Tecumseh, including himself, than does the writer of this article.

What the gentleman means by representing your correspondent as saying, that "the government has put forth trash in the shape of greenbacks" I do not understand, It is utterly untrue. Will the gentleman retract it?

To the gentleman's complaint, that it has not been stated, "what clause or clauses of the Constitution we consider violated," I can only say, that it is equally as impossible to gratify him in that, as if he were to ask what clause had not been violated. For if the repeated acts of usurpation practiced by the administration since it reached power:—first by its suspension of the writ habeas corpus in peaceful States, and the draging off thousands of American citizens from the same States, and incarcerating them in loath some dungeons, for opinions sake, no matter how loyal to the Constitution and laws, and the thousand and one other acts of tyranny practiced by our rulers on the patriotic people of the north, does not relieve the gentleman of the fog in which he is enveloped, nothing that the writer might say, could enlighten him.

Has the gentleman not seen the controversy going on at Washington and elsewhere, whether or not we have any Constitution worth respecting? Some claim that the President's proclamations are above all such instruments—some pronounce it a contract with h—l and aught to be destroyed, and Ben. Wade declared in the United States Senate that "loyalty to the Constitution was sympathy with treason." The President however seems to think, by his last report, that by surgical aid a part of it may be saved.—He admits it to be in a bad condition and some of its "limbs" already gone, but how many more will have to be loped off to save the balance, he does not inform us.

If the conduct of the "Hartford Convention Federalists" merited the just condemnation of their countrymen, what words will be found adequate to express the feelings of disgust and contempt, with which coming generations will look upon those wretched fanatics, who urged on this fratracidal war—these wretched bloodletters who urged stiff-backed men to come and help prevent a settlement of our difficulties, some of them declaring that if the matter was settled, without letting of blood "their party would not be worth a straw."

The News.

Monday, May 16th.

Our dispatches during the past forty-eight hours show the tide of battle has turned in our favors they narrate uninterrupted success for GRANT'S army.—We have details of the capture of immense numbers of prisoners and a large amount of the enemy's artillery, and are also advised that Grant is being rapidly reinforced, with more men than enough to make up for all his losses thus far, that he may be able to pursue Lee without giving him time to rest. Lee cannot but be growing weaker day by day in numbers, both from losses in battle and by the fatigue of his men. Grant, with the reinforcements being sent forward, must soon drive Lee within his fortifications an Richmond, where a brief seige will end in its capture and in the surrender of what is left of the Confederate army. Every effort should be made and every exertion put forth to forward everything necessary for the comfort of the wounded, the number of whom is increasing day by day. Could we but read the anguish and despair of the millions that have been bereaved within this week, side by side with the details that we read of the murderous strife, there would be to desire a prolongation of war, but the wish and hope that this campaign would effectually end it would come from the heart of every one North and South. We count the mourners by millions, for the dead and wounded are being counted by tens of thousands. The N. Y. Tribune of the 12th, estimated our loss up to that dade at 40,000. With what has since occurred, it is probably not too great an estimate that puts it at 50,000. We claim greater loss for the enemy; but calling it equal, and there are one hundred thousand victims of terrible battle within the past ten days. It is an occasion for the deepest solemnity, and such scenes as these through which we are passing we trust are now witnessed for the last time on this continent.

Tuesday, May 17th.

We trust that our readers have learned to estimate the metaphorical dispatches by telegraph at their value. We too often find them a tissue of contradictions, vague conjectures, and questionable surmises founded on the opinions of nobody knows whom. Official statements are alone worthy of credit, and these are sometimes clothed in figurative language, and carry with them a kind of ambiguity which detracts much from their worth. It is characteristic of the American people to deal at times very largely in their imaginings, and at all with plain facts. Gen. Meade, in his congratulatory order to his army on the 13th, tells his men that in their eight days terrible fighting, they have caused Lee to suffer, "in all, a loss of eighteen guns, twenty-two colors, and 8,000 prisoners, including two general officers," but these captures, large as they are, are small compared with what the dispatches altogether have claimed. To determine the exact position of Lee's army at present, we have the following dispatches from those of yesterday afternoon: "On Saturday night Lee's forces were believed to be in line of battle about three miles beyond Spottsylvania Court House, in a south westerly direction." And then: "In the field, May 14th, 6 P. M.—Lee is now on the right bank of the River Po, in front of Spottsylvania Court House, instead of its rear."

Gen. Meade said on Friday that the Federal army had taken 8,000 prisoners. A dispatch writer says: "Since the fight of Thursday we have captured about 2,000 more prisoners, making our total captures in the neighborhood of 12,000."

It seems there was little, if any, fighting on Friday. Heavy rains had fallen, rendering movements quite difficult.—Our latest dispatches yesterday afternoon placed Grant's army "between the Ny and Po rivers, from one to two miles north of Spottsylvania, which must be very nearly the line occupied by Lee for several days till the successful onset of Hancock's corps. Spottsylvania is but a short distance north of the Po. That stream is between the two armies, and both appear to be resting after the terrible scenes of the past ten days. Reinforcements are rapidly pouring into Grant's command. A dispatch to the World says: "The loss in killed and wounded is almost made good by reinforcements which have already reached the Army of the Potomac. Troops have been pouring through this city from the West and elsewhere during the last few days of the past week. It is believed that our numbers will not amount to less than 20,000 fresh men."

Wednesday, May 18th.

Secretary Stanton telegraphs to Gen. Dix the cheering intelligence that Gen. Sherman is in hot pursuit of the rebel Gen. Johnston, having captured at Resica 1,000 prisoners and eight pieces of artillery. He also declares to be untrue the late statement of the rebel papers, that Gen. Steel had surrendered to the rebel Gen. Price, with 9,000 men.

We learn by the steamer Fulton that on the 14th inst., a spirited engagement was in progress between our fleet under Com. Dahlgren and the rebel forts and batteries in Charleston harbor. All of our iron clads appeared to be engaged.

A special dispatch from Washington says that the Michigan Cavalry Brigade covered itself with glory in the recent cavalry raid. They killed the rebel General Stuart, but lost Major Granger of the 7th, killed, and Lieut. Dyer of the 6th, and Majors Paldi and Howrigan, of, the 1st, and Capt. Aftell of the 5th wounded.

The dispatches from the Army of the Potomac are unofficial, and quite conflicting. One dispatch to the New York Times, states that Gens. Meade and Wright were in advance of our front, and narrowly escaped capture on Saturday afternoon. The rebels came suddenly through the woods on our left, "gobbled up" our pickets, and drove back the picket reserve. The position was afterwards retaken by Gen. Wright with a force sent out under cover of artillery.

A rumor is afloat in the rebel sympathising circles, at Washington, that Lee has been reinforced by Buckner and Breckinridge, and that a portion of Johnston's forces have joined Beauregard's army at Petersburg. On the authority of "a reliable gentleman" the rebels have 300,000 men now in service. Of this number Lee and Johnston together have 230,000, the former two-thirds, or about 150,000, and the other about 75,000.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer, Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 1st day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,987,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the
First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS

which are depositaries of Public money, and all

Temperance Meeting.

There will be a meeting of this Society at Bidwell's Hall on Friday evening next at 7 o'clock. Interesting reports will be read, some brief addresses made, and important business transacted: all are invited and especially the members of committees. The presence of the Common Council of the village is solicited.—By order of the Ex. Committee.

☞ Howes Great European Circus, the most extensive establishment in the United States, comprising a first-class Circus Company. Crockett's wild Lions and a thousand novelties. Wherever it has been it is pronounced to be first class. The Detroit papers pronounce it the best Circus ever exhibited in that city. We would advise all our readers to go and see it, and witness the wonderful and daring feats of the renowned Lion tamer that is with the troop. They exhibit in Clinton on Monday May 23d.

COMPLIMENTARY.—It is not strange perhaps that sometimes not a word of encouragement or congratulation is spoken to an editor who may devote many hours of hard labor to please the patrons of his paper, while he is sure upon every corner of the street to be reminded of every omission or oversight. If, amid the multiplicity of duties devolving upon a country editor as publisher, business man, foreman, pressman, book keeper, and collecting agent, he overlooks the slightest matter which should appear in his paper, he is reminded of it in a manner that is oftentimes insulting and always inconsiderate. If, upon the other hand, he was promptly paid when he deserved it, he would be relieved of much labor and have more time to devote to matters complained of. Remember this.

CHANGING.—Almost every day we hear of this man or that man having "sold out." In fact there never has been a time in our recollection when there were so many changes in real estate, and when speculation ran as high, as at present. It seems that everybody is selling out and everybody buying. Within the past few weeks, some of our oldest and most respectable citizens have disposed of their farm or village property, at large figures, to some foreigner whose object it is to locate hereabouts. Besides sales in real estate there is much changing of personal property, and men going into other kinds of business, or enlarging the one they are already in, and all with the grand prospect in view of making a "pile." We suppose this is all owing to the inflated state of the currency, but what the result will be we shall not pretend to say at present.

Close of Volume XIV.

This number completes the fourteenth volume of the HERALD, and the first year of our editorial efforts. Amid the pressure of business, we embrace a moment simply to announce the fact, and also to say that, next week, we hope to have something farther to offer our readers upon the subject. We shall continue its publications, and hope our subscribers will be prompt in paying their subscription. Those who are indebted to us, by paying for the past and the year to come within the next two weeks will be charged the regular advance price of $1,50 per year. Otherwise we shall charge each $2.00. So come up and pay your subscription.

☞ The Social of the M. E. Church will be held at the parsonage on Friday eve, May 20th.

Horse Pitch Fork!

Time and Labor Saving Implements.

The Country Gentleman of Oct. 1862 says: "We have seen in operation no less than seven different Horse Hay Forks, some of which we had considered good ones. But when we saw the forks exhibited at Rochester by N. Palmer, all others were left clear in the shade It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price.

The Hon. I. T. F. Wright, Editor of the National Agriculturist, in his report of the Michigan State Fair, says: "Of the numerous machines intended as labor saving conveniences, there were none more highly commended than the Excelsior Horse Fork."

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a lifetime and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Full, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the Slack Thread equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines to use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

ROUP

NEW HAVEN, Dec 11, 1862.

Having been taught that medicines, in order to be valuable, must originate with some particular faculty or school, we considered patent medicines, (so called,) a humbug, until after losing our beloved child with Croup, we were forced by the suffering of another, from the same disease, and the advice of friends, to try Coe's Cough Balsam. Little Eddie had gone, and, though we loved him, we could not call him from his quiet rest, to share the sorrows of this unfriendly world. But WHERE is there no remedy for those? We found it in Coe's Cough Balsam. It relieved him in about twenty minutes, to our great joy, and the surprise of others. We cannot be hired to dispense with this priceless blessing, and we are glad to learn that Mr. Coe has made arrangements with parties, whereby it may become more extensively known. In view of this let me say to every parent, when your child is suffering with Croup, give this Balsam, give it freely. If we did not believe it to be the best remedy for you, we certainly would not say it.

Truly yours,

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS.

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you

Little Feet.

BY ANTHON CURRIER.

There's a musical sound—
I hear it oft
Low and soft
Following me around.
It's the rain
On the pane
Or dropping on the ground,
That I hear
Low and near!
Ah, no—far, far more sweet,
Here and there
On the stair
Comes the sound of little feet;
'Mid the gloom
Of my room,
Cheerily my ear they greet.
Bonnie Annie!
Sweet and canny!
Peeping in with sunny face,
Opens the door
Walks the floor
In her most unconscious grace.
While her feet
Music sweet
Echoing send throughout the place.

* * * * * *

So her footsteps once did fall,
Patter, patter,
With sweet clatter,
Through the house and though the hall,
Till one day
She went away
To be laid beneath the sod;
But her feet
Made music sweet
Up the "shining way to God."

Profit and Loss.

As rather an unscrupulous fellow named Ben was coming down one morning he met Tom and stopped him.

"I say, Tom," he said, "her's a pretty counterfeit three. If you pass it, I'll divide."

"Let's see the plaster," said Tom; and after examining it carefully, put it in his vest pocket, remarking: "Its an equal division—a dollar and a half apiece?"

"Yes," said Ben.

"All right," said Tom.

A few minutes afterwards, he quietly stepped into the store of his friend Ben, and purchased a keg of oysters for a dollar and a half, laying down the three dollar bill for them. The clerk looked at the bill rather doubtingly; when his suspicions were immediately calmed by Tom, who said:

"There is no use in loking, for I received the note from Ben himself not ten minutes ago.

Of course the clerk, with this assurance forked over the dollar and a half in change, this deposit and a can of oysters Tom left. Shortly afterward, he met Ben, who asked him if he had passed the note.

"Oh, yes," said Tom; at the same time passing over the dollar and a half to Ben.

That evening when Ben made up his cash account, he was surprised to find the same old counterfeit three in the drawer. Turning to his clerk he said:

"Where did you get this cursed note? Didn't you know it was counterfeit?"

"Why," said the clerk, "Tom gave it to me and I suspected it was fishy; but he said he had just received it from you, and I took it."

The whole thing had penetrated the wool of Ben. With a peculiar grin, he muttered: "Sold!" and charged the can of oysters to profit and loss account.

To Prevent wet Feet.

A writer in the "Mechanics' Magazine says: "I have had three pairs of boots for the last six years, and think I will not require any more for the next six years to come. The reason is that I treat them in the following manner: I put a pound each of tallow and resin in a pot on the fire; when melted and mixed, and apply it hot with a painter's brush until neither the sole nor upper will soak any more. If it is desired that the boots should immediately take a polish, dissolve an ounce of wax in a teaspoonful of turpentine and lampblack. A day or two after the boots have been treated with the resin and tallow, rub over them this wax and turpentine, but not before the fire. Thus the exterior will have a coat of wax alone and shine like a mirror. Tallow and grease become rancid, and rot the stiching or leather, but the resin gives it an antiseptic quality, which preserves the whole. Boots or shoes should not be so large as to admit of wearing cork soles. Cork is so bad a conductor of heat that with it in the boots the feet are always warm on the coldest stone floor."

☞ Tom Moore compared love to a potatoe, 'becase it shoots from the eyes.' 'Or rather,' exclaimed Byron, 'because it becomes less by paring.'

Nina's Ruse.

BY SARAH A. SOUTHWORTH.

"Dear me! if I only knew?" and Paul Arlington leaned his head upon his hand, and gazed wistfully at the glowing grate, as though he expected that would furnish him with the much desired information.

"What is it you want to know, brother?" said a sweet voice, and a young girl emerged from the window recess, where she had been looking out upon the gathering twilight, and came and stood by his side.

"And is it you, pussy?" and he drew her to his knee, his eyes resting fondly upon the bright face, and the trouble in his own passing away.

"Well, my sister, how have you amused yourself to-day?"

O, grandly; I have searched the house from attic to cellar, and think it a perfect curiosity shop. Have ased Mrs. Brown a thousand questions, which, dear soul, she answered with most commendable patience. Then by the way of variety, I read, sewed and drummed upon the piano. O, it is glorious, Paul, to be emancipated from school thraldom," and the black eyes grew luminous with visions of the future.

"Life is tinted with rose and amber, now, Nina, but you cannot always expect to walk in a flowery path. When you have presided over my bachelor establishment for a year, you will sing a different song."

"No danger of that; but according to rumor, I should think that you intended to depose me before I am fairly installed," pouted the red lips.

The old pained look again settled over his face, and he attempted to change the subject.

"Now, Paul," she said, laying her dimpled hand upon his brown cheek, "I haven't been in the house twenty-four hours with my eyes shut, and I know that you are perplexed about something. Now, I advise you to make me your confessor, and see if a woman's wit can't help you. Who should you confide in, if not in me? You are my world, now, brother," and the beautiful eyes were gemmed with tears.

He moved uneasily in his chair for an instant; and then arose and began to pace the floor. She stood where he had left her, watching him now, with all her deep soul's tenderness shining through her face.

At last he came to her again, and taking both her hands, looked down into the sweet, troubled orbs.

"Yes, I will tell you sister. It is not much, only a few haunting doubts, that have lately introduced themselves upon me. You know my ideas of marriage.—It is a solemn compact, to be entered upon reverently. This taking another soul, with its joys and burdens, upon our own, is no light thing. Society has coupled my name with Victoria Wilmot's although I have never offered myself to that lady, and yet I am certainly much interested in her. I am trembling upon the verge of an avowal, and the thought that she may not be the true, earnest woman that she seems, drives the words back from my lips. When I am with her, the witchery that her matchless charms cast over me, is wonderful; when I am away the spell is broken in a degree, and I question whether it is the calm, holy love, strong and enduring as eternity that I feel, or only the delerium of the senses. I wonder if she is the same in her family that she is to me, if her link in the home circle is bright and shining? I am glad I have such a sympathizing listener, but you can't help me, pussy. I must cast the die, and win or loose, as fortune favors me."

She did not reply immediately, but presently looked up, exclaiming:

"Eureka! I have an idea. Did you not say this morning that Miss Wilmot had inquired yesterday if you knew of any seamstress that you could recommend to her?"

"Yes, but what of that?"

"Why, a great deal. You shall write me a line, and I will apply for the situation."

"You! Nina Arlington! Why you are crazy child."

"Not at all. We used to have private theatricals at school, and I was pronounced a capital actress; so I am satisfied that I can play this part to perfection. Only let me try, Paul. It is but a trifle to weigh against your life long happiness.—I can test her in this way, as I could do in no other. She will never suspect me, and if she proves all right—which I hope for your sake she will—why, we shall have many a laugh over it in the future; but if she doesn't I shall be disguised so effectually that she will not recognize me. Oh, it will be such a romantic adventure. Just like a story, for all the world. Oh, brother, do say yes!"

After some hesitation, and a few remonstrances, he at last consented, and sat down to his desk and wrote the note.

"What shall I call you?" he said, as he took up the pen.

"O, I will drop the last name and take up the middle one. Miss Gales, at your service."

Mr. Arlington was much astonished when he saw his sister the next morning.

"Why, pussy," he exclaimed, one would never have believed you could have transformed yourself into such a mad fright. I guess, after all, you had better abandon your wild project."

"Not I!" she merrily replied. "I have commenced, and I will carry it through."

She certainly did not look much like Nina Arlington of the night before. The jetty ringlets were combed back, and now lay coiled in shinning luxuriance under the meshes of a net. She had bathed her face in some brown liquid, and she was now, to all appearance, very dark complexioned, with a plentiful sprinkling of freckles. Her silk robe was exchanged for a common delaine, and when she threw on her coarse shawl together with the dark straw bonnet and brown veil, the disguise was complete.

"Come home early, pet," he said, as he said, as he followed her into the hall.

"I can't tell how that will be, as my employer pleases, I suppose," she replied with an arch smile, and then the door closed after her.

He watched her down the street, marvelled at her sober, earnest step, so unlike her usual merry trip, and then recollected that she had joined life's maskers, and was only acting out her assumed character.

He could not do much that day. The lecture that he had engaged to deliver the next week, made but slow progress, for his thoughts would wander, and at last he flung his pen down in disgust.—How long the sunbeams were measuring off the hours upon the carpet. Would night's curtain ever fall? At last the stars gemmed the sapphire skies. Eight, nine o'clock passed, and just as he was about to start out in search of his sister she came in.

"Wait until I make myself presentable," she said, as she wheeled an easy chair to the fire. "I will not detain you long," and she tripped away.

He paced the floor uneasily, until she again presented herself.

"Now I am Nina Arlington, once more," she exclaimed, tossing back her curls with a pretty coquetish motion.—"How any one can live a life of deception, I don't see. One day is enough for me; but I don't regret the trial, Paul, if I have saved you from taking a viper to your heart to sting you to death."

The suspense was ended; then? His doom had fallen. He sank into a chair, saying:

"Is it so? O, Nina!"

She went up to him, and wound her arms about his neck, and laid her cheek against his, but she intruded no word upon his sorrow. With true womanly delicacy she knew that her silent sympathy would be the better comforter.—Truly the apple of knowledge was very, very bitter to his taste.

"Tell me your story," he said, after a long pause. "I must not condemn her without hearing the evidence against her."

Ah! she saw that he was hoping against hope. She commenced with a rapid utterance, feeling—by the pain in her own heart—that she was tearing away, by every word she uttered, the shining fabric that his fancy had woven about the future.

"I went to 75, Fulton Square," she said, "and rang the bell inquiring for Miss Wilmot. The servant showed me into the hall, took my name, and left me. Soon that young lady made her appearance, and as I glanced at the stately regal figure before me, I did not wonder at your attraction. She is certainly the most magnificent woman that I ever beheld, but the cold glitter of the blue eye, the compression of the thin lips, and the disagreeable elevation of the eyebrows, were peculiarities, which I suppose, had escaped your observation. She catechised me pretty closely, and then said, that as Mr. Arlington had recommended me, she supposed that she must at least, give a trial. She then made some coarse allusions to myself that made my blood tingle, and nearly sent me from the house, then and there. The usual working room was not in order, so I was placed in the library. A most fortunate circumstance, as I now had every faculty for reading Victoria thoroughly. Her haughty, supercilious manner towards myself—the many hours that I was kept at work without food, and then sent down to the cold dinner, with only time to snatch a mouthful, ere an imperious summons hurried me back—I will pass over. Only, God pity those who are obliged to toil for her. Among her callers in the afternoon, there was one that she brought in to inspect my work. Her intimate friend, I conclude. They sat down in the room, and selected you for their subject of conversation. Miss Wilmot voted that you were decidedly prosy and commonplace, but considering that your establishment was so unexceptionable, had made up her mind to accept you, when you offered yourself, as she had every reason to suppose your soon would. Your sister she she intedel to keep at school as long as possible. Did know whether I had any property of my own, or not. If I had, should have me boarded out, as a sister-in-law should never form part of her family. If not, should reccommend me seeking a situation as governess, for she could spend her husband's money witoout the assistance of his relatious. All the old servants were to be dismissed, and new ones installed in their places, besides other changes too numerous to mention."

"Enough, enough, Nina!" For God's sake, don't torture me longer. I shall despise myself, the next thing, for being so egregiously duped," and Paul Arlington sprang up, his whole frame quivering with bitter excitement.

The sweet tones of his sister floated back like oil upon the troubled waves.

"Dear brother, listen to me a few moments more. I verily believe that there is great joy in store for you."

"Ah, Nina! I fear not; but tell me what you please. In the midst of my pain, I am not unmindful that your hand has saved me from the precipice over which I was rushing in my blindness."

Her glance rested tenderly on his face, and then she continued.

"When the shades of night were beginning to gather, the servant showed a lady, into the room where I sat, and then went to speak to Victoria. The stranger was very beautiful. She was rather above medium height, and every movement was full of grace. Her face filled you with a holy calm; 'twas like gazing upon a rare painting. The eyes were of the deepest azure, the hair like fine-spun gold, and the lips perfect rose buds. I drank in her loveliness slowly, as we quaff rich old wine. Suddenly Miss Wilmot burst into the room. This is the word. Her face was white with anger.

"Edith Lynde!" she exclaimed, "you here again?"

"Good Heaven! Nina, what mean you? Edith Lynde! Has the ocean given up its dead?"

"No, Paul; it means that you have been the victim of a designing woman; but let me finish my story."

'The poor girl started to her feet, and I saw that she was so weak that she could hardly stand.

'Victoria,' she said, 'I would rather have died than apply to you again, but my mother is sick—starving, so I have thrust back my pride, and sought you once more. I do not come to beg; only give me work to do, and I will bless you. They tell me you are soon to be married. Let me do your embroidery. You know how expert I used to be, and my hand has not forgotten its olden cunning. Cousin, for the love of heaven, grant my prayer.'

Miss Wilmot's only reply was to open the door, and smile grimly, as she pointed to it. The visitor's soft eyes flashed. Wounded feeling scorched the tears upon her cheeks, and drawing her thin shawl around her, she walked from the room, with the air of a princess. No time to say did I find it so hard to remember that I was Miss Gales, the seamstress, as then.

'O mother!' I heard my employer say as she entered the parlor, 'would you believe that Edith Lynde has had the impudence to show herself again? I declare, I was all of a tremble, for fear that Paul Arlington would happen in. Then I should be in a pretty fix, for if he knew that she was living, then farewell to all my hopes, of ever becoming his wife; but fortune has favored me so far, so I trust that she won't desert me just as the game is almost in my hands. The poor fellow believes that I am the soul of honor; he has no idea how many pleasant little fabrications I have been obliged to tell him in regard to Edith. I have drawn upon my imagination so largely, that it won't stand many more drafts, so I hope that nothing else will happen until I am married; after that, I don't care how soon it does come out.'

'The monster! O, Nina! and have I thus been cruelly deceived by that false-hearted creature? Listen to me now. I was engaged to Edith Lynde six years ago. Her father was a very avaricious man, and he thought that the peerless beauty of his child might win her a wealthier husband; so he declared that he would never consent to our union, and commanded her to receive the addresses of another. She told me with tears in her eyes, that though she could not marry me against her father's wishes, no other man should ever call her wife. Mr. Lynde then took his family to Europe, and I lost all trace of them. Two years since, Miss Wilmot and her mother took up their residence in Fulton square. It was Victoria's fancied resemblance to Edith that first attracted me to her. One day, I accidentally discovered that they were cousins. She informed me that her uncle was saved from failure by Edith's marriage with a nobleman; that the following week they took passage on a steamer for New York, and the vessel was wrecked, and their names headed the list of the missing.'

'O, Paul! what a tissue of falsehoods! Go to the suffering girl at once. It is her image that you have been loving all this time. Fortunately I heard her address. It is 20 ——— street.'

'Thank you, little sister. You were right; there was joy in store for me, so bewildering that I can scarcely realize it. My Edith alive and well! O God! I thank thee!'

* * * * * *

It is a mystery this day to Miss Wilmot, why the seamstress that she engaged never came again, but she congratulates herself upon her good fortune in twelve hours' work without paying for it. Another wonder, is how her cousin Edith ever become the honored mistress of Arlington Hall. Paul and his beautiful wife bless Nina for her 'ruse,' and that damsel laughingly acknowledges that it was the best day's work that she ever did.

A Shoe Raid by Gen. Wadsworth.

The New York Post relates the following anecdote of the late Gen. Wadsworth, as related by himself in the hearing of one of the editors of tha journal:

"I remember during the march through Maryland, before the battle of South Mountain, we passed over a tract of country extremly rugged and stony, and, I saw not only men but officers walking along with bleeding feet. The men's shoes gave out entirely. It hurt my feelings more than I can tell you, to see the good fellows trudge along so. We came to town on the line of march, and I, who was riding at the head of column, spurred ahead to see if there were not some shoe stores where I could purchase what was needed for the men. All the shops were clased; the first men I saw, were two sitting outside of a closed shop.

"Are there any shoe stores in this town?" I asked. They replied, in a gruff way, that they could not tell; there might be or might not. I told them I wanted to buy some shoes for my troops, who were barefooted. They replied they, guessed I wouldn't get many.

"At that," said the General, "I became angry." Said I, 'there are two pairs of shoes, at any rate, which I see on your feet. Take them off instantly!' I shouted to them. They were obliged to do it. I went through the town, and took the shoes off every man's feet I could see, and thus raisad about two hundred pairs in all. One fine fellow, a miller, whom I met, I did not deprive of own pair, I rode up to him and asked if he had any shoes he could spare me, describing the pitiful conditon of my men. The old man said, 'I don't know if there's any in the house or not, but'—looking down at his feet,—'here's a pair you're welcome to, at any rate.' I would not let him take tham off, but he gave me some from his house. All the rest I stripped.

☞ "Now do take this medicine, wife, and I'll be hanged if it doesn't cure you." "Oh! I'll take it then, by all means, for it is sure to do good one way of the other."

The Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., MAY 26, 1864.

Tecumseh Herald—Vol. 15.

When the first number of the TECUMSEH HERALD was issued, in 1850, it was hardly among the probabilities of the case that it should continue as it has, almost uninterruptedly, until it has now come to enter upon its Fifteenth Volume. Two other papers had then been commenced and discontinued in the village, and for the most part its citizens had come to feel that however desirable it might be for village interests, or gratifying to village pride, Tecumseh could not, or at least would not for any length of time, sustain a village paper.

But notwithstanding its varied changes and fluctuating success, we have come to feel that this little village advocate, and village organ, is at least a fixed fact among us.

It is true that the present extravagant cost of paper, and all printing material, has for the present compelled its publisher to increase the price of the paper, but in doing so he has not by any means made himself good, on the basis of former prices, as two dollars a year would not any more than do so; but taking half of that loss upon himself, he does not believe that any of his subscribers will object to their sharing the loss with him, and as soon as prices of material will warrant it, he will most cheerfully return to the former standard.

Since the present publisher of the HERALD has taken it in hand, its subscription list has been materially increased, and as the business of the village continues to increase, so the job work of the office has increased in proportion, until it is now nearly up to the present capacity of the office.

The HERALD never had a fuller or better list of paying advertisements, and the prompt and liberal patronage of our Merchants and business men in this respect, while it is gratifying to the Publisher, at the same time, only increases his earnest efforts to, in turn, advance and promote their interests, and the general welfare and prosperity of the village.

The present growth of our village is of the most permanent character, and justly proud of its excellent schools, and its enterprise in the building of beautiful church edifices, it is fast becoming a desirable location for retired business men to spend their days in quiet, devoting themselves to agricultural or other rural pursuits, and the education of their children.

It is said that we have better graded streets, more plank walks and more forest shade in our village, than is to be found in any village of its size in this part of the country.

We also have around us a large amount of hydraulic power, as yet unemployed, which will doubtless, ere many years be turned to mechanical account.

With such a flattering prospect for a continuous village growth, and with the agricultural garden of Southern Michigan lying around us, and a cordial support of the entire business community in our enterprise as publisher of their village paper and conductor of a Job Printing Office, it is not strange that we should enter upon a new volume of the HERALD with both the prestege and hope of a continued success.

While we would solicit a continuance of the liberal patronage of our friends and subscribers, we may at the same time be permitted to suggest that this is the proper time for any and all who may be still in arrears at the HERALD Office to call and square up the old year's account and renew their subscriptions for the year upon which we now enter.

COMPLIMENT TO MICHIGAN SOLDIERS.—The New York Herald thus compliments Gen. Wilcox's Division of General Grant's army, which is mainly composed of Michigan soldiers:

"Wilcox's Division has met with special praise for the gallant manner in which it crossed the Ny river, and by successive charges drove the rebels from and occupied a ridge which has since been the front of our line. Romer's battery—formerly the 2d, now the 34th New York—participated in the fight with great gallantry. The guns became so heated in the action that towards the close they were fired without primers, simply by removing the finger from the ventholes."

Judge Barnard's Charge.

For the benefit of our republican friends I submit for republication the charge of Judge Barnard delivered in the Court of Ayer and Terminer, in the city of New York, about the middle of last month. It may tend to cool down that excessive "patriotism" which seems to find vent only, in denouncing as traitors to their country, all those who cannot conscienciously bow down and worship at their shrine. He says:

"For some time past it has been the constant practice of a portion of the individuals connected with the city press to stigmatize all who differed with them in their views as to the acts of national administration as secessionists, with the intent to degrade them in the eyes of the community by holding them out as traitors to their country, and so as leave them with a reputation as sullied as that of Benedict Arnold. This, I charge you, constitutes libel. Perhaps, in some few instances out of a thousand, a charge may be true, and publication of it be for a justifiable purpose; but this does not excuse the parading before the world of a man as a traitor because he dissents from some views entertained by a newspaper or ventures to doubt the propriety of some measure of the Administration.—Government is one thing; administration is a totally different thing. The theory of a republican government is that it is controlled by the will of a majority of all the people, as signified through the ballot box. If, therefore, a majority of the people should signify their will through the ballot-box that the present war should no longer be prosecuted, that majority, although they may have mistaken the true policy, cannot be justly said to be traitors to the government. It is of the essense of republican freedom that every citizen should have the untrammeled right to endeavor by his vote to have those measures carried out which he considers most condusive to the welfare of his country. But does his freedom stop here? Is he confined to dropping his silent ballot? Is his mouth gagged? Certainly not. The right to express his views by ballot carries with it the right to induce by fair argument and persuasion others to adopt his views. The prevention of interchange of views in any body governed by the will of a majority would indeed be tyranny.

"Next to the interference with elections and dragooning of voters by military power, nothing is a surer index of the downfall of a republic than the total prevention of an interchange of views, or the prevention of expression of any views other than those in support of some proposed measure or candidate for office. It is essential to the political freedom of a republic that every citizen should have the right to express his views on any political measure or any act of administration, and endeavor, by argument or persuasion, to bring others to adopt his views. Anything which dissurbs this right, whether it be by armed inteference or by printed articles, holding one up to public obloquy for entertaining any particular opinion, tends to sap the very foundation of a republic. It is for these reasons that I view the indiscriminate application of the epithet secessionist to all who do not yield implicit faith to every act of an Administration—to all who do not subscribe to the particular tenets of some public journal as extremely pernicious, and deserving of your attention." O.

HOW TO TELL GEN. GRANT.—A gentleman belonging to the Sanitary Commission who was going to the front, a few days, said he did not know Gen. Grant, but he was determined to see him before he came back. He wanted to know what kind of a looking man he was. "You can't miss him," said a bystander. "When a battle is going on, just ride along the lines till you come to a cloud of smoke like a locomotive on horseback, and you will find Grant under it." This I must say was a very plain direction. Anybody can find Grant by adhering to it. He seems to smoke a whole box of cigars at a time during the progress of an engagement, and the harder the contest the stronger the puff.

SOUTHERN ITEMS.—The Richmond Examiner claims a victory for Lee at Spottsylvania Court House, and states to its deluped readers that Grat "has gone clean away from the scene of the late slaughter, leaving his dead and dying on the field, with 5,000 stand of arms, many caissons, gun carriages, etc. The guns were conveyed away to make a vain tropy.

The Sentinel of the 19th rejoices over the present "prosperous fortunes" of the Confederacy, and calls on every one to assist in the final blow which is to effect their "deliverance." Those who cannot handle the musket, it says, can "besiege the throne of Heaven with fervent supplications."

The whole number of Yankee officers in the Libby at present, according to the Examiner, is 29. Three members of the 1st Michigan cavalry arrived on the 10th.

Two hundred and fifty criminals had been taken from Castle Thunder and sent for the defense of Richmond.

The News

Tuesday, May 24th.

A Washington dispatch of yesterday states that the rebel army has been retreating since the attack on our right on the 18th.

Early on Saturday morning our forces occupied Guiness Station and Bowling Green. Not enough rebels were found in either place to get up a respectable fight.

Two men were captured recently near Annapolis, with a rebel mail, destined for Baltimore and several of the eastern cities. Parties were also captured with $40,000 in gold and $20,000 in greenbacks.

The rebel Gen. Walker is wounded and a prisoner, with several of his men.

It is hinted that Lee will probably fall back toward Lynchburg, Va., instead of Richmond.

Wednesday, May 26.

News from Gen. Butler's department report everything quiet. From best accounts, it appears that the rebels received a severe punishing in the engagement of last week. They had to bury their dead under a flag of truce. The Richmond Enquirer admits a loss of 1,500.

The trial of Andrews, the leader of the riot in New York last July, commenced yesterday.

The attempt to strike out the $300 clause in the enrollment bill will probably fail in the House.

The rebel Gen. Morgan is reported to be at Abington, Va., at the head of five or six thousand cavalry, and contemplates an immediate raid into Kentucky, via Pound Gap.

It is reported that Gen. Grant is 15 miles beyond Spottsylvania Court House, and everything progressing favorably.

It will be seen from our dispatches that Hancock, with the left wing of Grants army, has advanced down the Fredericksburg and Richmond railroad to Bowling Green, 18 miles south of Fredericksburg, and that the other corps are moving by the left flank so as to bring our line of battle parallel with the railroad, instead of at right angles to it. In other words, Lee's recently strong position is flanked, and he must now abandon it for some other. Our present front, while advantageous as regards the enemy, also effectually covers our communications, so that the situation in Virginia may be regarded as highly favorable.

The rebels on the 21st inst, made a bold night attack on General Butler's lines, but were repulsed with great slaughter.

Thurday, May 26th.

From Gen. Butler's department we have intelligence that Gen. Gilmore went out on a reconnoisance Tuesday morning and met the enemy in force. After an engagement of an hour and a half he succeeded in completely routing them. Our loss was slight.

A report from Fortress Monroe says that half of Beauregard's army left him on the 23d, and marched toward the rebel capital, probably to reinforce Lee.

Within the past few days the rebels have made nine attacks on the lines of Gen. Butler, but were handsomely repulsed each time.

A special dispatch to the Philadelphia Bulletin says the Washington Republican announces the retreat of Lee across the South Anna, and it is supposed he is hurrying on to the defences around Richmond. It also gives a rumor that Jeff. Davis has fled from Richmond.

The guerrillas in the vicinity of Chancellorsville continue their depredations. A number of Ambulances had gone out under a flag of truce, to recover the wounded left in the Wilderness.

The Union State Convention of Ohio met yesterday at Columbus.

It is said that Gen. Grant is in the saddle most of the time, superintending in person the movements in the chase after Lee.

While the news from Virginia is thus encouraging, we have newspaper accounts from Sherman to the 16th inst., when the rebels under Johnston had burned their supply and ammunition trains, and taking only their artillery, were in full retreat from Resaca. Stoneman's cavalry were pursuing them.

NEW HAVEN, Dec 17, 1862.

Having been taught that medicines, in order to be valuable, must originate with some particular faculty or school, we considered patent medicines, (so called,) a humbug, until after losing our beloved child with Croup, we were forced by the suffering of another, from the same disease, and the advice of friends, to try Coe's Cough Balsam. Little Eddie had gone, and, though we loved him, we would not call him from his quiet rest, to share the sorrows of this unfriendly world. But Willie, is there no remedy for thee? We found it in Coe's Cough Balsam. It relieved him in about twenty minutes, to our great joy, and the surprise of others. We cannot be hired to dispense with this priceless blessing, and we are glad to learn that Mr. Coe has made arrangements with parties, whereby it may become more extensively known. In view of this let me say to every parent, when your child is suffering with Croup, give this Balsam, give it freely. If we did not believe it to be the best remedy for you, we certainly would not say it.

Truly yours,

Wanted.

The subscriber will pay $200 per ton for Broom Corn delivered at his manufactory near the Globe Mill—Tecumseh, April 13.

B. F. HITCHCOCK.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transfered only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, an are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium.) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the
First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Fenton, Mich.
AND BY ALL RESPONSIBLE BANKERS
which are depositaries of Public money, and all RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS
throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depository Banks,) will furnish further information on application and Democratic Meeting.

There will be a Democratic meeting held at Union Hall, Tecumseh, on Saturday next at 3 o'clock, P. M., for choosing delegates to a County Convention [illegible]

Sabbath School Convention.

The Sabbath School Superintendants and teachers of the State of Michigan are invited to meet (in the fourth annual meeting,) in the Congregational Church, of Grand Rapids, on Tuesday evening May 31st, 1864, to continue through Wednesday and Wednesday evening.

Pastors of Evangelical churches and friends of the Sabbath School cause throughout the State, are cordially invited to attend and participate in the celebrations of this convention. The presence of some earnest Sab. School men from other States may be anticipated.

Those who purpose attending this convention are earnestly requested to forward their names at once to H. J. Hollister, Grand Rapids, Secretary, of the local committee.

The Detriot and Milwaukee R. R. Co. will carry Delegates at half the usual fare.

The importance of this convention will readily be understood by those who attended a similar meeting held last year at Battle Creek. It will be equally apparent to all the friends of Sab. Schools, when it is announced, from carefully prepared statistical reports that 200,000 children in the State of Michigan to-day have no Sabbath School priveleges—that is, are not in attendance on the Sabbath School.

A similar report shows that between 8,000 and 10,000 of these children are in our own county. Here is work for all hands and hearts. With such a necessity upon us there were but three were but three delegates from this county at the annual meeting last year. Can we not improve on the past?

S. E. WISHARD,
Sec. for Lenawee Co.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co.; and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Yrs d

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat, wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
WOOLSTON COMFORT.

The Country Gentleman of Oct. 1862 says: "We have seen in operation no less than seven different Horse Hay Forks, some of which we had considered good ones. But when we saw the fork exhibited at Rochester by N. Palmer, all others were left clear in the shade. It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price."

The Hon. J. T. E. Wright, Editor of the National Agriculturist, in his report of the Michigan State Fair, says: "Of the numerous machines intended as labor saving conveniences, there were none more highly commended than the Excelsior Horse Fork."

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting,

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

ROUP

NEW HAVEN, Dec 11, 1862.

Having been taught that medicines, in order to be valuable, must originate with some particular faculty or school, we considered patent medicines, (so called,) a humbug, until after losing our beloved child with Croup, we were forced by the suffering of another, from the same disease, and the advice of friends, to try Coe's Cough Balsam. Little Eddie had gone, and, though we loved him, we would not call him from his quiet rest, to share the sorrows of this unfriendly world. But Willie, is there no remedy for thee? We found it in Coe's Cough Balsam. It relieved him in about twenty minutes, to our great joy, and the surprise of others. We cannot be hired to dispense with this priceless blessing, and we are glad to learn that Mr. Coe has made arrangements with parties, whereby it may become more extensively known. In view of this let me say to every parent, when your child is suffering with Croup, give this Balsam, give it freely. If we did not believe it to be the best remedy for you, we certainly would not say it.

Truly yours,

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

The Blood Pills

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, while pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

The Beautiful.

BY C. D STUART.

Thou can'st not clasp the beautiful,
And call it all thine own;
The beautiful is given for all,
And not for one alone.
It is God's love made visible
In earth, and sea, and sky,
A blessing wide as time and space,
For every human eye.

The foam that crests the ocean wave
And sparkles to the light;
The star that gems the brow of morn
And glorifies the night,—
The brook, the flower, the leaf, the bird,
Whatever glads the sight—
Is God's own living gift to all,
The beautiful and bright.

And blessed 'tis and beautiful,
That this one gift at least,
Defies the cruel tyrant's power,
And ban of wicked priest;
For spite of chains, the slave can see
God's love is with him here,
In beauty's light, in beauty's joy,
And beauty's blessed cheer.

And God be praised, forevermore,
For this his blessed boon:
The beautiful—which all may share,
And none can share to soon.
The beautiful, which purifies
And leads us up to Him,
Who is its source, its life and light,
From flower to seraphim.

The Perils of a Scout.

Among the scouts sent out during the battles on the Potomac, was Dick B., of Ohio. He had seen some perilous and thrilling adventures among the rebels, which cannot be better told than in his own words:

'I was out scouting, with three or four others, when we got separated, and on turning a bend in the road, I came upon a party of rebel cavalry. They commanded me to halt. I replied by firing my revolver at the foremost, and then putting spurs to my horse galloped away; but the rebels were not disposed so easily to lose their prey, and they followed, all of us going at a break-neck pace, and they firing upon me as they could get near enough. Presently I perceived a pathway in the woods, that lead off from the main road. Into this path I turned my horse, as I thought the trees would afford a better chance to escape them and their bullets. My horse was fleet and used to brush, and I gained on them a little. I began to think my chance was tolerable, when I came to a large tree that had been blown down directly across my path, and when I attempted to leap it my horse stumbled and fell, throwing me off. Before I could re-mount, the rebels were upon me.

"Surrender," shouted a surgeon; "surrender, you d——d blue bellied Yankee, or I'll blow your heart out." And he pointed his revolver at me—which motion was followed by the rest of the crowd.

'See here, old covey,' said I, 'put up your pop gun, and take me prisoner, if you like; but don't murder a fellow in that barbarious manner.'

Of course I was a prisoner, and I thought it the better part of valor to fall in and trust to chance and strategy to get me out. So I was toted in line up to the rebel camp, and brought before the notorious Stonewall. The General eyed me very closely about one minute, and then said:

'Well, they tell me you are a Yankee spy.'

Whew! thought I; this is more than I bargained for. But I was determined to put a jolly face on the matter, and I said:

'Yes, General, that's what they say; but you rebels are such blamed liars there is no knowing when to believe what they say. I thought the Yankees could outlie any other nation, but hang me if you fellows can't beat us.'

'Ah,' said the General, 'you don't seem to have a very exalted opinion of your brethren.'

'Why should I have?' said I. 'I've lost and suffered a good deal in that same Yankee nation.'

'That's strange,' said the General. 'Don't the Union officers treat their soldiers well?'

'They're like all other officers,' said I, 'good and bad among them; but that's not where the shoe pinches. To make a long story short, I live in Virginia. I was favorably disposed to the Union cause, but the beggarly Lincoulites would not believe it; so they fed their troops on my granary and cupboard, till I was about ruined, and when I wanted pay they told me I was a fool, and said if I was a good Union man I ought to be glad to aid the Government. One day one of the officers told me if I would enlist they would think better of me, and instead of destroying my property would protect it. So the upshot of it was, my loyalty was doubted, and I was compelled to enlist to save my property.'

'That's a plausible story,' said the General, 'but not a very probable one. Why didn't you come into our lines at once, if you wanted protection?'

'That's just what I'm coming at,' said I. 'I was sent out with a scouting party, and so kept on scouting till I got within your lines, and was taken by your cavalry.'

'Take care, young man,' said the General, sternly; 'I understand you attempted to escape.'

This was a poser; but as I had got under way, I thought I must try and make the ripple. I felt tolerable streaked about the result, too, but I said, earnestly, 'Of course I did. Who wouldn't with half a dozen horses and bullets after him? I hadn't time to say surrender, and beside, the officer cursed me. I don't like to be cursed; it's against my principles; and then I was so mighty mad to see such beastly cowards that I had made up my mind to get away from both armies and go to Canada.'

The General looked at me and then at his staff, and they all smiled, while I looked as sober as a deacon. I had heard that the General was a pious old fellow, and I thought that this would tickle him.

'Are you willing to take the oath of allegiance to the Southern Confederacy, and fight in our cause?'

'To be sure,' said I; 'I told you before that I had been trying to get into your lines. But I don't want to fight for you unless I am protected in my rights. I want my property respected.'

'Where do you live?' he asked.

'At Phillippi,' said I, 'and I've got a nice property up there and I want it to be taken care of.'

'Well,' said the General, 'we're going up that way shortly, and whether you go with us or not, we will protect your property. In the mean time I will think of your offer, but for the present, as evidence is against you, you will be placed under guard, for you Yankees are too slippery to be trusted with much liberty. Events show that you don't know how to use it."

After this, I was kept under guard, and was treated perhaps as well as they were, and nothing to brag of at that.—The next day there was a great battle, and there was much commotion in the rebel camp, for fear that I should be recaptured. A guard of two was detailed to take me to the rear. We could distinctly hear the thundering of the cannon, and we knew the great battle had commenced. I overheard the guard chuckling at the idea that they were exempt. This put a flea into my ear. I knew they were cowards, and I determined to manage them accordingly. My canteen had not been taken from me, and, as luck would have it, was half full of tolerable rot-gut whisky. I also had a large powder of morphene which the surgeon had given me a few days before to take occasionally. This slipped into the canteen. After this was accomplished, I appeared to take long swigs at the canteen. At last the bait took, the boys got a smell of the whisky, and one of them said:

'Look here, Yankee, that whisky smells mighty good. Let us help you drink it, or you'll be so drunk soon that we shall have to carry you.'

'All right boys,' said I 'help yourselves.' They did help themselves, and the beggardly rebels soon finished the whisky, morphine and all.

'It tastes mighty bitter,' said one; 'what's in it?'

"Quinine," said I; 'I always put quinine into my whisky at this time of the year." This satisfied them, and I soon had the satisfaction of seeing my guard tolerably drunk—too drunk to walk, and so they tumbled down, and they didn't get up again soon. Finding they were getting pretty stupid and sleepy, I shook them and said:

"See here, guard, this is a shame. How do you expect to guard me, drunk as you are?"

"Can't do it, Yankee. You—turn now. You guard us. Don't leave—or by G—d I'll shoot you when—wake up!'

'But hold on,' said I; 'how do you expect me to guard you when I don't know the password?'

By vigorous pokes and punches, I so far routed him that he muttered, 'Rattlesnake.' I had no doubt but this was the magical 'open sesame' that was to give me liberty. In five minutes the men were sound asleep. The place where we were was a deep gully in the woods, and half a mile distant was a rebel camp.—My purpose was soon fixed. I swapped clothes with one, which was considerable trouble, as he was flimsy as a rag; but I succeeded at last in making the exchange, and had the satisfaction of seeing the drunken rebel nicely buttoned up in Yankee regimentals. Taking his arms I hurried away. When I got through the woods I came into the road, and had no sooner done so than I saw a squad of rebel soldiers.

'Halt!' was the word, to which I responded with a soldiery precision.

'What are you doing here?' said the Lieutenant commanding.

I told him that two of us were guarding a prisoner, and that my comrade and the prisoner were so dead drunk that I could do nothing with them.

'That's a h—l of a story,' repled the Lieutenant; 'I believe you're some d—d Yankee spy. I've a mind to clip your head off on suspicion," and he raised his sword.

'Let him prove what he says by showing us the men,' suggested one of the squad.

At this all laughed, supposing that I was bluffed. But when I readily assented to this, they followed me, cautiously, however, as I supposed they feared I was leading them into ambush. When the Lieutenant saw the men—one in butternut and one in Yankee blue, as I had represented—he gave each a hearty kick, and said:

'Well, this is a h—l of a mess. What are you going to do about it?'

'Going to hunt a wagon and have them carried on,' said I.

This was satisfactory, and we parted. Finding it would not do for me to take the road, I skulked around in the woods all day. When night came I took as I supposed, a rout that would lead me to the Union camp. All night I climbed over the hills. Twice I was hailed by rebel pickets, but 'Rattlesnake' carried me in safety by. Just at daylight I discovered a camp. I could see the tents twinkling through the strip of woods before me, and I felt certain it was a Union camp. When I got about half way through the woods, I saw something that completely took all the exultation out of me. Well, I've been in many a perilous position; I have had swords, bullets and bowie-knives rumaging around in the region of my loyal bosom, but never, in all my life, was I so uttely taken down. There, in the bottom of a broad, deep ravine, not ten steps from me, lay the two drunken guards. Lord, this was a prety fix to be sure. I had accomplished a feat equal to the hero of mother goose, who went 'Fourteen miles in fifteen days,

And never looked behind him.'

One of the guard was sitting up, and endeavoring to arouse the supposed prisoner, for he was still too much stupified to recognize the cheat. Perceiving me he sang out: 'Say, Bill, this d——d Yankee's to drunk to wake up. What's to be done with him? Have we been here all night? Lord, what will the old General say? Come over here.'

'No,' said I, feigning his comrade's voice, 'We've been drunk here all night, and I'm going to report before he wakes up, or they'll have us in the guard house. You stay and watch him, while I go.'

'No, let's wake the devlish lubber up, and take him where we're going to. But blame me if I know where that is. I must go.'

'But I will," said I, and, hurrying away, I was soon out of sight. This day I hid myself in a hollow tree, and when night came I took a good look at the stars, and getting my bear-star, started again for the Union camp. I several times came up to the rebel pickets, but the 'Rattlesnake' snaked me along without any trouble, except the last one I came to. He was a sprightly little fellow and appeared to be determined that I should go to headquarters. I offered every excuse that I could think of, but it was of no avail. So I at last agreed to go, and we started. I went with him about half a mile, and during this time I engaged him in conversation about the affairs of the war, playing rebel, of course; and talking in a jolly way, and finding him a little unguarded, I sprang upon him, took away his arms—'Now, you beggardly whelp,' said I, as I snatched his gun and sprang away from him, 'about face and put, or I'll shoot in a minute.' The fellow was scared sure, and lost no time in getting out of my sight.

It was now beginning to grow light, and I found myself on the banks of the Potomac, with the Federal camp in the distance. As there was no other mode of conveyance, I was forced to swim the river, which was no easy job. However, I got safely over, and was just climbing the bank, when a musket was leveled at me, and a clear voice rang out.

'Stand! Who goes there?'

This I knew to be a Union picket; so I told him I had been taken prisoner, and had escaped—had been two days without eating, and wanted him to let me go, or take me at once to camp, where I could get something to eat, and some dry clothes. I had no doubt he would believe this, and would immediately comply; but the answer was an ominous click of the trigger.

'I believe you're a real butternut rebel,' said the picket, 'and I've a notion to give you a pop anyhow.'

'But I am not,' said I.

'What are you doing with them butternut regimentals on then, and them two muskets,' said he.

I saw my fix, and hungering dripping and shivering as I was, I stood there and told my whole story. Finally, on my giving him the names of the Colonel and Captain, and mentioning several other matters familiar to him, he was satisfied, for he belonged to the same regiment that I did.

A Parrot Called as a Witness.

A man lost a favorite parrot, which was found in the possession of another person, who refused to give it up. He was accordingly summoned to produce the bird in a recent court of law. The real owner, on being asked how he could prove that it belonged to him, replied that the parrot should be his only witness. It was then brought to the court in a cage covered with cloth, and began to whistle 'Take your time, Miss Lucy,' while some subject was discussed by the court. Its owner put his face to the cage, and desired the parrot to kiss him, which the bird did most affectionately. 'He will do the same to any one,' said the defendant, and on putting his mouth to the cage, the parrot seized his lip and bit it very severely, to the great amusement of the court. Its owner then took it out of the cage and kept it on his hand, when the bird answered several questions put to it in a ready and extraordinary manner, and also showed so much affection for its master that the judge immdiately ordered the parrot to be restored to him, and the defendant had to pay all expenses.—Sussex Gazette.

GOOD FOR EVIL.—'Mamma,' said little Annie, 'please give me two apples for lunch. I want to give one to Jane Wood.'

'Certainly, my dear. But why do you want to givo Jane one?' said her mother.

'Because, dear mama, she stole one out of my basket yesterday, and I want her not to be tempted any more, for our teacher told us that if we are sincere in praying 'Lead us not into temptation,' we should not only keep out of the way of evil ourselves, but try to keep others from being tempted; and I think if I give Jane an apple she will not want to steal any more.'

The apple was given; and a little while after Jane said to Annie, looking very penitent.

'Won't you please take this apple back again? I suppose it is mine now, as you gave it to me, and I want to pay back the one I stole from you yesterday.' Jane never stole again. Annie's kindness saved her.

BEAUTIFUL SWISS CUSTOM.—The horn of the Alps is wounded in the mountainous districts of Switzerland not solely to sound the cow-bell (Kuhreihn Rauz des Vaches,) but for another purpose, solemn and religious. As soon as the sun has disappeared in the valley, and its last rays are just glimmering on the snowy summit of the mountains, then the herdsman who dwells on the loftiest, takes his horn and trumpets forth 'Praise God the Lord." All the herdsmen in the neighborhood, on hearing this, come out of their huts, take their horns, and repeat the words. This often continues a quarter of an hour, whilst on all sides the mountains echo the name of God.

'Six feet in his boots!' exclaimed Mrs. Partington. 'What will the importance of this world come to, I wonder? Why, they might as well tell me that he has six heads in his hat!'

The Largest City in the World.

If the following account is true, London is no longer the metropolis of our planet. That distinction belongs to the Japanese city of Jeddo, which a correspondent of the Boston Traveler thus describes:

"But what shall I say of this greatest and most singular of all cities? A volume is needed to describe it, without attempting to give its history. I have read of Ninevah and Babylon below the ground, and have seen and handled the works of art which have been disinterred, and created so much admiration on both sides of the Atlantic; but one living Jeddo above the ground is worth a hundred cities below it. I cannot give you any idea of it, it is so unique, so unlike everything except itself, and so impossible what to think. I have seen several places of interest and maintained a cool head; but I was bewildered and confused when I saw this. It is situated on the western shore of this gulf, twenty miles wide by twenty-four long, to which the Lake Tiberias is nothing, except the sacred feet that once trod its shores. It stretches for twenty miles and more along a beach of semi circular form, with its horns turned outward, and along which a street extends, crowded with blocks of stores and houses, and teeming with moving crowds, while the shopkeepers, artisans, women and children seem equally numerous within doors and at the doors. Indeed, a dozen or fifteen miles might be added to the length of the city in this direction, since there is nothing but an unbroken succession of towns and villages for this distance, which are populous as the city itself.

"In crossing the city from the shore to the western outskirts, I have walked two miles and a half, and then proceeded on horseback for ten miles more, while in other places it may be wider still. According to the lower estimate, the city covers an area equal to several New England farming towns, which are usually six miles square. And all is traversed by streets usually wide, well-constructed, perfectly neat, and which cross each other at right angles; streets lined with houses and stores as compactly as they can be built, and crowded with moving and stationary masses as thick as in our Washington street or New York Broakway, at least for considerable distances. The population is estimated generally at three millions, which Mr. Harris, our minister, thinks no exaggeration. For my part, judging from what I have seen when I have gone into the heart of the city, and crossed the city from side to side, I should be willing to add as many millions more; for the living, moving masses seen from sunrise to sunset, and everywhere the same, fairly seem beyond computation.

HOW SALT LAKE CITY IS COMMANDED.—A correspondent of an eastern paper who has lately visited Salt Lake City, thus speaks of the chief of the Mormons.

The Mecca of the Mormons occupies on fourth of the bottom of a huge saucer, the remaining three-fourths being at present partly arable land and partly desert. The Wasteh mountains form the sides of a saucer, and with portions of another range, encircle the city, shutting it in from the outer world with a wall too high for even the odor of its sanctity to escape over the mountain tops.

Approaching from the west, you cross the Jordan, have the Great Salt Lake to your left and the city spread out in quadrilaterals before you, more like a huge map than an actual city. High up, and away to the right, on what is geographically termed 'a bench,' is Camp Douglas, the big guns of which frown down upon the city, three miles off, to remind Brigham Young that though he is 'boss' of the saints, Uncle Sam is the the bigger boss of both saints and sinners.

SPIRIT OF THE TROOPS.—A friend who has lately been at Fredericksburg, tells the following incident, related to him there by a wounded staff officer: The Sixty-second New York had been engaged and under fire all day in one of the recent battles, and General Getty gave orders to have them relieved and sent back to rest. A sergeant, who heard the order given, and happened to be near the General, touched his cap and said 'If it's all the same to you, General, we'd rather stay where we are.

"My dear," said a gentleman to a young lady to whom he thought to be married, "do you intend to make a fool of me?" "No," replied the lady, "nature has saved me the trouble."

The Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1864

From the Army and Navy Journal May 28.]

The Contest in Virginia.

"Two acts in the Virginia drama are over, and already a third progresses with a celerity not inferior to that of those which have gone before, and with portents of a denouement no less bloody, and no less momentous. Roughly characterizing the campaign hitherto, it is a succession of flanking and fighting, in order to flank, of flanking in order to fight. First came ten days of fierce pitched battles, the two gladiators rejoicing in strength, and wrestling with thirsty fury. The next ten found the combatants more exhausted, if not less vindictive, and manœuvering was prominent, with deadly battle subordinate.

"Two fields have now been thoroughly fought and abandoned. The closed records of Spottsylvania and the Wilderness display similitude, not only in their general, but in several particular features. The main topography of the regions was unlike. The method of joining battle analogous. At both points the disposition of each army to accept the onus of attack was striking. A series of pitched battles, unparalleled in severity in American annals, was the substantial story of both. At each, the summary of any single day's fighting, showed it usually but an indecisive struggle, or, if the palm of temporary success was not awarded to one party and anon to the other, no such things as a Waterloo result, so often predicted, was anywhere discernable. The contending forces learned by many a hard and weary day's fight, from dawn to dusk, to expect to sleep only on their arms, and in their morning's lines, without wrenching a rood of ground from the obstinate foe. If aught else is needed to fill the parallel, the silent withdrawal at length, of the imperilled enemy, the instant pursuit, and the conduct of both the flight and the chase, may be added.

"Indeed, it is this latter fact which now arrests attention. Which of the two leaders first left his ground? So closely did the Union general follow, both at Spottsylvania and the Wilderness, that it is commonly thought that he rather forced the marching by himself imitating it. Our own judgement is that, at both places, it was General Lee that first changed position. In this view, the movement of General Grant was rather a pursuit than an outflanking; though, in either case, the desired end was attained. Or, to speak more precisely, the intention to flank seems to have been boldly projected by the Union General, and the other, not surprised, as is commonly said, but foreboding the intent, moves off but just before its execution. The cool withdrawal from Germanna Ford, before the fierce roar of Friday's battle in the Wilderness had died away, and before news of any retirement of the enemy seems to have reached him, shows a definite purpose on the part of General Grant to thrust himself across the enemy's road to Richmond. No less does the similar withdrawal of our right on Thursday and again on Friday, the first attempt being foiled by Ewell, indicate a similar purpose, independent of any scheme of the enemy. Yet, in both cases, the Rebel general actually began to march his army before our own was moved, anticipating the attempt to flank, prefacing it in both cases by a savage and partially successful rush upon our right wing, then hastily but in order retreating. It is this which gives, we repeat, our intended outflanking the character of a pursuit. On either supposition, however, the withdrawal was equally compulsory, and was the legitimate sequal of the Union generl's efforts.

"As the campaign rolls on, the plan which unfolding events clearly reveal as the one which General Grant had fixed upon for the army under his personal supervision, seems to be crowded with steady success. Not all his subordinates have been equally fortunate. But he appears only to have relied upon them to pair off, as it were, with the rebel armies in their front. The main burden of conquest he took on his own shoulders. It appears now that the failure of Grant would be the failure of all the rest, as his success is the success of all. Johnston, reinforced, might visit Sherman with severe repulses on his present advanced ground. And the consequences to Butler, and Sigel of Grant's retirement need hardly be stated. But Grant is competent to push his immediate antagonist back and back, though both Sigel and Butler should fail him. Sherman is striking at a vital point in Rebeldom. But the observer feels that the blow will not prove vital, for the mortal thrust must be delivered in Virginia.

"Our opinion is that (not to criticise the cooperative movements) each step of ours hitherto has not only been contemplated, but intended and forced by General Grant. Whether his ultimate desire can be gratified in the shape it now has, is another question. Brilliantly successful as is the record of Chickamauga, the Lieutenant General would be better pleased with a repetition of the story of Vicksburg. It remains to be seen how, after a protracted struggle in the outer defenses of Richmond, General Lee will decide the hard question of what to do with the city he now has on his hands. Our people are prone to think that he will huddle and coop seventy or ninety thousand men in a single city, to eat themselves into capitulation. Should he commit so improbable as well as so fatal a mistake, failing to leave his main army as an outlying and harrassing force, his adversary would quickly make the name of Lee, so long the omen of skill and victory, but a synonym for ill-starred Pemberton."

The above from the Army and Navy Journal is so calm, considerate and intelligent, that we would prefer to give it to our readers without comment. While it corrects the extravagance of Union army reporters, who would fain rush Grant into Richmond upon a double-quick step, without any further serious annoyance from the Rebel army, it equally refutes the unfounded assertions of those who persist in saying, simply because they would be glad to have it so, that Grant has really neither made any advance, nor gained any victory over Lee. We have very little doubt that another most sanguinary battle is to be fought before Richmond, but when fought, if successful on the part of the Union armies, it will still be to a considerable extent undecisive, and Lee, leaving an adequate force for the defense of Richmond, will himself with the main army retreat in another direction.

If Butler could have held the Petersburg & Danville Rail Roads, Lee might have been compelled to a different and more decisive course; but as he has not done so, the rebels will be compelled to no such alternative, and without compulsion, we have no idea he will voluntarily adopt it.

We may now any day expect to hear of such a battle between the combined forces of Grant and Lee as will tell largely upon the future of this protracted and sanguinary Rebellion.

The Release of the Gunboats at Alexandria.

In the midst of other stirring events, [illegible] as well as most gratifying, feat of modern engineering is likely to receive much less notice than it deserves.

Just in proportion as it is cheering to the loyal citizens, and soldiers of the nation, is it disheartening to the rebels.—It was well known that the army would soon be compelled to evacuate Alexandria, and they had no doubt that they had a sure thing upon the very best portion of our Mississippi fleet helplessly fast above the rapids.

Lieut. Col. Bailey, by this feat of engineering skill has well earned the lasting gratitude of the entire nation, as well as a noble record upon the annals of its future history.

The News

Wednesday, June 1st.

Official dispatches from Secretary Stanton state there is a prospect that Lee will make a stand south of the Chickahominy. Gen. Grant was making preparations to attack him there.

The enemy attacked our left on Monday night, but were repulsed with considerable slaughter. To relieve Gen. Warren, who was on the left, speedily Gen. Meade ordered an attack by the balance of our lines. Gen. Hancock was the only one who received the order in time to make the attack before dark. He drove the enemy from his entrenched skirmish lines. The engagement was short, sharp and decisive. Warren holding his ground at a distance of seven miles from Richmond. Burnside crossed over the Totopotomy Creek, and was in full connection with Warren at last accounts. Lee was straining every nerve to check the advance on Richmond.

Six refugees from Richmond report that Grant was on the Mechanicsville Pike, Monday, nine miles from Richmond. They also report that they heard firing, and that Grant was driving Lee.

The latest news from Gen. Grant is to the effect that he was in line of battle three miles south of the Pamunky on Sunday. The New York Herald claims to have advices of another important movement, now in progress, on the Pamunky, Beauregard, having left sufficient force at Fort Darling to keep Butler at bay, has reinforced Lee with the remainder of his army.

The Richmond papers depict a terrible state of things in that city. All business is suspended, and every able-bodied man called out for the defense of the place. In the meantime there exists great disaffection among the poorer classes. The Union prisoners have all been removed from the Libby to Goldsboro, N. C.

For the Tecumseh Herald.

Extracts from Republican Journals.

As the readers of the Herald, perhaps do not generally have an opportunity of knowing what the Fremont wing of the Republican party think of Mr. Lincoln's administration, I propose occasionally to furnish your with some extracts for their information, from leading journals of that party. The following is from the New Nation, a paper which claims for its adherents a greater amount of "Loyalty" than has possessed even the Buccaneers. It says:

"By talking incessantly about the Union, loyalty, the Union party, by attempting to substitute a party for the people, by making assertions without proving them, by calling for submission and silence in the name of the Union, by incessantly invoking the public welfare as a conclusive argument by substituting declamation for discussion and reason, in short by putting words in the place of facts, the task of governing is rendered very easy. But we are not content with words and bare assertions.

Let us examine both. Let us see what this Union Party really is; we call it simply the Government party. Let us see whether the harmony and support claimed by the Times in the name of the public weal is not in reality the ruin of the public weal. It is not sufficient to say 'we are the public welfare, support us."

Prove it, show us your acts. We say to you stand back; with the deepest and firmest conviction we say that you are the shame and the destruction of the nation, the ruin of the public welfare.

Let us examine the composition of this self-styled Union party, which has a universal existence only in the accommodating imagination of the Times. No one will question that it originated in the Republican party, and that its ranks have since been swelled by all the contractors and their hangers on whom the present Administration has enriched at the expense of the people; by all the employees of the Government, and by the long list of paymasters, colonels, brigadier and major generals, centralized under the thumb of a lieutenant-general and working as one man in the game of the Union, with the motto of unconditional loyalty, but in reality under orders from the White House or State department.

Of course a party so constituted cannot say to the nation bluntly: "Our party is made up of gratified interests, we intend to prolong them, vote for us." Nor on the other hand will it bear inscrutiny. The expression unconditional loyalty suits this party as it is the stereotyped formula of blind submission to the measures emanating from the infallible and immaculate Administration, and the people are used as a cloak for the whole. Precisely in the same manner the South persuaded the white trash of the slave States that in fighting to preserve the property of their lords and masters, the slaveholders, they were fighting for the maintenance of State rights and for the independence of the confederate people. At all times, and in all countries, the people have always been deceived in this manner. It is their traditional part. They pour out their blood and their money for a few high sounding words to satisfy the appetite of an insatiable class who prey upon them under the very name of the people."

Here is an extract from Mr. Brownson's Quarterly Review, a Journal which advocates the re-nomination of Mr. Lincoln for reasons which the New Nation explains thus:

"Mr. Brownson, in short, avows, not his preferences for Mr. Lincoln, for he candidly admits that General Fremont, General Butler, Secretary Chase, or, in fact, any other man in the country, except Vallandigham, would be more acceptable to him, but he is in favor of Mr. Lincoln for the same reason that certain savage tribes worship the devil. He fears his power. He is convinced that if the people do not voluntarily re-elect Mr. Lincoln, that he will imitate Louis Napoleon and elect himself by a coup d'etat.

Of Mr Lincoln personally, Mr. Brownson has not an exalted opinion; he says: "His soul seems made of leather and incapable of any grand or noble emotion. Compared with the mass of men, he is a flat prose in a beautiful and spirited lyric. He lowers, he never elevates you. You leave his presence with your enthusiasm damped, your better feelings crushed, and your hopes cast to the winds. You ask not, can this man carry the nation through its terrible struggles, but can the nation carry this man through them and not perish in the attempt?"

"He never adopts a clear policy,—When he hits upon a policy substantially good in itself, he contrives to belittle it, besmear it, or in some way to render it mean, contemptible, and useless. Even wisdom from him seems but foolishness. "We blame him not," says the amiable Brownson, "because he is mole eyed, and not eagle-eyed, and that he has no suspicion of that higher region of thought and action in which lie the great interests and questions he is called upon to deal with, as President of the United States. His only fault is the misfortune of being unconscious of his own unfitness for his place."

Scraps of News.

—An official report of our losses in the late Virginia battles gives 4,000 killed, about 25,000 wounded, and 5,000 missing, including stragglers and prisoners.

—The yearly product of pianos in the United States has increased from 2,000 to 20,000 in the last 14 years, the latter number being the estimated manufacture of the present year.

—A terrible accident, caused by the explosion of a fire damp, occurred in the Bluff coal works, near Monongahela City, Penn., on Monday last, by which five men were killed and 13 wounded, some of them seriously.

—The Hammond oil well at Oil City, Penn., flows over 600 barrels of oil daily. This is the largest producing well in the oil regions. Its principal owner, Mr. Hammond, has been laboring in the oil district for years, with very indifferent success, and now his perseverence is crowned with a handsome reward.

—The Spanish are thinking of cutting a maritime canal around the rock of Gibarraltar, so as to supersede the use of the Straits, and the French are talking up the project. There are no great engineering difficulties to be encountered, and the cost is estimated at about twenty millions of dollars.

—A Times correspondent from Nashville writes that it is perfectly useless for people to go there from the North, hoping to get through to the army. Gen. Sherman has given sitch strict orders and taken such precautions to have them enforced, that persons not connected with the army cannot get to the front. The sick and wounded are being well cared for.

—The Rev. Mr. Le Blanc, a French Catholic priest, of St. Aime, C. E., left that place about two weeks ago for Montreal, having in his possession about $1,000 belonging to his parish, which he was deputed to deposit in Montreal, and has since mysteriously disappeared. An anxious search was instituted for him and it was soon ascertained that he had left for the United States, taking his funds with him, and without bidding farewell to his parishioners.

—It is now definitly ascertained that the evacuation of Washington, N. C., was done by the express orders of Gen. Grant, and that every dollar's worth of property belonging to the Government and soldiers enlisted in that vicinity, was brought away. Every man, woman and child desirous of leaving with our forces was taken away, and when the place fell into rebel hands, they obtained not the slightest object of value belonging to the Government.

Cleveland Convention.

Mr. Carroll, Chairman of Committee on Resolutions, reported the following:

1st. That the Federal Union shall be preserved.

2d. That the Constitution and laws of the United States must be observed and obeyed.

3d. That the rebellion must be suppressed by force of arms, and without compromise.

4th. That the rights of free speech, the press, and habeas corpus be held inviolate, save in districts where martial law has been proclaimed.

5th. That the rebellion has destroyed slavery, and the Federal Constitution should be amended to prohibit its re-establishment, and to secure to all men absolute equality before the law.

6th. That integrity and economy are demanded at all times in the administration of the Government, and that in time of war the neglect of them is criminal.

7th. That the right of asylum for criminals subject to law is a recognized principle of American Liberty, that any violation of it cannot be overlooked, and must not go unrebuked.

8th. That the National policy known as the Monroe doctrine has become a recognized principle, and that the establishment of an anti Republican Government on this continent, by any foreign power, cannot be tolerated.

9th. That the gratitude and support of the nation is due to the soldiers and the earnest leaders of the Union army and navy for their heroic achievements and deathless valor in defence of our imperiled country and of civil liberty.

10th. That the one term policy for the Presidency, adopted by the people, is strengthened by the force of the existing crisis, and should be maintained by constitutional amendment.

11th. That the Constitution should be so amended that the President and Vice President shall be elected by a direct vote of the people.

12th. That the question of the reconstruction of the rebellious States belongs to the people through their representatives in Congress, and not to the Executive.

13th. That the confiscation of the lands of the rebels and their distribution among the soldiers and actual settlers is a measure of justice.

CLEVELAND, May 31.—Maj. General Fremont and Gen. John Cochrane were nominated by acclamation for President and Vice President by the Radical Convention, which assembled in this city today. The speech of Gen. Cochrane had a telling effect on the delegations present, and when the names of Fremont and Cochrane were proposed, their nomination for the higest official positions in the country, followed without opposition.

May, 19th 1864. WM. ARTMAN.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

their value is increased from one to three per cent per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to $150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 20th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Lenawee, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS which are depositaries of Public money, and all RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depositary Banks,) will furnish further information on application and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Ladies to the Rescue

The time has again come when we must be at work for our suffering boys. Do not let the Tecumseh boys feel (while other places are nobly responding to their wants) that we are indifferent. Let us cast in our mite. Let us work for them while they are so nobly battling against our common enemy,—sacrificing all that is dear to them, even life itself.

And to the Gentlemen I would say, we cannot do much without your assistance. We are willing to work, but cannot without some means; therefore when your wives and daughters meet at Mrs. Murray's rooms next Tuesday, let them come with well filled purses.

And to all that feel interested for the Soldier, we would say there will be a Social at Mrs. Bissell's on the same evening, and all are invited to attend.

A FRIEND TO THE SOLDIER.

P. S. The receipts at the last Social were $7.65.

Tobacco and Cigars.

Messrs. Meritt & Slater have rented the room formerly occupied by P. Keys as a Saloon, and have fitted it up in fine style, for the purpose of supplying their friends and the public generally with Tobacco and Cigars. We bespeak for them a good share of the public patronage. Let it be remembered, that they keep constantly on hand, the choicest assortment of Tobacco and Cigars to be found in the market, which they are bound to sell at reasonable prices.

Tecumseh Soldiers Aid Society

The present exigencies of our wounded soldiers, and largely increased calls for Sanitary supplies, has set every human and patriotic heart and hand to work to do something for our common cause.—This society held a large and earnest meeting at Mrs. A. Murrays in the afternoon of Tuesday last, and held a Soldiers Aid Social at Mrs. C. M. Bissells in the evening. This social is a very pleasant as well as philanthropic affair, and will no doubt prove a decided success. In behalf then of the cause, a general attendance both upon the regular meetings of the society, and the social, upon Tuesday afternoon and evening of every week, at least for the present, is earnestly solicited.

American Agriculturalist.

We are in receipt of the June No. of this valuable Journal of Agriculture. As a family paper for the Farmer, Gardener or in fact persons of all pursuits, it has no equal. The household receipts alone, are well worth the price of the paper. It has an able corps of writers, all of whom are practical men and do not endorse an article until they are perfectly satisfied of its value to the public. Orange Judd, editor—Terms $1,50 per annum.

Persons wishing to obtain a good agricultural paper, can examine the files of the Agriculturalist from July 1863, to June 1864, by calling on C. K. Spafford at this office.

☞ The J. Monroe Taylor Gold Medal Soap has acquired pre-eminence over all other soaps, in point of utility and economy, from the washtub to the printer's devil. It is without doubt the best soap made. It has many inferior imitations, but no rivals, and can be safely said to be ahead of all others.

☞ All persons who sell Harrick Allen's Gold Medal Saleratus are authorized to give their customers the privilege of using one half the paper, and if not perfectly satisfactory, to return the balance and get the amount paid for the whole. It is the best in the world. It is a great deal better than soda to use with cream tartar. Try it. Most Grocers and Druggists keep it.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co.; and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate cheatrom, all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
WOOLSTON COMPORT.

It is the most perfect Hay Fork we have seen made and one of the most novel and ingenious features in its manufacture is its cheapness."

CROUP

NEW HAVEN, Dec 1, 1862.

Having been taught that medicines, in order to be valuable, must originate with some particular faculty or school, we considered patent medicines, (so called,) a humbug, until after losing our beloved child with Croup, we were forced by the suffering of another, from the same disease, and the advice of friends, to try Coe's Cough Balsam. Little Eddie had gone, and, though we loved him, we would not call him from his quiet rest, to share the sorrows of this unfriendly world. But Willie, is there no remedy for thee? We found it in Coe's Cough Balsam. It relieved him in about twenty minutes, to our great joy, and the surprise of others. We cannot be hired to dispense with this priceless blessing, and we are glad to learn that Mr. Coe has made arrangements with parties, whereby it may become more extensively known. In view of this let me say to every parent, when your child is suffering with Croup, give this Balsam, give it freely. If we did not believe it to be the best remedy for you, we certainly would not say it.

Truly yours,
EDWARD GWINELL,
MERCY GWINELL.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order, without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stitches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

MONEY EASILY MADE,

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so.—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS.

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make [illegible] get it for you.

[From the Bridgeport (N. J.) Chronicle.]

Be Kind to Old Age.

Be ever kind to those who bend
Beneath the weight of time;
For they were once like thee, my friend,
In blooming manhood's prime.

But bitter care and weary years
Have borne their joys away;
Till nought remains but age and tears,
And wasting, dim decay.

Life's sweetest hours have hastened past,
Its bloom is faded low,
And dusky twilight deepens fast
Along the furrowed brow.

And soon the scattered remnants all
A narrow house receive;
For one by one they silent fall,
Like withered autumn leaves.

Oh! then be kind, where'er thou art,
Nor deem such action vain;
Kind words can make the aged heart
Seem almost young again.

Cheer thou the weary pilgrim on
To Christ's own Heavenly fold;
And may the same for thee be done,
When thou, thyself, art old.

The Crack in the Wall.

A handsome house in an eligible street in Paris, with plenty of showy furniture in the drawing rooms, and plenty of fine dresses in the wardrobes, but no love, no magnanimity except in a little back attic, where a charming young girl tenderly ministered to a feeble mother. The house belonged to Monsieur and Madame Antonie Chatelle; the atic was occupied by the widow and daughter of Monsieur's deceased brother, M. Brousseau Chatelle. The widow Chatelle was, at her best, a weak-minded woman, and when suddenly reduced from apparent prosperity to absolute dependence by the death of her husband, she gave way at once, and became morbid, fretful and exacting.—Her ill-temper injured nobody but herself and her daughter, Rosine; for her hostess, having permitted her to occupy the back attic chamber with such articles as she had saved from the wreck of her fortune, would not be troubled further, and contented herself with sending up three very scanty meals a day, while she worked Rosine nearly to death in the various departments of governess, laundress and lady's maid. Finally, discovering that mother and daughter must soon be supplied with new garments, Monsieur took the matter in hand, and plainly told his unwelcome guests that he could no longer support them, and that they must henceforth look to themselves alone for food and shelter.

Poor Mdme. Chatlle was overwhelmed by this blow, but it gave Rosine courage. From a dependent child, she became a self-relying woman, and when she crossed her uncle's threshold for the last time it was with a resolute step and a cheerful countenance. It is true that she did not even suspect the wasting anxiety, the counting fears and the many disappointments which lay before her; but even if she had done so she would have smiled at them for the moment.

Her first search was for lodgings, of the price of which she knew nothing, and with an aching heart, she descended lower in the social scale, until she came upon a vast building, six or seven stories high, thronged to the eaves with a motley and ill-assorted community. It was called "The Folly," because it was begun on a grand scale for a private dwelling, and was stopped when half finished for want of means. Ill-arranged for any purpose, it remained long unsold, and was finally made into a lodging house, its thin partitions and mean stairways contrasting strongly with its stone walls and handsome casements.

A front room on the second floor had just been vacated, and Rosine, with many misgivings, resolved to take it. A thorough cleaning, with three or four coats of white-wash to the ceiling and walls, which she effected with her own hands, greatly improved its condition; and, although she had been obliged to sell a part of her furniture to supply more needed articles, there was still enough to make it contrast pleasantly with most of the apartments of the "Folly." A bright-colored carpet covered the centre of the room, and around it stood three or four rosewood chairs, a deep, soft lounge, and a small table. One of the recesses upon the back side held the bed, screened by long curtains of glazed cambric, and the other held the little cooking stove, with a few culinary utensils which hung around it. The table furniture was stowed in a corner cupboard, prettily-carved boxes held the fuel and provisions, and upon the wall were five or six of Rosine's water-color drawings, and a small case of choice but well worn books.

Rosine had kept up her spirits wonderfully until these preparations were completed, for she had no time to think; but now came the hard task of procuring work. She could draw and color with taste and skill; she played the piano gracefully and sang charmingly; and she embroidered rapidly and neatly. Her personal appearance was also in her favor. Her figure was elegant, and her face had a Madonna sweetness and purity, but these points, which interested for a moment those to whom she applied, weighed but little against the facts that she had no references, and that she lived in a doubtful if not positively disreputable quarter. The utmost that she could accomplish was to secure one pupil in each of the brances which she desired to teach at a rate of compensation far below that which she ought in justice to have received; and, discouraged by her ill success, tried to obtain other employment, however coarse and unremunerative. This search was rendered nearly unavailing by Mdme. Chatelle, who exacted from her daughter as much attention as if they were independent in fortune, and who was in a chronic state of ill-humor over her privations and sufferings. Rosine never lost patience. She silenced her own griefs to quiet those of her mother, soothed her with a thousand loving devices, and at night sang her to sleep as she would have done a fretful infant.

Rosine's gentle beauty, her refined manner and her loving heart were good gifts to the lodgers in the crazy old building. To some she rendered service so cordially and quietly that the feeling of obligation was sweet rather than painful; and for all she had the right word, the pleasant smile, or the deferential bow, as she divined the peculiarities of each with the fine tact of a gentlewoman. There was but one inmate whom she could not tame—a certain M. Brillan, who, whatever he might have been, was without a decided bear. His long, gray hair was always in a tumble, and mingled with his profuse beard forming a rough frame for the small portion of face visible within it. Of this nothing could be seen but a long, sharp nose, and a pair of deep, dark, mellow eyes, which were irresistably attractive when brightened by a kindly emotion, but which habitually shot forth scornful and ill-natured glances to accompany the sarcastic words which followed the slightest notice of him.

His dress was scrupulously neat, but thread-bare and ill-fitting, and his figure, so far as could be seen, was badly shaped and as uncouth as his manners. He had a room on each floor, and passed with slippered feet from one to the other at all manner of seasons. Rosine often met him, upon which occasions he seldom failed to accost her with a sarcasm bitter in proportion to the number of listeners; by which means he effectually blinded the most inquisitive to his real feelings, and saved both the young lady and himself from an irksome surveilance. But either his lustrous eyes neutralized the effect of his lance-like wit, or his voice, which could yield the most winning heart-tones, must have given the lie to his sparkling shafts, for Rosine never suffered from them. She even felt drawn toward this powerful, cross-grained man, as if she were safer and stronger for his presence in the dreary building.

One of M. Brillan's appartments adjoined that of Chatelle's, and not only was the partition very thin, but there was a crack in it which helped him to knowledge of much that was going on upon the other side. Mdme. Chatelle constantly complained of ennui. "It was so dull when Rosine was away! Not a new novel, not a canary bird, not a cat to purr on her knee, not even a pot of migonette on the balcony! What was the use of front windows when there were no handsome dresses or fine carriages to be seen! She was starving, too—literally starving. How could Rosine expect her to live on dry bread and onion soup!" Then the sweet voice of Rosine would be heard, sometimes explaining and coaxing, but more frequently detailing a little street incident, relating a pretty anecdote or recalling a pleasant reminiscence.

Upon such occasions, M. Brillan often happened to sit near the wall, and even to lean his head against it in close proximity to the convenient crack. To do him justice, it must be said that such accidents had never occurred to him before. He was not naturally curious, nor did his time hang so heavily on his hands as to drive him to ungenerous modes of disposing of it; but he had never met with a true woman. His mother was handsome and gay—the veriest trifler that ever was tossed on the surface of French society. Her husband was gay, also; but where she floated like thistle-down he plunged deeply in. Vicious himself, and acquainted with vice, he was jealous of her every glance. Hot words, fierce contentions followed, and the little Brillan formed hard, contemptuous views of his race, which had thus far robbed his life of sweetness and beauty. He had seen, indeed, shining examples of every virtue, both separate and in combination, but he had grown up in such isolation and misanthropy that none of them had come directly home to him; and, besides, their effect had been lessened, if not destroyed, by a lurking doubt of the purity of the motives which had dictated acts so utterly at variance with his preconceived opinion of possibilities. But here was a genuine revelation. There was no chance for a mistake or misconception, for he could read for himself all its marvellous pages. Here were strength with gentleness, youth with patience, beauty with purity and courage with tenderness. The lovely picture stole into the heart of the gray-haired cynic and haunted his memory. At first, he imagined that he felt merely the surprise and delight which would have been occasioned by a discovery in science or art; but where he found that Rosine illuminated the whole building by her presence—when the touch of her garments as she passed him on the landing thrilled him with intense pleasure—when every thought and feeling gradually drew around her as their proper centre—he could but acknowledge to himself that his intellect had very little to do with the joy which he experienced.

One twilight there was a knock at Mdme. Chatelle's door, and for the first time M. Brillan appeared on the threshold. "Had Rosine a friend in my dame's room? Pompine sometimes wandered, but still she had her good points. She was handsome—that nobody could dispute—if Madame had ever observed her, she must have perceived that the gray of her coat was of a perfect shade!" Madame had never seen the animal which was not to be wondered at, as she had been smuggled into the house twenty-four hours before, and was at that moment securely fastened in the next apartment; but Monsieur's object was accomplished. He had, in a legitimate manner, caught sight of a snow-white dinner cloth, and ignoring the presence of Rosine, who stood respectfully awaiting his departure, he addressed himself still to Madame.—"How cozy the table looked! He was tired of his tumbled meals, and he had forgotten to buy some bread. Might he—just for once—bring in his own dinner, and so pic-nic with her?"

As he had foreseen, while Rosine was endeavoring to frame a courteous refusal, Madame—alive only to the possibility of a comfortable meal—gave a glad assent; and before the young lady had recovered from her surprise and vexation, he appeared with a superb cat under one arm, and bearing a tray with a little silver box of the richest coffee, a cream pitcher minus the nose, but filled with excellent cream, a sugar dish without a handle, a cracked bowl with a battered spoon, a steel knife and fork, a cold chicken on a platter, a pat of delicious butter on a dish notched at the edge, some delicate tarts and a bottle of choice wine. As there was no help for it, Rosine made the coffee and cut the bread, her own little share of the repast; while Monsieur sat down by Madame and gave her a pathetic account of his housekeeping trials. With perfect gravity, he asserted that a lady friend had, in spite of his protestations, given him not only the cat, but a canary bird, a mocking bird, and a parcel of plants in pots, which were really the torment of his life. He couldn't, under the circumstances, give away these articles, yet the birds were often hungry and dry, and the plants were dying for want of care.—Madame, who didn't once suspect that this was a pleasant fiction devised for the occasion by her guest, sympathized with him so heartily that a new idea then and there appeared to occur to him. "Might he venture to ask—could she take the trouble of looking after this inconvenient household? He had no claim, but the temptation was great. He had seeds in abundance for the birds, and the milkman and butcher had orders to leave milk and meat daily for Pompine!"

Rosine looked warningly at her mother, but Monsieur did not appear to perceive it. It was Madame whom he relied on, and she did not fail him. "She should be to think of when Rosine was from home. Rosine was a good girl, but, really, she was out more than appeared necessary or even proper to her. Oh, yes; she should be not only willing, but happy to oblige Monsieur in this way."

The call to dinner interrupted the flow of Madame's eloquence. The meal passed pleasantly. Monsieur was playfully protective toward the young lady, but profoundly deferential to the elder one, and his wit was so light, his humor was so genial and his anecdotes were so full of fun, that even Rosine forgot her cares and felt somewhat of her old time gaiety. As the evening drew to a close, M. Brillan hung the bird cages and arranged the flower pots on the balcony. This done, he remembered but one other trouble that he need confide to Madame. "He wished to use the adjoining room for a library, but the char-woman arranged it vilely. If Madame would condescend sometimes to give it a finishing touch, so that he could feel a little at home, she should be welcome to the use of any and all the books which she might find there."

There was another warning look on Rosine's face, but Monsieur, fearful of its effect, lifted the hand of his hostess to his lips, and took his departure with a shower of bon mots which prevented all discussion of the topic.

Rosine's dissuasives had no effect upon Madame, who arranged the apartment which M. Brillan had spoken of, and which she found full of books, pictures and statuettes in the utmost disorder. There were excellent novels, works of travel and biography, volumes of exquisite engravings, and all the best French periodicals. These were treasures indeed, and Madame smiled again. What was still better, Rosine's time was fully occupied by pupils who paid liberally and in advance. She suspected M. Brillan's influence in all this, but she could not decline to benefit by it, for without it she must starve. Its acceptance, too, was entirely unlike that of the flowers and the birds, which she felt persuaded were intended from the first as gifts, and in which she could therefore take no pleasure.

For two months M. Brillan was seen but little about the house, and yet great baskets of fruit and lovely boquets were continually finding their way into the apartment of the Chatelles, and Madam's pocket was never without a supply of bonbons, of which she was immoderately fond. She pleaded ignorance of the giver; and Rosine, finding remonstrances unavailing, endured in silence.

The cold weather had set Rosine to thinking how she could supply winter clothing and plenty of fuel, when M. Brillan again begged permission to dine with madame, pic-nic fashion. "It was his fete-day," he said, "always a melancholy occasion, and he really dreaded to spend the evening alone." Madame was as gracious as before. "Monsieur would be most welcome," and Rosine could only make the coffee and lay the table in silence. But this time Monsieur assisted her. He brought a table for the desert, and unpacked an enormous hamper, containing substantials and delicacies for a week's feasting. For a man with a sorrow, he was certainly very merry, laughing over the want of dishes, making puns, dashing off rhymes and telling stories all in a breath.

The room was warm, and M. Brillan, when Rosine's back was turned, slily filled Madame's glass more than one, so that the good lady by and by droped asleep. Rosine blushed and grew uneasy; but her guest, without noticing her agitation, drew his chair a little nearer her's, and told her how his childhood had been passed, how its bitter memories had made him a misanthrope, and how her gentle virtues had won him to a love and reverence which he had not before dreamed possible. Then, with a hurried eagerness most unlike his usual manner, he besought her to become his wife.

Rosine listened in silence. Ever since she had known M. Brillan, life had been easier and brighter to him. Unconsciously, she had leaned upon him, even when she was blaming herself for accepting favors so quietly conferred that she did not know how to decline or prevent them. Looking back upon his conduct toward her, and seeing it in the new light shed upon it by this avowal, she felt its delicacy and generosity, its winning thoughtfulness and grateful trust. The love which had lain latent in her heart, waiting only for an enkindling spark, burst into conscious existence. M. Brillan knew it, and, stooping, received his acceptance in a timid, trembling kiss.

"To-morrow, my darling," said M. Brillan, "we cannot be married from the 'Folly;' that, indeed, will never do."

"And why not?" asked Rosine, in astonishment. "Shall we not continue to live here, and shall I not give lessons as now?"

"Probably not; but who do you think you have promised to marry?"

"An elderly man of small means and no apparent business, living in the 'Folly,' a dreary and not very respectable lodging house in a dirty street in Paris."

"We shall see," said M. Brillan, and after a few rapid movements he stood before his betrothed a handsome man of thirty-five, with short, thick chestnut hair curling closely on his temples, a delicate moustache curling over the clear brown of his cheeks, and a fine figure tastefully habited in the most elegant of the prevailing styles. Then he sat down and whispered in her ear the name of one of the most distinguished lawyers of the capital.

Rosine's blue eyes opened to their utmost capacity, and her lover looked fondly into them as he continued: "There was a great lawsuit pending which involved an immense estate, and I was certain that I could secure it for my client if I could obtain some important evidence which had been dexterously concealed. I put myself into the hands of one of those artists whose business it is to perfect disguises, and commenced my search, which finally brought me here. To-day I have gained my cause, but my success in court was nothing to that which I have just achieved. Oh, Rosine, you have given me love, and faith, and glad, beautiful hopes that reach even to Heaven!"

Upon the following New Year's eve a pleasant wedding was celebrated in a fashionable street, and then M. and Mdme. de Courtenay and Madame Chatelle drove to a splendid mansion all aglow with light and scented with flowers. There they received their friends and relatives, or at least a portion of them, for although M. and Mdme. Antonio Chatelle made the humblest apologies as soon as they learned that their niece was to be restored to society, they did not receive wedding cards.

When the guests dispersed, the happy husband offered his wife his own especial gift. It was a small picture in a frame of gold set with pears, and represented his library at the "Folly" with a light shining through a crack in the wall.

☞ The following was posted in his house a few days since, by a Poughkeepsie business man:

"Headquarters, House of —— General Order No. I. Julia:—Until the price falls, no more butter will be used in this family. JAMES."

He had barely reached his counting-house, when a special messenger handed him this:

"James:—Until butter is reinstated no more tobacco will be used in this house. JULIA, Chief of Staff."

It is said that butter won.

HONESTY.—In respect to all moral qualities, there should be nothing like penuriousness. If it is worth a man's while to be honest, it is worth his while to be effulgently honest; not just honest, so that he barely escapes dishonesty. What says the Apostle? "Provide things honest in the sight of all men." "Abstain from all appearance of evil." And you will find that this is not merely an inculcation in respect to honesty, but that it runs through the whole catalogue of moral traits. There is to be something large in them, something overflowing in them, something outshining in them—that is, heroism in them.

UNHAPPINESS.—One half of the unhappiness we have in this life exists because of too much sensitiveness and a morbid disposition which allows trifles to weigh heavily on our minds. A trifling loss or inconvenience often causes more annoyance than a much greater sorrow.

Cui Bono?

We confess ourselves completely puzzled to undgrstand the real purpose of our correspondent, "O." If there was anything to be gained, by convincing the public that he was bitterly hostile not only to the government itself, but to the whole Northern interest, and in sympathy with both the rebels and their rebellion, we could then understand both his contributions and his selections in their support.

But we do not see that there is; but on the contrary much to be lost, by thus attempting to convince the public that he is more in sympathy with trators than loyalists. We do not in the first place believe this to be really true, and in the second place if it were, it seems to us that it would be much better policy to conceal, rather than to parade it.

We suppose these contributions really intended as an aid and support of the democratic party, but it is alike unjust and injurious to the party, to in this manner attribute to them sentiments of hostility to the government, and sympathy with the rebellion, which the great majorinot only do not entertain but as heartily ty reject and earnestly oppose as ever any republican did or could do.

To claim a different purpose or spirit for the party, is therefore not only to drive from it all the republican element that might for any reason be disposed to act in its interests, but also to drive away from it, and directly into the ranks of republicanism, all the more loyal and patriotic elements of the democratic party itself.

Now this is the natural result, although not the design, we apprehend, of our correspondent's articles, and as a partisan we do not believe we could do a better service to the republican cause than to publish just such articles as these, written by a democrat, and claiming to represent the democratic party, and the more virulent and bitter they should prove to be, the better calculated are they to [illegible] these ends.

But the point is they do not represent the great democratic party, but only a small portion of it, and for ourselves we scorn to secure any advantage by means of such a false pretense; and were we a democrat we should insist that this correspondent should either quit writing and quoting treason, or, if he could not prevail upon himself to do this, at least quit claiming to do so in the name, or in any way in behalf of the democratic party.

European Complications.

If "wars and rumors of wars" are necessary antecedents, to the incoming of the millennium, we may well believe that it is rapidly approaching.

For no sooner do we begin to see, or think we can see the rapidly approaching end of our own terrible civil war, than all Europe seems about to become involved in military carnage.

The truce is now more than half gone, and not only is nothing done to arrest the impending strife, but it begins to be plainly manifest—that nothing will be done.

England really sympathizes with the oppressed and invaded Danes, but is checkmated by her Queen, who alone has power to declare war and will not on account of her German family affinities permit anything to be done in conflict with the German interest. What the result of this state of things may be in England herself it is not easy to foresee, but it is manifest—that the people of England are already a good deal alienated from the Queen and upon sufficient provocation may undertake to rid themselves of the incumbrance by a revolution at home.

As to Denmark, we do not believe that it will be permitted to be overrun and conquered by German Soldiers, without such a general conflict in its behalf, as shall shake the very thrones of European despotism.

That such is the conviction of the Russian Court is sufficiently manifest from the fact that they have ordered home the Russian fleet to the defenses of Cronstadt, and in the French and English Dock yards the exhibition of an unusual earnestness and activity can hardly be regarded as towards a long continuance of general peace.

While war is at all times a general calamity, and is the scourge of nations, the impending strife in Europe can hardly prove a calamity to us.

It will at least give employment to the uneasy despotisms of the old world, and give them less time to intermeddle with the affairs of the new.

France will find something else to do, besides spending men and treasures to establish a despotism in Mexico and Spain will need her fleets at home for her own protection, instead of sending them off to dismember and plunder Peru.

So far as we are concerned they have already done all that they could do without an open declaration of war in aid and encouragement of the rebels, but while they are thus engaged at home, we will go on and finish up this rebellion so that it will stay finished, settle up our own affairs in our own way, and be prepared perhaps to have a word or two of our own to put in when next they come across the water to renew their attack upon the "Monroe doctrine" and the integrity of the American continent.

England already begins to show signs of alarm lest the decisions of her own maritime courts may be found exposing her own Commerce to the same depredations she has been but too ready to help to inflict upon ours.

It is an old maxim "that it is a long road that never turns," and those who dispense justice to suit the times, may sometimes come to find that the tide of time has at the last turned against them.

Gov. Brough's Sympathy with Rebel Prisoners.

COLUMBUS, May 24.

A few days since Hon. Gov. Brough was requested by an old personal friend to use his influence to secure the parol or exchange of two rebel prisoners now confined at Johnson's Island. The prisoners are nephews of the gentleman making the request, and also of a distinguished citizen of Detroit, Michigan, who has served his country in the field, the Cabinet and the halls of legislation, in whose behalf the request was in part made.

In addition, these gentlemen, also applied for a letter to the commandant at Johnson's Island, which would enable one of them to visit these prisoners. How the Governor responded to this request will be seen in the following letter, for which he will no doubt receive the thanks of more than one of our brave men who have felt the horrors of a Libby prison:

"State of Ohio, Executive Dep't,
Columbus, May 3, 1864.

"SIR:—I have your favor of the 19th inst. All prisoners of war, civil or military, are under the sole charge of Col. Wm. Hoffman, Commissary General of prisoners, Washington City. I cannot interfere with them if I would, and I cannot give an order to see or communicate with them without his permission. I am [illegible] I saw at Baltimore the arrival of a vessel loaded with our prisoners from Belle Isle, who, in the very refinement of barbarism, had been reduced by starvation to mere skeletons, for no other purpose than to incapacitate them for further services in the Union armies. Over one third of these men were too far gone to be resuscitated, and died within 48 hours after their arrival. While I would not retaliate on rebel prisoners by practicing like means, I confess, General, I have very little sympathy with, or desire to parol or release from confinement, men who have been upholding a rebellion that has deluged the land with sorrow and blood, and whose leaders have resorted to cruelty and barbarism in the treatment of prisoners more infernal than ever practiced by savages. The higher the rank and social position of men, the less they are entitled to sympathy. They sinned against light and knowledge. Therefore, I am glad their fate is not in my keeping, lest under such provocation I should not be over merciful. I return the letter as requested.

"Very respectfully,
JOHN BROUGH."

☞ It may be truthfully said that this war is illustrating the "pluck" of the American nation. For 30 days has the noble Army of the Potomac seen incessant fighting or marching. Five thousand brave soldiers have been buried in honorable though obscure graves. Thirthousand wounded have been sent back to hospitals. Sedgwick, Wadsworth, and many other illustrious heroes have fallen, and still the army is pressing on, "fighting it out on this line." The roads are strewn with the carcasses of 6,000 horses. Constant marching has worn out 50,000 pairs of shoes. Two-thirds of the army—more than 100,000 men—have marched, and fought, and slept 30 days and nights, in heat and dust and rain, and have not changed a garment.

☞ The new two-cent coin is now in limited circulation in some of the eastern cities. It is about one-eighth of an inch larger in diameter than the new one-cent coin, while it is much thicker. The obverse contains, besides the usual inscription "United States of America," a wreath encircling a very prominent figure "2" over the word "cents" in smaller letters. The reverse comprises an ornamented shield surmounted by a scroll bearing the words "In God We Trust." Two arrows are crossed on the back of the shield, and the groundwork is a wreath of laurel. The date of the piece completes the design.

The Baltimore Convention.

BALTIMORE, June 8.

Mr. Raymond, of New York, from the Committee on Resolutions, reported the following:

1. That it is the highest duty of every American citizen to maintain against all their enemies the integrity of the Union and the paramount authority of the Constitution and laws of the United States, and that laying aside all differences and political opinions, we pledge ourselves as Union men animated by a common sentiment, and aiming at a common object to do everything in our power to aid the Government in quelling, by force of arms, the rebellion now raging against its authority, and in bringing to punishment due to their crimes, the rebels and traitors arrayed against it.

2. That we approve of the determination of the Government of the United States not to compromise with rebels, or to offer any terms of peace except such as may be based upon an unconditional surrender of their hostility and a return to their just allegiance to the Constitution and laws of the United States, and that we call upon the Government to maintain this position and to prosecute the war with the utmost possible vigor to the complete suppression of the rebellion, in full reliance upon the sacrifices, the patriotism, the heroic valor, and the undying devotion of the American people to their country and its free institutions.

3. That as slavery was the cause, and now constitutes the strength of this rebellion, and as it must be always and everywhere hostile to the principles of Republican Government, justice and the national safety demand its utter and complete extirpation from the soil of the Republic, and that we uphold and maintain the acts and proclamations by which the Government in its own defense has aimed a death-blow at this gigantic evil; we are in favor furthermore of such an amendment to the Constitution to be made by the people, in conformity with its provisions, as shall terminate and forever prohibit the existence of slavery within the limits or jurisdiction of the United States.

4. That the thanks of the Union people are due to the soldiers and sailors of the army and the navy, who have periled their lives in defense of their country and in vindication of the honor of the flag; that the nation owes them some permanent recognition of their patriotism and their valor, and ample and permanent provision for those of their survivors who have received disabling and honorable wounds in the service of the country; and that the memories of those who have fallen in its defense, shall be held in grateful and everlasting remembrance.

5. That we approve and applaud the practical wisdom, the unselfish patriotism, and unswerving fidelity to the Constitution and the principles of American liberty with which Abraham Lincoln has discharged, under circumstances of unparalleled difficulty, the great duties and responibilities of the Presidential office; that we approve and endorse, as demanded by the energy and essential to the preservation of the nation, and as within the Constitution, the measures and acts which he has adopted to defend the nation against its open and secret foes; that we approve especially of the Proclamation of Emancipation, and the employment as Union soldiers of men heretofore held in slavery, and that we have full confidence in his determination to carry these and all other constitutional measures essential to the salvation of the country into full and complete effect.

6. That we deem it essential to the general welfare that harmony should prevail in the national councils, and we regard as worthy of public confidence and official trust those only who cordially endorse the principles proclaimed in these resolutions, and which should characterize the administration of the Government.

7. That the Government owes to all men employed in its armies without regard to color, the full protection of the laws of war, and that any violation of these laws or of the usages of civilized nations in the time of war by the rebels now in arms, should be made the subject of full and proper redress.

8. That the foreign immigration, which in the past has added so much to the wealth and development of our resources and increase of power to this nation, the asylum of the oppressed of all nations, should be fostered and encouraged by a liberal and just policy.

9. That we are in favor of the speedy construction of the railroad to the Pacific.

10. That the National faith pledged for the redemption of the public debt must be kept inviolate, and that for this purpose we recommend economy and a rigid responsibility in the public expenditures, and a vigorous and just system of taxation; that it is the duty of any loyal State to sustain the credit and promote the use of the National currency.

11. That we approve the position taken by the Government that the people of the United States can never regard with indifference the attempts of any European Power to overthrow by force, or to supplant by fraud, the institutions of any Republican Government on the Western Continent, and that they will view with extreme jealousy as menacing to the peace and independence of this our country the efforts of any such Power to obtain new footholds for Monarchial Governments, sustained by a foreign military force in near proximity to the United States.

The loss amounts to nearly a million of dollars.

Scraps of News.

—A census of the town of Ann Arbor shows a population of 1,211, of which 615 are males and 596 females.

—A bridge is to be built across the Saginaw River at Bay City, from the foot of Third street. Contracts for the work have been let, and work on it is to be commenced immediately.

—A sufficient amount of stock has already been subscribed for the Jackson & Lansing Railroad to more than pay the grading, bridging and laying of the ties. The right of way is now being secured, and proposals are advertised for the construction of the road. The enterprise is now a fixed fact, and is to be pushed through to a successful completion.

—Plans have been adopted for the new building of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce. The building is to be a handsome and imposing structure of great architectural beauty, and will cost something over $200,000.

—A party of 700 Mormon immigrants from Europe, en route to Salt Lake, passed through Buffalo on Sunday. They were composed of persons of all ages and both sexes, the most of whom are Danes and Swedes.

—The telegraphic account on Fridsy last, from Fortress Monroe, of an attack on our monitors on the James river, by a rebel ironclad, is undoubtedly a hoax, as Admiral Lee, in his dispatches dated one day subsequent to the alleged fight, mentions nothing of the kind. It is known that the rebels have iron-clads, torpedoes, rafts and other infernal machines, to be sent down against our gunboats, but our naval officers are well prepared for them and have no fear of the results.

—A carload of orphan children, gathered in the streets, garrets and hovels of New York city, passed through Toledo a few evenings since to be provided with homes in the west.

May, 10th 1864. WM. ARTMAN.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, an are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $708,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,987,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the

Hoag's Picture Gallery

In another column of to-day's paper will be found the advertisement of A. J. Hoag, Artist. We have had the pleasure of examining some work of his execution and pronounce it excellent. Mr. H. intends sojourning with us some time, and we hope those who are in want of anything in his line, will not fail to give him a call.

Died.

In the town of Raisin, May 11th, of membraneous croup, MARY FLORENCE, only daughter of Robert and Catherine Titus, aged 3 years and 6 months.

Although your hearts are called to mourn
Fond ties so rudely riven;
"Little Flora" is freed from earth,
The joys of Heaven.

Oh, "trust in God" sad, weary hearts—
Through tears look up and feel
He loveth when he chasteneth
And He your wound can heal.

FOR SALE.

A house and lot pleasantly situated in the village of Tecumseh. For particulars inquire of GEORGE CURTIS

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co., and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers,

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
WOOLSTON COMFORT.

Take Courage, Friends.

BY SAMUEL HOSMER, 20TH MICH. INF'Y.

Ye friends at home, fresh courage take;
The clouds ye so much dread
Have reached their hight, and soon will break
In blessings on your heads.

The Rebs have fired their biggest gun,—
Have made their fiercest charge;—
Before our boys they have to run,—
Our boys will press them hard.

For Richmond now the Rebs are bound—
Our boys will follow suit;—
When they get there they'll run aground
And check our hot pursuit.

When they get there we'll them surround,
And show them how to fight;
We'll make them rue they've run aground—
Remembering Vicksburg's heights.

Their chieftain of the West has fled,
And Sherman's in pursuit;
They leave the field all strewn with dead,—
They've learned our boys can shoot.

Ben Butler now is in the field
With eighty thousand men;
He'll make old Beaury's forces yield,
And drive them to their den.

So now, old Jeff, your time has come.
And soon your flag must fall;
You'd better call your men all home,
Or Grant will on you fall.

The Story of a Nose.

'Will you allow me to join you, fair lady?'

'With pleasure, and thanks for your preference of me among all the beauty that sparkles here. Do you know me?'

'Until now, no; and it is possible that I might say the same were you to remove your mask. But what of that? The intercourse of a masquerade is not the most unpleasant in the world.'

'No, but it often ends in terrible disappointment.'

'I cannot deny that I have experienced that; still—'

'And caused it also?'

'He can deceive little who habitually appears at all places, not accepting the great balls of the carnival, with uncovered face. In fact, you perceive there is no concealment about me; that cannot be said of all men. Thanks, lovely lady. You know me, then, do you not.'

'Yes, by sight. They say you are a poet; will you make me some verses?'

'Certainly, if you wish; for it is always my delight to please the fair; but first let me know your name.'

'Give me any name you please; Phillis, Laura, Philena; any that is sweet and poetical. I should not tell you my true one, but the first one that occurred to me, therefore you would better suit yourself.'

'But unless I behold at least the face whose perfections I am to extol, unless I know the sweet source of my inspiration—'

'Was that a poet who spoke? You who live in the boundless regions of fancy, what need have you of the material presence of the objects of your adoration? For my part I do not think so highly of my face, nor so meanly of your imagination as to unmask.'

'And what pleasure do you promise yourself in beholding my face?'

'That of admiration,—if it is as lovely as I guess—that of adoration.'

'It is always that word—adoration!—You poets deserve to be banished from every well constituted and Christian state.'

'Why, my fair one?'

'If you speak the truth, for your idolatry; if the contrary, for your blasphemy. You may well do without a mask. Poets do not need it in order to lie. They are alway false enough.'

'If so, for my own part, I accept with much pleasure a quality which assimilates me so near to the fair sex.'

'So women are false, you think?'

'I do, my fair mask. And, as to that I cannot say that you accuse men altogether unjustly; it must be acknowledged that the jealousy and tyranny of men cause your want of sincerity, and that your stratagems are more entitled to indulgence, because you contrive them from a desire to please us. But is it really true that I am not to see your face?'

'You are not, indeed. The desire to please you leads me to preserve my mask.'

'Your conversation enchants me, and every word increases my impatience to know you.'

'Perhaps you are impatient to see my face because you think it is full of perfections. But did you not at first call me the sweet source of your inspiration? Believe me, your interests and mine are opposed to granting the favor which you solicit. Whilst I remain concealed, I such flattering words as perhaps I am not accustomed to. Should I take from my face its protecting veil, farewell illusions! Stiff courtesies and gloomy seriousness would take the place of praises and endearments, and the tender persistence which, while I do not yield, keeps me at least diverted and content.'

'This modesty strikes me as the greatest proof of your charms.'

'Yes, if I lack other things, I have at least the merit of modesty—I speak foolishly—of sincerity.'

'Were it possible to confound you with the crowd of women, I might believe it. The carnival is nothing else than the reverse of the medal, the world; and doubtless the figures in the shadow which seem to invite deception, feign less than those upon its face. It is so seldom that truth can be spoken with impunity.'

'Yet you—'

'You are not ugly; I could swear to that. Frequent deceptions and disenchantments have taught me tact and skill in detecting maskers. You cannot foil me so easily. I have a good nose.' (Sp. idiom for 'I am a good judge.')

On pronouncing the last word, I observed in her face a movement of surprise and, as I thought, displeasure. Believing that the common phrase which I had thoughtlessly made use of, had disgusted her refined ears, I hastened to make my excuses for not having expressed myself better; upon which the lady laughed, and taking my hand assured me with the most consummate grace that she willingly pardoned so trivial a slip of the tongue. I continued: 'There is only one reason why I should be very sorry to have you unmask.'

'What is that?'

'Because then I could no longer talk to you freely. Would it not grieve me to renounce this affectionate familiarity which the carnival balls permit? Now I speak to you as a familiar friend, a visitor, a betrothed, a beloved one.'

'Well, then, if I should be so indiscreet as to unmask, you would be eager to forsake me, and would hardly stay for a cold and formal 'your most obedient!'

'How you mortify me! Do you then think me capable of such impoliteness? Suppose for a moment that you were ugly, horrible. Could you lay aside, with the mask which so tantalizes me, the charms of your conversation, your bewitching voice, the affability which captivates me, and the graces which fill me with admiration? How could a woman with such gifts want attractions? If your face is plain I can well bear it.'

'You say so. But would you be more indulgent than the rest of mankind?—Would you be less influenced by selfish considerations? For ugliness is considered by the most of men a woman's greatest crime.'

'O, I am of another species, or else your slander the sex, lady. If you don't believe me, untie that mask which interferes with my happiness, and you shall see how, far from growing cool, my ardor will increase. Do not think my proposal presumptuous. For in what can that deformity consist, with which you try to frighten me? Do I not discern the languid grace of your form? Am I not already bewitched by your pretty little foot? Do not the glances of those enchanting eyes pierce my very heart?—And have I not caught glimpses of your heavenly mouth?'

'Nevertheless, with all these beauties which you have extolled, I assure you that I am frightfully ugly, and that you would be struck with horror should I unmask.'

'No, no! it is impossible. Your form, your features—'

'Have you beheld them all?'

'I think so. The nose is the only one—' Here the lady interrupted me with a burst of laughter.

'You are merry. Is it then a flat one or a long one?'

'How can I tell? No, you must guess again.'

'No, it is not possible that an ugly nose should spoil the effect of so many charms. Moreover I accept the consequences of the favor I beg. With that mouth, those eyes, that incomparable form, let the nose be flat or long, I care not.'

'Imprudent man!'

'Must I beseech you on my knees? Will you make me the sport of the ball room?'

'Well, well, that will do. Since you desire it so much, you shall see my face. How weak we women are!'

'Shall I? O happiness too great to be expressed! ye mortals! Give me your lyre, O muses. At this moment I would

'At this moment you are a fool!'

'Try my impatience—shorten my suspense; all there is!' Beauti—' I could not finish the word, such was my astonishment, horror! What a nose! WHAT A NOSE! WHAT A NOSE! I could never have believed that nature was capable of carrying to such an extent hyperbole and amplification. It was not a human nose, it was a beet-root, a cutlass, an Egyptian pyramid.

Amid the confusion which this sudden change of scene caused, my chief desire was to escape from the long nosed lady without incurring a charge of rudeness.—I made incredible efforts to utter some complimentary phrases. Impossible! Had I beheld my face in a mirror at that moment, it would have been the face of an idiot! Happily for me, my companion, who doubtless has learned resignation to her deformity and its consequences, laughed pleasantly, I knew not whether at my discomfiture or her misfortune.—This gave me confidence to quit her under pretext of accosting a friend, and without daring to look at her again, I took my leave, saying gaily, 'Your most obedient.'

Shame lent wings to my feet; rage blinded me; I could not fly fast enough; I stumbled over furniture and people. I would have gone straight home without waiting for my carriage or cloak, had I not been terribly hungry. I hastened to the refreshment room, seated myself at a table, looked thro' the bill of fare, and selected what could be brought most quickly. I tasted three or four different dishes, but anger spoiled their relish, and I was about to try the fifth, when, behold! whom should I see before me but the same lady, or to speak more exactly, the same nose, which had shocked me a few minutes before. My first impulse was to rise and fly, but the laughing lady petrified me by saying in tones of aggravating sweetness:—

"How, are you running away in order not to treat me with a supper!

I was disconcerted—fool that I was.—The nose smiled, and for my still greater disturbance, so did the gallant who accompanied her, doubtless in order to protect her from my rage.

'Senora.'

'I am not very hungry. I will take a Roman punch; nothing more.'

Such impudence provoked me almost beyond endurance. I resolved to be revenged upon her.

'I should be most happy to comply with your request, Senora, but I fear lest your nose should usurp the functions of your mouth. If you had not unmasked I do not know how—I may as well speak plainly. You cannot drink with that.—Excuse me.'

'How? What did you say? Well then,' and upon that she took hold of her nose and pulled it off.

Sinner that I am! it was false, it was made of pastebord, and now I saw the real one, not less beautiful and perfect than the other features of her face. How shall I describe my shame, my despair, at the sight of this lovely creature, and the rememberance of the fickleness, rudeness, and wickedness of my own conduct? I begged a thousand pardons, I deplored my error, I threw myself on the ground and kissed the dust beneath her feet, but the cruel fair one took the arm of her companion, flashed on me a withering look of scorn, and departed, coolly saying, 'Fare you well.'

Monads.

While the telescope fails to reveal the boundaries of the universe, so the microscope is insufficient to conduct our vision to the bottom of the descending scale of creation. Monads are the smallest of living creatures yet discovered. One species is only one twenty thousandth of an inch in length. A short one tenth of an inch in diameter occupies more space than thirteen thousand millions of these animated atoms, yet they have all the organs necessary for their range of existence. Their powers of reproduction are truly wonderful. The gallonella, a species of the box chain animalcule, one individual in twenty four hours will increase to the number of one hundred billions, an increase equal to one hundred times the inhabitants of the globe What mathematician can calculate, or what mind can comprehend such an increase for a few days? What an immense space intervenes between these monads and the whale a hundred feet long! yet all this space is filled up by at least two hundred and fifty thousand of animated beings.

Power of a Word.

Wendell Phillips, in his lecture last winter before the Parent Washingtonian Society, told the following story:

A mother, on the green hills of Vermont, stood at her garden gate, holding by her right hand a son of sixteen years old, mad with love of sea. 'Edward,' said she, they tell me that the great temptation of seaman's life is drink. Promise me before you quit your mother's hand, that you will never drink.' Said he, for he told me the story, 'I gave her the promise. I went the broad globe over, Calcutta, the Mediterranean, San Francisco; the Cape of Good Hope—and during forty years, whenever I saw a glass filled with the sparkling liquor, my mother's form by the garden gate, on the hill-side of Vermont rose up before me; and to day, at sixty, my lips are innocent of the taste of liquor.'

Was not that sweet evidence of the power of a single word? And yet it was but half; 'for,' said he, 'yesterday there came into my counting-room, a man of forty, and asked me, 'Do you know me?' 'No' said I. 'I was brought once,' said he to my informant, 'drunk, into your presence, on shipboard; you were a passenger, the captain kicked me aside; you took me into your berth, kept me there until I had slept off the intoxication, and then you asked me if I had a mother. I said, never that I knew of; I never had heard a mother's voice. You told me of yours at the garden gate; and to-day, twenty years later, I am master of one of the finest packets in New York, and I came to ask you to come and see me.'

How far back that little candle throws its beam—the mothers word on the green hillside of Vermont! God be thanked for the almighty power of a single word —Water Cure.

Silent Influence.

Holiest emotions, purest dreams, quivering in the deepest recesses of the soul's thought-land, like music in a world of tears; thrilling, with its deep, unspoken power, yet all unseen, like angels in invisible thought. So silently it comes that we know not we have entertained the angel guest; only there remains the holy impress of a higher, purer life, and holy thoughts that draw us nearer the shores of the Spirit-land. A dream of immortal beauty; a hope while the heart is quivering with pain; an aspiration for life's hidden dreams of joy; a pure resolve to make our lives more truly worthy to companionship of angels.

Silent influence! It comes with all the holy, thrilling power of living inspiration. Angels sweep the breathing chords of harmony, and there is wafted to earth's waiting the grand, soul-inspiring purpose, the calm of angel-thought.

It comes in the mild, waiting hush of the soul's dark night, in the wavering resolve, in moments of weary thought-strife. It teaches of life's uses, and sweeps its magic fingers o'er the latent chords of life's harmonious purposes.—Welcome! silent thought-power, from the unseen world!

VOYAGE OF A BOTTLE.—A bottle has been recently picked up at the Kangaroo islands, South Australia, which was thrown over board in 39° 39′ south latitude, 66° 7′ east longitude, from the Dutch frigate Princess Amelia. The bottle was carried 3,300 miles in fifteen months, at the rate of seven and one half miles per day. This proves there is a current from west to east, across the base of the Indian Ocean, which tends slightly toward the north current.

The Humane Mind.

The humane mind has been represented by most philosophers who have treated the subject as constituting three distinct sections, or classes of members, namely, energy, conscience and judgement, or intellect. It actually constitutes, however, only two distinct classes of members; for all members of the mind, excepting intellect, are but various qualities of desire, which differ only in quality, and therefore can properly be considered only under one common term—desire.

The humane mind, then, constitutes two classes of members instead of three, namely desire and intellect. Desire determines the character of men, and the predominance of different qualities of desire in different minds causes different casts of character, and thus necessitates the grading of society. Intellect only aids in the expression of desire by devising means for its gratification. And this expression constitutes the action of men.

Hence it follows, that, for the grade which people occupy in society, they are indebted to the predominance in their minds, of certain qualities of desire; while the position which they occupy in their natural grade of society depends upon the strength of the desires, and upon the efficiency of their intellects for facilitating the demonstration of them. This point is splendidly illustrated by a comparison of the savage and civilized; among the former we frequently discover rare intellect; with corresponding popularity, but combined with desires which qualify the possessor for a mere savage; among the latter, exalted desire is a predominant characteristic, and feeble intellect, with comparative obscurity, is by no means rare.

An Item which every Man should Read.

We have probably all of us met with instances in which a word heedlessly spoken against the reputation of a woman has been magnified by malicious minds until the cloud has become dark enough to overshadow her whole existence. To those who are accustomed—not necessarily from bad motives; but from bad thoughtlessness—to speak lightly of females, we recommend the 'hints' as worthy of consideration:

Never use a lady's name in an improper place, at an improper time or in mixed company. Never make assertions about her that you think are untrue, or allusions that you feel she herself would blush to hear. When you meet with men who do not scruple to make use of a woman's name in a reckless and unprincipled manner, shun them, for they are the very worst members of society—lost to every sentiment of honor—every feeling of humanity. Many a good and worthy woman's character has been forever ruined, and her heart broken by a lie, manufactured by a villain, and repeated where it should not have been, and in the presence of those whose little judgment could not deter them from circulating the foul and bragging report. A slander is soon propagated, and the smallest thing derogatory to a woman's character, will fly on the wings of the wind, and magnify as it circulates until its monstrous weight crushes the poor unconscious victim.—Respect the name of woman, for your mothers and sisters are women; and as you would have their fair names untarnished, and their names unembittered by the slanderous biting tongue, heed then, what your own words may bring upon the mother, sister or the wife of some fellow creature.

A WOMAN WITH HORNS.—The New York Observer of the 12th inst., contains a letter from its correspondent at Larnaca, in the island of Cyprus (Turkish dominions,) describing a most remarkable lusus naturæ, recently discovered there. It is nothing less than a woman with horns growing out of her head! She has one large horn on the side of her head, of the size and consistency of an ordinary ram's horn, besides three or four cornicles on other parts of the head. The writer states that he has seen her, and that she has been visited by nearly all the consuls and Europeans in that place, some of whom are making an effort to secure her for exhibition.

☞ We lately met a grammarian, says a California paper, who has just made a tour through the mines conjugating or rather cogitating thus—'Positive, miner; comparative miner; superlative, minus.'

TECUMSEH, MICH., JUNE 16, 1864.

The Future of America.

It is pleasant at times to look away from the turmoil, and carnage of civil war, to the more distant and, as we trust, more peaceful future.

Although the end is not yet, still the final result of the impending strife is no longer doubtful. There was a time when not a few had serious apprehensions that that this rebellion so causelessly, and yet so fiercely waged on the part of the seceding States, could never be closed except by a permanent division of the Union, and abandonment of the seceding states.

But there is no longer any reasonable probability of anything of the kind. The rebellion will cease, because it has been suppressed, and not because it has succeeded. It may be either by capitulation, or by subjugation, but such must now be its ultimate end.

How long it may be ere this result shall be secured, or how much of suffering and carnage must yet ensue ere it is finally brought about, no one can tell.

But however long delayed, it is at least gratifying to rest assured that the time is surely approaching when this great nation shall come forth purified from the fiery furnace, stronger, nobler, freer, more harmonious and self reliant than ever before.

That the monarchies of the old world, against whose usurpations and oppressions its free government, belonging to, and controlled by, the people, is a continual protest, are doomed to disappointment in all their eager expectations of its sudden overthrow.

The resources, power, and energy of the nation, as called forth and exhibited during this great trial of its mettle, may well secure for it the respect of the world, and when it stands forth as a champion for the integrity of American governments, against all the intriguing intermeddling of European politics, its overthrow will no longer remain unheeded in this respect.

The Monroe doctrine, which has always had the support of all parties in the United States, and has more than once been reaffirmed by the present Congress, will no longer be subject to the encroachments now sought to be made upon it—but will at length, we believe, be made to command the respect of the world. Under these influences we may look forward to a brotherhood of American Republics, busily employed in developing each the immense resources of its own commonwealth, and seeking also in the spirit of true self government, to secure each the greatest good of the greatest number, taught by the past that a great people, united in a good cause, do not need anything of monarchial control to develop the grandest military strength, energy, or success.

PUBLISHER'S CONVENTION.—A suggestion, not a call, has been published in several of the papers of the State, looking to a publishers' convention. Here is another name you are at liberty to add gentlemen, to the call. The objects sought are important and when accomplished will tend toward the public good more than to the publishers alone. Let it be issued immediately.

☞The new two cent pieces are commencing to circulate, and will be found to be a great convenience to the commercial world. This new coin is a very neat article and much superior in appearance and in point of execution to the old nickel cent.

The convention to nominate an electoral ticket in Maryland took place yesterday. The Blairs were effectually defeated. The anti-Blair delegations were admitted to the convention, and a full Lincoln ticket selected.

☞Since the commencement of the war, it is estimated that 1,800,000 men have been called into the field; 4,000 battles and skirmishes have taken place; 210,000 men have been killed, wounded, or taken prisoners; and yet our recuperative power is such that, in the meantime, 487,000 young men have attained military age.

☞Morgan's troops, during the very little time they have been in Kentucky, have had three first rate thrashings, the first at Mt. Sterling, the second at Frankfort, the third near Cynthiana. Are they not paying pretty dear for their horses and cattle?

☞Congress will probably adjourn about June 30th.

☞Private advices from the front are encouraging.

Scraps of News.

—The total receipts of the Pittsburg Sanitary Fair up to Wednesday night amounted to $220,000.

—L. Bully Martin, of Davenport, Iowa, was the lucky fellow who drew the $40,000 farm at the Mississippi Valley Fair.

—It is stated that there are over 3,000 rebel prisoners, including over 100 officers, at White House, awaiting transportation northward. We have captured between 4,000 and 5,000 prisoners within the past ten days.

—Gens. Hunter, Pope and Crook are on the way to reinforce Grant, while A. J. Smith's corps have been dispatched from Vicksburg to Sherman.

—Max Roth, a lad 15 years of age, was arrested in New York on Wednesday last for robbing Messrs. Boody & Co., bankers and brokers on Wall street, of $6,083.

—Eight pickpockets were arrested at the railroad depot in Jersey City, N. J., on Thursday last. A large sum of money was found in their possession.

—A New Orleans paper says that there is in that city one of the largest colored Sunday Schools in the country. It has been instituted four weeks, and numbers about 900 scholars. It is under the superintendence of Col. Hanks.

—Mr. Joseph Hildred, late of Memphis, Tenn., fell from the windows of his room in the Burnett House, Cincinnatti, on Thursday night last and struck on the pavement, injuring him so severely that he died in a few hours. He was on his way to Natchez, Miss.

—The following is the curious history of a Rhode Island soldier: He came home from Cuba to enlist, joined one of the Rhode Island batteries, was sent to do garrison duty in North Carolina, thought his duty to slow, said he had enlisted for the sake of fighting and must fight, deserted and joined a New York infantry regiment, and went into the Gulf Department, fought in 16 battles, was wounded, furloughed, and came home to be arrested as a deserter.

—In the National Medical Convention now in session at New York, a series of resolutions was introduced by Dr. A. K. Gardner, to the effect that the association use its influence to cause all medicines and medical and surgical instruments and appliances to be excluded from the list of articles called "Contraband of War." The reason assigned for offering these resolutions is that many of the Union prisoners have died in the Richmond prisons because their friends were unable to furnish them with the proper medicines.

—The present graduating class of the West Point Academy, numbers only 27. It began with 96 members. It is not usual for more than 50 per cent of the entering class to graduate, but in this case, less than 28 per cent. graduate. The importance of admitting cadets to the Academy otherwise than by open competitive examinations, is clearly proved by the history of this class. Cadet Lydecker, who is at the head of the graduating class, was appointed in this way by Gen. Sickles.

—The number of emigrants that arrived in New York during the week ending May 28th, was 10,280, making a total of 68,078, since the first of January, against 49,682 for the corresponding season last year.

—Henry Caulter, a convict, while being conveyed from Rochester, N. Y., to the Albany Penitentiary on Saturday last, escaped by jumping from the window of a car, when about eight miles from the latter city.

—The billiard match for the championship of America took place at the building on Fourteenth street, New York, known as the Hippotheatron, on Thursday, between Dudley Kavanagh and William Goldthwaite, and resulted in the success of the former. This match is the third Kavanagh has played in defense of his title as Champion, and was the hardest contest he has yet participated in. Goldthwaite opened the game, and continued to lead his opponent during the game up to the 89th shot, when Kavanagh made a splendid run of 156, winning the match and maintaining the title of Champion he had so nearly lost.

—Perry McD. Collins, who has obtained a grant from the Russian government to construct a trans-continental line of telegraph from the mouth of the Amoor river, via Behring's Straits, to America, has presented a memorial to the government asking for aid in this grand enterprise. Secretary Seward has replied to this memorial, reviewing at length the feasibility of the enterprise, its usefulness, and its claim to the patronage of the United States Government, and recommends that the right of way across the public lands and that other aid deserved by Mr. Collins be granted. He is also in favor of the proposed line across the Atlantic. The two lines, he says, would materially aid and strengthen each other and it would be advantageous to the world, even if in competition with one another, to have the use of both lines.

The News.

Wednesday, June 15.

Maximillan has at length reached his new dominion. He landed at Vera Cruz on the 28th ult. Nothing is said of his reception there. On his way he touched Maderia and Martinique. At the latter place he liberated four of the prisoners sent there by Gen. Forey and condemned to hard labor. He promised other prisoners there that he would attend to their cases when he arrived at Mexico.

The receipts of the Philadelphia Sanitary Fair, up to this time, are nearly $1,000,000. There is much excitement on the sword. The contest is between Gens. Meade and Hancock.

We have this morning the gold bill as it passed the House yesterday.

An excited discussion took place in the House yesterday on the proposed amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting slavery in the United States.

Monday, June 13.

We have full particulars of the Morgan raid up to an early hour yesterday morning. Gen. Hobson had a severe fight with the raiders on Saturday, and, owing to superior numbers, was defeated. He surrendered on condition that his men should be immediately exchanged. The fight took place in the streets of Cynthiana. Some of our troops took refuge in the Court House, and, in order to dislodge them, the rebels set fire to a stable in the vicinity. About twenty buildings were consumed before the fire could be extinguished. Col. Berry, Provost Marshal of Covington, was mortally wounded.

On Sunday morning Gen. Burbridge came up with the rebels while at breakfast; a severe fight followed. Morgan was defeated, and his forces scattered in every direction. The Union troops were closely following the fleeing rebels.—Frankfort has been placed under martial law, and the State archives removed to a place of safety, until reinforcements should arrive.

When our troops passed through Mount Jackson, Western Virginia, not a few women waved their handkerchiefs, and appeared well pleased to see them.—When Gen. Hunter occupied Woodstock the inhabitants also appeared friendly.

The rebels are fortifying extensively in the vicinity of Bottom's and Sumner's Bridges. From the above points the spires of Richmond are plainly visible.—Wagon trains can be seen moving within three or four miles of the city, although Bottom's Bridge is thirteen miles from there.

Col. Lafferts, late commander of the 7th New York regiment, has been appointed Brigadier General by Gov. Seymour. It is not known whether he is assigned to the field or State duty.

Advices from Gen. Butler state that Gen Kautz charged the enemy's works at Petersburg on Saturday and carried them, penetrated the town, but not being supported by Gen. Gillmore, who had withdrawn his forces without a conflict, Gen. Kautz was obliged to withdraw without further effort. Gen. Kautz captured 40 prisoners and one piece of artillery which he brought with him.

Tuesday, June 14.

Gen. Hancock has had a severe fight at Bottom's Bridge, and he succeeded in carrying the bridge at the point of the bayonet; he successfully holds it, and his whole army has crossed at that point.

Both armies in the vicinity of Richmond hold their old positions about the right and center. Considerable skirmishing has been going on for the past few days, but no damage has been effected by either party. The rail-road has been torn up to the White House, and the rails carried away.

The report that Mr. Chase had negotiated a foreign loan, the interest of which was to be paid in Amsterdam, is reported this morning as premature.

The 130th Ohio Volunteers, embracing some of the first men of the State, volunteered on Saturday to go to the front and fight.

Thursday, June 16.

Vallandigham arrived at Hamilton, Ohio, yesterday. A large portion of a District Convention in session at the time received him with open arms. He made a speech to his friends, in which he said, "I do not mean any longer to be the only man of the party who is to be a victim of arbitrary power. If Abraham Lincoln seeks my life, let him so declare, but he shall not again deprive me of my personal liberty, except upon due process of law. He denounced order 38, under which he was arrested. He said it was against the Constitution and laws; and without validity, and all proceedings under it were null and void. The time has arrived when it becames me, as a citizen of Ohio, and the United States, to demand, and by my own acts vindicate my rights, liberties and privileges, which I never forfeited, but which, for so many months I have been deprived." He reiterated his right to criticise the acts of the Administration, cautioned his political friends from any acts of violence on his account, but advised none to shrink from any responsibility however urgent, if forced upon him.

☞Professor Dabney, of Hampden Sidney Theological School, in Virginia, writes to a friend in New York as follows:

"We mean to spend everything except the land, fighting the Yankees. When that is left, infested with four millions of lazy, free negroes, and beset with seven millions scowling, revengeful, conquered men, hating the Yankees worse than the devil, it will be worth nothing to them. The Government of the United States, if it conqured the South, would never raise enough money to pay one-tenth the cost of one year's military occupation, which will be necessary to keep the Southerners from massacreing every land robber in one night."

In other words, when the armies of the rebels are destroyed, the pious professors of Southern theology propose to prolong i by organized assassination.

HOW A WOUNDED OFFICER WAS BROUGHT OFF.—All day Saturday a wounded officer of a New Hampshire regiment lay some twenty yards in front of General Marston's works, unable to crawl in, and the rebel sharpshooters would suffer none to go out for him. He had fallen the day before in the morning assault, and the lines as finally established left him midway between friend and enemy. One man had been severely wounded in attempting to reach him. Hard bread was shied out to him in abundance, but a dozen canteens were thrown away before one lodged within his grasp.

Finally, night setting in, opens a chance to get him off. A zigzag is started from the main works; men work with zeal and well-directed muscle, but noiselessly, as though they were the original managing directors of "Oft in the Stilly Night." Three hours of such work and the wounded man is reached; is pulled into the trench; is carried triumphantly back its tacking couse, and then is received behind cover with great cheers.—The cheers cause a volley, but the volley is harmless, and the man is saved. I am chagrined that I have been unable to ascertain this officer's name.—N. Y. Tribune.

INDIANS ON THE WAR PATH.—A regiment of Indians, one thousand strong, recently passed through Baltimore for Washington, whose destination is doubtless to the front. These Indians will no doubt make excellent auxiliaries as skirmishers, scouts and sharpshooters, and under the command of competent officers, who understand their characteristic traits, they may render valuable service. It is not stated to what tribe or tribes these Indians belong, but they are no doubt from the West or Southwest. The Cherokees, Choctaws and Delawares, although civilized, still maintain all their ancient fighting vim and with our gallant veterans to set them an example and support them, they will make a good record in the Union cause.—Philad. Inq.

☞An exchange says: "throughout the Northwestern States there will be a greater yield of spring wheat than ever before, on account of the greater breadth being sown, and the favorable weather for its growth. But, however much there may be, no one need hesitate about the demand being sufficient to sustain good prices."

☞A very singular accident occured on the Central Railroad, near Schenectady on Thursday last. A workman of the company, got upon a train of West Albany, and stood upon the platform of a car. While looking out to see another train pass, he fell between the cars. It appeared, subsequently, that one train out of his head and the other his feet.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co.; and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,

WOOLSTON COMFORT.

May, 10th 1864. WM. ARTMAN.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,065,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,120, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the
First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Fenton, Mich.
AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS
which are depositaries of Public money, and all RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS
throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depositary Banks,) will furnish further information on application and

Probate Notice.

STATE OF MICHIGAN,—County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Thursday, the 2d day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of John Palmer, deceased. On reading and filing the petition, duly verified, of Sherman B. Terry, the Executor named in the last will and testament of said deceased praying that said will may be proved and allowed and that your petitioner may be appointed Executor thereof

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 27th day of June, 1864, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

☞ Alf. James has his Soda Fountain in full play, sending forth cool and sparkling beverages, which foams like the jumping waters of Niagara.

☞ A little son of Mr. Belcher, of Blissfield, 10 years of age, on Wednesday, received a kick from a horse which fractured his skull. Hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Married,

On the 12th ult., at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Mr. Armstrong, SAMUEL BARTLETT, of Wis., and Miss MARY, daughter of Wm M. GREGORY, Esq., of Saline.

☞ Three women, a mother and two daughters, named Rathbun, were arrested at Adrian on Wednesday, June 1st, for shoplifting. Some of the articles they had stolen were found on their persons when arrested. They confessed their guilt, and upon payment of the stolen goods were allowed to escape further punishment.

Fourth of July.

"Shall we celebrate the coming Fourth?" This question should now receive the considerations of our citizens. Let us celebrate the anniversary of our nation's birth in an old-fashioned, soul-stirring style. We propose that a meeting of our citizens be called at an early day, and that the preliminary arrangements be perfected in time for such a celebration as was never before witnessed in this country. Will our citizens act upon this proposition?

New Furniture.

We dropped into the extensive furniture rooms of VanTine & Smith, in this village, and saw a storehouse (it might be called) filled to its utmost with choice and plain furniture. They are receiving daily large bills of goods, and are supplying a vast territory with that needful article, and we would say to young housekeepers and to all those who need a new fitting out, that they are the ones to buy of, as there is not a want in the cabinet furniture line that they cannot supply.

☞ The Monroe Taylor Gold Medal Soap is one of those articles that should be in every household, and the lady who neglects to furnish herself or domestics with it, loses a boon which it will be impossible to find a substitute for. It takes less in quantity, and washes as no other soap can do. It makes rough hands smooth, and softens and whitens the skin, as well as making clothes look so white. Try it.

☞ Brown's Bronchial Troches clear and give strength to the voice of Singers, and are indispensable to Public Speakers.

"I recommend their use to Public Speakers." REV. E. H. CHAPIN.

The Lady's Friend.

The June number of this handsome monthly opens with a fine steel engraving of "The Young Brood." This is followed by a handsome colored Fashion Plate, double the size of those usually given by two-dollar magazines. Then come a number of well-executed wood engravings of the fashions, needle-work, &c., such as ladies alone know how to properly value. A number of engravings illustrating "Archery for Ladies" is an interesting feature of this number.

☞ A fine assortment of Mourning Note, with envelopes to match, just received at G. T. Ketcham's.

Ladies' Fair.

The Ladies of the Methodist Epicopal Church of Tecumseh, will hold a Fair at Bidwell's Hall, on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, June 22, 1864, for the purpose of raising funds to furnish their new Church. All are invited to attend. Admittance 25 cents.

☞ Another lot of that splendid six pound Commercial Note just received at G. T. Ketcham's, which he is retailing at old prices. When you want good stationery, call on Ketcham. Don't have this miserable light paper palmed off on you by other dealers, when you can buy a good article of him at the same prices they charge you for their poor stuff.

☞ The Alumni Society connected with the Tecumseh Union School will hold its 4th annual meeting at Bidwell's Hall, on Friday June 24th, 1864 at two o'clock, P. M. An oration will be delivered by Wm. B. Hendryx, subject "Progress," and a Poem by Scovill C. Stacy.

☞ It is supposed by some that the Prince of Wales visited this country in part to obtain a package of Herick Allen's Gold Medal Saleratus. Whether he did or not, it would do honor to the Queen's table to have as nice light Biscuit as that article always makes. If any one has any doubts on that subject, go to your Grocer and get a paper immediately, and find of a truth that there is nothing like it. Everybody sells it.

The 18th Mich Infantry.

We clip the following from the Nashville Daily Press, of June 7th.

"We seriously regret to learn that the 18th Michigan V. I. so long and so favorably known to our citizens, for their uniform good conduct while on post duty, has been relieved and will take its departure next Saturday.

Lt. Col. Jhon W. Horner has won an enviable name for his justice, kindness and administrative ability, while Provost Marshal here, and our citizens can but accord him generous praise for the manner in which his delicate yet onerous duties have been performed. Whatever way Col. Horner and the glorious 18th may be called by duty, they will bear with them the best wishes of our citizens.

The 31st Wisconsin V. I. takes the place of the 18th in post duty, and Col. Hooner will remain for a few days until a Provost Marshal is appointed.

☞ The dwelling of Philip Hathaway of Ridgeway, was entered on the night of the 14th inst., by raising a window.—A small draw was taken which contained sundry papers, notes, and Wheat receipts, to the value of $1375.

☞ A farmer named Cole, while under the influence of liquor, fell from his wagon in Adrian and broke his right arm.

☞ A man named Ebenezer Smith of Adrian, died very suddenly on Saturday last, under circumstances which lead to the belief that he committed suicide by taking strichnine.

☞ Dr. Woodland Owen, of Adrian, while endeavoring to check an unruly horse, was knocked down, and his carriage ran over him, breaking his left leg just above the ankle. He was immediately attended by surgical assistance, and there is every prospect of his speedy recovery.

MONEY EASILY MADE.

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so — I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have required an

Immense Popularity,

for exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor, and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, while pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless as all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the young organism, that, if taken [illegible] they would produce results [illegible] against which all powers of medicine would be powerless, should [illegible] be good

Twenty Years Ago.

How wondrous are the changes,
Since twenty years ago!
When gals wore woolen dresses,
And boys wore pants of tow;
When shoes were made from cow-hide,
And socks from homespun wool,
And children did a half-day's work
Before they went to school.

The girls took music lessons
Upon the spinning wheel,
And practiced late and early
On spindle, swift and reel;
The boys would ride horseback to mill,
A dozen miles or so,
And surry off before 'twas day,
Some twenty years ago.

The people rode to meetin'
In sleds instead of sleighs;
And wagons rode as easy
As buggies now-a-days;
And oxen answered well for teams,
Though now they'd be too slow,
For people lived not half so fast
Some twenty years ago.

Oh, well do I remember
That Wilson's patent stove,
That father bought and paid for
In cloth our gals had wove;
And how the neighbors wondered
When we got "the thing" to go,
And said 'twould burst and kill us all—
Some twenty years ago.

Yes, everything is different
From what it "used to was;"
For men are always tampering
With God's great natural laws;
And what on earth we're coming to—
Does anybody know?
For everything has changed so much
Since twenty years ago!

ROSIN.

BY MARY ARHE.

They had nerved themselves for the terrible crisis, but now John Lockdale and his wife sat down in the small apartments they had hired, and sought refuge in the long suppressed tears.

Their story was a common one. He had been early a clerk in a large concern in New York, and of his ability, integrity and business talent, had won his way upward, so that at twenty-three he had been taken into the concern as a partner. He had then crowned his happiness by leading to the modest little house which he had hired and furnished, the gentle girl who now sat broken-hearted beside him.

Among the friends he had gathered around him was Henry Ulschoeffer, a man of talent, full of plans and projects, always in speculations, and never in conversation deferring the moment of his success more than a week, although no one never knew a project of his of any moment to succeed.

He was dangerous, for he was plausible and really so kind-hearted and well-meaning. Lockdale often laughed at his schemes, but in his indignation at the immense gas bills which the company contrived to make him pay, and the unblushing impudence with which they extorted an average bill from him for a month he burnt no gas at all, averring that the meter was out of order, he listened favorable to a speculation of Ulschoeffer's, for making gas at home at one half the company's rates. The thing was certain of success. It was worked on a small scale, and the result left no doubt in the mind of either. Ulschoeffer needed some machinery and apparatus. The house in Meade street would furnish it on his note, but their rules was an endorser, and for the form of it Lockdale endorsed to the extent of four thousand dollars.

The time for which the note was given soon ran around. Note time is always very short. Ulschoeffer could not meet his notes; protest after protest followed. Lockdale had to explain to his partners.

A terrible scene followed; the partnership must end. The books were balanced at once, and the partners liberally paid Lockdale his share, about five thousand dollars; and when he had taken up the dishonored paper, he stood in the streets a ruined man. All that he had gained by his years of steady labor was gone; his future was gone; his name as a business man, his character for prudence; in a word, all that goes to make up a good mercantile name was gone.

Gradually he broke it to Lucy. She was shocked and terrified, but, woman like, with her own heart breaking, sought to console and arouse him.

The furniture of the little house was sold, all but enough for a couple of rooms—and hiring a room in as decent a house as he could, Lockdale resolved to join a regiment proceeding to Washington, for it was in 1861. He was fortunate enough to get a commission, which his previous attention to military affairs justified, and putting all that remained of his little capital in the bank for his wife, he was now prepared to depart. They had just sat down in their new home, the last arrangements of which had been at the period when our story opens. The present with its separation, all contrasted, so with the happy past, that both were overcome. As the unfortunate man folded his wife to his bosom in his agony of grief, they were roused by a knock at the outer door. John hastened to open it, when his brow grew dark as his eye fell on Ulschoeffer.

"Don't be too severe on me Lockdale," he said pleading. "No man could have foreseen the result, and no man could grieve more sincerly than I do for the ruin that I have brought upon you. I will yet make all good, and you shall stand better than you did. To prove to you that I feel deeply, I have had an assignment made to you of the best property that I have. It is not much compared to what I owe you, and I deem it nothing, but as a proof of my sincerity.

He laid the paper on the table, and seeing nothing in Lockdale's face but a look of despair, stammered a word or two more and escaped as from the presence of an awful judge.

Lockdale and his wife spent their last evening together in talking over their plans, and preparing for their first parting, to be so long and sad.

The next day she was alone. How eagerly she watched for letters from the Captain. They came and came regularly; but after some months there was a break, and the next letter was dated from the hospital. It was full of assurances that his case was not dangerous; but after a few letters more, he announced that the surgeon thought a furlough necessary for his restoration, and Lucy hastened to meet him, and aid him home. How terribly she was shocked by her husband's young husband was prostrated, haggard, restless. His whole system had given way, and the surgeon told her if he did not speedily rally in New York he would never be able to resume active service. By slow stages they reached home, and Lucy had, at least the comfort of ministering to her husband; but even her care and the charms of home did not rally him.

The days of his furlough had nearly expired, his physician gave him no hope of a speedy recovery of strength, his pay had not been forwarded to him, and their little fund was nearly exhausted. He resolved to resign his commission, for he was too high spirited to seek, by renewed furloughs, to remain a charge on the country. His resignation was accepted, and he was now utterly hopeless. Lucy, braver than he, had gone out, after many resolutions and much faltering, to seek employment. Nothing offered but the inevitable needle work, and the scalding tears were falling on the wretched task as she labored steadily at it, out of her husband's sight, though within his reach, when the wild haired little girl of the house announced a Mr. Robertson to see Mr. Lockdale.

The unknown guest entered, and approaching the sick man, enabled him to see a gaunt, shrewd looking fellow, who at once plunged into business.

"Mr. Lockdale, you have a lot of rosin in the Atlantic Docks, and I would like to buy it. If you will take forty dollars a barrel I will take the whole lot."

"Rosin—forty dollars," said Lockdale, hesitatingly.

"Well, I know," said the other, "that rosin has ruled high lately, but there's a mighty heap coming in now from the Northern States, and that will bring it down. Anyhow, I ought to make a little sunthin' on it."

Lockdale paused, his head swam, but his old business education prevailed, and in a moment he said, in an indifferent tone:

"Since I left the army I have been quite sick here, and am not well posted. Call to-morrow, at twelve, and I will give you an answer."

"Will you not promise me the refusal?"

"No; I should not like to do that," said Lockdale.

The stranger rose, promising to return, and as Lucy closed the door her husband sat up bewildered.

"What does he mean, Lucy? Rosin at forty dollars a barrel! I have no rosin—never had any."

She, too, looked perplexed, as though some new misery threatened them, and this was part of the same plot against them. At last a thought flashed into her mind, and so with a brightening face, she exclaimed:

"John, what was that paper that Ulschoeffer gave you the day before your regiment started?"

The mystery was here, and Lockdale seemed to have new life breathed into him. He sprang from his bed, and with hands quivering with excitement, and endeavored to dress. Lucy at last calmed him, and assisted him, but he was completely exhausted. As she laid him again on his bed to rally, he gasped, rather than spoke:

"Quick! get that paper of Ulschoeffer. It is all there—rosin forty dollars a barrel!"

Lucy soon found the paper which had never been opened, and began to read the formal parts, but he could not hear the whole.

"Is there no list, Lucy?"

"Yes; on the back. There is a schedule A. 850 barrels of rosin, at 75 cents, in the Atlantic Docks, storage paid to January 1st, 1863, $637.50."

"What! Lucy, let me see." And when he was convinced he exclaimed: "Can it have risen from one dollar to forty," and then he began to calculate 850 at $40. Why, Lucy, that is $35,000; and is it possible that I am worth that? and we thought ourselves paupers. I must go down town."

Lucy went out and ordered a carriage, while in constant fear of some great accident from the excitement; she helped him into it, and entered with him. Lockdale ordered the driver to go at once to a large auction house at the foot of Wall street, where he was known.

Here he was received by the senior partner with great kindness and compassion, at his altered fortunes. John told him his story and asked what rosin was worth.

"Why, my dear sir, I can sell it for you to day at $49 a barrel, and would advise you not to hold it. If you wish I will dispose of it for you, and have a check for you by three o'clock."

The warehouse order and assignment were delivered over and while Lockdale and his wife drove off to get the refreshments both needed, the rosin was sold for over forty-one thousand dollars.

We need not follow their fortunes. The shock to his system might have proved fatal—it produced a cure. With comforts around him in a cottage in New Jersey, a mind free from harrassing anxiety, with his wonderfully acquired little fortune safe in 7,30's, he rapidly gained his health and spirits; and when we were last at Rosina Lodge he was preparing to resume his old position as partner in the house of Sammis, Lodge & Co., putting in ten thousand dollars.

Ulschoffer, to whom he gave three thousand dollars, maintains that he always knew that it would turn out well, and he invested his money in a machine for manufacturing ice.

☞ Ah! one great reason why we find it so hard to be Christians is that our Christian graces are in such a low state. If zeal, if love, if any one of them were positive and regnant, how easy it would be for us to subdue little sins! You hear people talking about their little cares! and if they only kept their Christian graces in higher state, how little trouble these cares would give them! My friend, little sins are like little hairs, and our zeal is like a razor; and how hard it is to accomplish anything without a sharp edge!—Shaving with a dull razor is like trying to cut up little sins with our moral qualities. The moral qualities are dull, and the little sins are tough, and we tear off what ought not to be disturbed, and neglect what ought to be destroyed. Many good persons do not want to be enthusiasts; so they pull away at little sins with dull graces, and wonder why the work of extermination is so hard. No man that is a good husbandman wants other than a sharp scythe, that cuts close; and if you want to shave easily with a Christian grace, give it a keen edge. With a dull edge you can only use it with difficulty, and you can use it to but little purpose.

☞ If you get a moment to spare, spruce up—put the gate on its hinges, put a little paint on the picket fence you built last year, and trim up about your door yard, make it cozy and inviting; don't say you can't find time for these things. The fact is, you have no time to grow slovenly. Your wife and children will be happier, your farm will sell for more money in the market, and be worth more to you at home, if you devote an odd hour now and then in sprucing up.

A Deserter's Epistle.

The following is a copy of a letter from a rebel deserter to Jeff Davis, found by our troops in North Carolina. We believe that it has never been printed before:

HEAD QUARTERS SCALP HUNTERS,
Camp Chowan N. C., Jan. 11,

To Jeff. Davis, Richmond Va.,

EXCELLENCY DAVIS.—It is with feelings of undeveloped pleasure that an affectionate conscript entrusts this sheet of confiscated paper to the tender mercies of a Confederate mail-carrier, addressed as it shall be to yourself, O, Jeff! Red Jacket of the Gulph, and Chief of the Six Nations, more or less.

He writes on the trunk of a shivered monarch of the forest, with the pine trees wailing around him, and Endymion's planet rising on the air.

To you, O, Czar of all chivalry and Khan of Cotton Tartary! he appeals for the privilege of seeking on his own hook a land less free, among the hyenas of the North. Will you not halt your "brave columns" and stay your gorgeous career for a thin space, and, while an admiring world takes a brief gaze at your glorious and God-forsaken cause, pen for this happy conscript a furlough without end, and mail it, if you please, to that city, the windy, wandering Wigfall didn't winter in, called for short—Philadelphia.

The Etesian winds, sweeping down the defiles of the Old Dominion and over the swamps of Suffolk, come moaning through the pines of the old State laden with the music, and sigh themselves away into sweet silence to the far-off South.

Your happy conscript would go away to the far-off North, whence the winds come, and leave you to reap the whirlwind with no one but your father, the devil, to rake and bind after you; and he is going.

It is with intense and multifariously proud satisfaction that he gazes for the last time upon your holy flag—that symbol of the adored trinity, Cotton, Niggers and Chivalry. He still sees it at the little camp at Chowan, tied to the peak of the palmetto pole and floating out over your boundless Confederacy—the revived relic of ages gone, banner of our king of few days and full of trouble; and that pole, in its tapering uprightness typifying some of the grandest beauties of our nationality, its peak pointing hopefully upward to the tropical stars, and its biggest end run into the ground. Relic and pole, good-bye; 'tis best the conscript goes; his claim to chivalry has gone before him. Behind he leaves the legitimate chivalry of this unbounded nation, centered in the illegitimate son of a Kentucky horse-thief. But a few more words, illustrious President, and he is done—done. Elevated by their sufferings and suffrages to the highest office in the gift of a great and exceeding free people, you have held your position without a change of base or purpose of any sort, through weary months of war and want and woe; and though every conscript should unite with the thousands and true men of the South in a grand old grief at your downfall, so, too, will they sink under the calamity of an exquisite joy when you shall have reached that eminent meridian whence all progress is perpendicular.

And now, bastard President of a political abortion, farewell. Scalp hunters, relic, pole, and chivalrous Confederates in crime, good-bye. Except it be in the army of the Union, you will never again see this conscript.

NORM HAROLD,
Of Ashtabula Co., North Carolina.

A GOOD RULE.—A certain man who is very rich now, was very poor when he was a boy. When asked how he got his riches, he replied: "My father taught me never play till my work was finished, and never to spend my money until I had earned it. If I had an hour's work in a day, I must do that the first thing, and in an hour. After this I was allowed to play, with much more pleasure than if I had the thought of an unfinished task before my mind. I early formed the habit of doing everything in time, and soon it became easy to do so. It is to this I owe my prosperity." Let every one who reads this do likewise.

☞ The English rule is to weigh sheep when fatted and divide the weight by seven and call it quarters Thus, a sheep weighing one hundred and forty pounds would give twenty pounds a quarter as the dead weight. If the sheep are in good condition, this rule is sufficiently accurate for all purposes. Poor sheep will fall below the mark, and extra fat ones go over it.

The talk of Great Men.

Every man of sound brain whom you meet knows something worth knowing better than yourself. A man, on the whole, is a better preceptor than a book. But what scholar does not allow that the dullest book can suggest to him a new and sound idea. Take a dull man and a dull book; if you have any brains of your own, the dull man is more instructive than the dull book. Take a great book, and its great author; how immeasurably above his book is the author, if you can coax him to confide his mind to you, and let himself out!

What would you not give to have an hour's frank talk with Shakspeare if Shakespeare were now living? You cannot think of yourself so poorly as not to feel sure that, at the end of the hour, you would have got something out of him which fifty years' study would not suffice to let you get out of his plays.—Goldsmith was said by Garrick to "write like an angel, and talk like poor Poll."—But what does that prove? Nothing more than this, that the player could not fathom the poet. A man who writes like an angel cannot always talk like poor Poll. That Goldsmith, in his peach-colored coat, awed by Johnson, bullied by Boswell, talked very foolishly, I can well understand; but let any gentle reader of human brains and human hearts have got Goldsmith all to himself over a bottle of Maderia, in Goldsmith's own lodging—talked to Goldsmith lovingly and reverentially about "The Traveller" and "The Vicar of Wakefield," and sure I am that there was something in the well-spring of so much genius more marvellous than its diamond-like spray—something in poor Oliver Goldsmith immeasurably greater than those faint and fragmentary expressions of the man which yet survive in the exquisite poem, in the incomparable novel.

I remember being told by a personage who was both a very popular writer and a brilliant converser, that the poet Campbell reminded him of Goldsmith—his conversation was so inferior to his fame. I could not deny it; for I had often met Campbell in general society, and his talk had disappointed me. Three days afterwards Campbell asked me to come and sup with him tete-a-tete. I did so. I went at ten o'clock. I staid till dawn; and all my recollection of the most sparkling talk I have ever heard in drawing-rooms afford nothing to equal the riotous affluence of wit, of humor, of fancy, of genius, that the great lyrist poured forth in his wondrous monologue. Monologue it was; he had it all to himself.—Bulwer.

☞ I think it will be seen, when the great harvest comes, and God makes out the inventory of heroes and the history of heroism, that by far the greatest part of heroic natures and heroic conduct has been unconspicuous. Noble, metal states, whether they have any form of action or not, and whether they are in obscure spheres or not, are truly heroic. The power to act, in given cases, from moral motives, superior to those which animate ordinary humanity, is heroic; and that, whether it be obvious or latent. Heroism, therefore, may be, in particular circumstances, acting from much higher faculties than others would act from in the same circumstances, as, where others would act from selfishness, and you would act from generosity; as, where all the world would refuse to act from pride; as, where other men would act in a higher motive in given circumstances than other men act from, that makes heroic conduct.

Those Boys.

"Our little Bobby," of four years, had been lectured by his aunt on the evil of disobedience to parents, and the example was shown him of a boy who disobeyed his mother and went to the river and got drowned.

"Did he die?" said Bobby, who had given the story due attention.

"Yes," was the serious reply.

"What did they do with him?" asked Bobby, after a moment's serious reflection.

"Carried him home," replied the monitor, with due solemnity.

After turning the matter over in his mind, as it was hoped profitably, he looked up and closed the conversation by asking—

"Why didn't they chuck him in again?"

☞ Most of the shadows that cross our path through life are caused by standing in our own light.

The Tecumseh Herald

TECUMSEH, MICH., JUNE 16, 1864

To Our Patrons.

We desire those who write for the Herald to understand that we publish a paper for the benefit of the whole community, ourselves included. As an humble member of that community, we are well assured from the experience of the past, that all attempts to give our paper, either by its editorials or selected matter, a decided partisan character will tend to narrow in place of widening its sphere of usefulness. We are aware that it is difficult to write without communicating our individual feelings, and in times of high political excitement those feelings are apt to be tinged with strong partisan impressions.

Now the Herald is a local paper, depending for its support and existence to a very considerable extent upon job-work and advertisements and in order to secure these it must, as at present, continue to have a wide local circulation. In the approaching Presidential contest we shall certainly have three, and perhaps four candidates with friends of each all around us, presenting the claims and inviting the suffrages of the people for their special favorite.

Shall we take a decided partisan stand and say to the friends of General Fremont, if we have such among our subscribers, we do not want your support, or shall we say to the advocates of Mr. Lincoln, and we have many of his friends on our subscription list, we have no regard for your feelings, or shall we say to the Democrats, and we have a large number of those also among our subscribers, we can sustain this paper without your support? It would not be generous or courteous—in fact it would be a gross violation of good faith on our part—to make any such declarations, and yet there are those who hold the opinion that unless this paper assumes a decidedly partisan character it cannot be sustained. To this we remark that in our past experience whenever the Herald has been made the special organ of any party, its supporters have gradually dwindled away and its existence was only preserved and its vitality restored, by dropping its partisan character [illegible] a neutral—we do not admire the term neutral—but an independent and manly policy towards all parties.

We need the patronage of our entire community, and that community needs a local press. We have not the vanity to suppose that our humble sheet, or the contributions of its unpaid writers will control the Presidential election, but we do think that our entire subscribers, if we are careful not to outrage their moral or political feelings, will be gratified to have a weekly visit from the Herald for the purpose of learning who is married and 'who alas!' is dead; who has the finest and best assortment of goods to sell; who wants to purchase bark, wood, wheat, corn, pork, wool &c; what manufactories are sprung up around us, and the thousand other local items which can only be found in a local paper. If we are not mistaken these are the items which will most interest our readers, who cannot understand why the good feeling which has united our community in support of this paper should be disturbed by attempts to make it a wrangling political machine.

Our community can only sustain one paper and now, gentlemen who write and occasionally select for the Herald, will you aid us in generously endeavoring to make our paper acceptable to all?

C. M. Burlingame.

☞ We notice in our exchanges, especially those whose present volume is nearly complete, a timely warning that the price of subscription must necessarily be advanced. Of course! Nothing in the world plainer or more reasonable.—They must charge more, and yet, forsooth, how many will withdraw their patronage on account of the advanced rate. There isn't an article of food or raiment for sale (editors and printers must have something to eat and wear) but what has gone up in price at least 20 per cent within the last two months! House rent is higher, all kinds of printing material higher; printers' wages higher and almost non-comatable, and yet how many will grumble and actually withdraw their patronage if the paltry sum of fifty cents is added to the price of their paper. It is downright stupidity—not to see a point so plainly obvious.

☞ A man named Ebenezer Smith of Adrian, died very suddenly, on Saturday last, under circumstances which lead to the belief that he committed suicide by eating strychnine.

The News

Monday, June 20.

Gen. Sheridan has been heard from. We have this morning the particulars of his march from Grant's army to his present location in the vicinity of Gordonsville. News via rebel sources of his defeat, is denied by the official dispatches we publish this morning.

Gen. Sherman reports that the enemy gave way in front on Saturday, in the midst of darkness and storm. At daylight he entered the enemy's line from right to left. The whole army was pursuing, and had arrived as far as the Chattahoochie. The very latest from General Sherman states that he was about to start for Marietta.

Gen. Grant advanced his troops, on Saturday, to within a mile and a half of Petersburg, where he found the enemy occupying a new line of entrenchments, which, after successive assaults, he failed to carry, but holds the line as far as he advanced. It is inferred that Beauregard has been reinforced, from Lee's army, by 30,000.

Gen. Butler is reported having gone out on the Richmond and Petersburg Railroad with a view of tearing up the track, when Lee surprised him and drove him back into his entrenchments. Nothing official had been received at headquarters relative to the matter, though heavy firing at intervals was heard in that direction.

The 9th corps captured two more redoubts Saturday morning, forming a part of the defenses around Petersburg. Our forces captured 450 prisoners, and four more guns. Our successes are being followed up.

When our forces left Coal Harbor, they were within 500 yards of the rebel entrenchments, but Gen. Grant Moved his whole force in such a quiet manner that they were unaware of his intentions until some time after he had left. The movement was made without the loss of a wagon or a single piece of artillery, and only about 150 stragglers were picked up by the enemy.

Another body of stragglers from the Sturgis expedition arrived at Memphis on Friday night. A portion of the 70 which arrived were colored troops, each of whom had his gun and accoutrements, while most of the white soldiers had lost all. Gen. Sturgis has been relieved of his command.

Tuesday, June 21.

There has been a good deal of hard fighting before Petersburg. Grant is pressing the works, gaining little by little. Our losses have been pretty severe, and the enemy being generally behind their entrenchments, have on the whole, suffered less. We have taken in all 21 pieces of [illegible] many prisoners. Our [illegible] killed and wounded, for the last two days of which we have reports, is stated at 8,000. The prisoners taken are mostly from Beauregard's army, Beauregard supposed to be in command.

Generals Terry and Turner have succeeded in destroying an important bridge, and four miles of the Petersburg and Richmond Railroad, thus cutting off the rebel communication with Richmond.

Mr. Chase has made the following important statement to the public: "The amount of debt, including all legal tenders, notes and unpaid requisitions, is $1,711,939,516; amount of interest bearing legal tender notes withdrawn, is $38,890,700.00; amount of ordinary legal tender notes withdrawn and placed in reserve, $1,725,887,200, showing a deduction at present of legal tender notes of all descriptions of $5,614,957,200."

Wednesday, June 22.

But little additional is received from Gen. Grant. Wounded soldiers confirm the report that Gen. Burnside gained decided advantage on Saturday, and there is but little doubt that Petersburg would soon be in our possession

From Rebel sources it is reported that Gen. Hooker's corps was repulsed with great slaughter by Claiborne's division. Gen. Forrest had gained a complete victory over the Federals at Tupello, Miss., Forrest having sent forward 1,300 prisoners and more yet behind.

An important meeting of bankers and brokers will be held in New York to-day to urge the repeal of the gold bill. Business in foreign exchange is entirely suspended, 206 is now asked for gold on the street. The wool market is very excited and prices tending strongly upward. Free sales of fleece have been made at 90c, and is now held 95 to 100. One dollar is anticipated during the present week.

The President and his youngest son left the city yesterday afternoon, on the ordnance steamer Baltimore, to pay a trip to Grant, it is reported, to see how affairs are progressing on the James River.

The amendment to the House bill striking out the $300 exemption clause was defeated by a vote of 100 to 50, a majority so large that every one was taken by surprise.

☞ There has been donated to the Philadelphia Sanitary Fair a beautiful "Florence" sewing machine, which is being rapidly subscribed for, to be presented to Mrs. Lincoln.

Terrible Explosion at the Washington Arsenal.

Washington, June 17.

A terrible explosion occurred at the Washington Arsenal, to-day, a few minutes before 12 o'clock. It seems that some rebel stars for fire works had been made and set out on block pans to dry. They could not stand a temperature of more than 200 degrees, and under the hot sun soon reached that, and one of the stars ignited, which set the remainder off, exploding the laboratory. The occupants of the building were all females. Upon the explosion, a terrible scene was witnessed in the yard. There were about 1,200 men and 300 women at work, a number of whom were burned and bruised in endeavoring to get away. The alarm was immediately given, and after the fire was extinguished a search for bodies was commenced. Eighteen bodies have thus far been taken out of the ruins burned to a crisp. It was impossible to recognize them. Eight females were taken out in a sad condition and placed in a hospital. The scene at the yard was of the most heart-rending character. Many of the parents of the employees rushed to the scene of disaster to enquire after their children; but the names of all who have perished cannot be ascertained until a call of the roll can be made.

☞ Brig. Gen. E. B. Brown, commanding the District of Central Missouri, reports to Maj. Gen. Rosecrans that the depredations of guerrillas in that part of Missouri demand the serious consideration of the Government. They destroy the telegraph, rob the stages of mails and horses, plunder the resident population and even the poor laborers on the railroads of their property and money. They fire on steamboats, assume the garb of our soldiers to more perfectly deceive those they desire to destroy, and even carry the national flag to deceive troops sent out against them. They murder their prisoners, even when wounded, and daily butcher citizens suspected of being loyal. Gen. Brown urges the adoption of severe retaliatory measures, and recommends that the former associates of these villains, who are held in the military prisons, and who have forfeited their lives by the violation of every law, human and divine, be held as hostages for the future good conduct of these murderers in the bush.

House Thieves Arrested.

On Monday afternoon Sheriff Hough, happening to be in Hudson, received information that two suspicious characters had been offering a couple of horses for sale in that village. Always on the qui vive for rascals, the Sheriff immediately found the parties, and having examined them separately, and finding their stories as to how they became possessed of the aforesaid horses did not agree, he concluded to arrest them on suspicion, which he did. Their names are David Edwards and Andrew Jackson, and the Sheriff brought them to Adrian on the Tuesday morning train and lodged them in the jail, having previously telegraphed to Toledo in relation to the matter. It turns out the horses, one black and one bay, had been stolen from Elijah Mallatt, of Finley, Hancock county, Ohio, and on Wednesday Sheriff Wilson arrivnd here after the prisoners, whom he took back to Ohio on the morning train. It would be well for horse thieves, and indeed rogues of every description, to keep out of the track of Sheriff Hough while performing their rascalities.

F. F. V's.—A New York Herald correspondent, describing the inhabitants of Charles City, on James River, says:—"They claim to be of the 'manor born,' and have always associated with the 'prime mess, A No. 1's' of the State. But as far as our observation extends, the F. F. V's. as a class are not to be compared with the farmers and mechanics of some of our Northern States, in point of intelligence and general information. The truth obliges us to state that we occasionally meet an educated man or woman; but for one that can boast of any amount of intellectual acquirement, we find a score that cannot decipher the English alphabet, or tell the difference between the almanac and a child's primer."

☞ Mr. Uri Decker, of Adrian township, found several specimens of ancient bones, recently, upon his farm. They were discovered while ditching, about two feet below the surface. The bones are of enormous size, evidently of the mastodon, a race of animals extinct for many centuries. The skull bone between the eye sockets is apparently four or five inches thick, and the mass will weigh fifty or sixty pounds. The ribs were found three feet in length, a tusk one foot long, and the crowns of molar teeth as large as a man's fist, and other bones of corresponding magnitude, of the legs, etc. Mr. Decker has exhumed a large quantity of these bones, probably all belonging to the same animal, but he has not yet found any vertebral bones, and it is doubtful if he does find any, as it is presumed that the animal lost its life by getting mired, and the vertebral bones, being exposed to the air, decayed.

Probate Notice

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, s.s.—At a session of the Probate Court, for said County of Lenawee, holden at the office of the Judge thereof, in the City of Adrian, on Monday the thirteenth day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

Present, Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate. In the matter of the estate of Calvin Wood, deceased. This day having been appointed by the Court for hearing the Petition of Charles L. Wood, Administrator, with the will annexed of the estate of Calvin Wood late of said County of Lenawee, deceased, praying, for reasons therein set forth, that he may be licensed to sell certain Real Estate of said deceased, in said Petition described; now comes into Court, the said petitioner, and no one appearing to oppose; and it appearing to the satisfaction of this Court, by due proof on file, that a copy of the order of this Court touching the hearing of said Petition, made on the 26th day of April last past, has been duly published as therein directed: And it further satisfactorily appearing to this Court, after full hearing upon said Petition, and on examination of the proofs and allegations of the petitioner, that the debts and valid claims which the said deceased justly owed at the time of his decease, so far as the same can be ascertained, and which are now due and outstanding against his Estate, amount to the sum of two thousand six hundred and thirty two dollars, or more, exclusive of interest, and that the Personal Estate of said deceased in the hands of said Administrator is insufficient to pay all said debts and valid claims due from said deceased, with the charges of administering his Estate, and that therefore, it is necessary to sell the Real Estate described in said Petition, to pay said debts, claims, interest, and charges; and no person interested in said Estate having given a bond to pay the same as authorized by law.

Therefore in consideration of the premises, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed by this Court, That said administrator as aforesaid, be and hereby is empowered, authorized and licensed to sell, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the Real Estate whereof the said deceased died seized and possessed, as is hereinafter designated and described, and in the order in which the same is hereinafter set forth, for the purpose of paying said debts, claims, interest and charges:

And it is further ordered, that said Administrator give a bond in the penal sum of six thousand dollars, with two sureties, to be approved by said Judge, for the faithful discharge of his duty in the premises as required by law, and that he give public notice of the time and place of holding such sale, by posting up such notice in three of the most public places in the Township of Tecumseh in which the land hereby authorized to be sold is situate, and also publish such notice in a newspaper printed in the County of Lenawee, for six weeks successively next before such sale, and also before making the same take and subscribe the oath prescribed by the statute in such case made and provided.

And it is further ordered, That said Administrator immediately after such sale made, make return hereupon to this Court, of his proceedings in the premises by virtue hereof.

The Real Estate authorized to be sold under and by virtue of this decree is specified, designated and described as follows, to wit: all those tracts or parcels of land situate in the town of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, known and described as the north-west quarter of section twenty-two (160 acres), also, all that other tract or parcel of land situate in the village of Clinton, in the County of Lenawee and State of Michigan, bounded and described as follows, viz: Beginning in the center of the Chicago turnpike at an angle stake and in the line between Alpheus Kies and John Tyrells' land (according to Tyrells' original purchase) running thence along the Chicago turnpike north fifty seven (57) degrees, east seven (7) chains and five (5) links, thence south three (3) chains and eighty-two (82) links to a stake in said Tyrells' north line; thence west along said Tyrells' north line to the place of beginning.

Robert R. Beecher, Judge of Probate.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co.; and that I have thoroughly repaired and provided my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
Woolston Comfort.

Commissioners' Notice.

The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court of Lenawee County, Michigan, Commissioners to receive, examine and allow all claims and demands against the Estate of Elijah Wright, late of Franklin, in said County, deceased, hereby give notice that they will meet for such purpose, at the Office of Snow & Keyes, in the village of Clinton, in said County, on Saturday the 9th day of July and Saturday the 24th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days, and that four months from the 3rd day of June, 1864, are allowed by the said Probate Court to Creditors to present their claims for adjustment and allowance.

Danforth Keyes, }
Joseph S. Kies, } Commissioners.

Closing-out Sale.

Great bargains can be had at A. Hood & Co.'s in Dry Goods, and Boots and Shoes,—being desirous of discontinuing this branch of their business. ☞ Wool is beginning to come into market quite freely. We note several sales at 80 cents.

☞ Mr. Alvah Warring met with quite a serious accident on Saturday last. He was returning home from town with a mowing machine, and while decending a small hill, within sight of home, his horses suddenly became unmanageable. Mr. W. was thrown from his seat, and was dragged to the foot of the hill, under the machine. Fortunately no bones were broken, although he received several severe gashes on the head, and was literally bruised from head to foot. However, he is so far recovered now that he is able to be around, with the assistance of a cane.

The New Baptist Church.

Messrs. McKinney and Cole have commenced laying the walls of the above edifice. Judging from the appearance of the work already completed, we should say, it will be not only a substantial, but also a fine appearing structure. Mr. McKinney has long been a resident of our village, and as his work heretofore will testify, is a perfect master of the trade. We learned that it would take three months to complete the masonry—could be done sooner, but for lack of brick.

'The old Flag shall triumph Yet.'

The 'Glorious 4th' is near at hand; let everybody be prepared to celebrate.—G. T. Ketcham has just received the largest supply of Flags ever brought to this place. Every boy and girl in the country should have one for the occasion. He has all sizes, and at prices ranging from two cents to one dollar.

☞ Perhaps some of our readers are not aware that we have a "Soldiers Aid Society" in this place, which meets on Monday evening of each week. We understand that these meetings are not as fully attended as they should be.—Now this is not right, for if any one deserves our aid, it certainly is the sick or wounded soldier, and every one knows that the hospitals have to depend on these aid societies throughout the country for many of the real necessities of life; consequently these supplies must be kept up, but they cannot be unless the people will take hold and work together; a few cannot do the work of many. The next meeting of the society takes place at the house of Wm. McNair. Let there be a full attendance.

☞ Herrick Allen's Gold Medal Saleratus is manufactured entirely different from any other. Its chemical purity renders it as harmless as the purest flour, and its use will strengthen weak stomachs and cure dyspeptic persons. Use it with cream tartar instead of soda. It is much better. Try it. Grocers and Druggists sell it.

The Fair

Given by the ladies of the Methodist Episcopal Church yesterday afternoon and evening, was very well attended considering the excessive warm weather. The hall was nearly filled at an early hour in the evening. The tables were very well arranged, and bespoke great credit to the ladies engaged in getting it up. The Ice-cream and Lemonade stands seemed to receive their share of patronage. Enjoyment was the order of the evening, and every one seemed to obey orders. "Uncle Sim" officiated as Auctioneer during the latter part of the evening, and by his genial smiles and lively words kept the crowd in a constant fund of good humor. The proceeds of the entertainment amounted to $200.

Music.

We have received from Mr. W. Whitney, a copy of the great song of the day, entitled "Hard times in Dixie!" The third verse being very aplicable to the state of affairs down that way just now, we give it to our readers entire:

Grant is close upon their track,
It's hard times in Dixie!
Southern fire won't turn him back,
Hard times in Dixie!
With his heroes tested well,
What cares he for shot, or shell,
Southern Brag or southern swell?
They're hard up in Dixie!
CHORUS—Rations high and funds so low,
Foemen come, and niggers go,
Worst of all, the Yankees know,
We're hard up in Dixie.

In addition to this popular song, Mr. W. has just issued the following songs and Instrumental pieces: The Patriot's Grave; Prairie Roses, Valse Brilliant; Moina; Dress Parade Polka; Dream of the Absent; Realm of the West; Confession of a Rebel Prisoner; Blue Eyed Jennie; Sleigh Ride Galiop; Wandering at Eve Polka; all of which are deservedly popular. Mr. W. unlike the majority of Publishers, has yet to publish his first piece that has not proved a success.

G. T. Ketcham has secured the exclusive agency for Whitney's publications for this section, and all orders should be addressed to him. Catalogues sent free on aplication and all music sent by mail free, on receipt of marked price.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

their value is increased from one to three per cent per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $703,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the
First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Fenton, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS

which are depositaries of Public money, and all

RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS

throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depositary Banks,) will furnish further information on application and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

MONEY EASILY MADE,

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so.—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

Union Livery Stable

"Union now, and Union ever,"
Shall be every freeman's cry;
Union formed to stand forever,
Union, the watchword, and reply.

The "UNION LIVERY," all do say,
Is just the place to go to,
To get a rig that's nice and gay,
With bells, and whip, and buffalo:

Horses gay, and safe, and fleet:
Buggies new, and nice, and strong:
Cutters sure, and all complete—
Just get in and go along.

It is the ladies' chief delight
To take a drive in our carriages,
Put on your fixen's boys, and try it,
They'll pay toll on all the bridges.

Come one, and all, by night or day,
We'll make the prices suit you,
For single rig, or four horse sleigh,
and drivers, too, to please you.

Our stables, too, are new and good;
Just drive your horses in and bait,
With hay, or straw, or oats or corn—
There's room enough, you need not wait.

The poetry machine has bu'sted. Good bye. Come and try us at the Union Livery and Feed Stable, betwen Haydens' and Tindall's Warehouse's on railroad street.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c, in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS.

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety, for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

A Battle Hymn.

God defend thee, land of nations!
Mother of the brave and free;
E'en amid thy desolations,
Stronger grows our love for thee.

They who wound thee, best of mothers—
They who seek thy life to take—
Shall we deem them friends and brothers?
Nay! we'll smite them for thy sake.

Be the sword of justice lifted—
Quick descend the righteous stroke,
Till the traitorous host be rifted,
Broken its tyrannic yoke.

Comrades! be our motto ever,
Faithful to our countrys trust!
Though we give our lives, yet never Shall our mother kneel in dust.

By the love we bear that mother,
By the duty children owe,
Faithfully by one another
Stand we till we crush her foe.

Let the hail of bullets rattle,
Hostile weapons line the field;
In the day of Freedom's battle,
God Almighty is our shield.

When the cloud of war is riven,
Peace shall like a rainbow shine;
They who for the right have striven
Coming ages shall enshrine.

A Perjured Goldsmith.

A modest and exceedingly prety young girl, plainly attired, entered one of the goldsmiths' stores on —— street, and seeing that a gentleman was engaged with the proprietor, she shrank timidly aside near the door, until he could be at leisure. The assistants were also occupied with customers whose dress and appearance showed them to belong to the class of the rich, and she was suffered to remain some time standing there before her wants could be attended to.

The gentleman, who was a fine, noble looking person, with remakable polished address, seeing her waiting, courteously stood aside, saying to the goldsmith:

"Do not occupy yourself with me now, Mr. Bloochard; I can examine those watches by myself, while you see what this young lady wants, who has been waiting so long and so patiently to speak to you."

"What do you want, Miss?" asked the goldsmith, with a look that betrayed a reproach to her for interrupting him while engaged with a customer of more importance.

The girl hesitatingly approached to the counter, taking from her bosom a gold clasp, bent over to him, and said in a low trembling voice:

"I wish you would be so kind as to keep this, and let me have seven dollars on it."

Low as she spoke, her soft trembling tones reached the ears of Col. McHenry, the gentleman who was present, and he turned to observe her face, and hear the reply of the goldsmith to this timid and painfully uttered request. The goldsmith took the clasp scornfully between his fingers, and, throwing it down, said sharply to her:

"This is no pawnbroker's shop, girl; and if it was, that thing is not worth two dollars."

"It is of inestimable value to me, sir; indeed, it is the only valuable thing I have," said she, earnestly, and her cheeks slightly flushed at the rudeness of his reply.

"I don't know what you may value it at," he said with a cold laugh, glancing at Col. McHenry, whom he saw severely eyeing him, "but I would not like to give you six shillings for it."

"But, sir," replied the girl, unconscious of being overheard, "I must have seven dollars to-day, and I have no other way of getting it. I will certainly come back and take it up again."

"I tell you," answered he angrily, "I keep no pawnbroker's shop; go to the Jews."

"They won't give me but two dollars, and I want seven."

The young girl was about to speak again, but as if not knowing what further argument to use, hesitated, and was turning slowly away, when she checked herself, and thus again addressed him:

"Sir," said she, in a thrilling tone of earnest entreaty, "my mother is lying dangerously ill, and our rent is due at 12 o'clock to-day, and the person we sew for having disappointed us in our pay, I have no other resource than this. O, sir, will you take this clasp only for a few days, and I will then repay you?"

Mr. Bloochard felt that Col. McHenry's eyes were upon him, awaiting an answer, and as he wished him to think him a man of business (which means, in his notion, a man without a heart), he answered sternly:

"Do you think we are simpletons, to throw away money in this way? If you have nothing more to say, just stand aside for customers. Well, Colonel, what do you think of this? They are the latest, full jeweled, and warranted in all points. I will sell you the one you just laid down for one hundred and ninety-five dollars."

The gentleman, however, was not heeding him, but watching the young girl, who was leaving the counter with a heavy, drooping step, and approaching the door. Her face had struck him for its sweet, intelligent loveliness, and her modesty had for him an irresistable charm. But her plea of poverty deeply interested his feelings, and enlisted his sympathies in her behalf. He had silently watched the progress of the interview with emotions of contempt for one, and pity for the other.

Her hand was on the knob of the door when advancing toward her:

"You asked, I believe, for seven dollars?" he said with a gentle interest in his tone, that at once awakened hope in her heart, and again brought light to her eyes, and the hue to her cheek, as she answered:

"Yes, sir; but I should not have been so urgent."

"None too much so. There is a ten dollar note. I have no smaller bill."

"Sir, you are too kind"—

"Not a word. I am happy to do you a service."

"Take the clasp, sir; though I am ashamed to offer it to you, since the gentleman says it is valueless. But to me it is as valuable as life, and I foolishly thought it must be so to others."

"I do not want it, child," said McHenry feelingly putting her hand aside while she urged it upon him.

"Indeed, sir, you must take it; for I shall feel in some degree under obligations to a stranger, besides I wish to leave it. Will you give me your address, sir?" and as she spoke, he still declining the jewel, she laid it on the show-case.

"O, no matter, but if you insist it is United States Hotel."

"Thank you, sir; you can never know the blessings of others that will follow your kindness to me to-day."

Thus speaking, and looking upon him with an expression of gratitude in her tearful eyes, she left the shop, forgetting her clasp, which she left on the show-case.

"Will you look at these watches now, Col. McHenry?" superciliously asked the goldsmith, without lifting his condemned eyes.

"No, sir," answered the gentleman, seriously; and taking his gloves and cane, walked from the shop of the avaricious goldsmith, who, too, close to risk a trifle to relieve the wants of a poor family, had probably lost a large amount in the purchases his wealthy customers might have made, as well as his own self-respect, such as it was, for avarice always sinks into its shell before the broad sun of benevolence.

"Now there goes a man who throws away his money on vagrants, while I keep mine to support my family," said the goldsmith, looking after him. "He thinks me a miser, and I think him a fool. Oh! there is that clasp, after all; she left it for him on the show-case, and he was too proud to take it away if he saw it.—Seven dollars! It is not worth more than five."

Having picked it up he opened it as he spoke, and, taking a sharp instrument, tried the firmness of the gold. "It might once have cost twelve dollars. Ah, what a star of diamonds within it!" he exclaimed, as, in working about with a point of steel, he discovered a cavity. "Twelve large diamonds of the purest water! This indeed is valuable. Let me see—they are worth at least $500. What a fool to ask so little! No, no, she could not have known its worth, either, or she would not have let it go for so small a sum, or else asked for nearer its value. I suppose she was was ignorant of the cavity, which I detected by accident. I have it! she has stolen it! and will never return for it! Ah, ah, Abram Bloochard, thou hast made a good morning's work of it," he said exultingly to himself.

Then looking around among his shop boys and satisfying himself that he had not been observed, he carefully, yet with cheerful look, locked the clasp in his private drawer, and put the key in his pocket.

He had hardly done so when Col. McHenry re-entered, and, without speaking or even looking at him, cast his eyes upon the show-case for the clasp, where he recollected (after going out) the young lady had laid it down, but did not take it up again, so he returned for it. Abram Blochard was very busily engaged in replacing the watches in thier doeskin coverings, and preserved silence and ignorance. At length Colonel McHenry spoke—

"That young person laid a clasp on this case, sir, which I neglected to pick up. It is a pity it should be lost, she valued it so very highly."

"The clasp? O, I have not seen it, sir. She took it up again. Yes, oh yes—I had my eyes upon her, and said at the time you would never see your ten dollars or the clasp again."

The Colonel eyed him steadily an instant, and then glancing around the show case again, as if in search of it, he quitted the shop.

Several days elapsed, and Col. McHenry had quite forgotten the circumstances we have just narrated, when, as he was leasurely passing along the street, he felt his sleeve suddenly pulled by some one running behind him, and looking around he beheld, with a cheek glowing with pursuit, the girl he had seen at the goldsmith's.

"O, sir, I am so glad to have found you," she said, at once addressing him, as he stopped, and with pleasure listened to her. "I was at length enabled to get my pay, and by other work have earned enough to repay the ten dollars you kindly gave me. You don't know the good you did—the suffering you relieved—the evil you timely averted. Here is the money, sir."

"Nay, my good girl, I do not want it. I made a present of it at the time, and did not expect you to return it. I am, however, glad to find you have the disposition to do so, and that I was not deceived in my estimation of you."

"You must take it," she said, with ingenious earnestness; "I should be disgraced if I keep it. Besides, sir, I should be very glad to have my clasp, if you please."

"Did you not take it from the case where you laid it down?" he asked, with much surprise and suspicion.

"No, sir—indeed, sir. I hope it is not lost. It was given me by—by"—

"By a sweetheart," added he, smiling.

"He is now dead, sir," she added, with overflowing tears.

"You do well to value it. I did not take it up. Are you sure you left it there?"

"Yes, sir, hoping that you would take it and keep it until I paid you the money."

"Well, my child, I have not got it, but I believe the goldsmith has. Let us go to him."

On the arrival at the shop, Mr. Bloochard denied having seen it since she went out, and said he saw her take it and place it in her bosom as she left the shop. The young lady turned pale and was inconceivably distressed.

"Come with me and I will find your clasp for you," said Col. McHenry, offering her his arm, and leaving the goldsmith's shop with her.

"I do hope we shall find it, sir," she said, as they walked along. "It was Robert's last gift. It was given him in Cuba by a rich lady, whose life he saved by rescuing her from the water. He was a sailor sir, and had but little to leave me but his memory and this clasp. O, sir, if it is lost I shall never forgive myself for offering to pledge it. But, sir, our extremity was very great."

Col. McHenry stopped with her at a justice's office, and briefly and clearly made his complaint, and in a few moments Mr. Bloochard was brought into the presence of the magistrate. He appeared to be in great trepidation, and was pale as ashes, for he had been taken without warning from behind the counter, leaving the shop in charge of his assistants. Col. McHenry and the lady, being sworn, testified that they had last seen the clasp on the show-case where each went out and left it. The former further affirmed that he had not gone three steps from the door before he returned and found it missing, and no one in the vicinity but the defendant.

The goldsmith was then called up to be sworn, as to his knowledge of the facts. He approached the stand where the magistrate held the Bible, and laid his hand upon it with a perceptible tremor of his whole body; but love of money was stronger than the fear of law, and he took the oath. It appeared that he would sink through the floor when he took it, but the moment he was done he recovered his audacity.

At this moment an officer, who, at the suggestion of Col. McHenry, had been privately dispatched by the justice with a search warrant, to the shop of the goldsmith now entered, and placed something in the magistrate's hand, after whispering to him.

"Did you ever see this gold ornament," asked the magistrate, holding up the gold clasp before the young lady's eyes.

"Oh, it's my clasp!" she cried, springing forward.

"It is the same," answered the Colonel.

"And did you ever see it before?" demanded the justice sternly, holding it toward the goldsmith, who had seen it at first, and was appalled with fear and consternation.

Instead of replying, he uttered a wild hysterical laugh, and fell at full length in convulsions on the floor. A week after, he was taken from prison and tried for perjury, but his reason forsook him, and instead of being in prison, he is now raving in a mad house.

Thus were avarice, parsimony and indifference of the poor punished in this life. The acts of this selfish man show all how acquisitiveness, wrongfully directed, is fatal to its possessor.

Col. McHenry proved to be a bachelor, and though a little turned of forty, his heart was keenly alive to all the sensibilities of our nature.

He could feel, too, for the down trodden poor, and sympathize with the unfortunate. To this truth none could better attest than this young friend of the golden clasp; for ere two months had waned, she rejoiced in the euphonic title of Mrs. Col. McHenry. Her mother was provided for, and prosperity smiled upon all.

A Second Ulysees.

An old man of very acute physiognomy, answering to the name of Jacob Wilmot, was brought before the police [illegible] been bought in his youthful prime, for they had suffered more from the rubs of the world than from the proprietor himself.

"What business do you follow, Wilmot?"

"Business! None; I am a traveler."

"A vagabond, I suppose."

"You are not far from right; travelers and vagabonds are about the same thing. The difference is the latter travel without money, and the former without brains."

"Where have you traveled?"

"All over the continent."

"For what purpose?"

"Observation."

"What have you observed?"

"A little to commend, much to censure, and very much to laugh at."

"Umph! What do you commend?"

"A handsome woman that will stay at home, an elegant preacher that will not write too much, and a fool that has sense enough to hold his tongue."

"What do you censure?"

"A man who marries a girl for her fine clothing, a youth who studies law or medicine while he has the use of his hands, and people who elect a drunkard or a jackass to office."

"What do you laugh at?"

"I laugh at a [illegible] who expects his position to command [illegible] respect which his personal qualities and qualifications do not merit."

He was dismissed.

Apples and Rice.

The following receipt makes an excellent dish for either luncheon or supper, and when eaten cold, it will be found acceptable in hot weather. It can be made with any sort of fruit. Wash some rice, (the quantity must be regulated by the size of the dish,) pour a little cold water over it, and set it in the oven until the water is absorbed in the rice. Then add a little milk, and work that in with a spoon. Place the dish again in the oven, and keep working it from time to time until the rice is soft. When this is the case, work in a few spoonfuls of cream. Take some good baking apples, pare, core and quarter them, and place them in a tart dish with sugar and the grated rind of a lemon. Place the rice at the top, and bake in a moderate oven until the rice assumes a light-brown surface.

An approving mind will contribute greatly to cheerfulness, and that equanimity which results from it, from trust in God, and from the hope of a blessed immortality, is equally remote from sour dissatisfaction, desponding melancholy, and frivolous hilarity. It smoothes our path and sweetens our cup, rendering duty easy and affliction light.

Speculations in Gold.

The speculators in Wall Street forced gold, week before last, up to 235—or one hundred and thirty-five per cent. above par, though it afterwards fell fifteen per cent the same day, and has since continued to fall even from that.

This is of course all pure speculation, and is no good criterion of the real value of government securities, and, besides, it is mostly done for effect in order to frighten Congress into a repeal of the gold bill, by the passage of which their craft is in danger—and very little real sales are made at any such figures, just enough to quote, and just for the sake of quoting among the gambling clubs.

If they really want to buy gold at any such rates, or even two-thirds those rates, and will agree to take it for thirty days, they can no doubt be supplied by Europe and California with all they can pay for.

We hope Congress will not be thus driven into any repeal of the Gold Bill, but leave it to these gamblers in their country's necessities and misfortunes to either suffer its penalties or quit their nefarious business.

It is indeed mortifying, that while our brave soldiers are toiling, striving, suffering, bleeding and dying in the field, in behalf of our beloved country, and while the people at large are cheerfully accepting and paying any amount, not only of imports, but also of direct taxes, which may be needed for the support of the government, under its present exigencies, these men should thus consent, so far as it is in their power, to make all these sacrifices void, and jeopardize all the highest material interests of the country, in order that they may hold a carnival amid general financial loss and ruin.

It is indeed high time that Congress interfered to put a stop to this, so far as the penalties of law can do it; but still more effectually will the people succeed in doing it, by adhering to their purpose to discard the use of all foreign importations, so far as possible, thus doing away with any call for foreign exchange, for which alone gold is needed.

It was a great blow to these Wall Street speculators, that they could not get control of the Government issues; but Secretary Chase managed to get along without the aid of their valuable services in this matter, and with the aid of the people, in the manner indicated, they will soon be brought to a stand upon their gold speculations also. And as a people we cannot afford that they should continue to unsettle the market, and send the price of all we have to buy up to their ficticious values, just in order that they may succeed in gambling at their country's cost.

☞ A very singular war incident occurred to a sergeant of the 10th Massachusetts regiment a short time since. He was engaged in placing upon a number of head-boards the names of members of his regiment who had been killed in the late fight or had died in battle, which were to mark their last resting place. There was one board in excess, and in a sportive vein, he placed with a lead pencil his own name upon it, and the date of his demise, 20th of June, as his term of service had then expired and he was about to leave for home. The next morning, while near the front, bidding his companions in other regiments a farewell, he was struck in the breast by a twenty-pounder Parrott and instantly killed. His remains were interred, and the very head board he had unthinkingly inscribed with his own name was placed over his grave, and, with date, correctly marks for a time his resting place.

☞ The committee appointed to make arrangements for the celebration of the first anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, invite all societies, associations and citizens of the loyal States generally, to meet at Gettysburg on the 4th of July next, and participate in an appropriate celebration of the first anniversary of the great victory of Gettysburg. Gov. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, will preside at the ceremonies, which are expected to be of a most interesting and imposing character.

☞ There are now employed 900 men, at the establishment of Baldwin & Co., Philadelphia, in building locomotives for the Government, and for the various railroad companies in the loyal States. They expect to complete 12 each month during the year.

☞ The rush of immigrants to the port of New York is unparalleled. In one day last week five vessels arrived at that port bringing 3,234 passengers, all from Liverpool.

The News

Monday June 27.

We have full particulars of the engagement of the 2d corps with the enemy, on Wednesday last. The fighting was very severe, and both parties fought with the most determined bravery. Mott, Barlow and Gibbons' divisions were engaged, and all suffered severely. The rebels captured a battery of four guns.—Capt. McKnight and Liet. Bell, scorning the demands of the rebels, fired several rounds of canister at the enemy, with the rebel flag floating by their battery.

Governor Seymour has written a letter to District Attorney Hall, in which he says, that in the matter of the seizure of the Journal of Commerce and the World, that the Grand Jury having failed to make inquiry, and declare it is inexpedient to do so, in regard to such matter and things as should be given them in charge, it becomes his duty to see that the laws are faithfully executed. As they have refused to do their duty, he recommends that the matter be at once brought before some proper magistrate.

The army opposed to Gen. Grant has been heavily reinforced by two corps from Lee's army and troops North and South Carolina.

The particulars of an attack on the 2d Corps by A. P. Hill's command are given in the telegrams. It appears that our 6th Corps was placed on the left of the 2d Corps and it was supposed that they connected. But it appears there was quite a gap between them into which Hill entered, and before our men were aware of it they received a volley from the rear which threw them into confusion and they retreated rapidly to the woods. This left the 3d division exposed and the enemy charged through and into the pits, ordering our men to surrender.—Our troops fell back rapidly, but many of them were either killed, captured or wounded.

A fire broke out in the Pavillion Hotel at Rockaway Beach, which together with all the cottages and several other buildings were destroyed, Saturday afternoon.

The executive committee of the Conservatives have postponed the Convention which was to have met on the 2d of July to the 20th of August.

Tuesday, June 28.

The operations of Gen. Grant for the past few days have not been very decisive, although we have every reason to believe that the plans which he has adopted are in the full tide of success.

Gen. Foster has been sent across James river, and it is reported that he is about to make an attack on Chapin's Bluff which, in our possession, the way will be clear for the capture of Fort Darling. This stronghold, once in our possession, the taking of Richmond cannot long be delayed.

The designs of Gen. Grant evidently are not to bring on a general engagement. His great object seems to be to get possession of the Weldon railroad, which will cut off a great source of supply to the rebel army.

Col. Woolford was arrested at Lebanon on Monday, by order of Gen. Burbridge, and taken to Louisville.

It is reported from Western Virginia that Gen. McCantland, who was recently defeated by Gen. Hunter, is at Lewisburg with seven thousand men, and that Gen. Morgan in his retreat from Kentucky, had arrived in the same vicinity with two thousand men.

The Commutation clause of the enrollment bill having passed the Senate, and the House having refused to do so, it is said that the Senate will refuse to adjourn unless the House changes its position.

There is no prospect of a repeal of the Gold Bill, but it is thought there may be before the close of the session.

Wednesday, June 29.

Rebel dispatches of the 24th, received at Holly Springs, announce the repulse of Sheaman by Johnston, with a loss of 4,500 men.

Gen. Shelby lately entered Arkansas from Missouri with 2,500 men, and assumed command of all the Confederate forces between the White and Mississippi rivers, and is enforcing a merciless conscription.

No particular news from the Army of the Potomac is received. An attack was made on a party of workmen, in General Burnside's Command, but our men held the ground.

The Health of the troops is good. The colored troops are reported as being but little affected by the heat. Out of 4,000 in the 4th division of the 9th corps only 40 men were unfit for duty. This shows that they can endure the heat much better than white men.

Gen. Hunter telegraphs to Secretary Stanton that he has inflicted great injury on the enemy, and that he was victorious in every engagement, and that he withdrew from the enemy on account of running short of ammunition, and the ipossibility of collecting supplies in the presence of a superior force.

Thursday, June 30.

The news from the seat of war is very meagre. A heavy thunder storm prevailing, prevented the proper working of the telegraph last night, and consequently we are without the usual dispatches.

Since Gen. Grant crossed the Rapidan he has taken 17,000 prisoners, not including those of the last four or five days, while his own loss is less than one third that number.

Scraps of News.

—Three young girls, under 15 yeas of age, held a fair in West Cambridge, Mass., on the 17th inst., for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission, and paid over $1,200 as the net proceeds thereof.

—Six brothers from Vermont, named Hull, enlisted together at the commencement of the war. The last survivor of the six was killed in one of the present battles.

—It is reported that the rebel prisoners captured before Petersburg say that for three months past the Confederate Government has been constantly shipping and storing provisions at Richmond, in anticipation of a seige.

—Five hundred and sixty rebel prisoners, captured by Gen. Sherman from Johnston's army, passed through Louisville, on Wednesday last, en route to the military prison at Rock Island.

—A freight train on the Nashville and Louisville Railroad was thrown from the track on Tuesday night June 21st, occasioned by the removal of a rail by guerrillas. As soon as the train was brought to a halt, a murderous fire was poured into the cars by a party of desperadoes concealed a short distance from the road, and two engineers who were on the locomotive were badly wounded.

On Friday night, the 17th inst., a party of guerrillas halted in front of the house of a Mr. John R. Jones, a prominent Union man, living near Bloomfield, Ky., when they approached the door and demanded admittance. This Mr. Jones refused, and ordered them to leave his premises. They then threatened to break in the door and procured an axe to carry their threat into execution, when Mr. Jones fired at them, fatally wounding the leader of the gang. He was carried away by a portion of the gang, but three of them remained around the house threatening to be avenged on their leader. They applied a lighted torch to the rear of the house, when Jones then agreed to deliver himself up provided they would not harm him. They assented, and upon opening the door the three desperadoes fired at him, killing him instantly.

—Government notes of the denominations of fifties and tens, which have been altered from twos and ones, by splitting the numbers on the backs of the fractional currency, and substituting them for the numbers on the original notes, have been received at the office of the United States Treasurer at Washington. The substitution is not very skillfully made, and a critical examination will disclose the fraud.

—The estate of Gen. Robert E. Lee, who commands the rebel army, and who is fighting to enslave the black man, has been very appropriately consecrated by Secretary Stanton. He ordered Col. Greene to organize the Freedman's village, for the protection of the black man and his family, upon the Arlington estate, belonging to the rebel Gen. Lee.—That village is a success. He has also selected a site upon the same estate, for a cemetery, for the burial of loyal soldiers who die in Virginia from wounds inflicted by Rebel traitors.

—It is remarked that in no wise did the subjects of Maximillian demonstrate any joy on his arrival. They were, of course, curious to have a look at the imperial couple, but beyond this were as cold and impassible, although born in those regions which gave his Majesty birth, instead of under the tropical rays of Old Sol.

—The Richmond Sentinel, of the 6th inst, says that the Secretary of the rebel Navy has received information that Admiral Faragut arrived off Mobile on the 4th instant, with a fleet of sixteen large ships.

—Bishop Brownell, the senior Bishop of the United States, has appointed Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, to go to Paris this summer, to consecrate the new Episcopal Church recently built there by American citizens, with permission of the French Government. He will probably leave for Europe early next month.

—It is reported that a number of conscripts jumped overboard while being conveyed to City Point one day last week, and that seven were drowned.

—Private advices from New Orleans are that the main portion of Gen. Banks' army is coming to that place, and that active campaigning in Western Louisiana is at an end, for the summer at least.

—The remains of Capt. Rhines and Lieut. Chilson, of the 1st Michigan Sharpshooters, arrived in Washington on Thursday last. They were killed in one of the battles before Petersburg.

—When our forces captured Staunton, Western Virginia, the hotels were charging $20 per day for board or $6 per single meal. The next day the price of a meal in our currency was 50 cents.

—At the opening of the Philadelphia Sanitary Fair, a young man calling himself Geo. H. Mix, by means of forged letters obtained the position of Assistant Cashier of the Fair, and succeeded in stealing from its proceeds about $7,000. A short time after his arrest, he was indicted by the Grand Jury, plead guilty to the charge of embezzlement and also of stealing a pistol, and was sentenced to six years imprisonment.

—By order of the Secretary of War, that portion of Marvland lying between Patuxent, Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River, including the prisoners' camp at Point Lookout, has been added to the Department of Washington.

—There is a tree at the front of Gen. Sherman's army, which is called the fatal tree. Seven men were shot, one after another, as they advanced to the ill fated tree to take a secure position behind its huge trunk, when a board was placed there with the word "Dangerous" chalked upon it. The rebels shot the guide-board into fragments, and a sergeant took his place behind the unsuspecting tree.—In less than five minutes two Minie balls pierced the sergeant's body, and he fell, the eighth martyr beneath the shadow of the tree of death.

—A well known lawyer and prominent citizen of Baltimore, named William H. Young, was instantly killed in Baltimore, on Tuesday last, by being run over by a car.

The $300 Exemption Clause.

It is a question who are best entitled to give evidence as to the practical result of the three hundred dollar exemption clause in the conscription act, as heretofore enforced. The weight of testimony among those who have acted as volunteer boards of recruitment in many of the large cities is on the side of a fixed rate of commutation. The Provost Marshals are understood to give their judgement in favor of a repeal of the exemption clause, and from Washington we have the report that the President, acting on the advice of the Secretary of War and the Provost Marshal General, has transmitted a message to Congress recommending the clause to be stricken out, on the ground that it prevents the army from being kept up to its maximum strength. Without attempting to combat this decision, it is easy to see that if Congress acts on the President's recommendation, the price of substitutes will rise at least 100 per cent. in the coming draft.

☞ Postmasters throughout the country are universally complaining of the carelessness of people using Revenue Stamps in sending letters. A great many do not seem to understand the fact, that Government Revenue Stamps are not good for anything on letters going through the post office. Every person who puts a Revenue Stamp on a letter loses the value of the stamp, and the person receiving it has to pay double the postage in order to take it from the office.

☞ The saw-mill owned by James DeGolyer, of Hudson, situated near Posey Lake, and used for sawing lumber for a spoke factory, was blown up by the explosion of the boiler on Tuesday of last week. No one was in the mill at the time. Mr. Wheeler Lindenbower, was engaged in loading lumber at the time, about fifteen feet from the mill. The concussion of the air was so great that he was thrown some twenty or thirty feet and in some way his arm was hurt considerably.

☞ The Hornellsville Tribune puts up the name of Abraham Lincoln, of Indiana, for President of the United States.

A Curious Freak.—A young gentleman of our acquance, who sports a mustache and a luxurious growth of side whiskers, retired to rest at an early hour, as usual, on Saturday night, and when he awoke in the morning he discovered, to his amazement, that his whiskers, hitherto of brown color, had assumed a jet black appearance. His countenance has so much changed in consequence, that now his most intimate acquaintances scarcely recognize him.—Exchange.

Nothing very strange about that. We know of several young men of our acquaintance, who have had their mustache and whiskers turn to a beautiful black in the day-time.

☞ The Bell for the new Methodist Episcopal Church arrived week before last, and has been placed in one of the towers of the Church. It is of the the finest quality of cast steel; its circumference at the mouth is nerely eleven feet; its weight 1,500 lbs. and cost $325. The Bell is from the manufactory of Messrs. Naylor Vickors & Co. of Sheffield, England; it has a sharp clear tone, (being keyed on G,) too sharp for some, but just the thing to suit us. Mr. Chas. Lawrence purchased the bell and has been busy for the past week superintending the hanging of it; he has now got it in perfect order. We think Mr. L. displayed great taste in selecting it as it is certainly one of the finest bells in the country.

☞ When Burbridge was in pursuit of Morgan he was en route to Frankfort, but changed his destination at Paris to Cynthiana, through information brought him by a member of the 9th Michigan, who was taken prisoner by Morgan's men, and escaped while they were plundering stores, and, after several hours of close concealment, made his way out of town dressed in citizen's clothes, and reached Paris, where Burbridge then was. He was at first treated as a spy, but soon proved his identity, and gave such information about Morgan's movements that Burbridge turned his course toward Cynthiana, where he routed Morgan.

Terry, the Executor named in the last will and testament of said deceased, praying that said will may be proved and allowed and that your petitioner may be appointed Executor thereof

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 27th day of June, 1864, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition and that the heirs-at-law of said deceased and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered, That said Petioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the Tecumseh Herald, a newspaper printed and circulating in said County of Lenawee, for three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

ROBERT R, BEECHER, Judge of Probate.

Cash paid for Pork, Lard, Dried Meat, &c. at A. JAMES.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co.; and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
WOOLSTON COMFORT.

Commissioners' Notice.

The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court of Lenawee County, Michigan, Commissioners to receive, examine and allow all claims and demands against the Estate of Elijah Wright, late of Franklin, in said County, deceased, hereby give notice that they will meet for such purpose, at the Office of Snow & Keyes, in the village of Clinton, in said County, on Saturday the 9th day of July and Saturday the 24th day of September next, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of each of those days, and that four months from the 3rd day of June, 1864, are allowed by the said Probate Court to Creditors to present their claims for adjustment and allowance.

DANFORTH KEYES, } Commissioners.

DIED,

Of wounds received in battle with Morgan's rebels, at Cynthiana Hospital, June 16th, AUGUSTUS GILMORE, aged 20 years.

Young GILMORE, the son of Asa Gilmore, Esq, of this place, was born at Tecumseh, spent his entire life with us, until he enlisted out of our Union School, in September last, into the 11th Michigan Cavalry, Co. G. He was a young man of good scholarly attainments, and very much beloved by a large circle of friends, and with patriotic fervor and unquestioned bravery, has thus given himself a sacrifice upon the altar of his country's freedom.

His funeral sermon will be preached next Sabbath, by the Rev. H. L. Hayward, at the Universalist Church, in this place, at one o'clock P. M.

☞ Our citizens have been somewhat excited, of late, in the expectancy of some of our village boys who are among the veterans of the 4th Mich. Infantry. It will be seen, by reference to an extract from the Adv. in another column, that they have accepted an invitation to visit Adrian the coming Fourth of July, and as the Detroit papers say "they have no money and they will not give them anything to eat, it has been suggested, that they may have concluded to remain in Detroit and diet, preparatory to the reception at Adrian.

The Draft.

On Monday afternoon the supplementary draft for the 1st Congressional District of this State took place at the office of Col. Flanigan, Provost Marshal, in the presence of a number of witnesses. Four men from this county received orders from Uncle Sam for new suits of blue clothes. Their names are, John Losey, Rome; Philander Cole, Rome; Charles S. Ingersoll, Seneca; and Amalus A. Abling, Seneca. The only professional man drafted in the district, was Ingersoll, of Seneca, attorney and counsellor at law.

All about Ink.

G. T. Ketcham has just received a large invoice of Cox's celebrated Writing Fluid. Our own opinion is, that there is not another writing fluid in the world that will compare with Cox's; it flows more freely from the pen, and is of a deeper and more permanent color than any other we have ever used.

Don't Forget,

That A. Hood & Co are closing out their Dry Goods, Shawls, and the thousand and one articles pertaining to the Dry Goods trade. Delays are dangerous. Call early and secure good bargains.—Additions to their stock of Clothing and Hats and Caps, just being received.

☞ Lloyd's official map of Virginia, the best map ever issued, and the one used by the War Department; also, Colton's pocket map of Michigan, just received at G. T. Ketcham's.

☞ J. C. Burroughs, formerly of the City Restaurant, has formed a partnership with Nathaniel Burroughs, and has opened an Eating Saloon, in connection with the Bakery, one door east of A. Hood & Co's. store. Joe's style of keeping a first-class eating Saloon is to well known to need any lengthy comment from us, and we have not a doubt that the Bakery department will recieve the attention requisite, to make it 'A' No. 1.

☞ The Soldier's Aid Society of this village, shipped a box, on Friday June 17th, containing the following articles: Six new quilts; 2 half-worn quilts; 7 new calico shirts; 1 coat; 2 pairs of slippers; 12 new palmleaf fans; a quantity of magazines, newspapers, and cloths for bandages.

Return of the Fourth Infantry.

This gallant Regiment arrived at Detroit on Saturday evenig last, direct from the front. Unfortunately none of its members were from Detroit, consequently they met with rather a cool reception. We clip the following extracts from the Detroit papers:

"Those members of the 4th Infantry whose three years' term of service has expired, have returned, to be mustered out, and arrived in this city on Saturday night about eleven o'clock. They number 108 men and 13 officers fit for duty. No arrangements had been made for their reception, and, as the men had no money, not having been paid yet, they experienced great discomfort for want of a place to stay. There was no public reception, not even ordinary hospitality extended to these brave men, who have faced death and danger for the last three years in front of the enemy."—[Free Press, June 27th.

"The Fourth Infantry, or all that remains of the original organization, arrived home from the seat of war on Sunday morning, about 2 o'clock, via, the Southern road.—We regret to say that no preparations were made to recieve these brave men, and none but a few relatives of the men were at the depot to greet them on their return home, after an absence of over three years. Besides this, they were obliged to stack arms and sleep on the sidewalk till daylight, as no provision had been made for their comfort, or at least the regiment had no notice of anything of the kind being done. The regiment left the front near Petersburg, Va., on Sunday week."—[Adv and Trib. June 27th.

"The members of the noble 4th Infantry brought with them to this city several boys of destitute Virginia families, which they propose to care for until their parents are able to provide for them. These children are bright-eyed, intelligent little fellows, and if properly trained may yet do well in the world.—[Adv. and Trib. June 28th.

"About one hundred and twenty men of the 4th Infantry, arrived in this city late on Saturday night from the front, their term of service having expired. The majority of the men belonged to distant parts of the State, but they were informed that it would be necessary for them to come to Detroit to get their formal discharge papers. Their arrival was unnoticed and uncared for. No provision was made for their stay over night, and the men were actually forced to stack arms in the gutter, and dispose of themselves as best they could upon the softest planks they could find on the sidewalk, where they remained until daylight."—[Free Press, June 28th.

"This regiment, which was ordered to report here to be mustered out of service, and met with such shabby treatment at the hands of our citizens, we are glad to know have been invited by the ladies of Adrian to visit that city. In view of this fact, the regiment this morning held a meeting and unanimously resolved to accpt the invitation, and visit Adrian on Monday next, the Fourth of July, and then return the ladies of that place the battle flag presented by them to the regiment, to be disposed of as they see fit. To say that these brave men—about 150 of the original 1,046 that left Adrian three years ago to fight the battles of the country—were shabbily treated by our citizens is but a mild expression of the truth. And we are extremely sorry to chronicle the fact. Braver men never faced a foe. No inglorious movement ever tarnished their fame. Three gallant colonels fell upon the field, besides many of the scarred and war worn veterans. Notwithstanding the tame reception extended to the survivors here, they are as enthusiastic as ever, and all unite in saying that they are again ready and willing to shoulder their rifles and help put down this rebellion."—[Adv. and Trib, June 29th.

We think that the third extract is all the comment necessary. Our brave boys are willing to share their last crust with the homeless children of their enemies, are allowed by the citizens of Detroit, to lie in the street, with nothing to cover them, and nothing to eat.

Compliment to a Chaplain.

As the retiring members of the 4th Michigan Infantry are about to disband, they have passed the following complimentary resolution to their Chaplain, Rev. Mr. Seage:

Whereas, We, the enlisted men of the 4th Michigan Infantry, are about to part with our Chaplain, Rev. John Seage, who has ever been with us in the hour of danger and suffering, upon the battle-field and in the hospital; and,

Whereas, We deire in some manner to express to him our high appreciation of his services, therefore,

Resolved, That he has our best wishes for prosperity in life, and our profoundest gratitude.

☞ The Peak Family, Vocalists, Harpists, and Lancashire and Swiss Bell Ringers, will give one of their unrivaled Entertainments, at Bidwell's Hall, on Monday Evening, July 5th.

An extended notice of this celebrated troupe is unnecessary. Everybody has heard of the "Belle Ringers," and we predict a full house for them. Our citizens probably remember their entertainment given here about three years ago, and we warrant that everybody who attended then will be on hand to hear them Tuesday night.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The Interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transfered only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, an are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium.) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin,

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich. Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich. First National Bank of Clinton, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS which are depositaries of Public money, and all RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depositary Banks,) will furnish further informatirn on application and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich, alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Burrs, or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a lifetime and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using Weed's Patent Thread Controller. There is [illegible] the control of the [illegible]

[illegible] is Warranted

[illegible] facturers will find the [illegible] machines for use, [illegible] keeping in repair and [illegible] and their great speed and [illegible] management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

The Country Gentleman of Oct. 1862 says: "We have seen in operation no less than seven different Horse Hay Forks, some of which we had considered good ones. It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price."

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

The Good of Evil.

BY LEO. MILLER.

Why hath every day its night,
And every rose its thorn?
And why is not the husky stalk
As mellow as the corn?
Why comes the winter's chilling blast—
Why falls the drifting snow,
When summer's warmth would better suit,
And cause more flowers to grow?

Why treads grim famine o'er the Earth
To pinch and starve the poor?
Why comes the pestilence to bring Disease no balm can cure?
And why doth war with sword and plume
Go stalking through our land,
Smiting the brave and fair and young
With devastating hand?

Why is it human souls are wrung
With sorrow, grief and woe?
And what doth cause the bitter tears,
Down Beauty's cheek to flow?
Why aches the heart? Why dims the eye?
Why throbs the burning brain?
And why, O why, is pleasure not
As plentiful as pain?

Ah! God never made a perfect thing
Without a speck or flaw—
Perfection never yet was reached
By any special law;
The towering mount, the stalwart oak,
The tender blade of grass,
Through stages of developement
Are all obliged to pass.

Then what is man, that he should be
From Nature's laws exempt?
And why should he resist her claims,
And treat them with contempt?
The wisest men were children once,
With mother's milk were fed,
And all the paths which they have walked
The angels once did tread.

The blind man never sees the sun,
Although the sun doth shine;
The deaf man hears no melody
In music most divine;
Man's imperfections 'tis that make
All things imperfect seem,
And when we think we're most awake,
Perchance we most do dream.

What men call evil only is
The germinating seed
From whence by sure development
Shall spring good in abundance,
And man all evil shall outgrow,
Despite his doubts and fears,
In faith and hope shall plume his wings,
And soar to brighter spheres.

Let man learn wisdom from the bee
Which, by its instinct, knows
To put honey from the flower
As well as from the rose;
As out of Darkness sprang the Light,
As oaks from acorns grow,
So out of Error Truth shall come
And Good from Evil flow.

Real Courage.

Boys and girls, as well as men and women, are apt to sometimes mistake prudence for cowardice, and yet no two qualities can be more different:

"Pooh!" said a rough boy once to his more gentle cousin, "I do believe, John, you're afraid to go near the horse just because he isn't tied."

"There is no need of my going near him, Stephen," was the reply; "and there is danger of his kicking any one who teases him uselessly."

"Ha, ha!" shouted Stephen, "you're a bravey, now, ain't you? The idea of being afraid of a horse!" and with a taunting look at John, the foolish boy walked up to the grazing animal and poked him with a stick. The horse gave an uneasy start, but continued pulling at the grass.

"See here," exclaimed Stephen, growing bolder, "if you'll promise not to faint, John, I'll present you with a lock of his tail in a minute."

John didn't faint, but Stephen did; for as he stealthily approach the horse in the rear, the animal bounded away, after performing a flourish with his hoofs that laid his tormentor in the dust.

John tried hard to restore Stephen to consciousness. He loosened his clothing, rubbed his hands and feet, and bringing water in his cap from the pool near by, dashed it on the boy's face; but all in vain—there were no signs of life. The nearest house was their own home, a quarter of a mile distant. John felt that not a moment must be lost. He approached the now quiet horse, and leaping upon his back, rode swiftly, without saddle or bridle, to his uncle's house for help.

When, after a long illness, Stephen recovered, he was a wiser boy, and told his cousin that he really believed the horse had managed to knock a little common sense into him.

"And what a dunce I must have been, John," he added, "to fancy you were afraid of that horse!"

☞ The man who was lost in slumber has found his way out on a nightmare.

One or the Other.

Each individual in every station and position in life—the peasant in his cot, or the king on his throne—the lowest outcast to be found in the most wretched haunts of vice, or he who stands highest in the scale of intelligence and goodness, refinement and virtue—the most uncultivated boor, or the wisest statesman—the savage and the ruffian, or the philanthropist and the Christian—all exert an influence upon the human race, all wield a power for Good or Evil, and sway the great wave of Humanity upon the stream of Progress or amid the eddies of retrogression. You, reader, wherever or whatever you are, exert an influence for the benefit or detriment of the community. You advance or you retrograde. You are no cypher. You are a numeral—it may be a multiplication of numerals. Is it in behalf of Truth or Error? Ask yourself the question. You are an instrument, either weak or powerful, doing service in the cause of Right, or at work as an abettor in upholding the cause of Wrong. You please, encourage and instruct, or you contaminate, abuse and degrade. You promote Knowledge or foster Ignorance. You cultivate and spread around you a lively appreciation of the Good, the Beautiful and True, or you scatter abroad the pestilential seeds of Misery, Vice and Crime. There is no principle of negation in your character. It is all positive—positively Good, or positively Bad. Your counsel is that of utility and wisdom, or it is the reverse. Your deportment among your fellow men exercises power for weal or woe. You entail happiness or misery. In the great brotherhood of Humanity you are a friend or a foe. In the great cause of your country's welfare, you will be found an advocate or an antagonist. There is no neutral ground—you are either for or against, friend or foe, patriot or traitor.

How important it is, then, that our [illegible] the scale of correct principle, an incentive to the Right, a guide to Truth, an omnipresent, earnest, liviving power that shall fructify, beautify, irradiate and fertilize the great vernal plane of human brotherhood.

Reader, where are you, what are you, among these powers of Good and Evil? [illegible] against cherishing distressing feelings; and with as much care, should habituate ourselves to self-control; to the habit of looking at every thing of a stirring or harrowing character with a calm courage; we should strive at all times for that valuable characteristic, "presence of mind," under all circumstances, for we are every day in great need of it; it is in many cases, a literal "life-preserver."

Tunnel Through the Alps.

The greatest single engineering work ever undertaken is the tunnel for a railroad through Mount Cenis. A report on this subject has lately been presented to the Lower House of the Italian Parliament by the Minister of Public Works. This tunnel was begun in 1857, and that year and the two following were spent in preliminary operations, such as the construction of houses, workshops, etc. When completed it will be nearly eight miles in length. Mr. Bartlett, an English engineer, set in operation a steam boaring machine, soon after operations were commenced, and about eight times the amount of work was done by it that had been done by hand. But steam could not be used in the interior of the tunnel, on account of want of air. The Italian engineers then proposed to substitute compressed air instead of steam; and their method is now in full operation.

This tunnel, when completed, will unite France with Italy, by rail, and it is to be a joint work between the Governments of the two countries, France paying a large portion of the cost. It is calculated that this tunnel will be completed in twelve and a half years from the time of its commencement; but with ordinary hand drilling it would have required twenty-five years' labor. The work proceeds now at the rate of 3,600 feet per annum. The use of compressed air to operate the drilling machines, not only affords the power for this purpose, but also supplies air for the respiration of miners. At one end 720 men are employed; at the other, 900. The cost thus far has been about $2,545,400.

A MODEL PROCLAMATION.—The present is a war of long-winded proclamations. The people would be glad, however, if our Generals would borrow some of that terse and direct style which distinguished the fathers. Witness the Proclamation of old Ethan Allen to the rebellious town of Guilford, Vt., in 1790:

"PROCLAMATION.—I, Ethan Allen, declare that if the inhabitants of Guilford do not instantly and peacably submit to the constituted authorities of the State of Vermont, said town shall be rendered as the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah—by G—d!

ETHAN ALLEN."

History tells us that the Guilfordites read the proclamation and acquiesced.

Mind and Body.

The influence which the mind has in causing, aggravating, and protracting disease, is too constantly lost sight of, by all classes of physicians. Every body recommends exercise as a means of preserving and regaining health. But to ride a certain length of time, or to walk a specified distance "for the health," merely for the sake of the health, is almost useless, and is a pennance; but if there is the accompaniment of an agreeable associate or an exhilarating motive, one which lifts up the mind and absorbs it for the time being, so as to make it wholly forgetful of the bodily condition, as the radical object of the exercise, this is health giving; its effects are always magical, on mind and body and blood.

Dwelling on trouble; remorse for lost opportunities; the hugging of sharp, pointed memories; moping over the slights of friends; feeding over exaggerations of the hardness of our lot, and grieving vainly for unrequitted love, all these are known the world over, as being capable of bringing on slow and painful and fatal diseases. But it is not so well understood that great mental emotion sometimes causes maladies which prove fatal in a few days; such maladies are induced by great physical exposures. It was recently announced that a distinguished French advocate was so excited and exhausted by one of his professional efforts, as to superinduce an attack of pneumonia (lung fever or inflamation of the lungs,) of which he died in a few days. Three young ladies were riding in a carriage in St. Louis; the horses ran away; two of the riders escaped from the vehicle, while the third sat still, as composedly as if nothing unusual had taken place; all were astonished at her "presence of mind." After she reached her home, she informed her friends that she remained still because the shock, the feeling of horror was such, that she was, per force, [illegible] such as [illegible] on inflamation of bowels, which nothing could remove, and of which she died in a few days. These facts, with thousands of others like them, prove beyond all cavil, that the mind may be a cause of disease, and the inference is clear, that the state of the mind should be [illegible]

The Love Principle.

The love principle is stronger than the force principle, and oh! how sublime, how beautiful its strength! It is as high as heaven! who can attain it—deep as the unfathiomable ocean! who can reach it?—and yet an infant is its type, it is so humble. We said that the love principle is more powerful than the force principle; but there is so little of the former in the world, that the latter triumphs—consequently, that 'might make right' has become an almost universal maxim.

No marvel, then, that the moral power of society is weakened, instead of being made strong by numbers—no marvel, when each would rob the other of his right, that with an increase of crime, and that this vast accumulation should constantly ferment, and throw out from its agitated bosom fierce assassins and bloody rioters—no marvel that the mob should rule in place of law, while the force principle triumphs—while it is educated into the mind of the little infant, from the moment that its plastic nature is capable of thought.

It is the province of education to harmonize these antagonistic principles to make force subservient to love, by directing the belligerent nature of man against the errors and vices of society, instead of individual members of nations.

☞ A new era in portraiture is predicted from the discovery of Mr. Swan, who presents a solid life-like likeness of any one in a cube of crystal. The effect of the new process is to exhibit the subject of the portraiture with life-like versimilitude and in natural relief. You take up a small case, and look through what appears to be a little window, and there stands or sits before you, in a pleasantly-lighted chamber, a marvellous effigy of a lady or gentleman, as the case may be.

Money.

Money is a queer institution. It buys provender, satisfies justice and heals wounded honor. Everything resolves itself into cash, from stock jobbing to building churches. Childhood craves bannies, youth aspires to dimes, manhood is swayed by the mighty dollar. The blacksmith swings the sledge, the lawyer pleads for his client, and the judge decides the question of life or death for his salary. Money makes the man, therefore man must make money, if he would be respected by fools; for the eye of the world looks through golden spectacles. It buys Brussels carpets, lace curtains, gilded cornices, rich furniture, and builds marble mansions. It drives us to church in splendid equipages, and pays the rent of the best pews. It buys silk and jewelry for my lady, it commands the respect of gaping crowds, and commands obsequious attention. It enables us to be charitable, to send Bibles to the heathen, to remove domestic indulgence. It gilds the rugged scenes of life, and spreads over the rugged paths of existence a velvet carpet soft to our tread; the rude scenes and turmoils are encased in a gilt frame. It bids care vanish, soothes the anguish of the bed of sickness; stops short of nothing save the grim destroyer, whose relentless hands spare none, but moral distinction, and teach poor humanity that it is but dust. Thus wealth pauses on the brink of eternity; the beggar and the millionaire rest side by side beneath the sod, to rise in equality to answer the final summons.

A Monster Turtle.

There arrived at one of our wharves on Wednesday, Nov. 11th, the pilot-boat Sea Foam, having on board a monster turtle, weighing twelve hundred pounds. He was caught about ten miles from this port after a conflict of ten hours. He would go down, remaining under water for some minutes, and then coming up, [illegible] fifteen or twenty minutes, swimming about as fast as a boat is rowed.—He was severely wounded in a vital part before being taken on board, but lived until Thursday morning. His back is black, the shell divided into five parts by ridges—the belly spotted with white.—With his head a foot long, he measured seven feet from his nose to his tail, and girted ten feet. He was two feet thick, and about five feet from side to side, being of a regular oval form; when his fore-flippers were extended, they measured eight and a half feet from tip to tip. Many old salts examined him, but not one ever saw the like for size, in any part of the world. He was doubtless what is described in the books as the "Leathery Turtle."—[Portsmoth Journal.

A Good Joke.

The following story is told of a Yankee captain and his mate. Whenever there was a plum-pudding made, by the captain's orders, all the plums were put into one end of it, and that end placed next to the captain, who, after helping himself passed it to the mate, who never found any plums in his part of it. After this game had been played for some time, the mate prevailed on the stewart to place the end which had no plums in it next to the captain. The captain no sooner perceived that the pudding had the wrong end towards him, than picking up the dish and turning it around, as if to examine the china, said: "This dish cost me two shillings in Liverpool;" and put it down as if without design, with the plum end next to himself. 'Is it possible?' said the mate taking up the dish. 'I shouldn't suppose it was worth more than a shilling.' And, as if in perfect innocence, he put down the dish with the plums next to himself. The captain looked at the mate, the mate looked at the captain. The captain laughed; the mate laughed. "I'll tell you what, young one, said the captain, 'you've found me out, so we will just cut the pudding lengthwise this time, and have the plums fairly distributed hereafter.

TRACKING A SCHOLAR ROUND THE WORLD.—A teacher in an English Sunday school had a scholar who on leaving the school enlisted in the army. When the lad had gone the teacher wrote him a letter. The correspondence thus begun was kept up during the wanderings of the soldier to various parts of the globe. The warrior died at length, happy in his God, declaring that, though he was not benefited by going to Sunday school, yet the pious letters of his teacher had led him to Christ. How many teachers track their pupils round the globe as this man did?

☞ If a seaman should turn back every time he encounters a head wind, he would never make a voyage. So he who permits himself to be baffled by adverse circumstances, will never make headway in the voyage of life.

☞ A little boy running along stubbed his toe and fell on the pavement. "Never mind, my little fellow," said a by-stander, "you won't feel the pain to-morrow." "Then," answered the little boy, "I won't cry to-morrow."

☞ Archdeacon Fisher, having once preached an old sermon, and not being aware that Constable had heard it, asked him how he liked it: "Very much, indeed, Fisher," replied Constable; "I always did like that sermon."

☞ Quilp and his wife had a bit of contention the other day. "I know you have more brilliancy than I," said the woman, "but I have the better judgment." "Yes," said Quilp, "our choice of marriage shows that." Quilp was informed that he was a brute.

☞ After the charge of the negro troops at Petersburg, in which they captured three rebel redoubts, Gen. Hinks, their commander, asked one of them:—"Well, my man, did you get up near enough for the rebels to see the whites of your eyes?" "I dunno 'bout dat, sah," said the perspiring hero, showing his ivory, "but dey smelt us, I reckon."

☞ A lady once remarked to Charles Lamb that she did not care for him three skips of a louse. The witty gentleman at once took a card and wrote the following lines, and handed them to her:

"A lady once told me, and in her own house,
That she cared not for me three skins of a louse;
I forgave the poor creature for what she had said,

"Shure and it is because they are red is it?" quoth the blushing Bridget. "Faith and a better reason than that, mavourneen: Because there is one of them on each sids of a waggin' tongue!"

☞ Josh Billings has issued a series of proverbs, from which we select the following:

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 7, 1864.

The Situation.

Amid the all absorbing interest attending the great struggle for the perpetuity of our National existence almost every other topic not immediately connected with this, sinks into insignificance.

"Watchman, what of the night?" is the question upon the heart and lips of almost every one; and to this, as of old, the appropriate answer is—"The morning cometh, and also the night."

At both Richmond and Atlanta we may, ere many days, look for the clash of resounding arms, and garments rolled in blood. The carnage of battle, even of successful battle, may well emblem the darkness of overspreading night, and while it rages, men hold their breath for fear.

Still it is by battle that this terrible contest is to be decided; and it is for the privilege of deciding this question by battle, that all the best strategy of Grant and Sherman have for these many past days been so energetically and successfully applied.

At both these points the hordes of rebeldom have been gradually, but surely, driven to the wall, and the hour of decisive conflict is now approaching.

The armies of both Lee and Johnston begin to show signs of weakness, and the situation of each begins to become, to them, embarrassing. Hard pushed on every side, they have been compelled to give way.

Johnston has been compelled to fall back from his last strong mountain hold, and has now only a comparative plain, with no especial advantages for stratigical defense betwixt him and Atlanta. Outnumbered, out fought, and out generaled, he will have to succumb.

Lee finds himself, at Richmond, crowded back on every side, and his communications constantly threatened and interrupted, while those of Grant are both ample and unassailable. Every day's delay only increases his embarrassments, and makes a final retreat from Richmond, should he seek for it, less feasible.

With regard to the threatened raid into the North, we believe it will turn out to be only a big scare, and in the end as disastrous to those who attempt it, as was that of Morgan into Kentucky.

Hunter's cannon and cavalry will soon let us know whether it is 3,000 or 30,000 men who are threatening the banks of the Potomac. This movement will take care of itself, without for one instant diverting Grant from his grand object of crushing out the army of Lee before the walls of Richmond.

The Alabama, built in England, armed in England, manned in England, and owned in England, but for so long a time in the name of the Confederates, preying upon American commerce, has at last met an American war vessel and gone to the bottom.

The finance, temporarily shocked by the resignation of Secretary Chase, has rallied under the able chairman of the Finance Committee, who is his successor, and now seems more likely to improve, than to suffer from the change.

Are we not right, then, in looking over the whole horizon, to say that upon the whole the prospect is truly hopeful, and that "the morning cometh."

LOAFING.—Don't be a loafer, don't call yourself a loafer, don't keep a loafer's company, don't hang about loafing places. Better work hard for nothing and board yourself, than sit around day after day, or stand at corners with your hands in your pockets. Better for your mind, better for your prospects. Bustle about, if you mean to have anything to bustle for. Many a poor physician has obtained a real patient by riding hard to attend an imaginary one. A quire of blank paper tied up with red tape, carried under a lawyer's arm, may procure him his first case, and make his fortune. Such is the world—to him that hath shall be given. Quit droning and complaining. Keep busy and mind your chances.

☞ It is related of Mr. Clay that after the capture of his celebrated race horse, "Sleedaddle," by the rebel John Morgan, in his recent raid upon Lexington, Ky., he started in pursuit of the renowned horse thief with two fine animals worth over $500 each, overtook him and offered him both horses together with $600 in exchange for his racer. Morgan replied that he would partly comply with his request, and so saying he took the two horses, but would not give up the other. Morgan's soldiers then relieved Mr. C. of his $600, and he was compelled to leave for home on foot with empty pockets.

The News

Monday July 4.

Gen. Hunter has arrived at Charleston, Virginia, after a march of five hundred miles, over the mountains, in Western Virginia. He defeated the enemy in five different engagements, and destroyed an immese amount of rebel property, all through the Shenandoah Valley. His total loss is about 2,000, and that of the enemy 5,000.

A rebel force, supposed to be the same that had been repulsed by Gen. Hunter, appeared before Martinsburg on Sunday morning. Gen. Sigel in command, in view of his inferiority of force, retired, and the rebels took possession. General Sigel fell back to Harper's Ferry, and has taken position on Maryland Heights. It is also reported that fighting was going on all day within ten miles of Harper's Ferry.

Gens. Wilson and Kantz have returned from their cavalry raid. They destroyed sixty miles of railroad, all the blacksmith shops where rails could be straightened, and all mills where lumber could be procured for repairs. On their return they were attacked by a superior rebel force under Fitzhugh Lee and Hampton Wade. They succeeded in reaching our lines, but with considerable loss.

An attempt was made by the 18th corps to make an assault on the enemy's works in front of Petersburg, on the 30th ult., but the rebels showed themselves too strong to warrant it.

Mr. Fessenden had a long interview with the President Saturday, and there is no doubt he will accept the Secretaryship of the Treasury. He has been urged to do so by many of the leading men of the country.

The Committee of Conference on the Enrollment Act have come to an agreement, and will soon make their report. Commutation is abolished, and fifty days is the time fixed for volunteering before a draft takes place.

Mr. Chase has been fully exhonorated by the investigating Committee appointed to inquire into his conduct.

Wednesday, July 6.

We have an extensive account this morning of the rebel raid into Maryland. The force is estimated at from 2,000 to 4,000, including infantry and cavalry, under the command of Gen. Early. From the conflicting accounts we have received we are unable to arrive at any particular conclusion on the subject. It is evident there are [illegible] some force at or near Harper's Ferry [illegible] probably dare to penetrate the State much farther with the small numbers reported, yet if there is a probability of getting back they may possibly go up to Pennsylvania, where provisions, forage, horses, etc., are more plenty than in Maryland. The crisis of the affair is [illegible] and then a conscript, appears to be the whole object and intent of the raid.

Senator Fessenden has accepted the office of Secretary of the Treasury, and entered upon his duties yesterday. He attended the cabinet meeting at noon.

Thursday, July 7.

It is now definitely ascertained that the whole force of the enemy now operating on the upper Potomac, does not exceed 5,000, one fourth of which is cavalry and the balance infantry. The fight of Gen. Mulligan with the advance of the rebels at Leetown, is spoken of as most gallant. He successfully repulsed them several times. The impression now is that the enemy will retire within the next twelve hours, as Gen. Hunter, with a large force, is hovering in their rear, and if they remain longer, he will overwhelm them. Our troops are concentrating at Chambersburg and beyond.

We have the statement of the Captain of the Kearsage, relative to the fight with the Alabama, which fully confirms all previous accounts published. The London Daily News published an account of the Kearsage and Alabama affair, correcting the false statements in regard to the course pursued by the former. It charged that the Deerhound acted as a sort of tender to the Alabama; that Capt. Winslow would have secured the whole of the officers and crew of the Alabama, had he not placed too much confidence in the owner of the yacht; that he considered Capt. Semmes and others who escaped as bound in honor to give themselves up, and that he did not pursue and fire upon the Deerhound because he did not believe any one carrying the flag of the Royal Yacht squadron would act so dishonorably.

The Philadelphia Press has a statement that the President will call for 300,000 more men within a few days.

Heavy firing was heard in the direction of Petersburg on the morning of the 6th, but it was not known at City Point whether the firing was anything more than an artillery duel. The hospitals at the latter place have been cleared of nearly all the sick and wounded.

Gen. Wallace has met with success at Frederick. He has foiled thus far the rebels in all their undertakings to drive our forces from town

Scraps of News.

—Two men died of sun stroke on Thusday last in St. Louis.

—The preliminaries of the international match between Joe Coburn and Jem Mace have been consummated. The fight will take place on the 4th of October next.

—A terrible accident occurred on the Nashville and North-western Railroad on Thursday last to a train filled with soldiers, by which Lieut. H. Cherry, of the 63d Ohio, and a colored soldier, named John Cade, of the 4th U. S. colored regiment, were killed, and about 30 others wounded, some of them severely.

—An action was recently brought in a French Court against a Jefferson Davis by a French firm to recover damages for a ship laden with cotton which was burned in New Orleans harbor by the Confederate authorities, in April, 1862. The Court allowed a demurrer to the jurisdiction on the ground that, although the Southern States were only acknowledged as belligerents, still Mr. Jefferson Davis was the representative of a de facto Government, and therefore not amenable to French law courts.

—Gen. Sherman's personal appearance is thus described by the war correspondent of the Cincinnati 'Commercial:'—"Tall, straight, lithe, with a firm step; deep, gray, expressive eyes; face not unmarked with care but usually placid; his nose slighty aquiline; hair dark and now interwoven with threads of silver; hands that were made to be useful rather than ornamental; intellectual brow, well-balanced head, strong shoulders, small waist, active limbs, and feet enclosed in good sized boots—such are the outlines of one of the most practical and certainly one of the ablest generals this war has given to America.

—The ladies who undertook to distribute strawberries to the sick and wounded soldiers in the hospitals of Washington, have distributed this delicious fruit to nearly 10,000 men. They expected to have distributed them to a greater number, but owing to the great difficulty in obtaining the fruit at the Washington and Baltimore markets, it was impossible. Having money still unexpended, the ladies determined to expend it for the benefit of the soldiers. They had observed that most of the soldiers desired tobacco, but had not the means for its purchase, and consequently distributed tobacco, (chewing and smoking, with pipes), to 11,068. The ladies ascertained that there was nothing outside of Government rations which could be supplied to the greater portion of the patients in the hospital, more acceptable to them than tobacco.

—Harvey's theory of the circulation of the blood, or rather the cause of the circulation, is beginning to be disputed; for blushing, sudden paleness of the face, flushings and chilliness of the body frequently occur without any disturbance or modification of the heart's action. The steady movement of the blood in the capillaries, the circulation through the liver without the intervention of any impulsive force, the fact that after death the arteries are usually found empty, among other things, cannot be accounted for on the hypothesis that the heart is the sole mover of the blood. The new theory is that the action is a chemical one.

—During the past week, 1,100 Mormon emigrants have passed through Chicago, en route to Utah Territory.—The majority of them arrived from Europe on the ship G. B. McClellan, being the fourth cargo of Mormons which that vessel has brought. They are of several nationalities, comprising Danes, Swedes, Scotch, Welch, English and two or three Irish; an unusual circumstance, for no people in the world, be it said to their honor, are so averse to the doctrines of the "Saints" as the inhabitants of the "Emerald Isle."

—The Wasington Republican says: "We learn a fact with regard to the situation which must be gratifying to every loyal citizen to know. It is this, that Gen. Grant, in all his interviews with the President, while the latter was at the front, never complained that he did not have men and supplies enough. He never hinted that he wanted another man or a single thing more than he now possesses. The army is in a perfect condition, and in excellent health and spirits."

—A Paris correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says, in reference to the Pope's health: The disease under which the Pope is now suffering is hereditary; his father had it, and lived till 92; he has a brother also afflicted in the same way, who is 86. The average period of the life of the members of the family is 90. So his Holiness is bound by family tradition to live eighteen years and nine days longer. The Emperor of the French, through his ambassador at Rome, has presented the congratulations of the Government to the Pope, upon the restoration of his Holiness to health.

—The Woolwich Arsenal is now alive with work. In the labratory the workmen are preparing button shot for the 70-pounders and 100-pound projectiles, which are to be substituted for those of 110-pound weight now in the service.—In the gun factories the men are busily employed in converting the breech-loading coil 70-pounders into muzzle-loaders, and in shortening the 12 pounders and altering the 110-pounders. They are also preparing solid breech-pieces for the 110-pounders, which are intended to take the place of the present vent-pieces.—The gun fired will be through a vent aperture on top in the usual manner.

—Major General Dix, Majors Barstow and Powers, Captain Fundy and others, were arrested on Friday last, on complaint of District Attorney A. Oakley Hall, who charges them with being concerned in the suppression of the World and Journal of Commerce. The officers were taken before City Judge Russell, but the examination was postponed until the 6th inst. This proceeding is undertaken in accordance with an order from Gov. Seymour.

—In Penn Yann, N. Y., the proprietor of a single whisky distillery paid $25,000 tax for the month of May.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co., and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace, and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
WOOLSTON COMFORT.

Commissioner's Notice.

The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court of Lenawee County Commissioners on the estate of Garrett N. Hunt, late of Macon in said County deceased, and said Court having also allowed six months from the first day of February last for the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us for allowance Notice is therefore hereby given that we will meet at the residence of David Hatch in the town of Macon in said county on Tuesday March twenty second next and on Tuesday June twenty first at 10 o'clock in the forenoon in each day to receive, hear and determine upon such claims.—Dated, Feb. 18, 1864

Electricity.

During the showers on the morning of the 7th inst., Lightning struck in the village of Ridgeway, in front of Peter Perry's Broom shop, killing a valuable steer, and severely shocking Mrs. Perry and little girl of Mrs. [illegible] the same shower, the house of Griffith Adams, near I. L. Kniffin's saw-mill, in Ridgeway, was struck; the stove-pipe was displaced, Mrs. Adams shocked and a pig and chicken near the door were killed.

Concert

The Concert given by the "Peak Family," at Bidwell's Hall on Tuesday evening, was a decided success. The Hall was densely packed at an early hour, and long before the commencement of exercises they were obliged to stop selling tickets. There was one addition to the troupe not advertised on the bills. We refer to the small specimen of "Infantry in Arms" which added its musical voice to the entertainment. We hope that the parents of the child enjoyed the Concert, for those about them certainly could not; we don't mean to be hard on babies, for they are quite an institution in their way, but the place for them is certainly not in a crowd at a place of amusement.

Botanical Curiosity.

Last Saturday evening a night-blooming Cereus owned by Mr. W. D. Clark, of this village, was decked with two large blossoms. They were each, when in full bloom, eleven inches in diameter, and thirteen inches in length from the foot of the bud to the extremities of the petals. The plant is the Cereus grandiflorus, and is now about twelve years of age. The flowers themselves were of unusual size, and it is very seldom that two buds unfold into bloom during the same night. There is one remaining bud which will blossom in a few days.

The Fourth in Tecumseh.

The glorious anniversary was kept in Tecumseh in a manner seldom before equaled, and never excelled in this or any other place.

The day was ushered in by a national salute of one gun, and everybody that heard it, knew immediately that the Fourth had come. In a short time the voices of the juveniles were heard ascending from all quarters of the town. Martial law was immediately proclaimed by them, and a requisition for supplies made on various wagon and machine shops. An extensive barricade was thrown across Chicago street, with its right, consisting of a dilapidated threshing machine, resting on Lawrence's store, and its left, composed of Dixon's dray, formed in front of friend Joe's door; the centre was composed of various boxes, barrels, etc.

At sunrise a mammoth fire-cracker was fired by a reckless boy, who regardless of expense, had invested his pile for the occasion, several days before. The report seemed to awake the reverberating echoes of the surrounding hills, and soon the citizens were seen issuing from their houses, prepared to celebrate the glorious anniversary.

A charge was soon ordered upon the barricade, and the centre not being properly supported soon gave way. In honor of this victory, a collection was taken up and funds sufficient to purchase three fire-crackers and a torpedo were soon raised, and a small boy employed to touch them off gently. At this the crowd became fairly wild with excitement, and something would probably have been done, had not the morning train for Adrian been heard approaching, which caused a general stampede for the depot. The majority of our citizens left on the train for Adrian and for a time the prospects for a celebration looked rather slim.

Soon the people from the country began to come in and our streets assumed a lively appearance. Quite an excitement was got up by an enterprising youth firing a small pistol in the air; a proposition was made to call on the officer who on his breast doth wear a star," to arrest the young man, but on his assuring the crowd that his mother knew he was out, he was allowed to depart in peace; the last seen of him he was consoling himself with a huge slice of gingerbread, apparently determined to go it heavy on the strength of "Dad's selling his wool."

In the afternoon our streets were a perfect galaxy of beauty, young men and maidens promenaded the streets; "Soft eyes looked love to eyes that spake again, and all went in on gingerbread."

At sundown a double header was fired, and after it became sufficiently dark for the purpose, a three-ball Roman candle was touched off. The pin-wheel which had been provided to close the exercises, for some reason refused to go off. At this, the crowd became very indignant, and for some time a riot was seriously apprehended. The matter was finally compromised by the Common Council agreeing to buy two pin-wheels for next Fourth.

Soon after this the crowd began to disperse and by twelve o'clock no one would have known that we had had a celebration here.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.
These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1861, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transfered only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium, or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are
Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,
their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay
Over Eight Per Cent Interest
in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 31 day of March, 1864, was $708,985,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,120, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 20th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the
First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Fenton, Mich.
AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS
which are depositaries of Public money, and all
RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS throughout the country, (acting as agents of the National Depositary Banks,) will furnish further information on application and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and at in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so—would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order, without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

THE EXCELSIOR

Horse Pitch Fork!

Is acknowledged to be one of the greatest

Time and Labor Saving Implements.

The Country Gentleman of Oct. 1862 says: "We have seen in operation no less than seven different Horse Hay Forks, some of which we had considered good ones. But when we saw the fork exhibited at Rochester by N. Palmer, all others were left clear in the shade. It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price."

The Hon. I. T. F. Wright, Editor of the National Agriculturist, in his report of the Michigan State Fair, says: "Of the numerous machines intended as labor saving conveniences, there were none more highly commended than the Excelsior Horse Fork."

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

Detroit.*

BY MRS. M. F. TUCKER.

"Our work is done!" the echo ran,
And thrilled the heart of every man—
"We go to dear old Michigan!"
And first and foremost in the van,
Detroit!

Our glorious Fourth! alas, how few—
A remnant of the host we knew,—
Brave men and heroes, good and true—
And nobly have they fought for you,
Detroit!

They smother down their joyful cries,
As one with eager longing spies
Thy stately domes and steeples rise—
A goodly sight for homesick eyes—
Detroit!

"Oh, home! sweet home!" thy port we see!
What—play thy tricks on such as we?
It is—yet no—this cannot be
The fair, proud city of the free,
Detroit!

No waving flags—no echoing drum—
No glad huzza—no eager hum—
No welcome,—our defenders come!
Thy mean, ungrateful lips are dumb,
Detroit!

And they who faced the cannons' heat,
To make thy safety more complete—
Those battle scarred, with war worn feet,
Lie down in thy unsheltered street,
Detroit!

Smile, Treason, from thy dying bed—
Be thy last moments comforted,—
Hiss forth thy thanks, oh Copperhead!
Rebellion's motly crew shall wed
Detroit!

Oh, city by the river wide!
Oh, city by the restless tide!
No more to loyalty allied—
Move over on the other side,
Detroit!

Women I have Loved.

I can easily understand the weakness that made Adam lose paradise to please Eve. I can appreciate the feelings that made Antony [illegible] since the world for Cleopatra; the devotion of the wise and magnificent King Solomon to the gay passion has never surprised me; that Samson should yield to the soft persuasion of woman's tongue, seems perfectly natural to me, for I am an ardent admirer of that lovely sex which throws so sweet a charm over life. I was eighteen when I first discovered this tender place in my heart. Spending the summer vacation in the country with a college friend, I was necessarily thrown much into the society of his sister. Emma May was a sweet girl of seventeen, with bright eyes, golden curls, and a rose in each cheek—the very kind of beauty to captivate a boy's fancy. We rode and walked together in the cool hours of morning; during the heat of the day, we spent many delightful hours in the fine old library, reading our favorite authors. Emma had quite a musical voice, and to hear her read the pictured page of Scott, or the glowing poems of Byron, lent an additional charm to the writings of these unrivaled geniuses.

In the evening, when the beautiful Queen of Night filled the earth with her silvery light, Emma and I strolled thro' the garden, and I gathered the richest flowers to deck her brow. In those sweet hours, we loved, and were happy. This passed away the summer like a delicious dream, until the sad hour of separation arrived. We parted with mutual tears, promising never to forget each other—but in a year Emma was married, and I had suffered another object to take possession of my heart. Such is first love—sweet, but brief; ardent, but not lasting.

At a grand party I saw Arabella Frigidian, surrounded by a crowd of admiring gentlemen. I approached and gazed on charms such as Homer sang when he wished to describe the Olympian goddesses—beauty such as floods the soul of the poet when rapt in gorgeous day dreams. Miss Frigidian possessed a form and face which might have served Apelles as a model for his exquisite picture of Venus coming from the sea. Her rich brown hair fell luxuriantly over the most lovely neck that I have ever seen; the lilly and the rose mingled in her cheeks as the setting sun touches the soft, white clouds, melting them into beauty. I sought an introduction to this ravishing creature, and obtained her hand for the "Lancers." I was so fascinated by the grace and beauty of my partner, that I nearly deranged the harmony of the dance by my blunders. When I begged her to excuse my mistakes, and said that I was more interested in my partner than in the "Lancers," a smile parted her rich lips, displaying teeth as lustrous as Eastern pearls. At the end of the quadrille, a gentleman claimed Miss Frigidian's hand for the next set, and I had but little opportunity of conversing with her, but her overpowering beauty had made an impression on my young and susceptible heart—I came, saw, and was conquered.

I visited Miss Frigidian a few days after the party, but, there being several other gentlemen present, I could only say a few words to her. I frequently saw her at the opera and concerts, and each time I became more and more impressed with her trascendant beauty.

Such was the state of affairs, when one lovely evening, in May, I joined her on the avenue. Never had I seen Miss Frigidian looking so heavenly beautiful. All that I had ever read or thought of female beauty seemed realized in the exquisite creature by my side. We extended our walk until we reached a spot which commanded a fine view of the western sky. I drew Miss Frigidian's attention to the sun dying on a couch of gorgeous clouds. I spoke with ardor of the magnificent display. She seemed surprised at my enthusiasm. I must confess I was more surprised at her want of enthusiasm. I alluded to other subjects dear to me—love, fame, glory. She listened with indifference to my glowing words—her eyes remained coldly beautiful. Oh! that I have to say it of this beautiful woman—Arabella Frigidian was cold passionless, and like Pygmalion's exquisite ivory statue—she melted others into love, without feeling it herself.

Need I say that I was horribly disappointed at this discovery? I felt like a man temped by what appeared to be a delicious feast, who, on approaching to partake, found the dishes were nothing but painted delusions—exqisitely executed, indeed, but containing nothing to satisfy the cravings of hunger.

My recovery from this disappointment was much accelerated by the society of a gay fascinating widow, who, about that time, visited our house for a few weeks. Mrs. Torrance was young, handsome, and as eager after conquests as Alexander or Cæsar. To keep herself in practice, she condescended to captivate and drag me after her chariot wheels. She bestowed upon me all those flattering attentions which a clever woman knows how to use so well—she praised my taste in dress, my dancing, and sang my favorite songs. I could not gaze into those matchless eyes, and listen to that silvery voice, day after day, with heart unmoved. I was soon madly in love with the charming widow, and each hour of each day added fuel to the flames of my grand passion.

On the day fixed for her departure, I managed to muster up sufficient courage to tell my love. The widow listened with a smile to my blushing declaration, and said that she meant nothing serious—that she was only caring on a little innocent flirtation—and went away with flying colors after new conquests, while I shut myself up with Byron, and determined to cut the women.

After keeping this resolution for a month, I returned to society with a keener zest than ever. I could relate many other examples of women I have loved. There was Fanny Lemm, who made a deep impression on my heart, until I met her at a dinner party, and saw her eating a spring chicken with a most unromantic appetite,—as the foul disappeared, so did my love. I tremble when I think of the case of Miss Tempest. I had actually gone to her house to solicit her hand, when I heard the young lady scolding and abusing her maid. I beat a hasty retreat, and congratulated myself upon my narrow escape from having a fury for my wife; for not possessing the Socrates, I could not live happy with a Xantippe.

When I recall the queens who have reigned for a brief period over my heart, and then contemplate the angelic creature at my side, I feel truly grateful for the prize that has fallen to me. Lillian, my wife, thou art all I could desire—beautiful and sweet, loving and pure, gentle and true.

☞ The statement that Johnston has got Sherman where he wants him, reminds us of John Pœnix's description of the great editorial fight, as follows:—"There was a blow. Somebody fell. We got up. Turning upon our antagonist, we then succeeded in winding his arms around our wait, and by a quick manœuvering threw him on top of us, bringing our back, at the same time, in contact with the bed of the printing press. Then inserting our nose between his teeth, and his hands in our hair, we had him!"

Ladies Should Read Newspapers.

It is a great mistake in female education, to keep a young lady's time and attention devoted to only the fashionable literature of the day. It is necessary, of course, for her to be well versed in the works of the standard authors, English first, and afterwards if circumstances allow, in French and German. But this is not enough. She should learn to read the newspapers carefully and understandingly. If you would qualify her for conversation, you must give her something to talk about—give her education with this actual world and its transpiring events. At the present time, particularly, the momentious occurrences which are taking place every hour, the condition of the country and the tremendous interests at stake, ought to be understood and carefully studied. Surely the tales of real battles and sieges, combats by sea and land, ought to be as interesting as the fictitious adventures of some imaginary hero. And yet our young ladies are too apt to overlook the romances which are being enated in real life and seek the counterfeits which are to be found between the cover of books. Let them read the history of the times we live in, and be able to sustain an intelligent conversation concerning the mental, moral, political and religious improvement of the world, and a new and wide field of interest will be open to them—and if it be not heresy to say so—their charms will be increased tenfold.

MEAN MAN.—An exchange says:—The fellow who licked the molasses from a blind nigger's pancake is generally held up as a sample of perversity. But he was a good Christian compared to the scamps who swindle the printer out of a newspaper and then return it through the postmaster as refused. If a man is too poor to pay, he should be honest enough to call and stop his paper like a man. If he inclines to thieving he should never [illegible] the gentle art of crime by cheating the printer. He should begin small—robbing children of pennies—stealing chickens—serve six months as army contractor—forge bonds on the Southern Confederacy, and when he is ready for a personal interview with the hangman or the devil, he can cap the climax of his villainy by subscribing for a newspaper and swindling the publisher.

☞ You do not need to say a word to a man that has done you a wrong to make him fell that you remember it against him. You may say, 'Let it pass," and still it will be in your power to give him a glance with your eye, to cast upon him a look, which he shall feel, and which will say more than volumes could of that wrong. How many times have husbands forgiven their wives, and wives their husbands, and parents their children, and children each other, when they have committed any offense, only, in a moment's anger, afterward, to call that offense up again, and make it the occasion of taunting and abuse! But God says, "I will never make mention of your trangressions. I will cast them into the depths of the sea." God forgives royally. There is nothing mean about God. There is about men. Even good men are bad in spots, though perhaps they do not mean to be. But there is a royalty in the divine love and patience such that when God has said once of a thing, "It is passed," it is passed, it is annihilated; it is buried even beyond the memory that forgets nothing but sins in his children—for these are the only things that God can forget. Everything else is fixed and eternized when it falls, as it were upon the divine retina. But offenses committed by us against him, and our repentance and turning from them—these fade out of his mind. They will not stand the light of the sun of righteousness.

An Agreeable Customer.

"Stranger, I want to leave my dog in this 'ere office till the boat starts, I'm afraid somb dy will steal him."

"You can't do it," said the clerk, "take him out."

"Well, stranger, that is cruel, but you're both disposijioned alike, and he's kinder company for you."

"Take him out," replied the clerk.

"Well stranger, I don't think you're honest, and you want watching. Here, Dragon," he said to the dog, "Sit down here and watch that fellow sharp" and turning on his heel, said, "Put him out, stranger, if he's troublesome." The dog lay there till the boat started watching and growling at every movement of the clerk, who gave him the better part of the office.

The Day After Marriage.

The departure of a son from the parental roof does not present any spectacle of desolation. Marital life has, from infancy, an individuality and independence, an egotism, so to say, which is essentially wanting in female existance.—When a son abandons his parents to create for himself a separate interest, this separation causes but little interruption in their mutual relations. A man marries, and still retains his friendships, his habits, and his filial affections. Nothing has changed in his life; it is only an additional tie. His departure is only a mere separation; while the departure of a young girl, to become a wife in a few hours, is real desertion—a desertion with all its duties and feelings still fresh about it.—In one word; the son is a sapling which has always grown apart from the trunk, while the daughter has, on the contrary, formed an essential portion of it, and to detach her from her place is to mutilate the tree itself. You have surrounded her youth with unspeakable tenderness—the exhaustless tenderness of your paternal hearts, and she, in return, has appeared to pour forth upon you both, an equally inexhaustible gratitude; you love her beyond all the world, and she seemed to love you with a proportionate affection.—But one day, an ill omened day, a man arrived, invited and welcomed by yourselves, and this man of your own choice carries off to his domestic eyrie your gentle dove, far from the soft nest which your love hath made for her, and to which hers had clung. On the morrow you look around you, you listen, you wait, you seek for something which you cannot find. The cage is empty; the tuneful linnet has flown; silence has succeeded to its melodious warbling; it does not come as it did on the previous morning fluttering its perfumed wings about your pillow, and awakening you by its soft caresses. Nothing remains but a painful silence, a painful void.

Pickled Pork Equal to Fresh

A lady contributor at Perry, Ill., gives the following directions:—"Let the meat cool thoroughly, cut into pieces four to six inches wide; weigh them, and pack as tight as possible in the barrell, salting very lightly. Cover the meat with brine made as strong as possible. Pour off a gallon of the brine, and mix with it one tablespoonful of saltpetre for every hundred pounds of meat, and return it to the barrel. Let it stand one month; then take out the meat; let it drain twelve hours. Put the brine in an iron kettle, add one quart of molasses or two pounds of sugar, and boil until perfectly clear.—When it is cold, return the meat to the barrel, and pour on the brine. Weigh it down, and keep it covered close, and you will have the sweetest meat that you ever tasted."

PRIDE.—We have often heard a half grown up boy say pettishly to his mother, "I don't like to be seen carrying a big bundle through the streets." But true pride is ashamed of such littleness of mind. Mr. Astor, the wealthy millionaire of New York, was reluctant to sell some goods to a young man, except for cash, the merchant paid for them, and took them on his shoulder to carry them out of the store. Mr. Astor looked in surprise; but before the merchant had gone many steps, he called him back, saying, "you may buy on credit, to any amount. I can trust you, sir. A man who is not ashamed to do his own work is sure to succeed." Here is another good lesson for false pride.

Dr. Franklin's Toast.

Long after the victories of Washington over the French and English had made his name familiar to all Europe, Dr. Franklin chanced to dine with the English and French Ambassador, when, as nearly as the precise words can be recollected, the following toasts were drunk:

England—The Sun, whose bright beams enlighten and fructify the remotest corners of the earth.

The French Ambassador, filled with national pride, but, being too polite to dispute the previous toast, drank the following:

France—The Moon, whose mild, steady and cheering rays are the delight of all nations, consoling them in darkness and making their dreariness beautiful.

Dr. Franklin then rose, and, with his usual dignified simplicity, said:

George Washington—The Joshua who commanded the Sun and Moon to stand still, and they obeyed him.

☞ In the town of T——, not many miles from here, there was a shoemaker who at times officiated as preacher. He always wrote the notice himself, in order to save the expense of printing. ☞ A great man is always willing to be little. Whilst he sits on the cushion of disadvantages, he goes to sleep. When he is pushed, tormented, defeated, he has a chance to learn something—he has been put on his wits, on his manhood—he has gained facts—learns his ignorance—is cured of insanity of conceit—has got moderation and real skill. The wise man always throws himself on the side of his assailants. It is more to his interest than it is theirs to find his weak point. The wound cicatrizes and falls off from him like a dead skin; and, when they would triumph, lo! he has passed on, invulnerable. As long as all that is said is against me, I feel a certain assurance of success. But as soon as honeyed words of praise are spoken for me, I feel as one that lies unprotected before his enemies.—EMERSON.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 14, 1864.

Michigan Publishers.

Last Friday a convention of publishers of papers in Michigan was held in Detroit. Eighteen papers were represented. It was resolved that the State printing was done 50 per cent. too low, and that an advance upon all advertising rates was necessary, as well as of subscriptions of weeklies to $2,00 per annum. The cash in advance system was also resolved upon and considerable improvement in the conduct of journals recommended, as follows:

1st. It should be a rule with every editor never on any account to insert an article or communication merely to please the writer, or where, if left to his judgment alone, it would be rejected.

2d. An editor should always feel at liberty to use material that may come into his hands in any manner he may think best, even to calling out the interesting points, and presenting them in his own language.

3d. As a rule, we believe a paper increases in interest and popularity directly in proportion as all the matter it contains is prepared expressly for its columns.

4th. The strength of a local newspaper is in its local news, and we recommend that every publisher mark out for himself a field, and make systematic arrangements for procuring every item of intelligence that may transpire within such field.

6th In the case of notices of literary, patriotic and charitable organizations, such as soldiers' aid societies, etc., we recommend that a nominal charge be always made, and that the same policy be pursued in regard to advertising done for political organizations.

7th. That every publisher should have an unvarying scale of prices for advertising, and, as far as practicable, local publishers should adopt uniform scales.

8th. That all transient advertising should be paid for when ordered in, and those bills for advertising by the quarter or by the year should always be settled, at least, at the expiration of each half year.

9th. "Humbug" advertisements should ever be admitted into a newspaper.

10th Marriage and death notices are proper objects for charges.

11th. Subscriptions should always be paid in advance. It would be well to notify subscribers a few weeks before their subscriptions expire, but a paper should never be sent a single day over the time for which it is paid. By rigidly adhering to this rule in every case, the publisher will give no cause for offense in stopping a paper.

12th. In general, the editorial management of a paper should be with the editor, and not with his correspondents or contributors, or the public at large; he should insert just what, in his judgement, is wanted by the majority of his readers, or what he himself conceives to be right, untrammeled by personal considerations; and in its business management a newspaper should be conducted like any other business, and where any consideration is rendered to individuals, it should be paid for at the time, and at an established price.

The above proceedings of this State Publishers Convention, may at first seem unreasonable and severe, but a moment's consideration will satisfy any one that it is not so.

The difficulty with regard to the high prices that, under the war pressure, so generally obtain, is not so much that the prices are high, as that they are not kept in proportion.

To those whose support is derived from what they have to sell, the difference is not material—just about the same amount of surplus articles which they have to dispose of support them now, as formerly.

But for those depending upon salaries, fees, or daily labor, it is next to impossible, that it should be made proportionate, and in these cases, if high prices continue, it will be a long time before the true balance will everywhere equally adjust itself.

And in nothing is this more true than of the printer. If at the old pribes of ink, paper and help, he did no more than make a living at the old subscription price, how can it be expected that he can now do the same, when all these have more than doubled, while also at the same time the expense of living has more than doubled.

The fact is, at Two Dollars per year, instead of one, as formerly (which was always too little), and at double prices for job work and advertising, it would cost those who pay from farm or other produce no more to get the same amount of subscription or job work than it did before.

We must therefore learn to be reasonable in this matter, and neither complain of high charges nor high prices, so that they are not disproportionate, but seek by our unceasing diligence and strict economy to accommodate ourselves to the exigencies of the times, so that when peace does once more smile upon us, and such a peace as will be both practicable and permanent, we shall learn to appreciate its priceless value.

HEAD QUARTERS, CO. F. 26th Regt.
Alexandria, July 8th, 1864.

MR. EDITOR:—Thinking that our friends might wish to hear how we spent the Fourth, we thought the best way to inform them would be to write to your paper.

Although we were serving our country in the capacity of soldiers, still we had a little pleasure in celebrating the birth-day of Freedom. We were favored with a spirited oration from Lt. M. Roberts.—After this was delivered, we had the pleasure of partaking of a choice selection of food, prepared by a committee consisting of Lieut. Randall, Sergt. H. Dunster, Corp's. A. W. Harding. J. S. Laing and S. F. Wright. All that could be done to make it a good dinner, was done. The dinner will long be remembered, by us all. In the evening we had a display of fireworks.

The day passed off pleasantly, but we often thought of our friends. We hope e'er many days pass away to be able to return to them with the joy of a redeemed country in our souls, and the principals of true men in our minds.

We would say to our friends, write to us often, for we love to get letters from home; they cheer us; they comfort us and make time pass more pleasantly.

We have a good position as a company; let this thought cheer up your hearts at all times. Hoping soon to see the end of war, we remain your &c.

A. W. H.

An accident occurred near Clarksville, Pa., which resulted in the death of a Mrs. Hewitt, and the serious injury to her son, mother-in-law and sister-in-law. They were approaching a bridge over the Erie and Pittsburg Railroad in a carriage, when the horses became frightened by an approaching hand car and ran away, throwing the occupants from the carriage. Mrs. Hewitt died a few minutes after the accident; the other two ladies were so seriously injured that little hopes were entertained of their recovery, and her son was seriously though not dangerously injured.

HOW A SPY GOES HOME.—A man, dressed in the uniform of a Union soldier, advanced from our lines and sallied towards the rebels. It was supposed that he was going in search of a wounded comrade, and many enconiums were passed upon the strength of an affection which would take him into so much danger to aid his friends. The rebels rose along their lines and brought their muskets to bear upon him; but for some inexplicable reason did not fire, but allowed him to approach, when he suddenly entered their lines and became lost to sight. It is now supposed that he was a daring rebel spy, who had made the tour of our lines during the night and returned as above stated.

The Alabama.

The minuteness of detail concerning the conflict between the Kearsage and Alabama confirms the belief that the latter vessel has met her just fate at last. The contest was short, sharp and decisive. Of course, those of the crew who were not killed remain the lawful prisoners of the commander of the Kearsage. Captain Semmes, however, with a portion of his crew, was stolen away by a British yacht, and conveyed to Southampton.—These prisoners must be delivered up by the English Government. Our claim to them is far more valid than was the claim of John Bull to Mason and Slidell. Our right to them is indisputable, and we very much doubt whether England will justify the action of the officious yacht. If she does, she throws aside her garb of pretended neutrality, and stands before the world an ally of the Confederacy. It becomes then a clear case of intervention—and intervention means war. The dignity and honor of the United States Government demands the rendition of Semmes and his piratical crew. Let the demand be prompt and imperative. This matter must not be lightly passed over.

Semmes, the pirate captain was used up so badly that he imagined the Kearsage to to be an iron-clad, and so states it in his official report of the fight. Fright magnifies hugely.

Two guerrillas having been convicted of murder and bushwhacking, before a Military Commission, were hung in Nashville on Friday last. Their names were Robert Gassett and E. D. Cropland.

The guerrillas are making sad havoc with our railroad trains between the Buzzard Roost Range and Resaca.

The News

Wednesday, July 13.

The wildest rumors are afloat in Philadelphia and Baltimore [illegible] the capture of Washington. One report says: "Fighting has been going on near Washington since morning. The rebels are approaching the defences on the northern side of the city in strong force." Another states that the city is captured, but there is no truth whatever in the report. There is, however, no doubt of their being in the vicinity of the city, in strong force, as they have cut the wires leading to the city in every direction, and stopped all trains leading thereto. Nothing direct has been received from there for the last 18 hours.

Frederick is said to be again in our possession, and that the old flag waves over the city. The rebels demanded a contribution of $20,000 of the citizens, which they paid, and the town was saved from destruction. Only the Government stables were burned. Large droves of horses, cattle, and sheep were taken from the farmers in the vicinity, and taken across the Potomac.

Gen. Sanford in his reply to Mayor Gunther, takes a philosophical view of the affair, and says that he shall retain twelve of the disciplined regiments of the 1st Division in the city, ready, and abundantly able to put down promptly any demonstration against the peace and good order of the community.

Thursday, July 14.

The great rebel scare in Maryland is about over. We have information that Gen. Crook was at Westminister, Md., yesterday, and that Averill was at Frederick. A fight occurred near the former place, which resulted in driving the rebels off with some loss. In the vicinity of Washington there is a small force of rebels yet, who are mencing the city, while the main body is moving northward, but whether retreating, or moving in that direction only as a feint, is not known. Great excitement prevailed in the city, but there had been no direct assault at last accounts. One statement is to the effect that the rebels were trying to capture Fort Stevens, but it is thought they cannot succeed, as our forces are there in sufficient numbers to hold it. Reinforcements are pouring into the city, among them the 19th Army Corps, veterans, lately from New Orleans. There is some prospect of their attempting to retreat, it is thought, towards Edward's Ferry, or the lower fords, as Gen. Hunter, with heavy reinforcements, holds all the upper fording places. Rebel sympathizers state that they will make for Point Lookout to release the 20,000 prisoners confined there. The telegraph [illegible] again working to Washington, and this would indicate that there is not much more danger to be apprehended from the raiders for the present.

Nothing of importance resulted in the interview of Secretary Fessenden with the Bankers of the three principal cities of the country. It is understood, however, if Secretary Fessenden should propose a loan of fifty millions of dollars on bonds, the banks are ready to take a pro rata proportion, though they would make condition that the Secretary accept checks in payment, as they have not enough legal tenders.

AMOUNT OF BUTTER AND CHEESE IN MILK.—According to the reports of several of the associated cheese daries, an average of 10.14 pounds of milk is required to yield a pound of cheese. One pound of butter requires on an average about 15 quarts of milk. This would give from the same amount of milk about three pounds of cheese to one of butter. A dairyman in Western New York after repeated trials of making cheese and butter from the same quantity and quality of milk, has found the above proportion to be pretty uniformly maintained; occasionally the cheese slightly exceeds the given rate. At present prices cheese would give the best profit.

A SCENE IN THE HARBOR.—Our harbor has been on fire for the last twenty-four hours; literally on fire. The surface of the water for thousands of square yards has been a perfect flame, caused by the destruction of the Italian ship Julian, which took fire lying at the wharf and loading with petroleum. She had on board one thousand eight hundred barrels, and had to be towed over to the opposite side of the basin to save the surrounding property. As the barrels would burst, the oil would spread over the water in a flame. Thousands assembled to witness the beautiful sight.—Baltimore Letter.

THE DRAFT.—Under the recent ruling of War Department, persons may furishh representative recruts either from those liable to drafted, or from alies. Substitutes for drafted men must, however, not be liable to draft.

ADJOURNMENT OF CONGRESS.—Congress adjourned on Monday, July 4th, at 12 M.

A billiard tournament is to be held in Hartford, some time in August, for the championship of Connecticut.

Scraps of News.

—The yellow fever is raging at the Portsmouth navy yard, and business is suspended in consequence.

—Cornelius Tuell, who was convicted of the murder of his wife in Washington in February last, was hung in that city on the 8th inst.

—A wretch named Richard Stevens was arrested in New York city on Sunday last, on the charge of having hired out his daughter, a young girl fifteen years of age, to become an inmate of a house of prostitution.

—In the case of General Dix, who has been on trial in New York for the suppression of the New York World and Journal of Commerce newspapers, the court has reserved its decision till the 1st of August, proximo.

A boy, 17 years of age, named John M. Swartz, residing in Butler county, Ohio, committed suicide by hanging himself, on the 1st inst. Dependency, on account of ill health, caused him to commit the rash act.

A destructive fire occurred in the village of Hudson, N. Y., on Sunday last, destroying property to the amount of $100,000. A large five-story brick warehouse belonging to the Hudson River Railroad Company and two or three other large storehouses were destroyed.

—Brigadier General Z. B. Tower, U. S. Volunteers, and Major of Engineers, who has been ordered to relieve Col. A. H. Bowman, U. S. corps of Engineers, as Superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point, is an officer of long and distinguished service in the engineer corps.

—A lady of Boston has just had extracted from her right thumb the fragment of a needle, which was accidentally broken off in her hip about 28 years ago. The surgeon who performed the operation regards this as one of the most singular cases which has come within his knowledge.

—An officer, who was with Hunter's army on its late raid in Virginia, states that returning from the expedition the men fed their horses corn from their hands, that there was not a blade of grass to be found. Some of the men ate common candles with greediness, others dug up roots and plucked buds from the trees.

—A Knoxville (Iowa) paper states that a young girl, 17 years of age, recently came to that place from a neighboring town to procure a marriage license, and in order to take the oath with a clear conscience (?), she placed in her shoes a strip of paper, on which was written the number 18, so that she could swear she was over 18, by which means she secured her license, was forthwith joined to her lover, and returned to her home.

—The Government is in constant telegraphic communication with the army in Georgia, and all dispatches from Gen. Sherman are at once forwarded direct to Gen. Grant, at City Point. Gen. Grant takes the deepest interest in the great campaign of the West, as well as that conducted in Virginia under his own eye; and though the control of operations is with Gen. Sherman, yet he is actively [illegible] both in the war [illegible] and otherwise.

—It is a fact not generally known that the Alabama was larger than the Kearsarge, by 187 tons burthen. The tonnage of the latter is 1,013, while that of the Alabama was 1,200. The Alabama carried one Bleakley rifled 100-pounder gun, one 68-pounder pivot gun, considered the best in the English service, and six 32-pounders. The Kearsarge had two eleven-inch guns, four 32-pounders and one 30-pounder—one gun less than her antagonist.

—A young lad named Murphy escaped from the Reform School of Chicago a short time ago, and having been re-arrested on Saturday last, was being taken back to that institution when he drew a pistol, presented it at the head of the officer and fired. The bullet penetrated the officer's jaw, but the wound is not considered mortal. After his daring attempt at murder, the lad again escaped.

—The New Orleans 'Times' of July 1st says that on the previous day considerable excitement was created in consequence of the seizure by the Government of all horses in the streets and stables of that city. A variety of rumors were afloat in reference to the cause of the seizure, but no definite conclusion was arrived at except that they were needed by the United States authorities. Among the horses seized were Gov. Hahn's, Mayor Holt's, and several valuable animals belonging to private parties.

—A correspondent of the New York 'Herald' who has visited the Marine Hospital there, writes that he found but two American born among the 12 wounded men of the Alabama. The name of one these is Robert Wright, a native of Boston, Mass., where he has brothers and sisters living. He and most of the crew attribute the destruction of the Alabama to the immense force of the two 11-inch Dahlgren guns in the Kearsarge. The carpenter, named Robinson, who was also a native of Massachusetts, when he saw the battle was lost, drew his revolver and shot himself in the breast.

—A young lady, about 15 years of age, died recently in Ithaca, New York, under suspicious circumstances, and a post mortem examination showed large quantities of arsenic in the stomach. A younger sister had died a few months previous, who was also supposed to have been poisoned. Their mother has been arrested on suspicion of having administered the poison to them, and her conduct and general treatment of them have been such as to leave but little doubt but that she is the murderer of her two children.

—On Monday morning the wall of a house on Franklin avenue, in St. Louis, fell, and a baby lying asleep in the second story rolled out upon the street, but escaped without the slightest injury. The fall only disturbed the slumber of the little creature, and he opened his eyes, crowed, and went to sleep again.

—The city government of Buffalo expended $939 90 for the celebration of the 4th of July.

Circular.

I would say to the Farmers of Northern Lenawee (and all whom it may benefit), that I have purchased the Flouring, Grist and Saw Mills formerly owned and run by J. C. Satterthwaite & Co.; and that I have thoroughly repaired and improved my Custom Bolts, put on new cloth of the very best quality, and also improved the machinery for cleaning custom wheat, to separate therefrom all smut and foul grains, which is very essential to the making of good flour; and that I shall give special attention to grinding for customers, and will warrant forty (40) pounds of good flour from a bushel of good wheat, and from inferior wheat as good flour as can be made.

I believe my facilities for doing Custom grinding, as regards both quality of flour and yield per bushel, cannot be equaled by any mill in this county.

Good flour is certainly one of the requisites to keep peace and quiet in the family, and the good wife who places light, delicious bread—the staff of life—upon her table, bestows a luxury, and aids in smoothing the rugged path of life.

Wheat taken in store of Farmers and others for their bread, and ground or exchanged for good flour when wished.

Wheat floured and packed on reasonable terms.

Wheat, Corn and Feed ground at all times, and corn shelled and ground.

Sawing done for Customers.

Bills of hard wood lumber sawed to order, and delivered if wished.

Lumber for sale.

One hundred thousand feet of Saw Logs wanted—all kinds of good timber.

Also a few thousand bushels of good White and Red Wheat wanted,—for which I will pay the highest market price.

In conclusion I would say—wishing to gain a livelihood by this business—I am determined that justice shall be done all who may favor me with their patronage.

Most Respectfully,
WOOLSTON COMFORT.

Commissioner's Notice.

The undersigned having been appointed by the Probate Court of Lenawee County Commissioners on the estate of Garrett N. Hunt, late of Macon in said County deceased, and said Court having also allowed six months from the first day of February last for the creditors of said estate to present their claims to us for allowance Notice is therefore hereby given that we will meet at the residence of David Hatch in the town of Macon in said county on Tuesday March twenty second next and on Tuesday June twenty-first at 10 o'clock in the forenoon in each day to receive, hear and determine upon such claims.—Dated, Feb. 18, 1864

The Lady's Friend for July

The July number of this magazine is one of the best yet issued. It opens with a beautiful and piquant steel engraving, called "How they Caught Fish," which represent a couple of young lovers earnestly engaged in conversation, apparently much to the astonishment of a party of ladies, who have just come to the edge of the woods. Then follows a very handsome fashion plate, such as this magazine is becoming noted for. Then an engraving of the Empress Eugeine, and a large number of others, devoted to the illustration of the latest styles of dress, etc. The music of this number is a Grand March from the opera of Faust.

☞ The greatest discovery of the age is the new soap just come out, and known as the J. Monroe Taylor Gold Medal Soap; it not only saves time in washing, but does the work in a much superior manner to all other soaps before the people. The makers claim it is manufactured on an entirely different principle, and that it is a great labor-saving article, besides going much further than any other soap. Our experience confirms all the Inventor claims for it. Try it, and we think all will be convinced of the fact and will ever have the Gold Medal to prove.

☞ Would you have sweet and healthy Bread, Biscuit, Cakes and Puddings? Use Herrick Allen's Gold Medal Saleratus. It takes less in quantity, will not make your Biscuit or Bread yellow, is a sure preventative to the decay of teeth, is perfectly healthy, and makes one fifth more Bread and Biscuit from a barrel of flour. Never use soda if you can procure this article. Try it. Most all good Grocers sell it.

☞ A little daughter of Mr. Thomas Taylor's in this township, near the Franklin town line, was scalded on Saturday last, and died in consequence on Sunday, 20 hours after the accident. Mrs. Taylor had placed a cup of scalding water on the table for her husband to use in shaving, and the child, about a year and a half old, pulled the cup over, spilling the boiling hot water into her bosom, and it ran over her chest and bowels, scalding her fatally as stated above.

☞ G. H. Wells, has disposed of his interest in the Exchange Hotel to G. A. Gillespie. Gus. is a capital fellow and our word for it "he knows how to keep a hotel."

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 3d, 1861, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any time not less than one nor more than forty years from their date, and bear interest FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN. Bonds of not less than one hundred dollars are issued, and all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for those who desire to use them as a currency. Registered Bonds will have the interest from March 1st, or from the date of the last interest to accrue, forwarded to them, free of charge, when they so request in coin—or in United States notes, at the rate of Ten Dollars adding fifty cents for postage, or credited to them if they so prefer in subscription and deposit. A Bond is a note.

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

their value is increased from one to three per cent, per annum, according to the rate of tax levied in various parts of the country. At the present prevailing premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private citizens, stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the entire funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 1st day of March, 1864, was $705,415,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenue of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations to $150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not received in the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich. Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich. First National Bank of Lansing, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS

which are depositories of Public money, and all RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS throughout the country acting as agents of the National Depository Banks. Will furnish circulars with full information, and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

MONEY EASILY MADE,

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so — I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

All persons indebted to the late firm of A. James & Co., either by note or account, are hereby requested to call and settle the same immediately, and thereby save expenses, as the business must be settled up as soon as possible. ALFRED JAMES.

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Lenawee, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court, for the County of Lenawee, holden at the Probate Office, in the City of Adrian, on Friday, the 17th day of June, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four.

The "UNION LIVERY," all do say,
Is just the place to go to,
To get a rig that's nice and gay,
With bells, and whip, and buffalo;

Horses gay, and safe, and fleet:
Buggies new, and nice, and strong:
Cutters fine, and all complete —
Just get in and go along.

Our stables, too, are new and good:
Just drive your horses in and bait,
With hay, or straw, or oats or corn —
There's room enough, you need not wait.

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and when ever introduced are rapidly superseding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and easy management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stitch alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stitches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the Slack Thread equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price."

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

which have been showered upon him from

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years. Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

which, in conjunction with the

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known and cure, in a single day, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

The Good Night.

They turn upon the chamber stair,
Two little pair of naked feet—
But one we miss—he is not there
His kind good-night to speak.

Their locks are almost mingling now,
The dark ones with the gleaming gold,
But we gaze to see again the brow
We laid beneath the summer mold.

We see his soft blue eyes once more,
And hear his low and gentle tone—
The smile so sweet he always wore,
The light's again within our home.

Good-night, papa! mamma, good-night!
The aching soul is full with joy—
He's back again; the low fire light
Reveals the fair-haired, noble boy.

God help us now! 'Twas but a dream,
And vanquished, for he is not there;
We saw him pass the cold, dark stream—
His feet press not the chamber stair.

Redeemer, God! we wait the night
When this poor soul, all weary, worn,
Shall hear our angels thro' the light,
Soft greet us with eternal morn.

A Sharp Yankee.

A good story is told of a Dutchman who kept a small lager bier saloon in a certain neighborhood, who undertook to teach his assistant, a thick-headed sprout of Faderland, the difference between fivepence and sixpence. "Yah!" said John, with a dull twinkle of intelligence. A wag of a loafer, who overheard the lecture, immediately conceived the idea of a "saw and" lager bier gratis, for that day at least. Procuring a three cent piece, he watched the departure of the "boss," and going up to John he called far a mug of bier, throwing down the coin, and looking as if he expected the change.—John, who remembered his recent lesson, took up the piece, and muttering to himself, "Mitout de vomans—'tis von sixpence," he handed over three coppers change. How often the aforesaid drank that day we know not; it depended upon his thirst and the number of times he could exchange three coppers for three cent pieces; but when the boss came home at night the number of small coin astonished him. "Vat ish dese, John; you toke so many?" "Sixpence," replied John, with a peculiar satisfied leer, "Sixpence! Dunder and blitzen! You take all dese for sixpence? Who from?" "De man mit peard like Kossuth; he dhrink all day mit himself." "You give him change every time?" "Y-a-h," said John, with a vacant stare. "Der teifel catch the Yankees!" was all the astonished Dutchman could say.

Parents Duties to Children.

The first and most important duties of parents in relation to the Sunday-school are to see that the children study their lessons; that they are punctual; and to impress upon their minds the object of the school. We do not think parents fully consider how discouraging it is to the teacher to have the children come Sabbath after Sabbath, without any preparation. We tell you, parents, it is up-hill work and very discouraging; and we want your sympathy. If you would consider the importance of parental aid, we cannot but think you would give it. Children come to school with the impression that they are under very little restraint, and that it is of little consequence whether they are prepared or not. To an earnest teacher, these are heart sore trials; but our motto is, "Hope on, hope ever," that all the seed sown may not fall by the wayside. We both hope and pray that some good is done, though not so much as if you would give us a lift once in a while. Some parents, when they speak of the school before their children, talk as if it did not amount to much. Let them ask themselves the question, whose fault it is. Our Saviour said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not." Do you think you are obeying this commandment?—You cannot be neutral in the matter. "He that is not for me is against me." You either aid us, or stand in the way. For the love you have to your children, give us your countenance and aid: "come over, and help us;" come into the school, and see us; if we are ever glad to see you, it is there.

☞ That was a beautiful idea expressed by a Christian lady on her deathbed, in reply to a remark of her brother who was taking leave of her to return to his distant residence—that he should probably never again meet her in the land of the living. She answered: "Brother, I trust we shall meet in the land of the living—we are now in the land of the dying."

ALEXANDRIA, July 5, 1864.

SERGT. JAS. K. CRANE,
S. J. IVES,
CORPL. A. W. HARDING.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of your request, in behalf of the Company, for a copy of the Oration delivered before them, by myself, on our National Anniversary of the 4th inst., with permission for its publication. The compliment you pay me I heartily thank you for, and I will grant your request with pleasure; but in so doing I confess I am fully mindful of its many imperfections.

Very Respectfully
M. ROBERTS.

Fellow Citizens:—

The present occasion is one that will be long remembered by each one of you, because it is the pulsation of that same noble principle which brought you in the service of your country.

The cause in which you are engaged naturally created a sympathy which binds you into one common brotherhood that will never be forgotten, and when you return to the peaceful avocations of life, you will often recall the scenes of to-day with joy.

It is unnecessary for me on this occasion to repeat the honorable compliments paid you within the last year—in short, during the [illegible] you have occupied your present position; but I will remark the time you have remained is of more meaning than words.

But to day the throbbings of the principles of American liberty calls us to commemorate this anniversary day of American Independence. I shall not allow myself to occupy much of your time, as I am aware there is something in waiting for you, which will be better relished by your bodies than my humble thoughts will be by your minds. Our present condition will not allow me the free use of the fountain of thought, consequently I will confine my remarks principally to the rights proclaimed by the venerable Jefferson and adopted by the fathers of the Republic eighty-eight years ago to-day. Those principles adopted by the Revolutionary fathers we inherit as their heirs and as the birthright of American citizens.

It is nearly two years since that we obligated ourselves to assist in defending this heritage of our fathers and the God-given right of freemen. And on this the fourth day of July we unite our hearts to commemorate the eighty-eighth anniversary of the declaration of the rights of man, and the independence of the American colonies,—an era in the history of man surpassed only by the declaration of man's redemption by the "Prince of Peace."

What a sublime contrast is brought to our minds as we reflect on the declaration of God and on the declaration of man,—former opening the gates of the spiritual asylum, through the crucifixion, to a nobler life beyond; the other opening the gates of the asylum of Liberty through the bloody battle-fields of Bunker Hill, Monmouth, White Plains, Germantown, Brandywine, and other fields of like note.

But you inquire how originated this principle of American liberty. Come with me and travel back through the long avenue of English history, and we will find on the pillow of 1215, that sacred magna charta, "Freemen of England to have their rights forever." I will not pause to repeat the rights declared in that charter, which has become the bulwark of English liberty.

What a scene was connected with this granting on the banks of the Runnemede by the English Barons and King John! it is one of the most sacred events of English history. The right there secured on that memorable occasion became the birthright of English freemen.

It does not become me on this occasion to trace the history of English liberty; but I will here remark, I believe on this occasion germinated the hope of free government, or, in other words, this was the first grand, throbbing of that spirit which in centuries after became the vital principle of American liberty. The pulsations of the enemy of tyrany were becoming quick and strong, and the stern and brave hearts of liberty-loving men in England as well as throughout Europe, longed for perfect freedom. I might occupy much of your time in tracing this vital principle of freedom; so I might devote much time in recalling to your memory the sufferings and privations of the wandering "Sons of liberty;" or recount the sacred scenes asociated with the Mayflower, Plymouth Rock, Jamestown and other objects, or spots of like sacred remembrance.

The sufferings and privations they were destined to endure was just the school of discipline for the sons of liberty, as they had no model to encourage them and no hope but in God that there was a brighter day in the future.

But to-day we are to reflect on the vital truths the apostles of liberty proclaimed, as well as to commemorate the natal day of the American republic. The truths enunciated was a principle of nature, and man's true inheritance in a land of Liberty. What! The inheritance on the banks of the Runnemede sinks into comparative insignificance beside the declaration of the inalienable rights of man. What a sacred association of thoughts crowd upon our memory as we contemplate the "signing of the declaration!" There sits Hancock presiding with all the sternness of a Roman Senator; there stands Franklin at the head of the committee with all the sagacity of a Grecian philosopher; but farther to the right sits the venerable Jefferson, the hero of the scene. The grandeur of the scene is unsurpassed by the dignity of the Roman Senator when visited by the barbarian foe; its solemnity is surpassed only by few events in man's history.

The birthright of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, was then declared inalienable, as the code of the Republic of the United States. It was further declared that "governments were instituted to secure these rights," and that it was an inherent right of man to alter or abolish a government when it became destructive of these rights." The grand conclusion of the declartion is—man is endowed with the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness by the bountiful hand of the Creator. The colonists being deprived of these rights; deprived of the rights of English freemen, they "summoned the Supreme Judge as a witness to the rectitude of their intentions while they declared, the American colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States."

Thank God children became immediately transformed into men in the great family of nations.

Such is the simple story of the causes of the declaration of independence. The rights declared were secured and sealed by bloody battle fields, from the State of Maine to the Floridas, which enabled the Revolutionary fathers to realize the colonies transformed into republican States.

The story of their struggle is familiar to you all—the victories and surrenders are sacred events in your memory; the principles enunciated echo and re-echo in the valley, along the river, and from the hill top. But the struggle is passed; the destructive crater of war is closed; the earth ceases to tremble, and there are no more groanings of the spirit of liberty in the American colonies. The result of this struggle for rights—this revolution in the principles of government—was the American Republic.

Immediately upon the formation of a government founded upon the true principles of freedom, there arose a conflict—a conflict of principles—a conflict between the principles of freedom and tyrany.

But the colonies are free; the "land of promise" is not only in view from the heighth of man's imagination, but is in real possession. To them there was a glorious future,—they possessed an expanse of country with fertile vallies, navigable rivers and broad bosomed lakes, the sure precurser of prosperity, enterprise and nobleness, with majestic forests and chains of lofty mountains—the indication of dignity and boundless wealth. How truly the Revolutionary fathers could exclaim—"how goodly a heritage do we possess." I will not occupy your time with praising the growth of the Republic, nor the development of its resources; neither will I follow the political history of American liberty; but will for a few moments reflect on the prospect of American liberty to-day.

For upwards of eighty-four years unexampled prosperity had blessed the land; but in the midst of this prosperity politicians grew prodigal in the lap of luxury and prosperity, with the honors of the country resting upon them, and the liberty of the nation almost at stake. Corrupt politicians and haughty aristocrats stalked abroad, bidding defiance to law and order,—the same power that was made to tremble on the banks of the Runnemede,—supplanted by the principles of freedom through the American Revolution, sought to contest the truths of nature. The conflict in principle had been raging since the republic was founded.

The Republic seemed to be trembling with dread of the contest—representative government was said to be a failure—and organized rebellion broke upon the land with murderous strokes at the principles of American liberty, with cursings at the law of nature. The booming of cannon in Charleston harbor in April, 1861, was but the public chalenge to liberty to your rights as American citizens.

The first missel of death fired at the flag our country was a blow aimed at the heart that had pulsated with the national existence since 1776. The first command given was a howl of tyrany that made nature weep and touched the spirit of liberty, which caused a throbbing in the hearts of all true sons of the republic.

This throbbing brought to the rescue of the birthright upwards of a million of the "brave boys" of freedom. But this rebellion against the principles of our government; this attempted overthrow of American liberty—this revolt against a truth of nature, was the rearing up of the monster head of tyrany, who seeks power and domain at the cost of liberty. But I tell you the American government cannot be overthrown,—because it is based on the dearest rights of man, which makes the cause of your country the cause of each one of you, the longings of your heart for freedom is the pulsations of liberty, the spirit of our [illegible]

But this rebellion in our land makes this to us a day of hope—because a principle of nature is declared false—an axium of nature untrue. I tell you a government founded upon any such declaration would not stand if left to reason of its own experiment. But this warfare waged is sure to fail in its object, because nature's philosophy cannot be overthrown.

Upon such grounds, we look to the future with high hopes; we are not only cheered by the hope of philosophy, but we feel strong in the expounders of that philosophy,—the victories which are entwined in the banners of the gallant army stamps the declaration of 1776 with the golden seal of truth.

In conclusion I will say: Doubt not that the armies of the Republic are to prevail; because God and the right are on our side—the side that is to triump in truth. I was a going to say there was another reason why our success was not to be doubted, and that is because Gen. Grant said it was to be so.

The hero of Vicksburg is gradually tightening on the enemy, and the philosphy of man's liberty is being demonstrated by the valor of the American soldiery, in the hands of Generals Grant, Meade, Sherman, and each one of the gallant leaders of the armies of the Republic, and ere long the spirit of liberty will no longer mourningly fly the land, but will perch on the banners of our country in our perfect triumph.

☞ Hearing a man complain that political papers of all kinds had become such lia s that for his part he did not believe any of them, reminds us of the story of the miller and his three sons.—Coming into the mill and finding a grist in the hopper, the old man cried out:

'Tom, have you tolled this grist?'

'Yes, sir.'

'Bill, have you tolled this grist?'

'Yes, sir.'

'Sam, have you tolled this grist?'

'Yes, sir.'

'You are all a pack of lying scoundrels,' says the old man. 'I don't believe a word you say—I'll do it myself.'

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so — I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superseding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction, will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness on hooks in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Thread equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the Slack Thread equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,
Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away. The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

which, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,
Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

GARRISON HOUSE

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S

FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known and cure, beyond doubt, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

Fluid Extract Buchu

A Positive and Specific Remedy

For Diseases of the

IMPOTENCY, FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS,

in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases."

INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION,

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering but make no confession. The records of the Insane Asylums and the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion.

The Good Night.

They turn upon the chamber stair,
Two little pair of naked feet—
But one we miss—he is not there
His kind good-night to speak.

Their locks are almost mingling now,
The dark ones with the gleaming gold,
But we gaze to see again the brow
We laid beneath the summer mold.

We see his soft blue eyes once more,
And hear his low and gentle tone—
The smile so sweet he always wore,
The light's again within our home.

Good-night, papa! mamma, good-night!
The aching soul is full with joy—
He's back again; the low fire-light
Reveals the fair-haired, noble boy.

God help us now! 'Twas but a dream,
And vanquished, for he is not there;
We saw him pass the cold, dark stream—
His feet press not the chamber stair.

Redeemer, God! we wait the night
When this poor soul, all weary, worn,
Shall hear our angels thro' the light,
Soft greet us with eternal morn.

A Sharp Yankee.

A good story is told of a Dutchman who kept a small lager bier saloon in a certain neighborhood, who undertook to teach his assistant, a thick-headed sprout of Faderland, the difference between fivepence and sixpence. "Yah!" said John, with a dull twinkle of intelligence. A wag of a loafer, who overheard the lecture, immediately conceived the idea of a "saw and" lager bier gratis, for that day at least. Procuring a three cent piece, he watched the departure of the "boss," and going up to John he called for a mug of bier, throwing down the coin, and looking as if he expected the change.—John, who remembered his recent lesson, took up the piece, and muttering to himself, "Mitout de vomans—'tis von sixpence," he handed over three coppers change. How often the aforesaid drank that day we know not; it depended upon his thirst and the number of times he could exchange three coppers for three [illegible] at night the number of small coin astonished him. "Vat ish dese, John; you toke so many?" "Sixpence," replied John, with a peculiar satisfied leer, "Sixpence! Dunder and blitzen! You take all dese for sixpence? Who from?" "De man mit peard like Kossuth; he drink all day mit himself." "You give him change every time?" "Y-a-h," said John, with a vacant stare. "Der teifel catch the Yankees!" was all the astonished Dutchman could say.

Parents Duties to Children.

The first and most important duties of parents in relation to the Sunday-school are to see that the children study their lessons; that they are punctual; and to impress upon their minds the object of the school. We do not think parents fully consider how discouraging it is to the teacher to have the children come Sabbath after Sabbath, without any preparation. We tell you, parents, it is up-hill work and very discouraging; and we want your sympathy. If you would consider the importance of parental aid, we cannot but think you would give it. Children come to school with the impression that they are under very little restraint, and that it is of little consequence whether they are prepared or not. To an earnest teacher, these are heart sore trials; but our motto is, "Hope on, hope ever," that all the seed sown may not fall by the wayside. We both hope and pray that some good is done, though not so much as if you would give us a lift once in a while. Some parents, when they speak of the school before their children, talk as if it did not amount to much. Let them ask themselves the question, whose fault it is. Our Saviour said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not." Do you think you are obeying this commandment?—You cannot be neutral in the matter. "He that is not for me is against me." You either aid us, or stand in the way. For the love you have to your children, give us your countenance and aid. "Come over, and help us," come into the school, and see us; if we are ever glad to see you, it is there.

☞ That was a beautiful idea expressed by a Christian lady on her deathbed, in reply to a remark of her brother who was taking leave of her to return to his distant residence—that he should probably never again meet her in the land of the living. CORPL. A. W. HARDING.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor of acknowledging the receipt of your request, in behalf of the Company, for a copy of the Oration delivered before them, by myself, on our National Anniversary of the 4th inst., with permission for its publication. The compliment you pay me I heartily thank you for, and I will grant your request with pleasure; but in so doing I confess I am fully mindful of its many imperfections.

Very Respectfully
M. ROBERTS.

Fellow Citizens:—

The present occasion is one that will be long remembered by each one of you, because it is the pulsation of that same noble principle which brought you in the service of your country.

The cause in which you are engaged naturally created a sympathy which binds you into one common brotherhood that will never be forgotten, and when you return to the peaceful avocations of life, you will often recall the scenes of to-day with joy.

It is unnecessary for me on this occasion to repeat the honorable encomiums paid you within the last year, in short during the whole time you have occupied your present position; but I will remark the time you have remained is of more meaning than words.

But to day the throbbings of the principles of American liberty calls us to commemorate this anniversary day of American Independence. I shall not allow myself to occupy much of your time, as I am aware there is something in waiting for you, which will be better relished by your bodies than my humble thoughts will be by your minds. Our present condition will not allow me the free use of the fountain of thought, consequently I will confine my remarks principally to the rights proclaimed by the venerable Jefferson and adopted by the fathers of the Republic eighty-eight years ago today. Those principles adopted by the Revolutionary fathers we inherit as their heirs and as the birthright of American citizens.

It is nearly two years since that we obligated ourselves to assist in defending this heritage of our fathers and the God-given right of freemen. And on this the fourth day of July we unite our hearts to commemorate the eighty-eighth anniversary of the declaration of the rights of man, and the independence of the American colonies,—an era in the history of man surpassed only by the declaration of man's redemption by the "Prince of Peace."

What a sublime contrast is brought to our minds as we reflect on the declaration of God and on the declaration of man,—former opening the gates of the spiritual asylum, through the crucifixion, to a nobler life beyond; the other opening the gates of the asylum of Liberty through the bloody battle-fields of Bunker Hill, Monmouth, White Plains, Germantown, Brandywine, and other fields of like note.

But you inquire how originated this principle of American liberty. Come with me and travel back through the long avenue of English history, and we will find on the pillow of 1215, that sacred magna charta, "Freemen of England to have their rights forever." I will not pause to repeat the rights declared in that charter, which has become the bulwark of English liberty.

What a scene was connected with this granting on the banks of the Runnemede by the English Barons and King John! it is one of the most sacred events of English history. The right there secured on that memorable occasion became the birthright of English freemen.

It does not become me on this occasion to trace the history of English liberty; but I will here remark, I believe on this occasion germinated the hope of free government, or, in other words, this was the first grand throbbing of that spirit which in centuries after became the vital principle of American liberty. The pulsations of the enemy of tyrany were becoming quick and strong, and the stern and brave hearts of liberty-loving men in England as well as throughout Europe, longed for perfect freedom. I might occupy much of your time in tracing this vital principle of freedom; so I might devote much time in recalling to your memory the sufferings and privations of the wandering "Sons of liberty;" or recount the sacred scenes associated with the Mayflower, Plymouth Rock, Jamestown and other objects, or spots of like sacred remembrance.

The sufferings and privations they were destined to endure was just the school of discipline for the sons of liberty, as they had no model to encourage them and no hope but in God that there was a brighter day in the future.

But to-day we are to reflect on the vital truths the apostles of liberty proclaimed, as well as to commemorate the natal day of the American republic. The truths enunciated was a principle of nature, and man's true inheritance in a land of Liberty. What! The inheritance on the banks of the Runnemede sinks into comparative insignificance beside the declaration of the inalienable rights of man. What a sacred association of thoughts crowd upon our memory as we contemplate the "signing of the declaration!" There sits Hancock presiding with all the sternness of a Roman Senator; there stands Franklin at the head of the committee with all the sagacity of a Grecian philosopher; but farther to the right sits the venerable Jefferson, the hero of the scene. The grandeur of the scene is unsurpassed by the dignity of the Roman Senator when visited by the barbarian foe; its solemnity is surpassed only by few events in man's history.

The birthright of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness "was then declared and adopted, as the basis of the Republic of the United States. It was further declared that "governments were instituted to secure these rights," and that it was an inherent right of man to alter or abolish a government when it became destructive of these rights." The grand conclusion of the declartion is—man is endowed with the inalienable rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness by the bountiful hand of the Creator. The colonists being deprived of these right; deprived of the rights of English freemen, they "summoned the Supreme Judge as a witness to the rectitude of their intentions while they declared, the American colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent States."

Thank God children became immediately transformed into men in the great family of nations.

Such is the simple story of the causes of the declaration of independence. The rights declared were secured and sealed by bloody battle fields, from the State of Maine to the Floridas, which enabled the Revolutionary fathers to realize the colonies transformed into republican States.

The story of their struggle is familiar to you all—the victories and surrenders are sacred events in your memory; the principles enunciated echo and re-echo in the valley, along the river, and from the hill top. But the struggle is passed; the destructive crater of war is closed; the earth ceases to tremble, and there are no more groanings of the spirit of liberty in the American colonies. The result of this struggle for rights—this revolution in the principles of government—was the American Republic.

Immediately upon the formation of a government founded upon the true principles of freedom, there arose a conflict—a conflict of principles—a conflict between the principles of freedom and tyrany.

But the colonies are free; the "land of promise" is not only in view from the heighth of man's imagination, but is in real possession. To them there was a glorious future,—they possessed an expanse of country with fertile vallies, navigable rivers and broad bosomed lakes, the sure precurser of prosperity, enterprise and nobleness, with majestic forests and chains of lofty mountains—the indication of dignity and boundless wealth. How truly the Revolutionary fathers could exclaim—"how goodly a heritage do we possess." I will not occupy your time with praising the growth of the Republic, nor the development of its resources; neither will I follow the political history of American liberty; but will for a few moments reflect on the prospect of American liberty to-day.

For upwards of eighty-four years unexampled prosperity had blessed the land; but in the midst of this prosperity politicians grew prodigal in the lap of luxury and prosperity, with the honors of the country resting upon them, and the liberty of the nation almost at stake. Corrupt politicians and haughty aristocrats stalked abroad, bidding defiance to law and order,—the same power that was made to tremble on the banks of the Runnemede,—supplanted by the principles of freedom through the American Revolution, sought to contest the truths of nature. The conflict in principle had been raging since the republic was founded.

The Republic seemed to be trembling with dread of the contest—representative government was said to be a failure—and organized rebellion broke upon the land with murderous strokes at the principles of American liberty, with cursings at the law of nature. The booming of cannon in Charleston harbor in April, 1861, was but the public chalenge to liberty to your rights as American citizens.

The first missel of death fired at the flag our country was a blow aimed at the heart that had pulsated with the national existence since 1776. The first command given was a howl of tyrany that made nature weep and touched the spirit of liberty, which caused a throbbing in the hearts of all true sons of the republic.

This throbbing brought to the rescue of the birthright upwards of a million of the "brave boys" of freedom. But this rebellion against the principles of our government; this attempted overthrow of American liberty—this revolt against a truth of nature, was the rearing up of the monster head of tyrany, who seeks power and domain at the cost of liberty. But I tell you the American government cannot be overthrown,—because it is based on the dearest rights of man, which makes the cause of your country the cause of each one of you, the longing of your heart for freedom is the pulsations of liberty, the spirit of our nationality.

But this rebellion in our land makes this to us a day of hope—because a principle of nature is declared false—an axium of nature untrue. I tell you a government founded upon any such declaration would not stand if left to reason of its own experiment. But this warfare waged is sure to fail in its object, because nature's philosophy cannot be overthrown.

Upon such grounds, we look to the future with high hopes; we are not only cheered by the hope of philosophy, but we feel strong in the expounders of that philosophy,—the victories which are entwined in the banners of the gallant army stamps the declaration of 1776 with the golden seal of truth.

In conclusion I will say: Doubt not that the armies of the Republic are to prevail; because God and the right are on our side—the side that is to triump in truth. I was a going to say there was another reason why our success was not to be doubted, and that is because Gen. Grant said it was to be so.

The hero of Vicksburg is gradually tightening on the enemy, and the philosphy of man's liberty is being demonstrated by the valor of the American soldiery, in the hands of Generals Grant, Meade, Sherman, and each one of the gallant leaders of the armies of the Republic, and ere long the spirit of liberty will no longer mourningly fly the land, but will perch on the banners of our country in our perfect triumph.

TECUMSEH, MICH., JULY 21, 1864.

England's Humiliation.

It is said to be one pervading idea with Louis Napoleon, and in fact with all the leading French Statesmen, to avenge upon England, the humiliation of the French at Waterloo. And it is done. Even France ought to be satisfied with the position in which England to-day stands before nations of the Earth.

The secondary part which she was compelled to play, and the indifferent success of her armies in the Crimean war, could not but be exceedingly mortifying to a nation so prone to boast of its invincible prowess; but that was nothing compared with the mortification of fairly backing out, after all her intermeddling with Danish affairs, and tacitly confessing that without the consent of Napoleon she dare not go any further.

What becomes of the balance of power in Europe, when England can be thus cavalierly set aside, and thrust out as of no account; and what has become of the pride of England, when she will consent to be thus treated, and that with impunity.

Thus it is that History vindicates itself, and thus it is that all the double dealing, the selfish unfairness, and secret treachery with which, during this entire rebellion, England, through an ill concealed rivalry and jealousy, has treated this country, comes back with a vengeance upon her own head.

However essential to her honor, or to sustain her position among the governments of Europe, she dare not go to war, lest her own iniquitous decisions with regard to privateering and piracy, should come home upon her in such a way as to sweep her commerce from the ocean, and leave to her French rival almost the entire carrying business of the ocean.

She is alike surprised and humiliated by the fate of the Alabama, and learns from this that, in case of war, it is not at all improbable that the strongest of her iron-clads may soon meet a similar doom, not, perhaps, from Austria or Prussia, but from some more enterprising neutral in the name and under the flag of Austria or Prussia.

The fate of the Alabama warns her that they have the power, while her own Maritime decisions assert that they have the right to do so.

The readiness with which it is announced in England, that Semmes will be furnished with another and even better craft in the place of the lost Alabama, within less than sixty days, shows plainly enough the spirit of her Neutrality; nay, indeed, that she so much expects this to be really the case, as that she hopes by this threat to frighten American commerce from American bottoms, and thus still leave to her the carrying trade she so much covets.

And the manner, too, in which, after having so long and so violently denounced America for complicity with Slavery, she now turns round and fraternizes with the prime leaders in a rebellion in behalf of Slavery, but too clearly shows that all her former denunciations of it, arose far more from jealousy than principle.

Nor is this conviction, now made so irresistible, in any way calculated to elevate her in the calm judgment of the world, or the still more unerring judgment of future generations.

And yet with all her faults, and with all her great wrongs towards us, it is a serious question whether we ought not more to grieve than rejoice at the manifest and constantly increasing humiliation of our great prototype, our ancestor.

England, even such as she is, is the best exponent of constitutional liberty upon the Eastern continent, and the strongest bulwark against overspreading tyranny left to the groaning millions there.

She ought indeed to sympathize and fraternize with the sacred cause of human freedom upon this continent also, and much as we regret that a selfish narrow-minded jealousy should prevent her from doing so, we still feel that we cannot well afford to lose her influence in behalf of civil liberty, and constitutional right among the nations of the earth, and that in her weakness and humiliation the best hopes and interests of the race, at the same time suffer a material loss.

Let us then rather hope for her return to the paths of equity and right, than rejoice in her discomfiture in the devious paths of wrong.

Indian Strategy.

A very curious piece of strategy which took place the other day, shows that the wonders of Cooper's Indian heroes have not ceased. One of the 14th New York Artillery, a Seneca Indian, I believe, from the western part of the State—undertook on a wager to bring in alive a rebel sharp-shooter, who was pearched in a tree in front of our line, considerably in advance of his own. His manner of accomplishing this was as ingenious as successful, and rivals the "deviltry" of any of the Leather-Stocking red skins. Procuring a quantity of pine boughs, he enveloped himself with them from head to foot, attaching them securely to a branch, which he lashed lengthwise of his body. When completed, he was indistinguishable to a casual observer from the surrounding foliage, and resembled a tree as closely as possible for his really artistic efforts to render him. Thus prepared, and with musket in hand, concealed likewise, he stole by almost imperceptible movements to beneath the tree where the sharp-shooter was lodged. Here he patiently waited until his prey had emptied his piece at one of our men, when he suddenly brought his musket to bear upon the reb, giving him no time to reload. The sharp shooter was taken at a disadvantage. To the command to come down he readily assented, when the Indian triumphantly marched him a prisoner into camp, and won his wager.

The Harvest.

A ride through some of the Northern towns of this county, on Wednesday, showed us the mowing machines busy on most of the farms, with indications of a better crop of hay than was deemed possible a couple of weeks ago, before the rain. In some fields the cutting of wheat also had commenced, and is expected generally to give a good yield in proportion to the straw, the latter being light from the effects of winter killing. Corn is growing vigorously, and we saw a number of very fine pieces.—[Wolverine (Flint) Citizen.

It is very gratifying to know that the crops of our county are looking well, and yielding much better than was predicted for them in the early part of the season. It is not too much to say that, all in all, it is a prosperous year for our county.—[Owosso Press.

Wheat in this county has been nearly all harvested, and close observers pronounce it one of the largest, as well as one of the best, that has been harvested in this section of the State for many years.—[Niles Republican.

The wheat crop in this region is harvested. The farmers report a fair yield notwithstanding the dry weather in "filling season." It is the crop of "tame hay that has been the greatest sufferer, but it is believed that the late auspicious rains will so promote that yet to be gathered that there may be no serious scarcity.—[Three Rivers Reporter.

☞ A wealthy secession sympathiser residing near Hagarstown, Md., when he heard of the approach of the rebels, walked out to their lines with a flag of truce, and requested the first rebel soldier he met to be shown to be shown to the commanding General. Upon being taken into his presence he told the rebel General that he was a warm sympathiser with the South, and invited him to make his house his headquarters during his stay in Maryland. The General then asked him if he sympathized with the South. He replied that he did most earnestly. The General told a Sergeant to bring a musket for him and take him into the ranks. The "sympathiser" was horrified at this interpretation of his sympathy, but finally stammered out, "Oh! I didn't mean that, General. I don't want to fight. I want to entertain you and your staff while you remain here, and to show you that I am your friend." The rebel General contemptuously informed him that they interpreted sympathy only in its literal sense, and they intended to avail themselves of his good will. His barns and house were then stripped of everything of value they contained, and all his horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and smaller live stock were driven off by the rebels, with thanks for the sympathy he had manifested.

The News.

Monday July 18.

Advices by way of New York have been received from Gen. Sherman and state that three of our strongest corps are south of the Chattahoochee River, strongly intrenched in the rebel works. The enemy have fallen back to the outer works of Atlanta, three miles from the city, which are very strong and have placed therein 20,000 militia.

A force, estimated at from five to fifteen thousand rebels, entered Kentucky a day or two since, and marched toward the interior of the State. A sufficient force to give them a warm reception is awaiting them.

By the arrival of the America at New York last night, we are informed that the rebel pirate Semmes, with a part of his crew, have obtained the steamer Rappahannock and intend to sail at an early day from some French port. It is stated they will attack the Kearsarge.

Senators Wilkinson, Chandler and Sprague are on a visit to Gen. Grant's army.

The rebel raiders are still on the retreat toward Richmond, with their plunder.—Our forces succeeded in taking several small squads of their rear guard, but do not appear to be successful in capturing any considerable number. Gen. Bradley Johnson was captured near Edward's Ferry, but was subsequently rescued by a bold dash of his own men.

Another suspicious craft is reported to have sailed from St Johns, New Brunswick, on Wednesday last. She ran into the port of Cutler, Maine, where she was boarded by United States officers, but was released by them on finding that she had a regular clearance for a Chinese port. It is believed she is a rebel cruiser.

Tuesday, July 19.

The reported invasion of Kentucky; by way of Pound Gap, turns out to be a myth. Gen. Morgan is at Abingdon, and his command is said to be so demoralized and poorly equipped that he will not be likely to undertake another campaign in this direction.

A proclamation by the President, published this moring, calls for 500,000 volunteers. Unless the number should be made up by volunteering, a draft will take place on the 5th day of September, or fifty days from date.

Eight wagons, heavily laden with corn and oats, were captured on Sunday by our troops in the vicinity of Leesburg, Va. One hundred of the rebel escort were also captured.

Rebel news from Gen. Sherman's Department is favorable to the Union arms. The Confederates published there are particularly doleful over the prospect. It says: "If Gen. Johnston cannot make a successful battle or hold the enemy in check along the Chattahoochee, he cannot anywhere below it, and the only temporary check in that event would be the capture of Atlanta."

Some of the Governors of the rebel States have protested to the Jeff Davis government against any interference concerning their imports and exports.

Wednesday, July 20.

The guerillas under Thornton, in Platte and adjoining counties in Missouri are creating more than ordinary excitement. The city of St. Joseph and surrounding country is wild with rumors. Col. Ford attacked a strong force of them on Sunday. Fighting was kept up all day, resulting in the killing of 40, capturing 200 stands of arms, much ammunition and many horses.

The news from Gen Grant continues extremely dry. An artillery duel took place on the 15th, which lasted two hours. Several cannon were destroyed and six captured. The enemy were forced to retire. The fortifications lately occupied by the rebels, which prevented our troops from advancing toward Petersburg have been leveled.

The government was in receipt of good news from Sherman yesterday. No battle had taken place, but it is regarded as something better, as he had successfully crossed the Chattahoochee with his whole army, advanced five miles south of the river, and also crossed Peach Tree Creek. This advance was made without any resistance from Johnston's army, except slight skirmishing with his rear as he retired. The movement necessarily forced Johnson into the defences of Atlanta, and places the city within range of Sherman's guns.

The rebel loss before Washington is now reckoned at 2,000.

☞ The rebel soldier whom the old hero Ishmal Day shot while endeavoring to pull down the American flag from before his house during the late rebel raid into Maryland, is now in hospital at Washington. The surgeon who attends him says he has counted over 200 duck shot, covering the breast, lungs, liver and abdomen of the wounded man. His name is Field. He is a member of the 2d Maryland Cavalry and has relations living in Baltimore. He will probably recover. He shows no remorse or repentence for his actions, but speaks of the whole affair in a cool, collected manner.

Scraps of News.

—A man named William Strong was arrested at Coldwater on Wednesday on suspicion of having stolen a horse which he sold to Mr. Fillmore of Coldwater.

—David Lyon, one of the earliest settlers of Oakland County in this State, and since 1836 a resident of Saginaw, died in Saginaw City on Sunday the 10th, aged 64 years.

—Hiram A. Dean, a well-known and respectable citizen of East Saginaw, was instantly killed, on Wednesday, the 7th inst., by being run over by a runaway team, which he was endeavoring to stop.

—A little son of Mr. S. Bliss, of Albion, fell from the steeple of the Episcopal Church, in that village, on Thursday morning, breaking his wrist and receiving other injuries, though not of a dangerous nature.

—On Thursday last Gedoff Boan, a young man 17 years of age, residing at Lansing, was drowned while ridig a horse into Grand River. The horse stepped into deep water and young Boan becoming frightened let go his hold upon the horse and was drowned before he could be rescued.

—A Mr. Rhoades, owning a farm of 200 acres near White Pigeon, has been unusually successful in speculating with it. He first sold it, with the crops, in the Spring, for $9,000; afterwards bought it back with the crops for $11,000, and has again sold it for $12,000 without the crops, which are worth $2,500 or $3,000 more.

—At the commencement of the Monroe Female Seminary, which took place on the 23d ult., the following ladies were graduated, which, in our notice at the time, we omitted to mention: Misses Sneda Brigham, Erie, Mich.; Mary E. Felton, Cleveland; Rusha Mulhollen, Erie, Mich; Anna Tull, Monroe; Carrie R. Waggoner, Toledo; and Ione S. Wood, Lima, Ind. The number was smaller than usual, owing to the standard of scholarship having been changed so that several of the pupils that would have graduated were obliged to fall back into other classes. The essays of the graduating class indicated much culture, and were well received by a large audience with great applause.

—A set of teeth, supposed to have belonged to some pre-adamite monster, which weigh four pounds and five ounces, was recently excavated near Goodlettsville, Tennessee.

—Hon. George Brown has been elected by acclamation a member of the Canadian Parliament, as representative of the county of South Oxford.

—John C. Heenan was seriously injured by a railway accident in England recently. He jumped from the train at the moment of a collision, fell heavsly, injured his spine, and has since suffered from a succession of fits.

—Among the emigrants who arrived in New York during the past week from England, were about 100 factory girls, whose passage had been paid by the Lawrence Mill Companies. The girls were sent forward to Lawrence at once.

—A Vicksburg correspondent says that Gen. Sherman seldom uses a tent, and very often lies down to rest under the same blanket with one or two of his brother officers. His habits and dress are so plain that it is frequently unable to distinguish him from a common soldier.

—The conductors of trains to and from Springfield, Mass., have lately discovered that boys have been in the habit of secreting themselves on the cars, frequently in dangerous places, and thus stealing long rides. One little fellow recently rode from New York to West Brookfield, when he was discovered and ousted from his hiding place.

—At a recent meeting of the British Ethnological Society, it is said there were placed "casts of the skull of an individual at different periods of adult life, to show the changes produced in ten years." It is on the same principle, probably, that the two skulls of Dean Swift are preserved in Ireland, one when he was a boy and the other when he was a man.

—"The Boston," blockade running steamer from Bermuda to Willmington, captured off Wilmington, N. C., arrived in Boston on the 14th. The Boston is a side wheel steamer of 350 tons. Her cargo consisted of 450 sacks of salt, 2,400 barrels of copperas, and 100 boxes of soap. She was purchased about seven months since by parties in Halifax, for blockade running purposes.

—During a recent visit to to the Princess of Wales at Cambridge, a student, emulating Sir Walter Raleigh's example, spread his gown on the ground for her to walk on. The young lady was surprised, but on being told what the action meant, and that the student was not insane, stepped on the toggery, gracefully lifting her dress enough to show that she did so, and bowing to the enraptured youth at the same time.

—The assistant whom Blondin was wont to carry on his back across the Niagara, was a Milanese, who, breaking down in his affairs, resolved to commit suicide. Blondin got him to be his assistant in his perilous feat by the following logic: "If you go down, very good; you are drowned according to your intention; if you arrive safe on the other side, the fortune of both of us is made." The terrible feat was accomplished, and the two friends have since been inseparable companions.

—On Monday evening last, a party of returned soldiers completely gutted a store in Frankford, Pa. For some time the soldiers as they passed have been grossly insulted by the keeper of the store, and individuals who loitered around it, remarking "There goes one of Lincoln's thieves," and using other approbrious insults. Accordingly, on Monday evening the store was gutted, and had the proprietor been found, he would have been severely dealt with.

—A new workingman's organization, opposed to strikes, has been formed in Boston. The principal object is the employment of an agent, who will obtain coal, groceries, provisions, etc., for the members as cheap as possible.

Call for 500,000 Volunteers.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—By the President of the United States of America—a Proclamation.

Whereas, By the act approved July 4th, 1864, entitled an act further to regulate and provide for the enrolling and calling out of the national forces and for other purposes, it is provided that the President of the United States may at his discretion at any time hereafter, call for any number of men as volunteers for the respective terms of one, two or three years for military service, and that in case the quota or any part thereof of any town, township, ward of a city, precinct, or election district, or of a county not so subdivided, shall not be filled within the space of fifty days after such call, the President shall immediately order a draft for one year to fill such quota or any part thereof which may be unfilled.

Whereas, The new enrollment heretofore ordered, is so far completed as that the aforementioned act of Congress, may now be put in operation for recruiting and keeping up the strength of the armies in the field, for garrisons and such military operations as may be required for the suppression of the rebellion and restoring the authority of the United States Government in the insurgent States;

Now, therfore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do issue this my call for five hundred thousand (500,000) volunteers for the military service. Provided, nevertheless, that all credits which may be established under section eight of the aforesaid act, on account of persons who have entered the naval service during the present rebellion, and by credits for men furnished to the military service in excess of calls heretofore made for volunteers, will be accepted under this call for one, two or three years, as they may elect and will be entitled to the bounty provided by law for the period of service for which they enlisted. And I hereby proclaim, order and direct that immediately after the 5th day of September, 1864, being fifty days from the date of this call, a draft for troops to serve for one year shall be held in every town, township, ward of a city, precinct, election district, or a county not so sub-divided, to fill the quota which shall be assigned to it under this scale or any part thereof which may be unfilled by volunteers on the said fifth day of September, 1864. In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 18th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, and of the independence of the United States the 89th. (Signed)

By the President,

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

☞ H. N. F. Lewis, formerly of the Jonesville Independent, has purchased the Michigan Farmer.

☞ The publishers of the Detroit papers have raised the price of their dailies to $10 a year, and of the weeklies to $2.

☞ Jones has taken quite an agricultural turn of late. He rises regularly fifteen minutes before breakfast and hoes a big hill of potatoes. His gal understands the thing, and says he is trying to over-do himself and cheat the draft. Ah! Jones.

☞ A fellow from Ridgeway treated his gal with ice cream at Burroughs the other day. "How do you like it Sal?" said he. "It is fus rate, Bill," she replied, "but I guess the stuff is a leetle tetched with frost!"

☞ F. C. Beaman has been renominated for Congress.

Drowned.

☞ We learn from the Watchtower that on Saturday evening, between 8 and 9 o'clock, a man named William Wallace in the employ of John Davenport, Esq., in Franklin, was drowned while bathing in Evans Lake, in front of the Davenport House. The deceased was a native of Ireland, about 25 years of age and had been in this country about two years. He had a mother and young brother dependent on him for their support; his mother came to this country last fall. Alarm was instantly given but the unfortunate man sank at once, and up to 10 1 2 o'clock on Saturday evening, all efforts for the recovery of the body proved unavailing.

To our Subscribers.

We wish to have our subscribers bear in mind that our terms are $1,50 cash in advance. If not paid in advance, $2. There has been another advance in the price of white paper, and we are obliged as a matter of self-protection, to enforce our terms with rigidity. Occasionally a subscriber says, "Why, I could just as well have paid my subscription long ago." That's the point, gentlemen—why don't you pay. We offer 25 cents premium to prompt men.

☞ Our Paper.

Being again in a condition to give more attention to our Paper, we hope to make it more interesting to our readers. And we would ask from our friends the exertion of their efforts to increase our subscription list. In these times, when paper and other printing materials are more than doubled in price, and everything we consume increased in the same ratio, we need the co-operation of all who are friendly to the paper in our behalf.—Let us have our subscription list doubled payments promptly in advance, and our share of office business and general patronage, and we will furnish you a paper at the old before the war rates which shall not be excelled for beauty of appearance, excellence of matter, or reliability and freshness of its news. To each of our readers we propose the question, Will you give us your aid? Will each subscriber try to get one or more subscribers for us?

☞ We publish on the first page of to-days paper an Oration delivered by Lieut. Morris Roberts, son of J. G. Roberts, of this town, on the 4th of July, at Alexandria, Va., before the members of the 2nd Corps. We think it will be well worth a reading.

☞ The walls of Dr. Patterson's new block are rapidly going up under the supervision of those master masons Cole & McKinney.

☞ We have received from that prince of music dealers, W. W. Whitney of Toledo, the following new sheet music: "He is coming home to-day," "The band never struck me mother," "Give this to mother," Three beautiful pieces, and we predict they will have meet with a ready sale. G. T. Ketcham, has an agency from Whitney, and is prepared to fill all orders.

☞ J. D. Robbins has a new lot of heavy Lake Superior Silver Finger Rings for gents wear. They are the latest kink.

The Aid Society.

The Soldiers' Aid Society at Mrs. Bissell's on Monday evening last was well attended. The exhibition of tableaux by the young people commenced at eight o'clock, and closed about nine.

The Tableaux were well selected, and each person seemed to be assigned to their appropriate parts.

We have not space to admit of speaking of any of them in detail, suffice it to say that all were good. One of the best points of the exhibition was the representation of a camp scene by the returned members of the 4th Regiment.

After the Tableaux, Ice Cream was served to the company, and over 200 dishes were sold.

The thanks of the citizens are due to Mrs. Bissell for her kindness in offering her house for this entertainment.

We think it would be a good idea for the young people to give an entertainment of this kind occasionally, say once a month, and now that they have made a start, we hope they will not let them drop for want of enterprise. The next meeting of the society will be held on Monday evening next at Mrs. Bissell's. All are invited to attend.

☞ A new lot of Lithographs just received at G. T. Ketcham's.

☞ Harper for August at Ketcham's.

☞ The citizens of Tecumseh are requested to meet at Union Hall on Saturday evening, July 23d, to decide on what measures shall be taken to fill our quota under the present call of the President. Let there be a full attendance.

☞ There is to be three days' racing on the Prairie Course, Adrian, on the 2d, 3d, and 4th of August.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 3d, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States Notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption PAYABLE PER ANN. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding five per cent. for premium) or receive them drawing interest from the date of their Subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum according to the rate of tax levied in various parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay in currency, and are equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

Over Eight Per Cent. Interest

Bankers know that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest.

These Bonds may be purchased for sums from $50 up to any amount, on the same terms as the old 6 per cents, in any quantities desired, at the lowest market rates. They are a safe and profitable investment. Their security and freedom from taxation will have the effect to keep them at a premium.

It may be remembered in this connection that the total funded debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold on the 31 day of March, 1864, was $768,967,000. The interest on this debt for the ensuing fiscal year will be $44,957,120, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year ending June 30th, 1864, has been secured at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are large in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the specific rates of the annual receipts from customs have same amount of importations to look to 100,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were issued from the United States Treasury on the March 26th last in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions overran the million TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich. Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich. First National Bank of Benton, Mich.

AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS which are depositories of Public money, and all NATIONAL BANKING HOUSES throughout the country, acting as agents of the National Depository, Banks will furnish further information on application and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

MONEY EASILY MADE,

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so — I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it talked about. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

Union Livery Stable

"Union now, and Union ever,"
Shall be every freeman's cry;
Union formed to stand forever,
Union, the watchword, and reply.

The "UNION LIVERY," all do say,
Is just the place to go to,
To get a rig that's nice and gay,
With bells, and whip, and buffalo;

Horses gay, and safe, and fleet;
Buggies new, and nice, and strong:
Cutters fine, and all complete—
Just get in and go along.

It is the ladies' chief delight
To take a drive in our carriages,
Put on your fixen's boys, and try it,
They'll pay toll on all the bridges.

Come one, and all, by night or day,
We'll make the prices suit you,
For single rig, or four horse sleigh,
and drivers, too, to please you.

Our stables, too, are new and good;
Just drive your horses in and bait,
With hay, or straw, or ots or corn—
There's room enough, you need not wait.
The poetry machine has bu'sted. Good bye. Come and try us at the Union Livery and Feed Stable, between Haydens' and Tindall's Warehouse's on railroad street.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw

The Tension is superior to any other in use, Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a lifetime and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Old Sores, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, Leucorrhœa, Female Complaints, Erysipelas, St. Anthony's Fire, Tumors, Eruptions, Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away.

The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

In conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache, Costiveness, Colic Pains, Cholera Morbus, Indigestion, Pain in the Bowels, Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati,

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never-failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

The Bobolink.

Where the pheasant late was drumming
With her brown and spotted wings;
Where the velvet bees are humming,
Where the ox-eyed daisy swings—
The gay bobolink is coming,
With his song the welkin rings.
His coat is black as night,
His epaulettes are white;
A meadow bird is he,
Minstrel of liberty.

Hear the chorus of the rover
As he sings upon a reed,
On the thistle, in the clover,
On the tip top of the weed,
On the elm twig bending over,
Singing while he husks the seed.
Where the soft cotton grows,
As white as winter snows,
He never sang the lay
That charms the ear to-day.

How soft and tender is the twitter
Of this meadow minstrel gay!
How jubilant the wings that flitter
While he sings his roundelay,
Above the still and faithful sitter,
Upon her nest of wool and hay!
When the glad husband sings,
His wife with folded wings,
Hid in the grass and flowers
Forgets the fleeting hours.

Zenas Cary's Reward.

Red and sullen like the eye of some beautiful demon, the low sun gleamed through the tangled depths of the November woods, casting bloody lines of light across the fallen trees, whose mossy trunks were half hidden in drifts of faded yellow leaves, and evoking faint sweet scents, like Orient sandal wood and teak, from a thousand forest censors, hidden away, who knows how or where. And through that line of dull flaming fire the sky frowned—a leaden-gray concave, freighted, as the weatherwise could tell you, with snow flakes sufficient to turn that broken forest into a fairy grove of pearls and ermine. So the daylight was ebbing away from this Thanksgiving eve.

"Row I wonder where I am?" said John Siddons, pausing abruptly in the scarce visible footpath that wound among the trees. "As completely turned round as though I stood in the desert of Egypt! I wish that I had been sensible enought to keep the right road; these short cuts generally turn out long ones. However, if I keep straight ahead, I must inevitably emerge from these woods somewhere."

He sat down on a mossy stump, leaning his head carelessly on one hand, while the other played unconsciously with the worn brim of his soldier's cap—a slender, pleasant-faced young man, with gray-blue eyes, and dark hair thrown back from a bronzed forehead, which had been touched by the fiery arrows of many a Southern sun in lonely swamps, and along the fever reeking shores of sullen rivers.

"Houseless—homeless!" he murmured to himself. "I wonder how many others are saying the same thing this Thanksgiving eve. To think that I should fight through the campaign unhurt, and return with an honorable discharge in my pocket to a place where no one knows or cares whether I am alive or dead, while so many brave fellows were shot down at my side with bullets that tore through a score of hearts at home, carrying sharper pangs than death had to give! It's a queer thing to have only one relative in the world and he a total stranger. If I find this second cousin of my father he'll probably kick me out of doors for a shiftless, soldiering vagabond. But, hang it, a man can't live alone like a tortoise in his shell. I remember wondering, when I was a boy, why the Medeira vines over the porch stretched out their green tendrils, and seemed to grope through the sunshine for something to cling to. I think I understand it now."

He rose up and walked on through the russet leaves that rustled ankle-deep beneath his tread, still musing, musing—trying to study out the unknown quantities in life's great equation, while the sun went down behind a band of lurid clouds, and the chill night winds began to sigh sorrowfully in the tree tops. And suddenly the sturdy woods tapered off into a silver stemmed thicket of white birches, and the white birches fringed a lonely country road with a little red house beyond, whose windows were aglow with firelight, and whose door yard was full of the peculiar perfume of white and maroon blossomed chrysanthemums.

Zenas Cary was leaning over the gate, surveying the stormy sunset with critical eyes.

"I told Melinda so!" ejaculated Zenas apparently addressing himself to the crab apple tree by the road. "I'll bet my best steer we have a good old-fashioned fall of snow to keep Thanksgivin' with. I smelt it in the air this mornin', but women don't never believe nothin' until it comes to pass right under their noses, for"—

This rather obscure sentence was nipped in the bud by a footstep at his side. Zenas turned abruptly to reconnoiter the new arrival.

"Will you be kind enough to give me a glass of water, sir?" asked John Siddons, wearily.

"Sartin, sir!" said Zenas. "So you're a soldier, hey?"

"A returned soldier," said Siddons, draining the cool element from the cocoa nut shell that always lay close to the well curb at the side of the house.

"Going home to keep Thanksgivin'?" questioned Zenas.

"Home! Sir, I have no home!"

Siddons had spoken sharply, as if the thought were goading to him. Zenas put out his broad knotted hand and grasped the retreating man's arm.

"My boy!" he said, with kindly abruptness, "you're a soldier, and to tell by your looks I should guess you were about the age of him that's buried at Gettysburg—my only son! I love that blue uniform for David's sake, and if there is a soldier in the world that hasn't a home to go to on Thanksgiving eve, there's a corner for him by Zenas Cary's fireside. Come in, sir, come in. You're welcome as flowers in May!"

John looked into the wet eyes and working face of the old farmer an instant, and accepted his invitation without another word.

What a cheerful change it was, from the frosty air and chill twilight of the lonely road to that bright kitchen with its spotless board floor and rosinous pine logs! And when Melinda Cary drew a hump backed rocking chair to the hearth for him, and spoke a word or two of welcome, John Siddons wondered if the eyes of his mother, who died when he was a babe, had not beamed upon him just so!

"I told mother so, this very mornin'," said Zenas, with a triumphant flourish of his hand, as he stirred up the logs to a waving, glorious sheet of flame. "Says I, 'Melinda, we'll kill the biggest turkey, and I'll pick out the yallerest punkin on the barn floor.' And says she, 'what for, Zenas, when there's only us two to eat 'em?' and says I, 'Mother, I'll wait till our boy comes home.' And here you was here with us last Thanksgivin' with his new uniform, as brave and handsome as you will often see'—now, mother, don't cry!"

Zenas interrupted himself to stroke his wife's gray hair with a strangely tender touch, and went on.

"Says I, 'He's gone where it's Thanksgivin' all the year round now—my poor boy, my brave boy! but, says I, 'we'll make somebody welcome for Davie's sake; won't we, mother?' And now, sir, you'll spend to-morrow with us, and tell me about the battle of Gettysburg, where Davie died, crying out with his last breath not to let the flag be captured!"

Zenas' voice died out into a choking, gasping sob. John Siddons laid his hand softly on the rough, toil-hardened hand of the farmer, while a pang of envy shot through his heart. Ah! it was almost worth while being shot down in battle to be missed and mourned like dead David Cary!

"O, wife," said Zenas, when John Siddons had fallen asleep in the little corner room that had been the lost boy's, "it is almost like having Davie back again! Wife, I fight my great sorrow down every night, but every morning it rises up again more than ever. God help every parent whose home is made desolate by the field of battle!"

Thanksgiving dawned with a white whirlwind of driving snow that eddied among the gnarled boughs of the apple trees in mad frolics, and edged the old stone wall with dazzling ermine. And the fiery sparks careering swiftly up Zenas Cary's wide chimney met the steadily falling snow half way and gave battle, while the hearth glowed with ruddy brightness, as if it knew all about the Governor's Proclamation, and approved of it.

"You have a cozy little farm, Mr. Cary," said John, as they walked through the snow storm to the church whose spire nestled among the everlasting hills just beyond.

"If I was only sure of it, sir," said Zenas, with a sigh. "But I've been hard put to it to get along these times. Taxes and such like come heavy on poor men, and I've had a run o' ill-luck, so that the place is mortgaged to its full value, and to a hard man—one that will [illegible] brought up in as soon as eat his breakfast, so he can make money by it. It will be a black day for Melinda and me when we have to leave the Rock Farm; but it must come soon, and I don't much care what becomes of me afterwards. I tell you, sir, when a man has lived to my age under one roof-tree he don't take very kindly to being moved. Men are like forest trees, sir; you can take a young one and do as you please with it. Let's talk of something else now, Mr. Siddons, I ought not to complain on Thanksgiving day."

John looked with feeling and actual reverence at the hard featured old man, whose simple soul, borne down as he was by debt, and grief, and age, could still find something to be thankful for.

The turkey and pumpkin pies were smoking on the round table when John and Zenas returned from church; and Mrs. Cary had brought out her "flowing blue" plates and her choicest, old-time silver spoons in honor of their guest. There was no beverage but coffee that never knew the shores of Java, and a pitcher of cold sparkling cider; but champagne could not have been more cordially dealt out by Zenas; and Mrs. Cary's smiling kindness gave a flavor to the chickorized rye that is sometimes lacking in "eggshell china."

The table was cleared away, and they were sitting round the fire, when the door was opened and Deacon Evarts entered, bringing a small snowdrift on the shoulder of his shaggy overcoat.

"Well, I'm beat!" quoth Zenas. "Take a cheer, Deacon. Let me hang your coat afore the fire to dry."

"Can't stay," said the Deacon, giving himself a shake, like a black water dog on his hind legs. "I thought you'd like to hear the news, so I jest dropped in on my way to my daughter's Thanksgiving dinner."

"News! what news?" exclaimed Zenas, while his wife dropped her knitting.

"Didn't the [illegible] reach you?"

"I hain't heerd nothin' but the wind a howlin' down the chimbly, and Elder Smith's sermon this mornin'," said Zenas, a little impatiently.

"The 'Squire is dead up to the great house!"

"Dead! You don't tell me so. That's the man I was speakin' of as holding my mortgage!" explained Zenas, turning to John Siddons. "And when did it happen, Deacon?"

"Died last night, sir, just about nightfall, as quiet as a lamb. There wan't nobody with him but the old housekeeper—folks didn't 'spose he was dangerous. And Lawyer Ovid says there's a reg'lar will, and he's left all his property to the only relative he had livin'; a soldierin' feller that he'd never as much as seen—one Sedgewick, or Sibley, or what was his name now? Anyhow, he's fell heir to all 'Squire Peter Ailesford's property, and that is a pretty considerable windfall!"

"Was the name Siddons?" asked the soldier, who had hitherto listened to the conversation in silence.

"That's it," said the Deacon, giving his knee a sounding slap.

"Peter Ailesford was my father's cousin," said the young man quietly.

"Land o' Goshen!" ejaculated Deacon Evarts, with growing veneration for the heir to "the old 'Squire's money. "Now, reely, that's kind o' providential that you should be right here on the spot!"

"I was in search of Mr. Ailesford's house when I met you, sir," said Siddons, turning to Cary; "but as I was unaware what sort of a reception I might get, your kind invitation decided me to wait a day or two."

In vain the Deacon tried to "pump" the young soldier. John Siddons was civilly uncommunicative, and the Deacon finally took leave, burning to unfold his budget of news elsewhere.

"I hope, sir," said Cary, uneasily, when they were once more alone, "you won't be hard about that mortgage. I'm a poor man, and"—

"Mr. Cary," said John, quietly, "you shall burn that mortgage on this hearth the very day I come into possession of my relative's papers. No thanks sir; I have not forgotten that I was a 'stranger, and you took me in.' Do you suppose that I shall ever cease to remember the welcome of the Thanksgiving hearth? I never knew either father or mother; but to-day I have fancied what their kindness might have been."

"It was for Davie's sake," sobbed Mrs. Cary, fairly overcome.

"Then for your dead son's sake will [illegible]

Last night death took from me the only one in the world to whom I was allied by ties of blood; do not turn me from your hearts!"

"The Lord bless thee, my second son," said the old man solemnly.

Slowly the dusk gathered athwart the hills, with wailing winds and whirling drifts of snow—slowly the darkness wrapped them round; but in Zenas Cary's steadfast soul the light of an eternal Thanksgiving was burning, and his wife, with tearful eyes, mused upon her two soldier boys—one dead at Gettysburg, the other sitting at her side.

An Industrious Monarch.

Peter the Great once passed a whole month at the forges of Muller, during which time after giving due attention to the affairs of State, which he never neglected, he amused himself with seeing and examining everything in the most minute manner, and even employed himself in the business of a blacksmith! He succeeded so well, that one day before he left the place he forged eighteen pounds of iron and put his own particular mark on each bar. The boyars and other noblemen of his suit were employed in blowing the bellows, stirring the fire, and performing the other duties of a blacksmith's assistant. When Peter had finished he went to the proprietor, praised his manufactory, and asked how much he gave to his workmen per pound.

"Three kopecks, or an altina," answered Muller.

"Very well," replied the Czar, "I have then earned eighteen altinas."

Muller brought eighteen ducats, offered to Peter, and told him that he could not give a workman like his Majesty less per pound.

Peter refused the sum, saying: "Keep thy ducats; I have not wrought better than any other man, give me what you would give another; I want to buy a pair of shoes, of which I am in great [illegible]

At the same time he showed him his shoes, which had been once mended, and were again full of holes. Peter accepted the eighteen altinas, and bought himself a pair of new shoes, which he used to show with much pleasure, saying: "These I earned with the sweat of my brow."—One of the Gate of Moscow, forged by Peter the Great, authenticated by his mark, is still to be seen in Istia in the loged of Muller. Another similar bar is preserved in the cabinet of curiosities at St. Petersburg.

The Simple Secret.

Twenty clerks in a store—twenty hands in a printing office—twenty young men in a village. All want to get along in the world, and expect to do so. One of the clerks will rise to be a partner, and make a fortune. One of the compositors will own a newspaper, and become an influential and prosperous citizen. One of the apprentices will become a master-builder. One of the villagers will get a handsome farm and live like a patriarch But which is destined to become the lucky individual? Lucky? There is no luck about it. The thing is almost as certain as the Rule of Three. The young fellow who will distance his competitors, is he who masters his business who preserves his integrity, who lives cleanly and purely, who never gets in debt, who gains friends by deserving them, and puts his money into a savings bank.'—There are some ways to fortune that look shorter than this old dusty highway.—But the staunch men of the community, the men who achieve something really worth having, good fortune, good name, and a serene old age, all go this road.

The News.

Monday, July 25.

Maryland is to be again invaded by another marauding party of thieves.—Mosby, it is said has already entered the State with his invincible (?) 300, or 400. This is considered the advance guard, and a gentleman who saw them cross the river, magnified the party into a body of 5,000, with cavalry, infantry and artillery. He undoubtedly is one who got terribly frightened during the late raid, and has not yet fully recovered from the shock.

Forrest was out generaled by Smith, and suffered five disastrous repulses before he would admit being whipped. On the 20th the expedition reached Lagrange with a loss all told, of less than 500.—Not a gun or wagon was lost during the expedition. Gen. Grierson says: "The rebel loss cannot be less than 4,000."—Dispatches captured by Gen. Hatch admit a loss of 2,400. The expedition returned solely on account of the exhaustion of supplies. He brought in 250 prisoners.

The secret of the arrest of several prominent secessionists at St. Louis not long since has been made public. They were connected with a conspiracy, extending throughout the entire Mississippi Valley, having for its object the erection of a Northwestern Confederacy. Col. Sauderson, Provost Marshal General of St. Louis, has been gathering evidence in this matter for several months, all of which is now in possession of the Washington authorities. It implicates many public men, and shows the organization to be formidable and dangerous.

Tuesday, July 26.

A great battle took place at Atlanta on Friday last, resulting in horrible slaughter, and a complete repulse to the rebels. The enemy assaulted Gen. Sherman's lines with great ferocity, but were driven back in every instance. The 15th 16th and 18th corps were the principal troops engaged, the former suffering to a fearful extent. Gen. Hogan at the head of the 17th corps, went into the battle with the rallying cry of "Remember McPherson!" and it is said that his men fought with great desperation. The rebel loss is stated at 6,000. Our loss is believed to be not over 3,000. Sherman now holds the first line of intrenchments but appearances indicate that he will soon occupy the city, as the rebels were thou't to be burning stores and other property, preparatory to evacuating the place.

Wednesday, July 27.

We are unable to get any correct information from the recent battles between Gens. Hunter, Averill and Crook. It is reported that by far the greater part of the rumors are false. It is believed it will be found the rebel force at present in the Shenandoah Valley and reported to be at Martinsburg and elsewhere, is only the recent raiders, who finding there was no large force, suddenly turned and fell on our small force under Crook, with the object of driving him back beyond the Potomac, and freeing the valley from Union troops, so as to gather the crops of the valley, so vitally important to Lee's army.

Mediation has been again urged in the British Parliament. Two prominent rebel sympathisers and others had called on Lord Palmerston to urge mediation in America, on the ground of humanity.—Lord Palmertton replied that he did not think the time for mediation had arrived, as both parties were equally sanguine of success. The rebel Mason had an interview with Lord Palmerston a few days before the Scotia left Liverpool, and is reported as being satisfactory to all parties.

☞The St. Louis Democrat gives the following account of barbarous attrocities committed in Missouri by guerrillas: "A few days ago a young man named Hart was murdered in St. Francois county, under circumstances of the most revolting character. When found after his capture by the bushwhackers, he was suspended from a tree in such a way as to have produced a lingering and excruciating death, his hands being tied behind his back by hickory throngs, passed through holes bored in his wrists. Other marks of aggravated torture were found upon his person. Another case of extraordinary atrocity was the killing of an old Methodist preacher named Morrie, in Platte county, a man 60 years of age, whose eyes were first put out, and then he was shot."

FRIEND BURLINGAME:

Thinking you might be pleased to receive a bona fide 'secesh' paper, I herewith take the liberty to send you the enclosed 'Richmond Whig" of July 15th. Yesterday I managed to get near enough to the Rebs. to effect an exchange without having more than twenty rifles discharged for my special benefit. The Confed. with whom I exchanged papers stated that they were in rather straightened circumstances over in the vicinity of Petersburg, being on quarter rations. Last evening we expected a large number of Rebs. to come into our lines in a body but by some means or other their plan was discovered and they were relieved by the General commanding their division and other troops were substituted in their place. Their plan of action was something like this: The day before yesterday a number of deserters came into our lines and reported that one whole Brigade would, upon the signal being given as an assurance that they would not be fired upon by our pickets or batteries, desert to our lines. The signal agreed upon was three white rockets thrown by our signal corps, within one minutes time. My regiment was detailed for fatigue last night and the deserters were expected to come in at the front where we were working in the trenches. In due time the rockets were thrown but with no other effect then to call forth all sorts of howls imaginable from the Rebs. We could hear them distinctly and by what they had to say we concluded that they had nipped their brother confeds plans in the bud. One however managed to get away and reported that they had been relieved and so could not for the present at least effect their escape from bondage to liberty.

Mortar shelling is now the order of the day, and the way our gunners drop the shells into the enemy's works must make it anything but pleasant for them. This evening we blowed up one of their magazines, and the shock was distinctly felt upon our part of the line, more than one mile distant, the column of smoke thrown up was so dense that it was not altogether dispelled for more than half an hour after the explosion.

If the Johnny's do not look out they will hear a great deal louder noise before a great while. But such correspondence is "contraband."

We hear some very exciting reports from the rebel invasion, but we have just one [illegible] and that is that the invaders who dared to risk so much will in the end be the losers. General Grant has his eye open. Such is the confidence reposed in U. S. G. that if we should be ordered to Fortress Monroe to-night we would take it for Grant-ed that it was only one more flank movement to get possession of Charleston, (or some other place,) which would compel the rebs to evacuate Richmond and Petersburg.

We have received into our regiment those who re-enlisted in the 4th regiment. We are now able to present quite a formidable array to the enemy. The boys get along finely and harmonize together as if they had never been two separate organizations.

We are confident of a speedy victory over Lee and his army and we expect to occupy Richmond within one month, and before you receive this we may be taking our preliminary steps therefor, by making a grand assault upon their works.

With regard I remain

Yours &c.,

E. A. WILCOX,

Co. E, 1st Mich. Vet. Vol.

☞The heaviest battery ever mounted on a man of war is now in the Mediterranean, on board the U. S. steam frigate Niagara. Of twenty guns on her main deck there is not one less than a 11 inch, or a hundred pound rifle—a fact the real importance of which can only be understood by professional men. She is thus provided with the best short range and the most perfect long ranged pieces of ordnance extant. The result of an encounter with her would hardly be paralleled in the history of naval fighting, for no such armament has been known before. Her officers and men are well inured to sea-service, having been on board several months.

The Governor's Proclamation.

The following proclamation has just been promulgated by the Governor:

"The President of the United States, in pursuance of a law of Congress, has issued his call for five hundred thousand (500,000) volunteers for the military service, and has directed that immediately after the 5th day of September, 1864, a draft for troops, to serve for one year, shall be held in every town or sub-district, to fill the quota which shall be assigned to it, which shall remain unfilled on the said 5th day of September, 1864.

I believe this call to have been eminently proper and necessary for the public service, and being such to demand the patriotic, earnest, and hearty response of the people. That it will be met in the same spirit that has put Michigan thus far largely in excess of all previous calls, there can be no doubt. The rebellion, as it approaches its final overthrow, grows steadily more desperate, wicked, and hateful. Covered with the blood of patriots, cursed with the dying breath of starved prisoners, and abhorred by all good men for its barbarous butcheries of the unarmed who have ceased to fight, it must perish utterly. The people of this State, remembering their past sacrifices only as an additional motive to greater exertions in the future, will, I know, enter upon this present duty with the activity and energy which does not admit of failure.

The quota assigned to the State is eighteen thousand two hundred and eighty-two, (18,282,) of which only a little above twelve thousand, (12,000) remain to be recruited, or drafted if the recruiting fails. For the purpose of filling the quota, only two resources are available, viz.: 1st, Recruiting in the States declared to be in rebellion, under the act of July 4th, except the States of Arkansas, Tennessee and Louisiana, and, 2d, Recruiting among our own people. The first of these, I believe, will be found of no substantial value to us at present for obvious reasons. The points at which this recruiting is to be carried on are so remote that the period of fifty days will not be sufficient to enable agents to accomplish much during that time, and they would meet the active competition of the older States, paying much larger bounties than our laws enable us to do. I shall not therefore appoint any such agents to be paid by the State, but will under proper regulations appoint such agents for the benefit of any counties, towns or sub-districts which may request it, paying the expenses of the agencies for themselves. They will, of course, also be entitled to [illegible] by the fact that the State has no funds appropriated by law for this purpose.

Substantially, then, our only resource will be that which has always heretofore been found sufficient; the patriotismism of our own people.

Recruits will allowed to enlist for one, two, or three years, as they may prefer, and as far as practicable each recruit may may select the regiments in which he will enlist. This will always be allowed in the regiments in the field, so long as such regiments are below the maximum number. As an inducement to enlist, the Government of the United States will pay a bounty of one hundred dollars to recruits enlisting for one year, two hundred dollars for those elisting for two years, and three hundred for those enlisting for three years. Such local bounties will be paid as the people of the several towns, wards, and sub-districts may authorize in pursuance of law. No State bounty can be paid, for reason that the appropriation made for that purpose is exhausted. For the porpose of aiding the recruiting service, and giving direction to the public efforts, six new regiments will be authorized, one of them being located in each Congressional District, and I will receive all the new companies that may be offered during the fifty days of recruiting. All the recruits offered for the new regiments and companies, however, must be enlisted for three years or during the war. Those who enlist for a shorter term than three years will go into the regiments now in the field.

I earnestly recommend to all those who enlist under this call, whether in the new organizations or the old ones, to do so for the war. This State has thus far raised no troops for a less term than three years. Both for the Government and the soldier, the longest term is the best. Let us continue to adhere to this policy, which has given us a most honorable position in the service, and the reputation of the Michigan soldiery, which is now unsurpassed, will continue to grow.

The work of filling up the quota of the State is for the people. The close of the war visibly approaches, and the sure triumph of the Union cause grows manifest.

Our troops are now led by tried and victorious Generals, leaving nothing to be desired in that direction. Conquering Union armies are in the very midst of the Confederacy, progressing steadily towards the final victory. Let the people of the country stand firmly by the lawful Government, and they can safely meet what is to come.

Given under my hand at the Capital in Lansing, the twenty-first day of July, eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your feelings uncomfortable? These symptoms are often the prelude to serious illness. Some fit of sickness is creeping upon you, and should be averted by a timely dose of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered humors—purify the blood, and let the fluids move on unobstructed in healthy stream. They stimulate the functions of digestion into healthy activity, purify the system from the obstructions which make disease. A cold settles somewhere in the body, and constructs the organ in which it fastens upon. There it may remain, irritating the part, and causing pain. There it may fester and react upon themselves and the surrounding organs producing general derangement, suffering, and disease. While in this condition, exposed to the derangements of the digestive organs, take Ayer's Pills, and see how speedily they restore the natural action of the system, dispel pain, and restore health again. Wind is generally expressed by this trivial and common complaint, yet that pain is many of the deep-seated and dangerous maladies. The same purgative effect expels them. Caused by shutting obstructions and derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are rapidly, and many of them surely, cured by the same means. Some who know the virtues of these Pills, will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Statements from leading physicians in towns of the principal cities, and from other well known public persons.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her. ASA MORGRIDGE.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. H. Cutwright, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

DEAR SIR, AYER: I cannot answer too strongly your pills. I have cured with your Pills better than to say of them ever treat with a purgative medicine. I place great confidence on an effectual cathartic in my daily practice with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

TIPPECANOE, PA., May 12, 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of my worst headache, any body can have my receipt for a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PRESLEY,
Capt. of Steamer Chariton.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their medical effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1856.

SIR: I was used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours, ALDERSON BAKER, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Relax, Worms.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of Scotts.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I have called to see in distress. In regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best medicine I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WESTON, MONTGOMERY CO., MD., Jan. 21, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative pill.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Fits, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Mobile, Ala.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. Without a cathartic we cannot have good health, as efficacious as I have, they should be in every household. Being fit for the benefit of the multitude who suffer from that complaint, with which nearly half the human family are more or less afflicted, I feel bound to bear testimony to the benefits I have derived from your invaluable pills.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills taken at the proper time, to be the most prompt expellers of the disease for which they are recommended, when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have, that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hunter, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh, Penn., Jan. 8, 1855.

HONORED SIR: I was until lately a victim to the agonizing pain of the Dyspepsia, and despaired of ever being free from it in this life. A friend then in my behalf, by such an earnest urging, prevailed on me to try your Pills, which ended the discovery in my case. Notwithstanding I had tried so many patent medicines, I found grew worse and worse until I took your Pills, which have proved an excellent agent in bringing me to health again. I feel bound to give my testimony in favor of your Pills. Their effects were so decidedly beneficial in my case, that I am well satisfied of the use of them. I am now enjoying well health.

SENATE CHAMBER, Albany, Dec. 5, 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been cured by your Pills of a long and painful disease, Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had rendered me helpless for years. VINCENT MATTHEWS.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which although a valuable remedy in skillful hands, is dangerous in a public pill. From the Cathartic ingredients I put from my pills follow its employment, and contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Price, 25 cents per Box, or 5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

"Union now, and Union ever,"
Shall be every freemen's cry;
Union formed to stand forever,
Union, the watchword, and reply.

The "UNION LIVERY," all do say,
Is just the place to go to,
To get a rig that's nice and gay,
With bells, and whip, and buffalo;

Horses gay, and safe, and fleet;
Buggies new, and nice, and strong;
Gutters fine, and all complete—
Just get in and go along.

It is the ladies' chief delight
To take a drive in our carriages;
Put on your fixen's boys, and try it,
They'll pay toll on all the bridges.

Come one, and all, by night or day,
We'll make the prices suit you,
For single rig, or four horse sleigh,
and drivers, too, to please you.

Our stables, too, are new and good;
Just drive your horses in and bait,
With hay, or straw, or oats or corn—
There's room enough, you need not wait.
The poetry machine has busted. Good bye. Come and try us at the Union Livery and Feed Stable, between Haydens' and Tindall's Warehouse's on railroad street.

☞ We regret to record a serious accident to Dr. J. S. Hamilton. While on his professional rounds in Franklin, last Sabbath, when near the residence of Dea. German, his horse became unmanageable and he was thrown from his sulky and so severely injured, that he has as yet not been able to be brought home. He is however rapidly improving, as we are informed, and hopes to be around again soon. Dr. Wm. C. Fisher, another of our physicians, is for the present laid up with a typhoid fever. He has now been sick nearly two weeks, but hopes to count himself among the convalescents in a few days more.

Serious Accident.

A disastrous runaway occurred in our village last Friday. Mr. Jacob Snyder, of Macon, being in the village with his team, accompanied by his son George, a boy about twelve years of age, was preparing to return home, when his horses became unmanageable. Mr. Snyder was upon the point of getting into his wagon, his boy being already in the seat, and the horses dashed off with blind fury, ran up Chicago street to the new Methodist Church, and rushed against the fence, ten or twelve feet of which was demolished by the collision, the wagon was completely wrecked and the boy was thrown to the ground with much violence striking his head upon a brick, badly cutting his face and breaking the skull bone just above the eye. The injured boy was carried into the drug store of Fisher & Hendryx where his injuries were attended to by Dr. Baldwin, who removed some broken bones from the wound.—Some apprehension is felt that the boy will not recover, and if he does survive, that he will lose the sight of his eye. At last accounts he was doing remarkably well. One of the horses, a valuable young animal worth $150, had one of its fore shoulders broken and was pierced in the side, inflicting such injuries that it was thought humane to kill the creature and it was accordingly shot.

Later.—Since the above was in type we learn that the boy died yesterday.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 3d, 1861, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than five nor more than forty years from date, and bear interest for redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID on all Bonds of not over one hundred dollars, and two per cent on all other Bonds, semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers receiving either Registered or Coupon Bonds, as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transfered only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, and are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March less by paying the accrued interest in coin (or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levied in various parts of the country.

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 31 day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 28th, but in the first three weeks [illegible] TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.

Subscriptions will be received by the Undersigned, and by the Cashier of the First National Bank of Ann Arbor, Mich.
Second National Bank of Detroit, Mich.
First National Bank of Fenton, Mich.
AND BY ALL NATIONAL BANKS which are depositories of Public money, and all RESPECTABLE BANKS AND BANKERS throughout the country acting as agents of the National Depository, who will furnish further information on application and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS.

MONEY EASILY MADE.

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so.—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at.—NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

"Union now, and Union ever,"
Shall be every freemen's cry;
Union formed to stand forever,
Union, the watchword, and reply.

The "UNION LIVERY," all do say,
Is just the place to go to,
To get a rig that's nice and gay,
With bells, and whip, and buffalo;

Horses gay, and safe, and fleet;
Buggies new, and nice, and strong:
Cutters fine, and all complete—
Just get in and go along.

It is the ladies' chief delight
To take a drive in our carriages.
Put on your fixen's boys, and try it,
They'll pay toll on all the bridges.

Come one, and all, by night or day,
We'll make the prices suit you,
For single rig, or four horse sleigh,
and drivers, too, to please you.

Our stables, too, are new and good:
Just drive your horses in and bait,
With hay, or straw, or ots or corn—
There's room enough, you need not wait.
The poetry machine has bu'sted. Good bye. Come and try us at the Union Livery and Feed Stable, between Haydens' and Tindall's Warehouse's on railroad street.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—O—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged, to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order, without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price."

DR. ROBACK'S BLOOD PURIFIER and BLOOD PILLS

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other, but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

The Meteor.

The day was drawing to a close,
The stars were peeping out;
All nature whispered "sweet repose,"
And silence reigned throughout.

An Indian boy, tired of his play,
Among the shadows dim,
Stood looking at the stars, while they
Were winking down at him!

When suddenly one seemed to fly
Out in the dusky night,
Drawing across the clear, deep sky
A tinny thread of light.

Never before a thing like this
Had met his wond'ring gaze;
Something, he felt, must be amiss—
The heaven's in a maze!

He turned to ask one by his side
What could the meaning be;
Then, struck with sudden thought, he cried,
"The stars have matches, see!"

A Merited Fate.

BY EDWARD S. ELLIS.

At the close of the last century, a Spanish trader settled among the Indians at the base of the Green Mountains. He married a squaw, and for a number of years lived very pleasantly, according to his ideas of life, in harmony with his villainous associates. His adopted tribe being very powerful, this trader fell to levying black mail upon some of the settlements in the Santa Fe province. This he carried to such an entent that he became an object of execration to the settlers, and on one of his visits he was taken prisoner and hung by the incensed people.

He left behind him, beside his wife and child, quite an amount of property, which was "confiscated," that is, the tribe appropriated it to their own use, and turned the widow and her offspring adrift. After wandering hopeless and despairing for a long time, she fell in with a good-natured Canadian trapper, who, after a short and spirited courtship married her. As time passed on, the young half-breed grew to maturity, and manifested a wonderful aptitude for learning languages, frequently acquiring an Indian tongue in the course of a few weeks. When a young man, his mother died, and his father, remembering the pleasant hours he had spent years before among the civilized portion of our country, resolved to return. Accordingly he set out for St. Louis, accompanied by the young half-breed, for whom he entertained a strong affection. Here they remained several months, when the son having acquired a practical knowledge of the English language, his step-father set out with him to pay a visit the Osage Indians.

This young half-breed seems to have inherited the qualities which had rendered his father famous; for, while upon the expedition, he murdered his stepfather took his horse, rifle and accoutrements and set up buiness for himself. This unnatural crime was not attributed to him for a long time, and when it was discovered, neither he nor any one else cared anything about it, so that he entertained no fears at all of any punishment from human hands.

It was his custom to wander from tribe to tribe, leading an indolent, aimless life, which, to him, was the perfection of all human enjoyment. His extensive knowledge of the Indian tongues rendered him so valuable for the different tribes in their barters with the white traders, that he was suffered to do as he pleased, no one questioning or even noticing his many shortcomins. The different traders, seeing him now with the Crows, then with the Sioux, or Pawnees, named him "Turn-over," which appellation itself turning over, came be "Overturn," and finally he was known among the Americans as "Colonel Ovoton," which name remained by him until his death.

By the time he gained this complimentary title, everybody discovered that he was one of the greatest scoundrels that was ever allowed to live. Thieving and murder were his constant occupation. No foe was too insignificant or powerless to escape his fiendish malignity; but as he was extremely useful, the English Fur Company, in Canada, paid him enormous wages to act as their interpreter, until discovering that he was always drunk, and inordinately addicted to appropriating their property to his own use, they discharged him from their service, and he returned to the Indians again.

Some time after this, a company of Yankee speculators having learned Colonel Ovoton's characteristics, made him a fine offer to enter into their employ. The nature was in keeping with the man. The speculators, who were trading with the Indians, agreed to give him a handsome compensation for cheating the savages in every bargain to the full extent of his ability. Ovoton accepted the offer, entered into it with his whole soul, and for a time affairs between him and his employers progressed wonderfully well; but the latter were not long in making the discovery, that beside cheating the Indians he was also defrauding them to a far greater extent than they were willing to bear. They brought all their Yankee cunning into play, but it was of no use. The wily agent coustantly overreached them, and at length the sacred alliance was dissolved.

He now retired to the mountains, claiming and receiving the protection of the Mexican government. Under the shadow of this, he commenced a new series of depredations, from which it was manifest that, though he was constantly changing his manner of doing business, he was progressing in skill and villainy.

Away up somewhere in the mountains, the precise location of which was a secret to every one except himself he had provided himself with a house, to which he returned at stated periods, and remained days and weeks at a time. His skill was so valuable and so widely known, that in spite of his consummate villainy, he was constantly importuned to act as interpreter between the different trading parties. He would make his appearance, accompanied by a number of rouges, inferior to him only in cunning, and the trade would commence. While it was in progress, he was all smiles and blandness, and conducted it with such seeming justness that in a short time it was finished to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. The trade ended, a keg of whiskey would be produced, and all concerned were expected to partake. Ovoton and his companions would swallow but a few mouthfuls, but devote their whole energies to getting the other parties drunk. As much skill was not requisite to accomplish this, in a short time they would all be in such a state of beastly intoxication as to be perfect madmen. Now was the golden moment for the prince of villains. But he would tell the traders that the Indians were only waiting for them to go to sleep in order to murder them and rob them of their goods, and then crossing over to the Indians, under pretense of endeavoring to dissuade them from such a crime, he would pour the same story into their ears, adding that their only chance of preserving their property lay in exterminating the traders. These insidious falsehoods could set the passions of the two parties aflame, and the result would be a most sanguinary and terrible fight—a fight waged by each company with the set determination of annihilating each other. While the infuriated combatants were thus struggling together, Ovoton and his men, under the pretense of making everything safe, would load up all the goods on the pack mules, all haste to Santa Fe, where they were disposed of at half their value. Their remaikable cheapness might occasion remarks of suspicion with some, but a Santa Fe merchant, (and they were mostly Americans), cares little how his wares have been obtained, so that they come into his hands at a price which affords him a good bargain.

This very trick, precisely as we have described it, Colonel Ovoton practiced again and again upon the whites and Indians, until he and all his partners had accumulated fine fortues, and had become the terror of every one. His villainies and murders were so numerous that small parties shunned him as they would a pestilence, and all united in a resolve to rid the country of such a monster. Large bands of Indian warriors scoured the monntains for his scalp, the English swore they would have him, and it was the firm intention of the Yankee traders to put him to the Indian torture. The Mexicans, also, who, for a time, had protected him, offered a reward for his head.

At this time, Colonel Ovoton took a sudden avertion to mankind, and dismissed his companions, who scattered, and gradually escaped from the country, while he withdrew within the mountains, and nothing was seen or heard of him for nearly three year. It was generally believed that he was dead, and all parties congratulated themselves upon being rid of the incubus of his existence.

But one day, as a war party of Indians were returning to their homes, they unexpectedly encountered a man on horseback. A glance only was sufficient to show them that he was the notorious Colonel Ovoton, and with a shout of exultation the whole band dashed off in pursuit of him.

The chase was long and for a time doubtful. Ovoton was mounted upon a splendid steed, which exerted himself to his utmost to save his master, but the ground was so broken and uneven that it was impossible to get out of sight of his purfuers. Urged on by the horrid yells of his enemies, Ovoton taxed his noble horse to the utmost, flying over the ground with a velocty that was tremendous. He kept his distance, however, until he reached a sort of platform covered with pine trees, where he believed he was safe; for on the opposite side of this, a long, low, level valley stretched for miles, and here he felt certain his horse would soon leave the swiftest of his pursuers behind. Panting and foaming, his steed plunged in among the trees, passed out upon the plain, when to the horror of Ovoton, he recoiled suddenly upon his haunches on the very brink of a chasm, twenty feet in breadth and two hundred in depth.

Maddened to desperation at this unexpected obstacle, Ovoton plunged his spurs into the sides of his horse, but the exhausted animal refused to make such a terrible leap. The yelling Indians were dashing onward, and, hardly conscious of what he did, the frightened fugitive sprang from his horse and struck him with the point of his knife. Goaded to madness, the noble steed plunged out over the abyss, struck the opposite side with his fore feet, rebounded backward and went plunging from crag to crag, down the chasm!

On the very edge of this precipice there lay a hallow log, which apparently had been dragged there some years before for the durpose of bridging the chasm. Ovoton crawled in beneath this, trusting that his pursuers would think he had gone over the precipice, and fail to search further for him. But they had seen him drive his horse over, and also witnessed him as he sank down beside the log. But, in order to prolong his agony, they feigned to think he had escaped, then came up, and commenced conversing about it. One remarked that he would give his horse and rifle for his scalp, another that he would put him to the slow torture, and a third spoke of remaining to search for him.

"At any rate, he is gone," said the instigator of the ruse, "and we will return, but before doing so, let us build a fire by the log and warm ourselves."

Ovoton saw at once that they knew of his situation and that he was lost; but, true to his Indian blood of his nature, he resolved to disappoint them in obtaining his scalp, by remaining beneath the log and burning to death. Leaves and sticks were heaped around him, and in a moment he was enveloped with smoke and flames. But his endurance was not equal to the torture; he bore it until his clothes took fire, when, with a yell of agony, he rolled through the crackling embers, and ran three times around his tormentors, who stood with drawn bows ready to transfix him at the proper moment. Not one stirred or spoke a word, when, with another despairing cry, he burst toward the chasm, and he took the terrible leap! His amazed tormentors saw his blazing form crouched and balancing for an instant in mid air over the frightful abyss, and then, incredible as it may seem, he struck upon the opposite side, several feet from the edge of the precipice, where, had he possessed any remaining strength, he could have easily sustained himself, and where he would have been safe, as the Indians would have scorned to harm him after such a wonderful feat. But at the moment of alighting he had fainted, and now commenced slowly slipping backward into the chasm. Transfixed with horror, the savages approached the edge of the cliff and gozed over. Down that awful abyss they saw a human form, wrapped in fire, spinning from crag to crag until at length it lay a shapeless mass at the bottom.

☞ John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, when one day riding through the country, was salutek by a fellow who was lying in a ditch, "Hello, Father Wesley, I'm glad to see you. How do you do?" "I don't know you," said Mr. Wesley, reining up his horse. "Who are you?" "Don't know me! Why, sir, you are the very man who converted me!" "I reckon I am," said Mr. Wesley, putting spurs to his horse; "at least one thing is evident—the Lord had nothing to do with it."

Two Little Shoes.

There they stood close together on the library mantle-shelf. I had just come into the house from my evening lecture. Every chamber was silent, the three little chickens had gone to roost—two red-faced saucy boys lying at unutterable angles on their broad ends, and the wee pet of the household tucked snugly away in her cradle up stairs in the nursery.

What business had those two little shoes on the white marble mantle shelf? It was a grotesque association—a bronze statue on one side surmounting the clock, a pretty vase on the other side, one of the cartoons of Raphael hanging on the wall overhead, and the inevitable two little shoes in the midst. The string hung carelessly over the side, the heels were a little run over, and the toes provokingly turned up, and there they nestled up to one another, as if they would affectionately share each other's fate, should some wanton iconoclast of the household, some Martha with avenging bosom mayhap, pronounce against them a sentence of banishment.

I lifted them up tenderly, turned them round, cast love glances at their wrinkled uppers, and their shiny bottoms, felt the blood rushing through my heart ventricles with unwonted perturbations, felt some invisible pumps forcing drops from secret spring heads up into my eyes, and then did something to the little shoes; whether it was to kiss them or something else, I have vowed with somebody never to divulge.

Through the merest accident, doubtless, the little shoes were left there in companionship with the library souvenire. But, now I come to think of it, there is hardly a keepsake in the whole house like unto them. The cartoon of Raphael is simply insipid beside them, and the photograph album, with its gallery of uncles and aunts, interspersed with the faces of good ministers and Palmer's marbles [illegible] in comparison.

Oh, dear! I mused, how soon the rough waves of time wash out the sweet memories of our childhood's boyhood! I have seriously considered whether I would not buy a blank book (gilt edged and embossed, of course), and consecrate it to a record of the little ways and words of childhood, from early infancy upward, in blessed gradation, to the point where the baby merges into the boy or girl.—What an almanac of climates and temperatures that!

Well, after musing thus awhile, the shoes and I went up stairs together, and I laid them down on the bureau, ready for two little trotters early in the morning. But even in the night-watches the vision would not forsake me, and ever and anon, as the clock tolled the hours, I dreamily thought of the little shoes and of the little feet that belonged to them.

It is a rugged, thorny path, little feet that ye have adventured upon, and yet I would not take the rocks and the brambles away utterly. I will shelter thee little sleeper, that the roughness of the pilgrimage come not too soon for thy tender heart. And yet by and by life's sterner discipline shall come, and thou shalt be unsandaled and foot sore. Thus travels the soul in the foot prints of Christ towards its home and its crown.

MONEY EASILY MADE.

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money using it at home or abroad. Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public. One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at. NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT,

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on Both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. A nveenness or Knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

An Indian boy, tired of his play,
Among the shadows dim,
Stood looking at the stars, while they
Were winking down at him!

When suddenly one seemed to fly
Out in the dusky night,
Drawing across the clear, deep sky
A tinny thread of light.

Never before a thing like this
Had met his wond'ring gaze;
Something, he felt, must be amiss—
The heaven's in a maze!

He turned to ask one by his side
What could the meaning be;
Then, struck with sudden thought, he cried,
"The stars have matches, see!"

A Merited Fate.

BY EDWARD S. ELLIS.

At the close of the last century, a Spanish trader settled among the Indians at the base of the Green Mountains. He married a squaw, and for a number of years lived very pleasantly, according to his ideas of life, in harmony with his villainous associates. His adopted tribe being very powerful, this trader fell to levying black mail upon some of the settlements in the Santa Fe province. This he carried to such an entent that he became an object of execration to the settlers, and on one of his visits he was taken prisoner and hung by the incensed people.

He left behind him, beside his wife and child, quite an amount of property, which was "confiscated," that is, the tribe appropriated it to their own use, and turned the widow and her offspring adrift. After wandering hopeless and despairing for a long time, she fell in with a good-natured Canadian trapper, who, after a short and spirited courtship married her. As time passed on, the young half-breed grew to manhood, and manifested a wonderful aptitude for learning languages, frequently acquiring an Indian tongue in the course of a few weeks. When a young man, his mother died, and his father, remembering the pleasant hours he had spent years before among the civilized portion of our country, resolved to return. Accordingly he set out for St. Louis, accompanied by the young half-breed, for whom he entertained a strong affection. Here they remained several months, when the son having acquired a practical knowledge of the English language, his step-father set out with him to pay a visit the Osage Indians

This young half-breed seems to have inherited the qualities which had rendered his father famous; for, while upon the expedition, he murdered his stepfather took his horse, rifle and accoutrements and set up buiness for himself. This unnatural crime was not attributed to him for a long time, and when it was discovered, neither he nor any one else cared anything about it, so that he entertained no fears at all of any punishment from human hands.

It was his custom to wander from tribe to tribe, leading an indolent, aimless life, which, to him, was the perfection of all human enjoyment. His extensive knowledge of the Indian tongues rendered him so valuable for the different tribes in their barters with the white traders, that he was suffered to do as he pleased, no one questioning or even noticing his many shortcomins. The different traders, seeing him now with the Crows, then with the Sioux, or Pawnees, named him "Turn-over," which appellation itself turning over, came be "Overturn," and finally he was known among the Americans as "Colonel Ovoton," which name remained by him until his death.

By the time he gained this complimentary title, everybody discovered that he was one of the greatest scoundrels that was ever allowed to live. Thieving and murder were his constant occupation. No foe was too insignificant or powerless to escape his fiendish malignity; but as he was extremely useful, the English Fur Company, in Canada, paid him enormous wages to act as their interpreter, until discovering that he was always drunk, and inordinately addicted to appropriating their property to his own use, they discharged him from their service, and he returned to the Indians again.

Some time after this, a company of Yankee speculators having learned Colonel Ovoton's characteristics, made him a fine offer to enter into their employ. The nature was in keeping with the man. The speculators, who were trading with the Indians, agreed to give him a handsome compensation for cheating the savages in every bargain to the full extent of his ability. Ovoton accepted the offer, entered into it with his whole soul, and for a time affairs between him and his employers progressed wonderfully well; but the latter were not long in making the discovery, that beside cheating the Indians he was also defrauding them to a far greater extent than they were willing to bear. They brought all their Yankee cunning into play, but it was of no use. The wily agent constantly overreached them, and at length the sacred alliance was dissolved.

He now retired to the mountains, claiming and receiving the protection of the Mexican government. Under the shadow of this, he commenced a new series of depredations, from which it was manifest that, though he was constantly changing his manner of doing business, he was progressing in skill and villainy.

Away up somewhere in the mountains, the precise location of which was a secret to every one except himself he had provided himself with a house, to which he returned at stated periods, and remained days and weeks at a time. His skill was so valuable and so widely known, that in spite of his consummate villainy, he was constantly importuned to act as interpreter between the different trading parties. He would make his appearance, accompanied by a number of rouges, inferior to him only in cunning, and the trade would commence. While it was in progress, he was all smiles and blandness, and conducted it with such seeming justness that in a short time it was finished to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. The trade ended, a keg of whiskey would be produced, and all concerned were expected to partake. Ovoton and his companions would swallow but a few mouthfuls, but devote their whole energies to getting the other parties drunk. As much skill was not requisite to accomplish this, in a short time they would all be in such a state of beastly intoxication as to be perfect madmen. Now was the golden moment for the prince of villains! First he would tell the traders that the Indians were only waiting for them to go to sleep in order to murder them and rob them of their goods, and then crossing over to the Indians, under pretense of endeavoring to dissuade them from such a crime, he would pour the same story into their ears, adding that their only chance of preserving their property lay in exterminating the traders. These insidious falsehoods could set the passions of the two parties aflame, and the result would be a most sanguinary and terrible fight—a fight waged by each company with the set determination of annihilating each other. While the infuriated combatants were thus struggling together, Ovoton and his men, under the pretense of making everything safe, would load up all the goods on the pack mules, all haste to Santa Fe, where they were disposed of at half their value. Their remarkable cheapness might occasion remarks of suspicion with some, but a Santa Fe merchant, (and they were mostly Americans), cares little how his wares have been obtained, so that they come into his hands at a price which affords him a good bargain.

This very trick, precisely as we have described it, Colonel Ovoton practiced again and again upon the whites and Indians, until he and all his partners had accumulated fine fortues, and had become the terror of every one. His villainies and murders were so numerous that small parties shunned him as they would a pestilence, and all united in a resolve to rid the country of such a monster. Large bands of Indian warriors scoured the monntains for his scalp, the English swore they would have him, and it was the firm intention of the Yankee traders to put him to the Indian torture. The Mexicans, also, who, for a time, had protected him, offered a reward for his head.

At this time, Colonel Ovoton took a sudden avertion to mankind, and dismissed his companions, who scattered, and gradually escaped from the country, while he withdrew within the mountains, and nothing was seen or heard of him for nearly three year. It was generally believed that he was dead, and all parties congratulated themselves upon being rid of the incubus of his existence.

But one day, as a war party of Indians were returning to their homes, they unexpectedly encountered a man on horseback. A glance only was sufficient to show them that he was the notorious Colonel Ovoton, and with a shout of exultation the whole band dashed off in pursuit of him.

The chase was long and for a time doubtful. Ovoton was mounted upon a splendid steed, which exerted himself to his utmost to save his master, but the ground was so broken and uneven that it was impossible to get out of sight of his pursuers. Urged on by the horrid yells of his enemies, Ovoton taxed his noble horse to the utmost, flying over the ground with a velocity that was tremendous. He kept his distance, however, until he reached a sort of platform covered with pine trees, where he believed he was safe; for on the opposite side of this, a long, low, level valley stretched for miles, and here he felt certain his horse would soon leave the swiftest of his pursuers behind. Panting and foaming, his steed plunged in among the trees, passed out upon the plain, when to the horror of Ovoton, he recoiled suddenly upon his haunches on the very brink of a chasm, twenty feet in breadth and two hundred in depth.

Maddened to desperation at this unexpectee obstacle, Ovoton plunged his spurs into the sides of his horse, but the exhausted animal refused to make such a terrible leap. The yelling Indians were dashing onward, and, hardly conscious of what he did, the frightened fugitive sprang from his horse and struck him with the point of his knife. Goaded to madness, the noble steed plunged out over the abyss, struck the opposite side with his fore feet, rebounded backward and went plunging from crag to crag, down the chasm!

On the very edge of this precipice there lay a hallow log, which apparently had been dragged there some years before for the durpose of bridging the chasm. Ovoton crawled in beneath this, trusting that his pursuers would think he had gone over the precipice, and fail to search further for him. But they had seen him drive his horse over, and also witnessed him as he sank down beside the log. But, in order to prolong his agony, they feigned to think that he had escaped as they came up, and commenced converesing about it. One remarked that he would give his horse and rifle for his scalp, another that he would put him to the slow torture, and a third spoke of remaining to search for him.

"At any rate, he is gone," said the instigator of the ruse, "and we will return, but before doing so, let us build a fire by the log and warm ourselves."

Ovoton saw at once that they knew of his situation and that he was lost; but, true to his Indian blood of his nature, he resolved to disappoint them in obtaining his scalp, by remaining beneath the log and burning to death. Leaves and sticks were heaped around him, and in a moment he was enveloped with smoke and flames. But his endurance was not equal to the torture; he bore it until his clothes took fire, when, with a yell of agony, he rolled through the crackling embers, and ran three times around his tormentors, who stood with drawn bows ready to transfix him at the proper moment. Not one stirred or spoke a word, when, with another despairing cry, he burst toward the chasm, and he took the terrible leap! His amazed tormentors saw his blazing form crouched and balancing for an instant in mid air over the frightful abyss, and then, incredible as it may seem, he struck upon the opposite side, several feet from the edge of the precipice, where, had he possessed any remaining strength, he could have easily sustained himself, and where he would have been safe, as the Indians would have scorned to harm him after such a wonderful feat. But at the moment of alighting he had fainted, and now commenced slowly slipping backward into the chasm. Transfixed with horror, the savages approached the edge of the cliff and gozed over. Down that awful abyss they saw a human form, wrapped in fire, spinning from crag to crag until at length it lay a shapeless mass at the bottom.

☞ John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, when one day riding through the country, was salutek by a fellow who was lying in a ditch. "Hello, Father Wesley, I'm glad to see you. How do you do?" "I don't know you," said Mr. Wesley, reining up his horse. "Who are you?" "Don't know me! Why, sir, you are the very man who converted me!" "I reckon I am," said Mr. Wesley, putting spurs to his horse; "at least one thing is evident—the Lord had nothing to do with it."

Two Little Shoes.

There they stood close together on the library mantle-shelf. I had just come into the house from my evening lecture. Every chamber was silent, the three little chickens had gone to roost—two red-faced, saucy boys lying at unutterable angles on their broad ends, and the wee pet of the household tucked snugly away in her cradle up stairs in the nursery.

What business had those two little shoes on the white marble mantle shelf? It was a grotesque association—a bronze statue on one side surmounting the clock, a pretty vase on the other side, one of the cartoons of Raphael hanging on the wall overhead, and the inevitable two little shoes in the midst. The string hung carelessly over the side, the heels were a little run over, and the toes provokingly turned up, and there they nestled up to one another, as if they would affectionately share each other's fate; should some wanton iconoclast of the household, some Martha with avenging bosom mayhap, pronounce against them a sentence of banishment.

I lifted them up tenderly, turned them round, cast love glances at their wrinkled uppers, and their shiny bottoms, felt the blood rushing through my heart ventricles with unwonted perturbations, felt some invisible pumps forcing drops from secret spring heads up into my eyes, and then did something to the little shoes; whether it was to kiss them or something else, I have vowed with somebody never to divulge.

Through the merest accident, doubtless, the little shoes were left there in companionship with the library souvenirs. But, now I come to think of it, there is hardly a keepsake in the whole house like unto them. The cartoon of Raphael is simply insipid beside them, and the photograph album, with its gallery of uncles and aunts, interspersed with the faces of good ministers and Palmer's marbles done on paper, is not a circumstance in comparison.

Oh, dear! I mused, how soon the rough waves of time wash out the sweet memories of our childhood's boyhood! I have seriously considered whether I would not buy a blank book (gilt edged and embossed, of course), and consecrate it to a record of the little ways and words of childhood, from early infancy upward, in blessed gradation, to the point where the baby merges into the boy or girl.—What an almanac of climates and temperatures that!

Well, after musing thus awhile, the shoes and I went up stairs together, and I laid them down on the bureau, ready for two little trotters early in the morning. But even in the night-watches the vision would not forsake me, and ever and anon, as the clock tolled the hours, I dreamily thought of the little shoes and of the little feet that belonged to them.

It is a rugged, thorny path, little feet that ye have adventured upon, and yet I would not take the rocks and the brambles away utterly. I will shelter thee little sleeper, that the roughness of the pilgrimage come not too soon for thy tender heart. And yet by and by life's sterner discipline shall come, and thou shalt be unsandaled and foot sore. Thus travels the soul in the foot prints of Christ towards its home and its crown.

Substitutes and Volunteers.

We have been a good deal surprised to see the difference of opinion that seems to exist with regard to the effect of some of our enrolled citizens procuring substitutes in advance of the draft, and the propriety of using a part of the volunteer fund for the payment of the men thus secured.

That the procuring of a substitute is an actual benefit to each enrolled man, lessening the probability of his being drafted, in exact proportion as the quota to be furnished stands to the whole number enrolled, is easily proved, and this being so, it seems to us that the very object for which the volunteer fund was raised, namely, to fill up the quota, and save the men from a draft, is being just as much and just as surely accomplished by procuring substitutes, as by procuring volunteers.

For example, if there were 40 men to be procured from this village out of 120 enrolled men, and 20 substitutes should be procured by 20 of these enrolled men, then of course these 20 enrolled men would be stricken from the list, and the remaining 20, if drafted, would be taken from the 100 that were left, leaving to each enrolled man one chance in five to be drafted, whereas without any substitutes he would have to stand one chance in three of being so.

Now, if, instead of procuring substitute, these 20 enrolled men had volunteered, they could in like manner be struck from the lists, leaving to the remainder just the same chance of draft, with only this difference, that instead of leaving these men at home to attend to their business, support their families, and aid the community in taking care of any future drafts, they would themselves go, and leave their families liable to the same provisions as other soldiers' families for support from the town.

In this respect, then, the procuring of a substitute is even better than procuring a volunteer, and there is certainly no good reason why the same amount of the volunteer fund should not be appropriated to procuring a soldier in the one way as in the other.

Should the whole number of men be thus procured, and the whole fund thus used, then the very object for which it was raised will be fully accomplished and no draft required, and just in proportion as the men are thus procured, just in that three fold proportion is the liability of the remainder to a draft lessened, until when at last 39 men should be thus procured, the remaining 81 men would have to stand only one chance in 81 of being drafted.

Let us not then find fault with either substitutes or volunteers, but consider ourselves personally benefitted and amply repaid for any equal share of the volunteer fund that is applied to any soldier that is procured, and equally so, whether it be by volunteer or substitute.

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT.—Two officers, wounded in the battle before Petersburg, were going home last Friday by the Erie route. When the train neared Oswego, a well dressed lady accompanied by a child and gentleman, entered the car and took a seat in front of them. As the officers talked over the recent engagement at Petersburg, informing each other of various acquaintances who had fallen, one remarked: "There was Capt. Warwick, of the 109th New York as brave a fellow as ever lived; he was shot through the head and instantly killed."—The lady referred to immediately sprang from her seat, and throwing up her hands exclaimed: "Oh, don't say that; he was my husband!" and then burst into an agony of tears. This was the first intelligence she had received of her husband's death. The child with her was her daughter, and the gentleman, his brother.—There were very few dry eyes in that car during the rest of the journey to Elmira.

The News

Monday, August 1.

We have very important news from the Army of the Potomac. The long quiet which has prevailed there was disturbed early on Saturday by a terrific explosion. One of Gen. Grant's mines has been fired, and a large rebel fort was blown into a thousand pieces. There was sixteen cannon in the fort, which are now buried in the earth. Immediately after the explosion the 9th Corps, which was all prepared, charged over the rebel works. Three tiers of earthwork were captured. A large number of prisoners were taken. Heavy firing was going on when the mail boat left City Point.

On Friday a party of rebels entered Chambersburg and demanded $500,000 ransom for the town, which of course could not be raised, when they fired the city in fifty different places, destroying over a million dollars worth of property and turned hundreds of families destitute on the world. Much excitement prevails in Pennsylvania, and many vague rumors are afloat.

Conflicting reports are received from the rebel invasion of Pennsylvania, one of which is that 8000 of them entered Chambersburg on Saturday morning, and now hold the place. Our forces, though small in numbers, met them a short distance from the city, and fought them stubbornly for a while, but were obliged to fall back on account of superior numbers in their front. After the rebels gained admission into the city they began a series of plundering. It is reported that they burnt the Court House, Town Hall, and the residence of Col. A. K. McClure.

Tuesday, Aug. 2.

We are unable to get but very little news from Petersburg, or the Pennsylvania invasion. From what we received, we learn that Gen. Grant's operations against Petersburg have for the present been delayed by the reverses sustained in the late battle. The slaughter among our troops was terrible, the colored troops suffering to a greater extent than any others, though several of the white regiments sustained great loss. All was quiet on Sunday moruing.

Nothing of importance has been received from the rebel invasion of Pennsylvania. Gov. Curtin has issued his proclamation convening the Legislature on the 9th inst.

The crossing of James River by Gen. Hancock's corps is now stated to have been a strategetic feint, and they have returned and were to participate in the battle consequent upon the explosion.

Wednesday, Aug. 3.

We have very little news from Gen. Grant's army this morning. A flag of truce prevailed on Monday, when parties went out to bury the dead and bring in the wounded. The regiment which was blown up in the fort was the 1st North Carolina. It numbered some 250 men. A rebel deserter states that 18,000 men went on the raid to Pennsylvania, and were commanded by Breckinridge and Early. A. P. Hill's corps is at Petersburg and did not go on the raid.

By an arrival of a boat at Cairo from New Orleans, we learn that 1,000 Union prisoners arrived at the latter place on the 25th ult. They were mostly Indiana and Iowa troops. They presented a most pitiable appearance, being hatless, shoeless, and many of them without sufficient clothing to cover their nakedness. They were perfect skeletons, whose feet left blood marks in their tracks. Many of them have been twelve and sixteen months in prison.

Persons attending a party near Washington, on Monday night, were surprised by a band of guerrillas, supposed to be Mosby's; their presence created some excitement for a short time, but they retired across the river without doing any damage. Troops were sent out from the city to intercept them, but they could not be found.

Anecdote of the War.

The Atlanta Intelligencer says: It is a well known fact that the reason assigned, by many, for the panic which caused their troops to break at the battle of Mission Ridge, was that the enemy showed themselves in such overwhelming numbers that the boys thought the whole world was marching to attack them.—To show the opinion prevailing among the boys it relates the following anecdote: As line after line, and mass after mass of Yankees appeared, crossing the plain and ascending the hillside, marching onward with seemingly resistless force, our troops began to waver and many of them, to their shame fled without firing a gun.—Some of them, however stayed until the last, and among these was one fellow who to use his own language, "stayed thar till they got so close that he heard one of the Yankee Generals give the command: "Attention World! By Nations, right wheel!! By States fire!!!'—and then I thought it was time for this darned little Southern Confederacy to be gittin' out o' the way!" Don't blame him for it, it was about time to "git out o' they way

The Governor's Proclamation.

The following proclamation has just been promulgated by the Governor:

"The President of the United States, in pursuance of a law of Congress, has issued his call for five hundred thousand (500,000) volunteers for the military service, and has directed that immediately after the 5th day of September, 1864, a draft for troops, to serve for one year, shall be held in every town or sub-district, to fill the quota which shall be assigned to it, which shall remain unfilled on the said 5th day of September, 1864.

I believe this call to have been eminently proper and necessary for the public service, and being such to demand the patriotic, earnest, and hearty response of the people. That it will be met in the same spirit that has put Michigan thus far largely in excess of all previous calls, there can be no doubt. The rebellion, as it aproaches its final overthrow, grows steadily more desperate, wicked, and hateful. Covered with the blood of patriots, cursed with the dying breath of starved prisoners, and abhorred by all good men for its barbarous butceries of the unarmed who have ceased to fight, it must perish utterly. The people of this State, remembering their past sacrifices only as an additional motive to greater exertions in the future, will, I know, enter upon this present duty with the activity and energy which does not admit of failure.

The quota assigned to the State is eighteen thousand two hundred and eighty-two, (18,282,) of which only a little above twelve thousand, (12,000) remain to be recruited, or drafted if the recruiting fails. For the purpose of filling the quota, only two resources are available, viz.: 1st, Recruiting in the States declared to be in rebellion, under the act of July 4th, except the States of Arkansas, Tennessee and Louisiana, and, 2d, Recruiting among our own people. The first of these, I believe, will be found of no substahtial value to us at present for obvious reasons. The points at which this recruiting is to be carried on are so remote that the period of fifty days will not be sufficient to enable agents to accomplish much during that time, and they would meet the active competition of the older States, paying much larger bounties than our laws enable us to do. I shall not therefore appoint any such agents to be paid by the State, but will under proper regulations appoint such agents for the benefit of any counties, towns or sub-districts which may request it, paying the expenses of the agencies for themselves. They will, of course, also be entitled to the credits. This course is also justified by the fact that the State has no funds appropriated by law for this purpose.

Substantially, then, our only resource will be that which has always heretofore been found sufficient; the patriotismism of our own people.

Recruits will allowed to enlist for one two, or three years, as they may prefer, and as far as practicable each recruit may select the regiment in which he will enlist. This will always be allowed in the regiments in the field, so long as such regiments are below the maximum number. As an inducement to enlist, the Government of the United States will pay a bounty of one hundred dollars to recruts enlisting for one year, two hundred dollars for those elisting for two years, and three hundred for those enlisting for three years. Such local bounties will be paid as the people of the several towns, wards, and sub-districts may authorize in pursuance of law. No State bounty can be paid, for reason that the appropriation made for that purpose is exhausted. For the porpose of aiding the recruiting service, and giving direction to the public efforts, six new regiments will be authorized, one of them being located in each Congressional District, and I will receive all the new companies that may be offered during the fifty days of recruiting. All the recruits offered for the new regiments and companies, however, must be enlisted for three years or during the war. Those who enlist for a shorter term than three years will go into the regiments now in the field.

I earnestly recommend to all those who enlist under this call, whether in the new organizations or the old ones, to do so for the war. This State has thus far raised no troops for a less term than three years. Both for the Government and the soldier, the longest term is the best. Let us continue to adhere to this policy, which has given us a most honorable position in the service, and the reputation of the Michigan soldiery, which is now unsurpassed, will continue to grow.

The work of filling up the quota of the State is for the people. The close of the war visibly approaches, and the sure triumph of the Union cause grows manifest.

Our troops are now led by tried and victorious Generals, leaving nothing to be desired in that direction. Conquering Union armies are in the very midst of the Confederacy, progressing steadily towards the final victory. Let the people of the country stand firmly by the lawful Government, and they can safely meet what is to come.

Given under my hand at the Capital in Lansing, the twenty-first day of July, eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

AUSTIN BLAIR.

Secretary of State.

A Battle Bird.

A touching incident is related by Capt. Geo. Babbitt, of Gen. Gresham's staff, and of woich he was himself a witness.—During the fierce cannonading at Nickajack, a small bird came and perched upon the shoulder of an artillery man—the man designated, we believe, as 'No. 1, whose duty it is to ram down the charge after the ammunition is put into the gun. The piece was a Napoleon, which makes a very loud report. The bird perched itself upon this man's shoulder and could not be driven from its position by the violent motion of the gunner. When the piece was discharged the poor little thing would run its beak and head up under the man's hair at the back of the neck, and when the report died away would resume its place upon his shoulder. Capt. Babbitt took the bird in his hand but when released it immediately resumed its place on the shoulder of the smoke begrimmed gunner. The scene was witnessed by a large number of officers and men. It may be a subject of curious inquiry, what instinct led this bird to thus place itself. Possibly, frightened at the violent commotion caused by the battle, and not knowing how to escape or where to go, some instinct led it to throw itself upon the gunner as a protector. But, whatever the cause, the incident was a most beautiful and pleasing one to all who witnessed it.'

How they Desert.

Desertions from the rebel army at Petersburg are now very frequent. The following will illustrate how one "reb" came in: During the day he called out from his picket post, "I say, Yank, what you got to eat over there?" Now it happened to be a day when the Sanitary Commission had just distributed a miscellaneous supply of vegetables, and accordingly "Yank" had quite a list of good things to enumerate. At the conclusion of it "Johnny" exclaimed with a smack of its lips, "Golly, that's better than our corn meal." Then he asked, "Do you get any whisky?" to which came the answer, 'Plenty—two rations a day.' A pause of a few minutes ensued, and then Johnny, who had apparently been studying over the matter, called across, 'Well, Yank, guess I'll come over and see you to-night,' and come he did.

Dedication.

The new Methodist Episcopal Church in this village, Providence permitting, will be dedicated to the service of the Lord, on Thursday, Aug. 11th, 1864, by Rev. T. M. Eddy, D. D., of Chicago, Ill. Services to commence at 10 1-2 A. M. R. S. Cole, Jas. Kelso, and preach in the evening at 7 1-2.

A cordial invitation is extended to the Pastors and people of adjoining churches to be present and enjoy the occasion with us.

☞ To-day, the 4th of August, is appointed by the President, according to the recommendation of Congress, as a day of fasting and prayer for our country. There will be public services in this village, and all friends of our country are earnestly invited to leave their usual business and attend.

Two Dollars a Year.

We are obliged to raise our terms to $2 a year. Every publisher of any enterprise has found himself compelled to take this step. We don't propose to argue the matter. We shall "submit it without argument," as the lawyers say, when the case is plain. Every intelligent person knows that this advance is light compared with the increase in the price of printing paper and material, and of everything that is worn and consumed. These terms are in advance, and we hope subscribers will not be backward in coming forward and paying their subscriptions. Those who have already paid in advance will be furnished with the paper at previous rates until the time for which they have paid expires.

Accident.

Another accident happened in our village on Friday last to Charles Beebe, of Franklin, who came very near being run over by the gravel train which was going north. It seems he heard the whistle of the approaching train after getting in the wagon and upon inquiry if the cars were coming was told that it was the one o'clock whistle of the foundry, upon which he started, and when too late to turn back he found the engine was so close upon him that his only hope was in crossing the railroad. He applied the whip with vigor and the horses succeeded in clearing the track and extricating themselves from the wagon at the instant the engine struck it. Mr. Beebe, (who was standing in the center of the box when the collision took place,) and wagon was pushed along the track about three rods and there all were deposited at the side. The wagon was one complete wreck, hardly a bolt being in its original place. Mr. Beebe received a few wounds, but not enough to exempt him from the draft. By the way, we would inquire if there is no manner in which trains can be prohibited from crossing Chicago street, at so high a rate of speed. It is very dangerous.

☞ Public Speakers and Singers will find "Brow's Bronchial Troches" beneficial in clearing the voice before speaking or singing, and relieving the throat after any unusual exertion of the vocal organs, having a peculiar adaptation to affections which disturb the organs of speech.

☞ On Monday last, Willie, son of Henry Anderson, fell from a fence near the new Methodist church, dislocating the elbow joint.

☞ On Tuesday last, Asa Rosecrans' boy while playing with a rope and tackle at the Red Mill, fell a distance of about 14 feet dislocating the joint of one of his wrists and breaking the other, besides inflicting several other injuries.

Arrivals and Departures

Tecumseh is getting to be quite a place of Summer resort, and the present season has been especially one of re-unions among those who formerly resided here. During the past month we have been visited by the Rev. H. C. Blinn, of Galena, Ill., formerly Pastor of the Presbyterian Church here; Mr. and Mrs James L. Guion, of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly a merchant here; C. W. Nash, Esq., of Hastings, Min., formerly Principal of our High School; Prof. U. W. Lawton, of Ann Arbor, ditto; Prof. A. B. Palmer, of Michigan University, formerly Physician here. Mrs. J. R. Rosebrugh and Miss F. A. Rosebrugh, of Rockport, Ill.; Lorenzo Buell, Esq., and Lady and Daughter, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Rev. Geo. P. Tindall and Lady, of Ypsilanti, Mich., and numerous others, besides a large number of strangers from abroad, who have not been residents of the place.

A New Newspaper

There will be published, some day this month a new newspaper, in the city of Detroit, entitled "THE WESTERN RURAL," by H. N. F. LEWIS, Esq., who, in earlier days; was connected with the Press of Western New York, including that worthy, paper, Moore's Rural New Yorker;—subsequently he published, at different periods, two newspapers in Western Pennsylvania. About seven years ago Mr. LEWIS removed to Jonesville, Michigan, where he conducted the "Independent" of that place, until February last, when he was solicited to take a position on the staff editorial of the Detroit Daily Advertiser and Tribune, which post he has just resigned. He has purchased the Michigan Farmer establishment. His paper will be an excellent one. He has the experience and ability. Indeed he is perhaps the only man within the range of our information who can and will enter upon such an enterprise at such a time as this with success. It will contain News, Miscellaneous Reading, Fun, &c. But beyond all this the leading feature will be Rural Matters for Michigan Citizens.

☞ Those slightly afflicted with blindness will be benefitted by going to J. D. Robbins Jewelry Store and getting a pair of fine spectacles, of which he has a large variety of all kinds.

Fire.

Our citizens were startled on Saturday last, at about 3 o'clock P. M., by the cry of fire, which broke out in the barn owned by John Aten, on Pearl Street. The flames soon communicated with the barn belonging to Mrs. Wheeler, but occupied by L. Thorp, and very soon they both were laid low by the destroying element. The cause of the fire is unknown,—there being so many different versions that we can hardly tell which is the right one,—but it is supposed that it was caused by children playing with matches.

The roof of the new Methodist church took fire in a number of places, but by being promptly extinguished each time not much damage was done.

The engine (which consisted of a large number of pails) done good service, and after the fire was subdued, Dan. Helm's dray might have been seen drawing the equipments of the Tecumseh Hook and Ladder Company, to the scene of action.

JAMES KIMBALL,
JOHN W. KEENEY.

Franklin, May 10th 1864.

U. S. 10-40 Bonds.

These Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds issued under this Act shall be EXEMPT FROM TAXATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption, FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL BE PAID IN COIN, on Bonds of not over one hundred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semi-annually. The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Coupon Bonds as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U. S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Coupon Bonds are payable to bearer, an are more convenient for commercial uses.

Subscribers to this loan will have the option of having their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin—(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposit. As these Bonds are

Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation,

their value is increased from one to three per cent. per annum, according to the rate of tax levies in various parts of the country.

At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent Interest

in currency, and are of equal convenience as a permanent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to lenders as the various descriptions of U. S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies or separate communities only is pledged for payment, while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the payment of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $190,000,000 per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to 150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26th, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK

Subscriptions will be received by the

MONEY EASILY MADE,

By Either Gentlemen or Ladies.

I am in possession of a BEAUTIFUL FRENCH ART which has been introduced in this country only to a limited extent, and that in New York City. It is something which every person stands in great need of, consequently will be extensively patronized. Persons can make money with it at home or abroad Thousands in France have made small fortunes at it, and are still doing so—I would state what it is, but persons purchasing the knowledge of it do not desire it made public One Dollar sent to the undersigned will ensure the immediate return of a Circular giving full information in the Art, and the requisite instructions to pursue it. It is strictly genteel, and the best and only thing ever introduced which every person can make money at NO LETTERS NOTICED, except those containing the required amount for instructions.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart, or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting,

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

The Country Gentleman of Oct. 1862 says: "We have seen in operation no less than seven different Horse Hay Forks, some of which we had considered good ones. But when we saw the fork exhibited at Rochester by N. Palmer, all others were left clear in the shade. It is decidedly the most perfect Hay Fork that has ever been made, and one of the most commendable features in its manufacture is the price."

DR. JOHN L. LYON'S FRENCH PERIODICAL DROPS,

THE GREAT

FEMALE REGULATOR,

Are the only known remedy that will successfully and invariably restore and regulate the female system, removing all irregularities, and producing health, vigor and strength.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are a fluid preparation, the only one of the kind ever discovered in this country, and acts directly on the parts affected, whilst pills and powders can only reach them as they work through sympathy, but not at all direct and positive.

Are you suffering from a constant anxiety for the regular return of nature's prescribed laws?

Give yourself no uneasiness, for Lyon's Periodical Drops, if taken a day or two before the expected period, will positively and invariably regulate its coming, as sure as effect follows cause, as certain as daylight follows darkness.

Are you sick, enfeebled by disease, or unable to bear the labor and danger of increase?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Come to you as a blessing, for is not prevention better than cure?

If regularly taken, it is a certain preventive, and will save you much peril and many hours of suffering.

Have you been afflicted for many years with complaints incident to the sex, that have baffled the skill of physicians, and are hurrying you on to an early grave?

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Are the most reliable regulator ever known, and cure, like magic, all those irregularities that have defied the doctor's skill.

Will you waste away with suffering from Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Dysmenorrhœa, and a thousand other difficulties, all summed up under the name of suppressed and obstructed nature, when an investment of one dollar in

will surely save you?

Do not use the drops when forbidden in the directions, for although a positive cure, and harmless at all other times, they are so powerful and finely calculated to adjust and govern the functions of the sexual organism, that, if taken at improper times, they would produce results contrary to nature, against which all, particularly those who would reproduce, should carefully guard.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS

Cannot harm the most delicate constitution at any time; yet the proprietors wish to guard against its misuse, hoping that a thousand bottles will be used for a good purpose where one is used for an illegitimate one.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS,

the never failing Female Regulator, is for sale by every Druggist, in both city and country, and do not, if you value your health and wish for a reliable medicine, buy any other. Take no other; but if the Druggist to whom you apply has not got it, make him send and get it for you.

A PSALM OF LIFE.

Tell me not in boastful twaddle,
Yankees five by one "Confed,"
Are unnerved and made skedaddle,
With coat-tail as high as head.

"Feds" will fight—a bold defender
Is each member of their ranks;
"That they readily surrender,"
Can't be spoken of the "Yanks."

'T was enjoyment, and not sorrow,
That we hoped to reap to-day;
Certain that before the morrow
We should march the Yanks away.

Without bloodshed, without battle,
In their bivouac so nice,
We would pen them like dumb cattle,
Gobble all up in a trice.

But their bullets now remind us
We should all be making tracks,
And departing, leave behind us—
Far behind, those deadly "cracks."

Deadly, and perhaps some other
Fell shots may increase our slain;
Many a fallen, war-wrecked brother
Never can take aim again.

'Stride our horses, let's be jumping,
While our hearts we thought so brave,
Like unruffled drums are thumping,
And our knees are like to cave.

Trust no shelter, howe'er distant!
Let the Yankees bury our dead!
Run! run! in this dreadful present,
Bullets whizzing over head!

Let us, too, continue going,
Spur our "plugs" to fastest gait;
For the blue-coats are pursuing,
And we've had "enough" of late.

SOMEFELLOW.

MONSIEUR DU HAMEL'S PORTRAIT.

Louis Nerac, a gay Parisian, about thirty-five years old, was seated one April morning, near noon, outside the Cafe' de Paris, smoking his after-breakfast cigar, and reflecting sadly and dreamily upon the vagabond sort of life he was compelled to lead. Here and there, in his glossy black beard and hair, a line of silver gray was to be seen, and rheumatic twinges began to trouble him from time to time; in fact, he was becoming painfully aware that he was fast slipping beyond the prime of life, hastened on, too, by the career which his position as a wealthy Parisian bachelor, necessarily compelled him to pursue.

"I must get married," he mentally exclaimed, and his thoughts constantly reverted to the different marriageable ladies of his acquaintance.

An April sun exercises as curious an influence on the human brain, as the first kisses of Spring upon the circulation of sap in tree-trunks and flower-stems; but as chilling frosts accompanying the warm sunshine, so did a raw wind, despite the sun's bright rays, chill Nerac to his bones, and cause him to sneeze.

"God bless you," sweetly murmured a lady who was passing rapidly by. Glancing at the utterer of this exclamation, he noticed that she was tastefully and elegantly attired. As she stepped over a gutter and lifted her dress, displaying a beautifully turned ancle, he followed after her in the direction of the Madeline.

"There is an ankle that I would willingly marry," thought Nerac; but does it belong to a young girl, a widow, or has some brute of a husband a partial right to it? Parbleu! I will follow her to the Place de Concorde if necessary to ascertain. But, bah! I have not seen her face, and she may be as ugly as a hag."

Suddenly turning to speak to a beautiful little Italian greyhound, which was bounding frantically about her, she disclosed a countenance full of charms.

"She's adorable," said Nerac, "I will follow her to the Barriere de l'Etoile even."

Turning again, she so excited his admiration, that he added:

"Yes, even to the bridge of Neuilly," which to an inhabitant of the Boulevard de Gand, was equivalent to saying, "to the end of the world."

Fortunately for Nerac, the lady did not lead him so far in his pursuit. Turning into the Rue de la Ville 'Eveque, she called to the greyhound—"Follette, ici, Follette," and entered a spacious mansion in that street."

Louis, with a smile on his lips, and a five franc piece in his hand, approached a commissionaire, who was standing a little farther on, and asked him:

"Do you know the lady who resides in that house?"

"I do," was the reply.

"Her name?"

"Madame Duhamel."

"Is she married?" he again asked.

"She is a widow,' replied the commissionaire.

"Does she reside alone?" he again inquired.

"She resides with an old lady—her aunt, I think."

"Does she walk out often?' continued Nerac.

"Every day," he replied, "when the weather is fine, and always accompanied by her little dog, Follette, to which she is most passionately attached."

Louis Nerac went at once to the house, and ringing the bell gave his card to the Concierge, who opened to him the entrance of this Garden of Hesperides, and asked if he could see Madame Duhamel. He was shown into an elegantly furnished saloon, decorated with several splendid paintings, conspicuous among them a portrait, whose frame was draped with crape, the counterfeit presentment of the defunct Duhamel. Madame Duhamel politely asked him to be seated, and waited for him to explain the object of his visit.

"Madame,' said Nerac, after a long silence, "you do not seem to recognize me?"

"No, sir,' she quietly replied.

"Not at all?'

"Not in the least."

"Were you not promenading le Boulevard a short time since?'

"Yes, sir, I was."

"And yet you do not recognize me?"

"I do not.'

"Do you remember saying 'God bless you?' '

"Perhaps I did,' she replied smilingly, "but I have no recollection of it.'

"Well, Madame, you did utter that expression, and you made that pious and charitable wish in my behalf.'

Madame Duhamel, gazing at her visitor in astonishment, exclaimed:

"Admitting, Monsieur, that I did, what does it prove?'

"What does it prove?' reiterated Nerac.

"Certainly," replied the widow, "you were suffering undoubtedly from a severe cold; I passed you; you sneezed; I made use of the common-place, polite ejaculation, customary in such cases, of 'God bless you!' What could be more natural!'

'Then, Madame, I am to understand that you cast the expression at me, as you would throw a sou into a beggar's hat?'

'Precisely,' she haughtily replied.

'Ah, Madame, what a cruel deception, said Nerac.

'Deception, sir,' replied the young widow, 'I do not understand you, explain.'

'I thought—I dared to believe—I hoped—indeed I still hope'—stammered Nerac.

Madame Duhamel immediately rose and said: 'You must excuse me, sir, for listening to you longer.'

'But,' pleaded Louis, 'will you not permit me, from time to time, to call and see you, and inquire after your health?'

'My health, fortunately, is good, and I receive only my friends.'

'Let me,' exclaimed Nerac gallantly, 'become one of them; to achieve such happiness, I would brave a thousand dangers.'

Madame Duhamel made no reply, but ringing the bell for her servant, said to her as she entered the room, 'Marriette, show this man to the door.'

During the next three weeks, Louis called in the Rue de la Ville l'Vesque, a dozen times at least, leaving his card each time. The day he left his twelfth card, he muttered a great oath through his heavy black moustache, as he turned from the door.

'I begin,' said he, 'to be desperately enamored of this pretty widow, who still refuses to receive me, and marry her I will, or avenge myself upon her only love, Follette.'

He had no sooner uttered this threat, than rubbing his hands with satisfaction he exclaimed:

'I have it. Victory shall be mine, and not a hair of Follette will I have to injure.'

Stepping into a store near by, he obtained a large lump of sugar, which he attached to a long cord and hastened to the garden of the Tuileries, where the young widow was accustomed to walking every afternoon. Seating himself behind one of the large orange trees on the Terrassee des Feuillans, he awaited her arrival. She, accompanied by her inseparable Follette, soon arrived, and sat down on her accustomed bench. Louis, by a strategic use of the sugar decoy, drew Follette away from her mistress to a gateway, but a short distance off, and seizing her jumped in a carriage, and hastened to his lodgings; the noise of the wheels rattling on the pavement of the Rue Castiglione, drowning the piteous cries and moans of the cherished Follette, he had so cruelly entrapped.

Follette's disappearance was a great affliction to the widow. She advertised her loss in all in all the journals of the day, and even had handbills offering a munificent reward posed on all the walls and fences in the neighborhood. Two weeks elapsed, and Madame was almost inconsolable for her loss, until one day Nerac called upon her leading Follette by a cord.

'Follette! here is Follette,' exclaimed the servant who answered Nerac's ring, and ran instantly to acquaint the widow of the greyhound's safe return.

Madame's joy was mingled with surprise on seeing Nerac embracing her dog, she enquired of her adorer where he had found her pet.

'Some two hundred leagues from here,' he replied.

'Two hundred leagues!' said the astonished widow.

'Yes. Poictiers is two hundred leagues from Paris. Learning that your greyhound had been stolen by a diligence conductor, and conveyed thither, I, immediately on the receipt of the information, posted down there, and recovered your cherished Follette. Happy Follette!' he murmured, 'to possess such a mistress.'

'You must have incurred considerable expense,' said Madame Duhamel, hesitatingly.

'A mere bagatelle,' said Nerac.

'But if I cannot offer you a reward for your services, I must certainly fully repay you,' continued the widow.

'Madame,' said Nerac as if hurt, 'my profession is not that of a dog catcher, and the question of recompense or restitution need not be mentioned in this affair. I am already sufficiently repaid and rewarded by your kind wish of some months ago, that God would bless me, and if you will only consent to receive me as a friend, as an acquaintance hereafter, I shall feel myself indeed blessed.'

'By the by,' she said smilingly, 'How is your cold now?'

'The blessing you spoke in my favor, Madame, effectually cured me. Indeed I have not sneezed since.'

From this time forward, Nerac was on the list of Madame's acquaintances. She found on inquiry that he was a gentleman worthy of admission to her saloons.

Louis soon observed, however, with considerable delight, that the crape was removed from her deceased husband's portrait.

One morning in June, Madame Duhamel announced to Nerac that she intended going to her country residence to spend several months. Nerac determined to thwart the intention, as he could not bear to be separated so long from the charming widow; he feared too, that in the interim of her absence, some one else might carry off the prize he was anxious to obtain himself.

Follette mysteriously disappeared on the day that had been fixed for the widow's departure. Madame Duhamel had recourse as before to advertising and to handbills, and sincerely bewailed the loss of her dear little pet. Nerac called every evening and recounted to the afflicted widow the wearisome, fruitless searches he had been making during the day. She, touched by his zeal in her behalf, thanked him heartily for his persistent efforts to recover the lost greyhound, and Louis was gladdened to see that the portrait of the defunct was removed to the dining room.

Fully persuaded that Follette was lost to her forever, Madame Duhamel renewed her preparations for departure. Nerac desired her to wait yet a little longer.

'Wait? why wait?' said the widow, 'I will never see my poor Follette again.'

'Who knows?' said Nerac, mysteriously.

'Monsieur Nerac,' said the widow, 'you have news of my poor lost hound, do not deceive me—do you know if she lives?'

'Really,' he replied. 'But would you like to have her image once more, even if she be dead?'

'What, stuffed?'

'No, painted.'

'Painted, and by whom?'

'By me! But, painting as I do, without a model, and from her recollection only, it will necessarily consume considerable time to furnish the picture, yet if you will defer your departure two weeks, I will engage to present you, by that time, with a life-like portrait of Follette.' At the appointed time, Nerac brought the promised picture, (which, by the way, he had painted from life by Jadin, the French Landseer,) and he was delighted to find that the portrait of Monsieur Duhamel was removed to the ante-room.

The denouement can be easily divined. Instead of joining her aunt in the country, Madame Duhamel wrote to her to return to Paris, and Louis Nerac was married to the handsome widow a short time after. Among the wedding presents he sent her was Follette herself, alive and well, wrapped in a splendid Indian Cachemire.

And now, when you pass along the Quai Couti, some day look into the window of one of the second-hand shops that line it, and you will see a portrait on canvas, without a frame, grimy, dusty, and cracked by the glaring rays of a Paris sun. It is, alas, the portrait of Monsieur Duhamel deceased!

Michigan Fruit-Growing.

Horticulture, one of the most pleasing as well as profitable of vocations, has been to much neglected in this as well as in most other young States, where the first business of the settler is to rear a shelter for his family, and next to grow from the soil their daily bread. Still, great advances have been made—great results have been already accomplished. The click of the woodman's axe, sounding through the forest from day to day, has heralded a glorious epoch. As the country became more generally settled, the rude cabin has given way, in many instances, to the pretending mansion or the comfortable cottage, and the stumpy plain or hillside has become an orchard laden with golden fruit. What was once a forest wild has been made to bloom and blossom like a garden.

With increased wealth on the part o the tiller of the soil, comes the taste for landscape gardening, and a desire to beautify and adorn his home. This adds in many ways to his profit and pleasure. He who plants a tree for fruit or shade, confers a benefit not only upon himself but on posterity. During the past few years, especially, has a taste for the cultivation of fruits largely increased in Michigan, and Nurserymen and Florists in our midst, we are pleased to notice, are rapidly extending and enlarging their business, indicating a constantly increasing demand for their products.

Few farmers have a just realization of the profits of fruit-growing, when entered upon with a view to ultimate results. Few States in the North are favored with a better climate or a more genial soil for fruit-culture than Michigan. She also possesses a better market for productions of this character than almost any other State in the Union, Chicago and Milwaukee of the West, and Detroit on the East, with their teeming populations—constantly increasing at a rapid ratio, absorbing almost her entire fruit product, and at highly remunerative prices.

Apples, pears and peaches, are the great staple fruit products of Michigan. The whole Central and Southern portions of the State are admirably adapted to the growth of peaches, and their cultivation demands and should receive more attention. Apples will produce well on almost any portion of the Southern Peninsula, and they are, consequently, the standard crop. The high prices this fruit has brought during the past few years ought to stimulate its culture to a great degree, and we have no doubt it will.

The culture of grapes on a more extended scale is well worthy the attention of our horticulturists, as being extremely profitable, either for the sale of the fruit or for the manufacture of wine. We venture the paediction that at no distant day our hillsides and valleys will redden and blused with the products of the vine.

As a fruit-growing State, Michigan has a brilliant future in store, should her natural advantages and opportunities be properly proved.

Rules for Making Butter.

In making good butter, there are several nice operations to be gone through with which require an eye to cleanliness, forethought, and some little experience:

1. On milking clean, fast, yet gently, regularly twice a day, depends the success of the dairyman. Bad milkers should not be tolerated in a herd; better pay double price for good one.

2 Straining is quite simple, but it should be borne in mind that two pans, about half full each, will produce a greater amount of cream than the same milk in but one pan; the reason of this is the greater surface.

3. Scalding is quite an important feature in the way of making butter in cool weather; the cream rises much quicker, the milk keeps much longer, the butter is of a better color, and churns in one half the time.

4. Skimming should always be done before the milk becomes loppered; otherwise much of the cream turns into whey and is lost.

5. Churning, whether by hand or otherwise, should occuy about forty or fifty minutes.

6. Washing in cold soft water is one of its preserving qualties, and should be continued until it shows no color of the milk by the use of the laddle. Very hard water is highly charged with lime, and in a measure impart to it alkaline properties.

7. Salting is necessarily done with the best kind of ground salt; the quantity varies according to the state it is taken from the churn—if soft, more; if hard, less; always taking the taste as the surest guide.

8. First working, after about twenty-four hours, is for the purpose of giving it greater compactness.

9. Second working takes place at time of packing, and when the butter has dissolved the salt, that the brine may be worked out.

10. Packing is done with the hands or with a butter mall; and when butter is put into wooden vessels, they should be soaked two or three days in strong brine before usin. After each packing, cover the butter with a wet cloth, and put a layer of salt upon it; in this way the salt can easily be removed at any time by simply taking hold of the edges of the cloth.

Butter made in this way will keep any length of time required.—Maryland Farmer and Mechanic.

The Cavalry Horse.

The cavalry horse is quite as familiar with the long list of varying signals as the rider himself; he stops instantly when the signal for halting is sounded, passes from a walk to a trot, from a trot to a gallop, without requiring any reminder from spur or rein. If his rider falls in battle, or lose his stirrups, he stops in a moment, and waits for him; if he remains lying on the ground, he stoops his head, smells at him, and when he ascertains that there is no nope of remounting, makes his way back to his troop, wedges himself to his place in the ranks, and shares afterwards in the movements of the rest. If an air be suddenly struck up, you will see the worn-out and mortally tired horse raise his sick head, prick up his ears, become animated, and move briskly forward to the front.

During a halt or when quartered for the night, the cavalry division stretched out on the ground, lies sleeping confusedly together, a jumbled mass, which it would be impossible to disentangle men and horse side by side, the rider using his horse as a pillow, or rolling himself beside it to shield himself from the cold, the faithful creature seldom changing the position it has once taken. If it did so, it was with the greatest precaution; first it moves its head and legs, endeavoring gently to free itself very slowly and carefully, so as not to trample upon or disturb those who surround it.

The most affectionate relationship subsists between man and horse as the result of their thus living together. The animal seems to understand everything connected with his rider; he knows his master's step, his peculiar ways; knows how to seek him out form among others; is a faithful, disinterested companion and friend to him, and has this advantage over many other good comrades—that he does not grow weary even of suffering for him.

"Oh, no, sir," said the sailor; "we were boarded by sixty the other day at Cherbourg!"

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 8, 1864.

The Fall of Atlanta.

The cheering news of the fall of Atlanta, came upon us as a grateful surprise.

Communications had been intercepted for several days by Wheeler's cavalry, and we were not advised of any special movement to precipitate this result.

We have known, or rather have been informed all along of late, that the military authorities both before Richmond and Atlanta, felt quite sure of the ultimate and not very distant fall of each, but in our unmilitary estimate of it, this result seemed scarcely more hopeful than is was months before.

We certainly ought to learn after a time, for we have already had repeated experiences of it, that military men upon the ground, are much better judges of the military situation, and the probabilities of a military success, than any mere civilian can possibly be.

And while our brethren are standing in arms confronting the enemy, and keeping back the tide of invasion and devastation from our hearts and homes, it certainly becomes us, thus removed from danger, to be at least as hopeful of their success in the work which they have undertaken to accomplish for us, and for our posterit, as they themselves are,—and instead of weakening them, and encouraging rebellion, by a causeless and reasonless despondency, accept their hopefulness as the true criterion of the case, and afford with a hearty earnestness, all that moral and material support necessary to ensure success.

There is at this time, we believe, a more general feeling over the entire country that the days of this huge and cruel rebellion are well nigh numbered and fast drawing to a fitting close, than there has been for some months past.

And not without reason. The military results to which the whole summer campaigns have been so slowly, but surely tending, which could not of course be publicly explained, and of which we quite began to despond, are now rapidly developing themselves. Mobile harbor is in our possession and the city of Mobile at our mercy. Atlanta with its fortifications and appreaches is in our hands, Grant is being rapidly and largely reinforced, and with his hand upon the throat of the rebel capital, can neither be coaxed nor driven to let go his hold.

We can now begin to see and understand that the fate of Atlanta is the destined fate of Richmond, and while our armies are being so rapidly filled up and even enlarged beyond any former proportions, the hordes of the rebellion are daily falling away, without any possibility of renewal, the time is rapidly approaching when they must at length finally and hopelessly succumb. So let it be,—and every loyal as well as every Christian heart, may well rejoice in hope of a speedy and, as we trust, a final end.

Official from the President.

To Major General Dix:

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5, 11 A. M.—The President has issued the following recommendations and orders in relation to the recent successes of the United States forces at Mobile and Atlanta.

E. M. STANTON, Sec. of War.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.

The signal success that Divine Providence has vouchsafed to the operations of the United States fleet and army in the harbor of Mobile, and the reduction of Fort Powell, Fort Gaines and Fort Morgan, and the glorious achievement of the army of Gen. Sherman in the State of Georgia, resulting in the capture of the city of Atlanta, call for devout acknowledgement to the Supreme Being, in whose hands are the the destinies of nations. It is therefore requested that on next Sunday in all the places of worship in the United States, Thanksgiving be offered to Him for his mercy in preserving our National existence against the insurgent rebels who have been waging a cruel war against the Government of the United States for its overthrow, and also that prayer be made for Divine protection to our brave soldiers and their leaders in the field, who have so often and so gallantly perilled their lives in battling with the enemy, and for blessing and comfort from the Father of mercies to the sick and wouded and prisoners, and to the orphans and widows of those who have fallen in the service of their country, and that He will continue to uphold the Government of the United States against all the efforts of public enemies and secret foes.

(Signed) ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Washington Correspondence

WASHINGTON CITY, Aug 31, '64.

DEAR HERALD:—

Sitting here, enjoying the delightful coolness of the evening attendant upon a black-looking thundercloud looming up threateningly in the East, I will scratch down a few lines for my friends in old Lenawee.

Since my last, we have been having some rather singular weather—rain almost every day, and, in the intervals, sometimes sultry, oppressive heat, and at others, a delightful coolness. The effects of so much moisture are evident in all the parks, reservations, and other public grounds in and around the city; which last are thronged every evening, by the citizens seeking pleasure and relaxation, after the heat and labors of the day.

And especially on Saturday evening, the spacious and beautiful grounds in the rear of the President's Mansion present a scene of unrestrained life and gaiety. On that occasion, if you happen to stroll in that way, attracted, perhaps, by fitful bursts of music, you will find that Washington

"* * * has gathered there
Her Beauty and her Chivalry," to listen to the exquisite strains discoursed by the "Marine Band." There you will see a mingling of the "commons" and the elite—the lofty and the lowly—delegates from the Upper Ten, and the lower ten thousand; You see passing and repassing each other, the Sempstress and the Belle—the millionaire and the day laborer—the Major-General and the Private—all collected together in one vast concourse for pleasure,—the pleasure of hearing, of seeing, and of being seen; and there is plenty to hear and see, and chance enough to be seen.

Into all the throngs of the city, whether at places of amusement, on the sidewalks, or at the hotels, the shoulder strap element enters very largely; to the casual observer, apparently one half of the male population is of the line, field, or staff. It may be that there is not a greater percentage of the whole number of officers in the service, absent from the front, here and elsewhere, than is justly their due; and perhaps their conspicuous uniforms make the number seem greater than it reallo is; still we cannot help thinking that, in the present exigency, they might altogether be of some use at the front,—they certainly are not here.

The current news from the front is encouraging. The old "Fighting Fifth" Corps has been giving the Johnnys another taste of its metal, on the Weldon R. R., with the usual results. That old "Maltese cross" is a sign of terror to all grey-jackets; and their only resource, when contending with it, is to fall back on treachery; and even then, they're apt to be losers.

Yours truly,
A. B. C.

The 11th Mich. Cavalry.

POINT BURNSIDE, KY.,
August 27, 1864.

The 11th left Mexington at noon on the 24th inst, and marched that day to Camp Nelson, eight miles distant. On the 25th we marched to Crab Orchard, Ky., 28 miles. Here we were joined by the 25th Ohio Cavalry, Lieut. Col. Bentley in command. On the 26th we marched to Somerset, Ky., 28 miles. A terrific rain storm with electric accompaniment gave variety if not pleasure to the trip. We arrived at Somerset and cared for our horses, and then went for vacant houses, etc., in the village, and still it rained. Here we were joined by the 13th Kentucky Cavalry, Col. J. M. Weatherford commanding. This morning we marched nine miles to this place, Camp Burnside, whe the brigade is now camped. Col. Brown is in command of the brigade. Scouts have been sent in various directions, and we shall probably go for Wheeler and his command as soon as anything can be ascertained in regard to their whereabouts.

Camp Burnside is of considerable importance as a depot for army supplies and rendezvous for colored recruits. It is situated on the Cumberland River and on the direct route to Cumberland Gap and East Tennessee. We here found Capts. Jno. W. Anderson and Benj. Rolf, Lieutenants Hydenberg, Bishop, Conklin and Earle, formerly of the 11th Cavalry, but now of the U. S. Colored Forces.

Previous to our leaving Lexington the resignation of Capt. D. M. Phillips, Co. A, had been accepted. He consequently returns to his home, much to the regret of all. Since the organization of the regiment Copt. P. has been able to do but little duty. Capt. Jno. L. Frisbie, of Co. M, and 24 men started for Michigan on recruiting service the 23d inst.

Washington, Sept. 3.

The latest information from the Potomac army states that nothing of note has transpired for some days. Picket firing is indulged in at some parts of the line at night, but it almost entirely ceases during the day.

The Navy Department last night received a dispatch announcing the burning of the U. S. frigate, Brandywine, the storeship at Norfolk, with a large amount of stores.

Scraps of News.

—Jackson Haines, the champion American skater, has gone to Europe, intending to make a professional tour as a skater.

—Gen. John McNeil has been appointed to the command of the District of Southwest Missouri, with headquarters at Rolla.

—The quota of Hillsdale township has been filled by voluntary enlistments, and it has a surplus of 20 men to apply on a future call.

—A circular issued from the Provost Marshal General's Bureau, declares that deserters from the rebel army will not be accepted either as substitutes or recruits.

—Mrs. Gen. Jeff. Thompson, wife of the noted rebel General, is now a confirmed lunatic, and it is said she will shortly be sent to a lunatic asylum.

—Rebel deserters from Columbus, Ga., state that all machinery from the rebel arsenals and other government workshops have been removed to Augusta. All men between 16 and 55 in Columbus are conscripted.

—Douglas Forrest, Esq., (son of Com. French Forrest, formerly of the U. S. Navy, who ran off and joined the rebel navy at the beginning of the war,) died not long since in England, whither he had gone in the service of the rebel cause.

—Work on the oil well in Albion is steadily progressing, and a depth of 530 feet has already been reached. The water has become saltish, and shows indications of strong brine being found at about half the depth it was found at Jackson.

—In a bottle lately picked up four miles east of Fire Island, was found a note signed by Allen Connery, containing the following: "At sea, Aug. 24, 1864,—captured by the Tallahassee, steamer Virginia Seymour. All well. One man killed and three wounded"

—A young man named Lobaugh, who had served three years in the army, and obtained employment as a switch-tender on the Central Ohio Railroad, got his foot caught in the "frog" of the switch at Columbus, on Friday, and was thrown upon the track and his body cut in two by a locomotive.

—Hon. Truman Warner, a member of the Arkansas State Senate under the reorganized government, has arrived in Washington for the purpose of endeavoring to obtain aid for the loyalists of this State, who have taken refuge in our lines. He brings a letter from Gov. Isaac Murphy, who represents that the sufferings of the people are inconceivable.

—Lieut Col. F. A. Walker, Assistant Adjutant General on the staff of General Hancock, who is reported as missing in the fight of Thursday, near Ream's Station, is a graduate of Amherst College in the class of 1860. He has been in the service since the breaking out of the rebellion, and his bravery has been fully tested on many a hard-fought field. He is doubtless a prisoner.

—A fiendish attempt was recently made in Ohio to throw a train of cars containing the 160th Ohio regiment, from the track, by placing thereon a railroad tie. The obstruction was, however, caught by the cow-catcher of the engine and carried along until the train was stopped, else the whole regiment would have been thrown down a steep embankment, and probably many of them killed and wounded.

—A correspondent of the N. Y. Times from near Atlanta says that Bragg is the real commander of the rebel army at Atlanta, although he keeps behind the curtain while Hood performs in the field.—He is merely an Adjutant General, and nine tenths of the Southern people are not aware of his presence at Atlanta, while Hood's soldiers regard him as a quiet looker on. It is generally conceded among our officers that Bragg is the best man the South has ever had in that department.

—An intelligent Southern Union man, recently escaped from rebeldom, writes to the New York Times that he regards the holding of the Weldon road as by far the most important gain made by Grant since crossing the Rapidan; but that the blockading of the port of Wilmingtom would be of still greater damage to the rebellion. Every article that can possibly be needed by the rebels, such as arms, ammunition, clothing, etc., are imported through Wilmington, while cotton, tobacco, and naval stores are shipped in return. He says that 20 fast steamers run regularly from Wilmington to Nassau, Bermuda, and other ports.

—The Louisville Journal says that the noted guerrilla Jesse, with a band of 150 guerrillas, made a raid through Carroll county, on Monday last, and came upon a squad of 13 colored soldiers who were returning from a recruiting expedition into the country. The negroes surrendered on the first demand, and after being deprived of their arms were placed in a row and shot down like wild beasts. After committing this wholesale murder, Jesse moved on Ghent, and made an easy capture of it, as it was defended by no regular troops. Shells were at once thrown across the river from Vevay, Ind., and Jesse evacuated it before he had time to plunder any stores.

Fall of Atlanta Predicted.

Wm. Swinton, the celebrated correspondent of the N. Y. Times, writing to that paper, a few days since, made the following prophecy in reference to the fall of Atlanta:

In front of Atlanta is placed the superb army commanded by Gen. Sherman, a man of unsurpassed military ability. He has placed his army in that position after an advance from Chattanooga of nearly 100 miles, marked by a series of brilliant manœuvres and actions, in which the enemy's force has been driven from a succession of strongholds, looked upon as impregnable. Arrived in front of Atlanta, he has been thrice assailed by an enemy willing to lavish everything in the desperate effort to drive him back. The enemy has thrice met a bloody repulse. Sherman is now working slowly but surely round on the rebel communication, two lines of which he holds. He is completing this by extending his force around on their only remaining line—a task which necessarily demands some time for its accomplishment. But there is no dead-lock at Atlanta, and those who represent the situation in this light, utterly fail to grasp the true military significance of what Sherman is doing. Gen. Sherman can take Atlanta any day; but he aims at more than that—he means the destruction of the Western Army of the Confederacy. And, indeed, either that result or its early flight is a matter of speedy certainty.

THE LONDON TIMES ON AMERICAN BIG GUNS.—The London Times, after rehearsing the results of some experiments made at Shoeburyness with an Armstrong 600-pounder, concludes that this weapon is capable of smashing through the strongest sea-going armor-clad that could be got to float, at a distance of 4,000 yards, or even more; and it then informs its readers that "the Americans have now literally hundreds of 600 pounder guns, and have succeeded in casting at Pittsburg a 20-inch gun to throw a spherical shot of 1,600 lbs." It thinks the result of experiments it reports prove that we are not "altogether wrong" in trusting to heavy shot at low velocities, and frankly acknowledges that there is no charge of powder that could be expected to send the 1,600 lbs. shot out of its gun which would not, at close range, "be sure to tell with almost sinking effect on the very best of our iron-clads." That will do for the Times. Even Englishmen, it seems, learn wisdom by experience.

AFFAIRS IN REBELDOM.—Through a Union refugee who came from Richmond since our forces took control of the Weldon road, we are enabled to lay before our readers a few items showing the value of Confederate funds and the pass to which the rebels have been brought by their rebellion.

In the interior of Georgia the following prices were paid:

For ladies' bonnets,	$300 00
For " cotton hose,	15 50
For " " handkerchiefs,	12 00
For Faber's pencils, each,	2 50
For small cake of fancy soap,	3 00
For writing paper, per quire,	10 00
For ordinary calico, per yard,	17 00

Georgia State money was quoted at 230. In Augusta the price of lodging was $10, and a hackman charged for two miles' ride, $25.

In Richmond flour was per bbl, $250. (It had been as high as $450.) Butter was $12a18 per pound, and eggs $10 per dozen. Gold was 22 for one.

HOW MAXIMILLIAN SPENDS HIS TIME.—The N. Y. Herald's correspondent says of Maximillian:

It is hardly necessary to say that the Emperor has plenty to do, if he is disposed to work; and he is. He shuts himself up, and looks into matters with great diligence. The first care was to raise an income large enough to cover the no small public expenses; and at this he has a commission working with a will.—After he has got the income made up and the public works started, a great part of his business will have been done. The next step will be to pay the public debts, and for this he seems to depend upon the yield of the silver mines to be worked. Coin is going out of the country pretty freely already, and the production of the mines will have to be very large in order to meet all the demands upon the public purse.

WHAT GEN. GRANT SAYS.—In a letter to his father, received last Wednesday, Gen. Grant says that the Southern Confederacy cannot possibly recruit their armies, for they have already "robbed the cradle and the grave" for that purpose. He furthermore reiterates what he said some days since, that, but for the Northern opposition, the rebellion could be completely squelched by the present campaign.

☞ During a recent attack upon the rebel works at Atlanta, a soldier of the 49th Ohio fell wounded in the enemy's hands, and our troops were not able to carry him away. He was afterward seen to coolly pull out his knife, cut loose his belt, and then cut his throat. This shows that men prefer death to the horrors of a rebel prison.

The News

MONDAY, Sept. 5.

Late information from before Petersburg says our troops on the Weldon Road have been constantly strengthening their position until, in the opinion of military authorities, it is now impregnable to the assault of any force the rebels can bring against it.

A private named Schandler, of battery K, 4th United States Artillery, attached to Gen. Grant's army, suffered the extreme penalty of the law on Saturday, for having deserted his command during active operations. He leaves a wife and two daughters to mourn his fate. Another culprit, named Alimeter, was to have suffered the same fate, but managed to effect his escape through our lines to the enemy on the 1st inst.

It is reported that our cavalry moved around toward the rebel right, in the direction of the Weldon Railroad, probably on another raid.

The rebel Gen. Maury says the noncombatants of Mobile give him more concern than all else. They will not leave the city, because, as they say, they have nowhere to go. Gen. Maury then appealed to the planters to afford them shelter.

The telegraph lines between Nashville and Chattanooga were broken Friday night by Wheeler, and we have had nothing south of Nashville since. This accounts for the absence of later information from Atlanta. No doubt is entertained of the correctness of the report received Saturday morning, which came from two independent sources, besides the official dispatch of Gen. Slocum. It is reported that Gen. Rousseau and Wheeler have had a fight, and that in the engagement the rebel General Kelly was mortally wounded, and is in our hands.

An attack upon Gen. Grant's position on the Weldon Railroad is momentarily expected with all Lee's available force. There are indications that the rebels are pinched for supplies.

Maximillian's Minister Plenipotentiary and suite arrived at Philadelphia on Friday night, and it is stated the question will now soon be settled, which Government ours will recognize, the Juarez or the Emperor's.

TUESDAY, Sept. 6.

Gen. Crook, attached to Sheridan's army, had an engagement with the rebels in the Shenandoah Valley, on Saturday morning, in which he came off victorious. The whole of the fighting was done by Gen. Crook, who succeeded in capturing 500 prisoners, and 4 stand of colors. Our loss did not amount to but 300 killed and wounded, while that of the enemy is said to be at least one-third greater.

According to an official statement, the amount of fractional currency in circulation is $24,000,000, an increase of nearly $1,000,000 within the last month.

The report that a Minister Extraordinary from Mexico had arrived at Washington proves to be incorrect.

Sherman's Official Report.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, September 4.

To Major-General Dix:

Sherman's official report of the capture of Atlanta has just been received, dated 26 miles south of Atlanta, 6 o'clock yesterday morning. It has been detained by the breaking of the telegraph lines:

"As already reported, our army withdrew from about Atlanta, and on the 30th made a break on the East Point road, and reached a good position from which to strike the Macon Road. Howard was on the right, near Jonesboro, and Schofield on the left, near Rough and Ready.

"Howard found the enemy in force at Jonesboro, and entrenched his troops within a half mile of the Railroad. The enemy attacked him at 3 P. M., and were easily repulsed, leaving his dead and wounded. Finding strong opposition on the road, I advanced the left and centre rapidly to the Railroad, made a good lodgment, and broke it all the way from Rough and Ready down to Howard's left, near Jonesboro, and by the same movement I interposed my whole army between Atlanta and that part of the enemy entrenched in and around Jonesboro.

"On the 1st we made a general attack on the enemy at Jonesboro, the 14th corps, Gen. Jeff. C. Davis, carrying the works with 10 guns and about 1,000 prisoners. The enemy retreated south, and we have followed him to his hastily constructed lines near Lovejoy's Station.

"Hood finding me on the only road that could supply him, and between him and a considerable part of his army, blew up the magazine in Atlanta, and left in the night.

"The 20th Corps, Gen. Slocum, took possession of the city. So Atlanta is ours, and fairly won. Since the 5th of May we have been in one constant battle or skirmish, and we need rest.

"Our losses will not exceed 1,200, and we have over 3,000 rebel dead, 250 wounded, and over 1,500 prisoners."

A later dispatch from General Slocum, dated on the night of the 3d, at Atlanta, says:

"The enemy destroyed seven locomotives and 81 car loads of ammunition, small arms and stores, and left 14 pieces of artillery, mostly uninjured, and a large number of small arms. Deserters are constantly coming into our lines."

E. M. STANTON, Sec'y of War.

John Morgan Killed.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.

The Commercial publishes the following dispatch:

KNOXVILLE, Sept. 5.—The following official telegram from Gen. Gillen was received early this evening:

To General Tillison:

I surprised, defeated and killed John Morgan at Greenville this morning. The killed are scattered for miles, and have not yet been counted. They probably number from 50 to 100, and about 75 prisoners. Among those captured were Morgan's staff, with one piece of artillery and a caisson. The enemy's force outnumbered mine, but the surprise was complete.

(Signed) ALVIN C. GILLEN.

Despondency of the Rebels.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.

The Herald's City Point correspondent of the 4th says: Richmond papers affect to ridicule the idea of a single line of railroad being vital to their occupation of Petersburg and Richmond, but a general despondency betrays itself in regard to the issue.

A correspondent writes from Reams' station, several days after the withdrawal of our forces, and speaks sorrowfully of the thorough destruction of nine miles of railroad track and iron by Hancock's corps, and pronounces its repossession by the rebels hopeless and impossible. He says the crops adjacent to the road on both sides are utterly destroyed the entire distance, the fence destroyed by using it to fire the timbers of the track, and houses and barns generally reduced to smouldering ashes.

☞ "Ah, she was a jewel of a wife!" said Patrick, mourning over the loss of his 'better half,' "for she always sthruck me wid the soft end of the mop!"

Business cards of five lines, or less, inserted at $5.50 per year.

☞ Work neatly executed at this office. Charges reasonable.

☞ Ridgeway has filled her quota.

☞ Extra copies of the Herald can be procured at Ketcham's News Depot.

☞ Cash for Paper Rags at J. D. Robbins' New Jewelry Store.

☞ Butter, lard, eggs, potatoes and apples wanted on subscription.

☞ The Herald office is the place to get your handbills, ball tickets &c.

☞ The Fall term of the Union School commenced last Monday.

☞ Died, in Ridgeway Village, Lenawee Co., Mich., Gamaliel Harrington. He leaves a wife and a number of children to mourn their loss.

☞ A funeral sermon on the death of the late Chauncey Cunningham, will be preached at the Universalist Church, on next Sunday, at 1 o'clock P. M.

☞ New at Ketcham's: Leslie's Ten Cent Monthly for October, Mme. De Morest's Mirror for September, The Young Pioneer, and the Moose Hunter.

☞ Old Tecumseh has filled her quota and has twenty-five credits to apply on another draft, nearly all of the men being put in for three years. Where is the town that beats us.

☞ J. G. Roberts received on Tuesday last, a dispatch from Alexandria, Va., saying that his son, Lieut. Morris Roberts, was dangerously ill, and requesting him to come there immediately.

☞ H. Wilson has opened a Meat Market at the old stand, west of the Mansion House, where he would be pleased to wait upon all who may favor him with their patronage.

☞ J. D. Robbins has just received a large stock of new School Books, and we advise any one wanting a book to go there and buy as you will always find what you are wanting.

☞ The girls who have been engaged in picking hops for Mr. C. Saviers, in Franklin, beat the world in fast working, having picked one hundred and forty-nine, boxes in three days, some of them picking six boxes a day.

☞ A State Sanitary Fair is to be held on the Fair Grounds in Kalamazoo Sept. 20th, 21st, 22d and 23d, same days with the State Fair. Articles sent to the Fair may be directed to Alfred Thomas or John Dudgeon, Kalamazoo.

☞ At the Union Republican Representative Convention held at Union Hall, in this village, on Saturday, Sept. 3d, Wm. H. Osborn, Esq., of Macon, was unanimously nominated as a candidate for the office of Representative for this district, to be supported at the November election.

☞ Uncle Johnny Schreeder, of Ridgeway, presented us last week with some of the largest, nicest and best sweet potatoes we ever saw, the largest weighing 2 pounds 11 ounces. He knows how to raise large things. The man(?) who stole his melons a while ago was mean enough to sell his grandmother's bones to a button factory.

☞ Remember that G. T. Ketcham has now the largest stock of School Books ever offered in this market. He has paper and envelopes by the cord, Photograph Albums by the hundred, Ink by the barrel, and all other goods in his line in proportionate quantities, all of which he is selling very low, considering the inflated state of the market.

☞ The Lady's Friend for September contains a steel engraving called the Blind Piper, with the usual colored fashion plate, and numerous other engravings of ladies' and children's fashions. The music of this number is "Who speaks first." The literary contributions are usually varied and interesting. Published by Deacon & Peterson, 316 Walnut st., Philadelphia.

☞ On the first of September nine men volunteered, and were sworn in, to the full credit, of the quota in Ridgeway Township. They were paid each $400. Leonadas Palmer, Newton Pilbeam and Nathaniel M. Hindes were from Ridgeway, and the others from Milan, Monroe Co. The town had voted the legal bounty of $100 to each volunteer, and the balance, $3,600, was raised by voluntary contributions. Mr. Christopher Barrett disbursed the funds, and also contributed liberally thereto, showing his attachment to a government under which he has risen from nothing to affluence.

Sanitary Fair.

Our readers are doubtless aware that a State Sanitary Fair is to be held in connection with our State Agricultural Fair, beginning on the 20th of this month. We all have the credit of our Peninsula State at heart, and we trust no effort will be spared to make this Fair as successful as those that have preceded it; and especially we hope that the ladies of this place will give their hearty cooperation. Let us have our village well and worthily represented. Every lady in the place ought to contribute at least one article to this laudable object. Contributions of money, fancy articles, etc., may be sent to Mrs. Murray's or Dr. Patterson's, until Friday of next week. Every article should have the donor's name attached. The time for preparation is short, and we hope every one will take a personal interest in the matter, that our pleasant, thriving village may not be outdone by any place of equal size in the State.

☞ Mr. J. H. Bodwell, one of the most enterprising and prominent merchants of Adrian, died on Thursday night, at the age of 43 years. Mr. Bodwell went to Adrian about 23 years ago, from Genesee county, N. Y., and shortly afterwards embarked in business, and for the last 18 years has been one of the foremost and most successful business men of Adrian. When the sad intelligence of his death spread throughout the city, the stores were draped in mourning and every manifestation was evident of the great loss which the city had sustained in his death. A meeting of the merchants and business men of Adrian was held on Friday morning, at which resolutions of respect and condolence were adopted.

☞ That prince of Grocerymen and good-fellows—Alf. James—had the impudence to give us a can of fresh oysters the other day,—and we would here remark that he keeps a supply of them constantly on hand, which he sells by the can or dish. You will find Bob. and Gus. there ready to serve them to you at all times, in the best of style. He has a larger and better stock of Groceries and Provision, and he sells much cheaper than the firms do that cannot see the benefit of advertising. It is a fact and everybody says so.

The Western Rural.

Vol. 1 No. 1 has reached our table and produces a decidedly favorable impression. It is got up in Mr. Lewis' best style which is saying enough on that head for any one who has heretofore been acquainted with his efforts as a publisher. It is a weekly journal of eight pages, four wide columns to a page, of which a large proportion is original matter. It should be liberally sustained by the farmers of the State. Price, $2.50 per annum. Published at Detroit.

☞ We would advise our friends who are in want of a good meal, to call on Burroughs & Co., at the Bakery, where they are keeping a first-class Restaurant in connection with their bakery. They keep Oysters, Sardines, Cakes, Pies, Crackers, etc., etc. See their advertisement.

Goods at Auction.

A Hood & Co. will close out the remnant of their stock of Dry Goods, Boots, Shoes, etc. Sale at auction commencing on Tuesday of next week, in John Osborn's Block.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions will be received for Coupon Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent. gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect.—They will be issued in denominations of 50, 100, 500, 1,000, and 5,000 dollars, and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

The notes will be transmitted to the owners free of transportation charges as soon after the receipt of the original Certificates of Deposit as they can be prepared.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Parties depositing twenty-five thousand dollars and upwards for these notes at any one time will be allowed a commission of one quarter of one per cent., which will be paid by the Treasury Department upon the receipt of a bill for the amount, certified to by the officer with whom the deposit was made. No deductions for commissions must be made from the deposits.

Special Advantages of this Loan.

IT IS A NATIONAL SAVINGS BANK, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it CANNOT pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in Government securities or in notes or bonds payabl] in Government paper.

It is equally convenient as a temporary or permanent investment. The notes can always be sold for within a fraction of their face and accumulated interest, and are the best security with banks as collaterals for discounts.

CONVERTIBLE INTO A SIX PER CENT. 5 20 GOLD BOND.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all Bonds and Treasury Notes from local taxation. On the avgrage, this exemption is worth about two per cent per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to leaders as those issued by the Government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, or stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment, while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

While the Government offers the most liberal terms for its loans, it believes that the very strongest appeal will be to the loyalty and patriotism of the people.

Duplicate certificates will be issued for all deposits. The party depositing must endorse upon the original certificate the denomination of notes required, and whether they are to be issued in blank or payable to order.—When so endorsed it must be left with the officer receiving the deposit, to be forwarded to the Treasury Department.

SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the SECOND NATIONAL BANK OF DETROIT, MICH., and by all National Banks which are depositaries of public money, and all respectable Banks and Bankers throughout the country will give further information and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS. 717

DR. ROBACK'S

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

Are Unequaled

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,
Dyspepsia,	Sick Headache,
Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,

Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away.

The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years.

Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

hich, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and, of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,

Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are

Good Medicines,

and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

Price of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Purifier, $1 per bottle, or $5 per half dozen. Of the Scandinavian Vegetable Blood Pills, 25 cents per box, or 5 boxes for $1.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

—o—

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting,

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using WEED'S PATENT THREAD CONTROLLER. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order, and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

THE MEN IN BLUE.

O Men in Blue!
Brave men and true,
With tearless eyes we bade adieu,
And sent you from our loving arms;
We checked the sighs
That would arise,
And gave you smiles from lips and eyes,
When hearts were sinking with alarm.

O Men in Blue!
Brave men and true,
With hopeful eyes we follow you,
While o'er your ranks that banner waves;
Go, give to Mars
Its peaceful stars,
Long as rebellion's bloody bars
Flaunt over freemen's living graves.

O Men in Blue!
Brave men and true,
With tearful eyes we pray for you,
Afar, amid death's fiery rain;
God speed each blow
Against the foe,
God lay the perjured traitors low,
And bring you to our arms again!

O Men in Blue!
Brave men and true,
With loving eyes we'll welcome you,
When maimed and scarred and worn you come,
Or lift on high
One prayer, one sigh,
If on those bloody fields you die,
And for our country's sake be dumb

MY MOTHER'S RING.

BY ALICE A. STODDARD.

It is a plain, chastely wrought circlet. A single diamond blazes from the top. The jewel alone would attract one ignorant of the incidents connected with it. It is a strange looking ring.

Most people experience pleasure in looking at the mementoes of the lost and gone. I never find any in this; it has been connected with too much agony for those I love, to give pleasure. When a child, it was the height of my ambition to wear that ring; when more advanced in life, if for any worthy purpose or generous deed I was granted the privilege of wearing it, I was happiest of the happy. I never wear it now!

My mother was a splendid woman—so the world talk to me. I never knew her very well, but always worshipped her afar off. I have sat for hours before her portrait, painted at the time of her marriage. I looked at that, not because it was lovelier than its original, but there was something in the countenance of my living mother, that made my heart beat slower and my muscles stiffen. I could never look at her long, and all the affection and caresses which I would fain have given my mother, were lavished on her portrait. The haughty pride was in the picture, but not the freezing chill which had since come to its original. The dress was purple velvet, with a point lace collar about her snowy neck; the sleeves were long, fitting a beautifully shaped arm—save the ring, devoid of ornament. Her hands rested in the most natural position, and there was a pleased, happy look in her dark blue eye.

Such was my mother at the time of her marriage; such was she thirty years after, only the beautiful blue of her eye had changed almost to black. The smile and happy look had left her face, for a searching, withering gaze; and she was more stately in her manner. Not a line was on her brow, nor silver thread in her hair. Sadder than outward change was wrought; her heart was frozen! And for me, her babygirl, she had no love! Oh, my mother!

When the parent has no love for the child, where shall it go for affection?—How I longed for only a tithe of that which was lavished on other children. A mother's kiss would have been the choicest earthly blessings to me; but it was never given.

Sometimes as I lay in the night, with my twin sister sleeping beside me, vague thoughts would flit through my mind of being once held in loving arms, clasping a mother's neck, as other children did, and receiving a mother's kiss. But such thoughts always fled with the dawning.

My father's business—so he said—kept him away from home almost constantly, so I knew less of him than of my mother. I used to think he must be extremely happy because she had some one to love her. He was always so kindly polite and attentive to her, I was afraid her coldness would displease him; but, instead of that, he seemed prouder and more pleased with her.

We had reached our sixteenth year, and had known neither sorrow nor gladness. We were in that state when every new emotion of either pleasure or pain is welcomed. But the same cloud was over us—the same that had enveloped our household.

Then Earl Lynn came down from the mountains to visit our home. It was a beautiful place. He was a traveler, and wished to see all the places of note; so why should he not come? Mamma was pleased with him—the first time we had ever seen her manifest any emotion of pleasure or pain; so we invited the dark looking stranger to call often.

Our home was near the sea shore. We used to go with him to watch the tide come in, sometimes, and he would tell us how he had traveled all over the world, more than once, and that he was soon going again—for he had not remained so long in one place for twenty years.

* * * * * * *

For the first time in my memory our rooms were all opened and lighted, and fast filling with guests. In our own room was my gentle Alice, robed for her bridal. She was to be the old man's darling—the bride of Earl Lynn. Though his dark hair was thickly sprinkled with gray, we were sure she would be happy with him.

My father was away; and, much as we regretted it, the wedding could not be deferred, as they wished to leave with the next steamer for a tour of France. My mother had never exhibited as much affection for any one as she did for Alice now. It was all in her own undemonstrative way; but we knew—what we had always doubted—that, however slight it might be, she had some affection for us.

Alice was very beautiful as she stood by him who would soon be her husband. Her white satin dress fell in billowy folds to the floor; her veil enveloped her in a cloudy mist, and we could scarcely realize that she was not an angel. Earl Lynn had forgotten, in his happiness, that they were to be married with a ring, and, as he wore none of his own, our mother handed him hers. This brought a new sparkle into the eyes of Alice.

"I am glad you forgot it, Lynn," she remarked; "now I can wear this."

"Never take it off," said our mother, "after it is put on at the altar; it shall be your mother's gift."

I envied my sister then.

They went to France, Earl Lynn and my sister. It was very lonely then, but a deeper grief hung over us.

Two years had passed.

I was in my mother's room. I did not often go there, but after Alice went I could not stay alone—so I was there.—The windows were closely curtained, but I had observed a grayish look stealing over the face of my mother as she sat in her arm chair. I was frightened, and went to her barely in time to catch her last—her dying words—

"Earl Lynn, I'll meet you there! He giveth His beloved sleep!"

My mother was dead! Had she heard that Earl Lynn was unkind to her child, and had her sorrow caused her death?

I believed it then. I did not know that all my mother's married life had been a wail of sorrow.

My father died a few months after this, and did not come home again for more than a year. The Earl and Alice came home again immediately; for I could not live in the great house alone. She was the same happy child that had left us. Could my mother's heart have been pained by a false report? I told Alice only half that she had said; I could not tell her all.

We were looking over a drawer one day, one which contained our mother's letters and papers. She had been dead six months. We could not examine them before. We found a letter directed—"To my daughter Elsie." Hastily we tore off the envelope, and read—

ELSIE—I cannot die without revealing to some one the sin that has cast its pall over us as a family, and made your mother the unloving statue that she is. I do not love you; I never did. I never loved your father! I love only God!

Once it was not so. How well I loved, there is one living who can tell; but whom, I trust, you will never see—else I should not tell you this. He was the noblest of his kind, I believed, and still believe, though there was a time—a short time, when I believed him an incarnate fiend.

We were to have been married. I was arrayed for my bridal—Our guests were assembled, when your father—a discarded lover, but still a friend—came to me, and said my promised husband had played me false—that he was not his intent to marry me.

Then the Vernon blood rushed through my veins. My pride, which has always been a curse, was with me, and I gave a low laugh, and said, "It is well; I never loved him!" Then your father proposed to supply his place; and I said to myself, 'Rather than be a forsaken bride, I will do even this!'

So I stood at the altar, with flushed cheeks and smiling lips, but aching heart. It was wrong; but I believed your father loved me, and I thought I could make him happy. God knows I would have done so, had he allowed it.

We came directly here. This was our bridal tour. I was pleased with my new home, of course; and, after he had shown me all over the splendid house, and we were sitting in our own room, I talking of the happiness we should have, he threw a note into my lap, saying—"My proud beauty may be interested in that!"

It was a note from him who should have been my husband, stating that his mother was dying, and he must go to her, but that he would be back in a week at the farthest, to claim his bride!

I fainted then—would that I had died. When I awoke to consciousness, my husband stood by me, and said—"No, my lady cannot die yet!"

Then he told me he did not love me, but had married me only for revenge;—that when I told him I could not marry him, he vowed he would be revenged. Then he only intended to dissolve my existing engagement; but he found he could torture me more effectually by marrying me, and had done so for that purpose.

Then I determined he should never hear a note of agony; and you know how well I have carried out my resolve. You and Alice I have loved, as much as it was possible for me to love anything after that.

I never heard from my betrothed lover until the traveler came down from the mountains to see us. I had grown so statuesque, I knew that in me Earl Lynn would never recognize his Alice Vernon.

Your sister has a noble, loving husband. Never reveal to either of them what I have told you.

I am glad I am so soon to be released. A mother's blessing for her child.

Alice Lynn had read with me what was not intended for her eyes; and the Earl soon knew of that he had never dreamed before. He told us that his love for Alice Vernon—our mother, had been strong and true; that he had loved her as woman was never loved. And we knew that he loved Alice Lynn only for her resemblance to that mother.

But the daughter of such a man—his wife! Could you have endured that thought?

Earl Lynn was never unkind to his wife—he was always just for the mother's sake; but life had lost its pleasure for him now. At last he found a Lethean stream for his woes—where others often find it—in the wine cup.

Alice was not strong as her mother had been, and she faded daily; and, at length, the boatman pale carried her to the other shore.

Alice drew the ring from her finger, placed it in my hand, and said—

"Keep it for the sake of those who have suffered; but never let it clasp your finger! It poisons the life of those who wear it!"

An old man sometimes totters up to those two graves you see just beyond the cypress tree, and reads the inscriptions—"Alice Vernon, aged 46 years; Alice Lynn, 19." He then turns slowly away, and is gone—I know not whither.

So the ring gives me no pleasure—even my mother's wedding ring.

☞ One must be easy in mind to go to sleep quietly; but what must have been the feelings of the stranger who was sent up stairs in a Western hotel to sleep with a backwoodsman, who gave him this welcome:—

"Well, stranger, I've got no objection to your sleeping with me—none in the least; but it seems to me the bed's rather narrow for you to sleep comfortable, considerin' as how I dream. You see, I'm an old trapper, and generally dream of shooting and scalping Injins. At the place I stopped night before last, they charged me five dollars extra, cause I happened to whittle up the head-board with my knife while I was dreamin'. But you can come to bed if you like; I feel kinder peaceable to-night."

☞ At a recent railroad dinner, in compliment to the legal fraternity, the toast was given: "An honest lawyer—the noblest work of God;" but an old farmer in the back part of the hall rather spoiled the effect by adding, in a loud voice, "And about the scarcest!"

The Timely Evidence.

BY MRS. RACHEL RICHELIEU.

At a very early hour of a fine autumnal day, a very pretty young lady expensively attired in a walking dress that passed for the latest Parisian fashion, was daintily picking her way over one of the crossings of Broadway, anxious to preserve the immaculateness of her gaiters, and perhaps, to display an ancle that might have served for a model to Canova. Just as she had reached the opposite sidewalk, her foot slipped on the curbstone, wet with Croton, and she would have fallen had she not been caught by a young man, smartly dressed, who chanced to be passing at the time. A mutual recognition instantly took place.

'Why, Mr. Blythe, is it you?' exclaimed the young lady.

'Nothing shorter, Rose,' answered the smart young man. 'What a coincidence! I was just thinking of you when you fell into my arms'

'Perhaps you think I slipped on purpose, Mr. Impudence,' retorted the young lady.

'Nothing of the kind,' said the smart young man; 'but what brings you from Albany? Have you left your place, as I have mine?'

'O no, indeed,' said the girl; 'Miss Petterly is as kind to me as ever, and so is her good old daddy. Indeed she has promised to give me a thousand dollars on the day of her marriage with young Pelham.'

'A thousand dollars! I adore you! When will you be mine?'

'Just as soon as my young missis is Mrs. Pelham.'

'But that is all settled, isn't it?'

'I am afraid not,' said Rose, shaking her head, 'you know the old gentleman's regard for truth, and you know what a liabit Pelham has for fibbing; to be sure, he only tells white lies, but he is a terrible romancer.'

'Well, what of that?'

'Simply this: Old Petterly, who abhors anything like falsehood, is determined to put him to a terrible proof. He swears that if in the course of to-day he catches Pelham in a single fib, he shall never have his daughter.'

'And of course, your thousand dollars is all moonshine!' exclaimed Mr. Blythe, 'we must warn the young gentleman.'

'Impossible, and useless if possible,' said the pretty lady's maid. 'He is now with Miss Georgia and her father, at the American House. Now I am going to keep an eye on him all day, and you must help me. There's a little ante-room commanding the view of the parlor, of which I have the key. You must be there and see and hear everything that is going on, and be ready to act, as your quick wit shall prompt.'

'Bravo!' said Mr. Blythe. 'A thousand dollars, and a pretty wife are worth an effort. Show me the hiding place, Rose, and I'll second your endeavors.'

The pretty maid performed her promise, and then rejoined her mistress.

'Father-in-law that is to be,' Mr. Pelham was saying, as she entered, 'I wish I'd known of your coming before—you should have had an apartment in my house.'

'Your house!' exclaimed old Petterly, 'I never knew you owned a house.'

'The most charming little box of a place, on Third Avenue,' said Pelham, readily giving way to his inveterate propensity.

'What did you pay for it?' saie the old man.

'Guess.'

'Ten thousand dollars.'

'I Won it at a raffle,' said Pelham, 'twenty dollars a share—what do you think of that?'

'Extra-ordinary,' said the old gentleman, slowly, and eyeing the young man very keenly. 'I will go directly and see it. I shant believe your good luck until I see it myself. Come Georgia, you shall go with us.'

'Stop,—stop!' said Pelham, nervously, 'I did not mention one thing. I sold my house this morning.'

'The deuce you did!' cried the old gentleman. 'How much did you get for it?'

'Ten thousand dollars,' said Pelham, unblushingly.

'My dear boy, I congratulate you, said the old man. 'And there's something selfish in my joy, too, for I am unexpectedly called on to pay a note of a thousand dollars this morning, and I have no available funds by me.'

'There again—confound my luck!' cried Pelham. 'I forgot to mention that I was indebt to the man that bought my house, for the whole eight thousand.'

'Eight thousand! very well, you said you got ten thousand for your house; you can certainly accommodate me with half the balance.'

'Johnson hasn't paid up yet, sir,' said Pelham, involving himself deeper and deeper in the meshes of falsehood.

Georgia was very much out of patience, and Rose gave up the contest as hopeless.

'What's to be done?' said Mr. Petterly.

'Nothing, as I can see, but to wait for the arrival of Mr. Thompson with the money,' said Pelham.

'Thompson! I thought you just now said his name was Johnson!' said the old man testily.

'That was his given name,' hastily answered Pelham. 'Johnson Thompson in full.

And he hastened to change the subject. But the old gentleman's suspicions were now fully awakened, and though Pelham rattled on with his usual volubility, his intended father-in-law was quite cool and monosyllabic in his answers. After a lapse of some time a waiter presented himself and announced "Mr. Johnson Thompson.'

Pelham was as much astonished as if he had 'called up the spirits from the vasty deep,' and he could scarcely reply, 'show him up,' in an audible manner, when in walked Mr. Blythe, so disguised in a red wig and spectacles, that even Rose scarcely knew him.

'I beg your pardon for intruding, Mr. Pelham,' said he, but I only called to say the deed was all right, and I have paid the two thousand dollars into your lawyer's hands. Pray call round and see me when we get settled in the new house. My wife is anxious for the honor of your acquaintance.'

'Give my respects to Mrs. Thompson,' said Pelham, recovering his sang froid, 'and tell her I shant fail to call with—with Mrs. Pelham,' he added, smiling on Georgia, 'after the happy event.'

The imaginary Thompson took leave, with a profusion of bows.

'My dear boy,' said old Petterly, shaking hands with Pelham, 'pardon me, I suspected—I feared you had not broken yourself of your accursed propensity to tell fibs; and I resolved if I caught you in a single violation of truth, you should never marry my daughter. My pecuniary trouble was all humbug. You have stood the test nobly, now take her and be happy.'

His narrow escape taught Pelham the importance of a virtue he never practiced; the example of his wife completed his cure. Mr. Blythe was duly rewarded for his timely aid, and made happy in the possession of the pretty, loving Rose; and if a cloud comes over the felicity of Mr. Pelham, it is when his fath-in law urges him to make that promised call upon Mrs. Johnson Thompson.

Selling at Half Price.

A shopkeeper in a small town one day marked the hadkerchiefs in his window with the tempting words, 'Selling off at half price.' Shortly after, a lady who had traded with him before, entered the establishment, and inquired the price.

'Fifty cents apiece,' returned the shopkeeper.

'Very well,' returned the lady, 'you may do me up a dozen.'

The handkerchiefs were cut off and delivered to the lady, who gave the shopkeeper a three dollar bill.

'Beg your pardon, madam, but I—ah—told you the handkerchiefs were fifty cents apiece; that is six dollars a dozen.'

'To be sure; I understand as much arithmetic as that; six dollars is the price, half of six is three—that is half price. I think they are cheap enough. Good day, sir.'

The lady shut the door. The shopkeeper opened his eyes. For five minutes he stood still as a stump, gazing vacantly at the window. Biting his lips and looking very red, he quietly removed the card pinned to the handkerchiefs and resolved to announce no more goods at half price.

☞ A young man recently married a poor girl against the will of his parents, who were quite wealthy, and was shortly after reprimanded by his father for so doing. After a lengthy conversation, he concluded by saying: 'I think you have married amiss, and you will certainly regret it before you die.' 'I am quite certain that I have married a Miss,' rejoined the sapient son, 'and had I married a Mrs. you would have been no better satisfied.'

Young Ladies of To-Day.

Did you ever think what a contrast there is between the young lady of to-day and one of fifty, or even a score of years ago? Then, a lady was one who could take care of herself—could sing in plain musical English, wash, bake all kinks of food, milk a cow if necessary, and make herself generally useful. If she didn't she was called lazy—that was about it. But now, we have no lazy women, they are all delicate. The modern young lady is a strange compound of dress and nerves—by which we mean these "exquisite susceptibilities" which causes her to shudder when she sees a washtub, and scram at the sight of a cow. She is a living image made to be waited upon. She sings "divinely" and plays the piano "exquisitely," but neither one of these affects you as much as the "jabbering of a North American Indian for it is not half as intelligible. She lounges about in the morning, crotchets or embroiders a little, then dresses herself up and promenades for the benefit of some "genteel exquisite." Thus pass her days. Now you needn't tell me that old bachelors are continually harping on women's faults—that we do not find any such ladies—that they are the same now as they always were. It is no such thing. It is an uncommon thing, indeed, to find a young lady now-a-days that half pays for the food she eats. She is nothing but a bill of expense to her father, and a larger one to her husband, for he not only has her to support, but one or two hired girls to wait upon her also. Our advice to every young man is to beware of a fashionable young lady. Never marry the girl who sits in the parlor while her mother stands in the kitchen. It won't pay.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT 15, 1864.

The Decline in Gold.

It is a source of relief to the entire public that gold has begun, it would seem, to permanently and substantially decline.

Its extravagant rise was, no doubt, at the first, for the most part causeless, and a mere gambling speculation, but whether so or not its influence and results were serious to the public. All the necessaries of life, equally with foreign luxuries rose in proportion, and the ordinary standard of values seemad almost abandoned until no one felt really safe to buy or sell, or could look calmly and securely towards the future as that which he could either comprehend or control.

But with this substantial decline in gold we begin to feel as though the crisis is nearly past and we can touch bottom again. It will undoubtedly begin to tell upon the prices of living very soon and in this way become a source of public relief, but it is still more valuable as an indication of a return to public hopefulness and confidence.

It is undoubtedly true that there has really been no time since the first battle of Bull Run, when the public mind has rested with so fixed a confidence of an early and successful termination of the war, as at the present and this is the true solution of the change in Wall Street.

It is a great mistake to suppose that this change will not prove equally acceptable to business men as the public at large. While it is true, of course, that they have at times been benefitted by the rise in the value of produce or goods on hand, it is not true that they can do better or make more money, by the sale of high priced, rather than low priced goods.

For instance if the produce merchants, makes, as is usual, two cents a pound on all the butter that passes through his hands, he is by no means making in the same proportion upon the capital invested when he pays 40 cents as when he pays 10 cents per pound for it, but in fact only one-fourth as much. And so it is, to a very considerable extent, with other things.

Out of regard then, to National interests, out of regard to business enterprise, and out of regard to the masses of the people, this change cannot be otherwise than a matter of sincere congratulation, [illegible] may well indulge the hope that nothing may occur to prevent a permanent tendency in the same direction.

Whatever temporary loss may here and there accrue in the transition, may well be borne, in consideration of the great and general good, of which it is so sure a harbinger.

A Heavy Robbery.

The Cincinnati Commercial says: One of the most extensive, and at the same time mysterious robberies which has taken place in this State in a long period, transpired recently. The particulars of the affair, so far as we can ascertain them, are as follows: On Saturday last the First National Bank of this city, which is located at the north-west corner of Third and Walnut streets, received from one of its correspondings, the First National Bank of Gallipolis, an order for $15,000 in Treasury notes. The amount was immediately done up and carried to the office of the Harnden Express Company in the Burnet House block, for delivery to the owners, at Gallipolis. This was on Saturday, but the money was not shipped until Monday morning last, when it was sent by the usual railroad route to Gallipolis, which is by the Marietta and Cincinnati road to Hamdem Junction, thence South by the Sciota and Hocking Valley road to Portland Station, and thence by stage west about twenty-five miles to Gallipolis. At Portland on Monday evening the safe and its valuable contents were placed on the stage to be taken to Gallipolis, and it was at this point of its journey that it was lost. How it was abstracted from the vehicle, whether by bold highwaymen, who, taking advantage of the darkness and rough roads, dragged it noiselessly to the ground, or by what other means, seems to be a matter as yet of unravelled mystery. Certain it is, however, that the safe with its $15,000 and other valuables have been stolen, and that the thief has thus far escaped detection. We doubt not, however, that in a few days the real circumstances of the affair will be brought to light.

☞ The number of coal mines worked in France is 490, and of iron mines 202. Of other substances there are 247 mines, comprising graphite, bitumen, rock-salt, antimony, manganese, lead, silver, copper, tin, and zinc, isolated or in combination.

The News.

MONDAY, Sept. 12.

From the Potomac army we have intelligence of important movements. On Friday the rebels concentrated on a new line near the Jerusalem plank road, throwing up some slight works. About midnight a division of our army attacked their position, taking them by surprise, driving them back, and taking a large number of prisoners.

The rebels are reported in force near Winchester. A body of our cavalry captured and destroyed four flour mills and some other property on Ossequan Creek.

It is reported at Little Rock that the rebel Gen Price died recently of dysentary. Rebel raiders have been busy near Vicksburg—they attack the plantations, burn the houses, and carry off the property.

Dispatches have been received from Gen. Averill which state that early is in full retreat towards Winchester, closely ollowed by Averill who had captured a large amount of stores, and two battle flags.

A heavy artillery duel took place on Thursday, between Grant's and Lee's forces, but nothing decisive was effected Lee is massing heavy forces on our left. A heavy engagement is soon expected.

We have no official confirmation of the capture of Mobile.

A fearful railroad accident occurred on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Latrobe, on Friday Several lives were lost and a large amount of stock.

New Orleans dates to 3d inst., state that Gen. Banks was about to come North. Military operations on a limited scale were still going on in Louisiana.

TUESDAY, Sept. 13.

There is no change in military matters to note this morning. Gen. Sherman has re-established his communication via Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad.—Work-parties re.commenced work on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad yesterday morning, and it is expected the road will be in running order by Friday next.—The country between Nashville and the Tennessee River is reported full of prowling bands.

The two blockade runners, the Advance and Elsie, recently captured off Wilmington, N. C., by the U. S. Steamer Santiago de Cuba, prove to be rich prizes, and are said to be valued at half a million dollars, which, of course, is to be distributed among the gallant tars who had a hand in capturing them. Gen. Grant's successful move on the Weldon Railroad is said to be the main cause of their capture, as they could obtain from no other route a good quality of coal.

Sherman's army is concentrated at Atlanta; his troops are in position and well.

No report confirming the capture of Mobile has yet been received.

An Indianapolis dispatch to the Gazette announces the capture there of Quantrell, the butcherer of Lawrence.—He was recognized on the street by a refugee.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 14.

An officer of Gen. Grant's staff has just arrived from the front and states that the situation of the army is improving.—Lee cannot attack him till he is re-joined by Early, and Early is held fast in the Valley by Sheridan, and cannot fall back without great loss. The Richmond Examiner says Grant has been massing a large number of troops south of Petersburg, on the railroad, and is a quarter of a mile nearer Petersburg.

Rebels report Gen. Sherman as saying that he will take his army back to Atlanta to rest, and then start for Andersonville. Andersonville is the place where the rebels hold a large number of our men prisoners. It is to be hoped Gen. Sherman will reach there.

The draft has been ordered to take place in two districts of New York, on the 14th. It will commence in Ohio and other States whose quotas are not filled on Monday, the 19th.

The returns from the Maine elections show great Union gains. The majority on Governor will reach 20,000.

The Republicans have carried Vermont by about 16,000.

Washington rumor states that Horace Greeley has again had a correspondence with Geo. Sanders about Peace Com'rs.

☞ A correspondent, under date of August 28th, ten miles south-west of Atlanta, writes that the country over which the army marched the previous day, is more open than any through which it has passed during the campaign. Large and well-tilled plantations were seen along the whole route, which showed very few signs of war, and the large fields of waving corn furnished excellent forage for our stock. The inhabitants have all remained upon the farms, and seemed disposed to treat the Yankees with common civility. They do not appear to be wanting in subsistence, but are very ragged and threadbare in their raiment, wh ch is of the coarsest material, and very much in need of soap and water.

☞ The new comet was seen in England on the 1st of August, a little northward of the Pleiades, and in a line with the planet Mars.

A Greenback Well Invested.

A year ago several journals united in recommending their readers to invest a Dollar "Greenback" in securing that very excellent Journal for the HOUSEHOLD (including the Little Ones), for the GARDEN, and for the FARM, called the American Agriculturalist.—Many persons were thus led to subscribe, and we believe all who did so have been much more than satisfied. They have received the 23d Annual Volume of the Agriculturalist which is full of good things useful, practical, and entertaining, and just now the Publisher is sending out to each of his subscribers applying, a present of a plant of one of the most remarkable Strawberries that have ever been brought out. These plants, when sold by the only other person having them, go readily at 75 cents each. So the Greenback invested last year has certainly paid well. All we have now to say is, let all others go and do likewise.—Notwithstanding the present advance in cost, the Publisher still offers to take subscribers this month (September) at $1 a year, or from now to the end of 1865 (fifteen months) for $1,15. And still further, he offers one of the remarkable Strawberry Plants, sent free and post paid, to every new subscriber who encloses 5 cents extra for oil cloth, packing, and postage on the plant.—Our advice to all is, send the Dollar (or the $1,15), and the extra 5 cents at once to ORANGE JUDD, Publisher of the Agriculturalist, AT 41 PARK ROW, NEW YORK CITY, and get the paper, etc. You will get a most beautiful, well illustrated, practical paper, and the cheapest one in the country, to say nothing of the extra Strawberry Plant, etc. TRY IT.

The Rebel John H. Morgan.

John H. Morgan, the notorious rebel scout, and commander of the Rebel Rangers, was born near Lexington, Kentucky. From his boyhood he was noted for his skill and recklessness in horsemanship.—In September, 1861, he assumed command of a band of guerrillas in the vicinity of Pilot Knob, Mo., where he shot down a number of Union pickets During the winter of 1862 3, he commanded a cavalry force of Gen. Bragg's army, and greatly annoyed Gen. Rosecrans' outposts and communications. With him were several smart telegraph operators, who would attach wires to the telegraph lines, take off the messages coming from headquarters of the army and send back counterfeit ones. To these operators many of the Union defeats in Kentucky are attributed. In the summer of 1863 he headed an extensive raid through Indiana and Ohio, in which he was captured with a large number of his command. In November, 1863, he with six of his officers adroitly managed to escape from the Ohio Penitentiary, after a great deal of persevering labor in undermining the prison. Morgan was a tall, heavy man, who usually rode a black horse. He was a bold, daring, and merciless thief and murderer, and his followers were like him. Morgan was by profession a negro trader, a gambler, and a libertine. Wherever he was known he was regarded as a low-bred fellow, whom no lady could recognize.—In several street fights he had gained the reputation of an assassin rather than that of a hero. Yet this wretch was the fellow upon whom the secesh women of Kentucky and Secessia lavished their brightest smiles and most liberal favors.

Capture of Blockade Runners.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Captain M. Wishan, of the United States' steamer Santiaga de Cuba, under date of the 15th, informs the navy department that on Saturday, on his way to Hamptoh Roads for coal, he discovered, chased and captured a blockade runner. She proved to be the English steamer Advance, late Lord Clyde, from Wilmington. She was an iron side wheel steamer, two years old, very fast, and had on board 410 bales of cotton and some turpentine. Her full cargo cannot be known till it is taken out in Boston.

Rear Admiral Lee, in a letter dated Beaufort, S. C., 7th, says the Elsie ran out of Wilmington on the 4th inst., and was captured next day by the Keystone State and Quaker City. The Elsie was seen and fired upon, when she ran out, by the Nephon and Brittania, and was chased by the Santiago de Cuba until lost in the darkness. At 10:30 next day she was seen and captured without papers or flag. A shell from the Quaker City exploded in the fore hold of the Elsie, and 100 bales of cotton and part of her cargo was thrown overboard in the chase, and there are now about 350 bales on board. The prize will be sent to Boston. The Elsie is new and of light draft.

☞ Gen. Grant has issued an order directing that all deserters taking the oath of allegiance will, if they desire it, be given employment in the Quartermaster's and other departments of the army, with the same renumeration as is given to civilian employes for similar services.—Forced military duty, or services endangering them to capture by the Confederate forces, will not be exacted from such as give themselves up to the United States' military authorities.

Scraps of News.

—The French, at last accounts, were marching on Matamoras, Mexico.

—It is said that 800,000 persons are dependent on the railways in Great Britain.

—A little son of Mr. F. J. Taylor, of Lapeer, had his leg broken, on Friday last, by being thrown from a buggy.

—Subscriptions to the amount of $40,000 have been secured in Ireland to erect a monument in memory of Dan'l Connell.

—The papers throughout many parts of the State make acknowledgments for recent much desired rains.

—Lieut. John M. Lacey, of Co. G, 6th Michigan Infantry, died at Charlotte on the 1st inst., of disease contracted in the military service.

—P. Donovan, P. Bach, and D. Godfrey were re.elected by a large majority, on the School Board of Ann Arbor, last week, though persistent efforts were made to defeat them.

—Four printers, two of them boys from the Expounder office, have enlisted for the war, in Marshall. Two young men, formerly of the Mason, Ingham County News, have also joined the army.

—About seventy recruits, from Oneida, Delta, Windsor and Roxand, passed through Charlotte, Eaton County, on Sunday. They were mostly recruited by Lieut. Mann, for the 7th Cavalry.

—A new Protestant Association has been formed in Scotland, "to oppose all legislative measures which tend to raise up the Papal hierarchy as a legally endowed and established body within the realm."

—The introduction of a uniform standard of weights and measures throughout India is at present under the consideration of the Government of India, and will soon be brought into operation.

—The through freight trnin on the Michigan Central Railroad, bound west, ran into a gravel train, which was out of place, at Ann Arbor, on Wednesday evening, and it took some time to clear the track, and the mail and express trains were delayed.

—The sudden call for 500,000 sovereigns in England, on Spanish account, not only caused the recent advance in the rate of interest by the Bank of England, but caused a loss in public and private securities of forty millions of pounds.

—Gen. Rosecrans recently ordered an assessment of $10,000 on some disloyal citizens of Boone County, Missouri, in retaliation for the murder of Thomas Waterman, by a band of bushwhackers. The assessment is for the benefit of the widowed mother and sisters of Waterman.

—A North Carolinian, who deserted to our lines, says that an awful condition of things exists in that State. Almost every day the citizens, in greater or less numbers, come in conflict with the Home Guard, kept there to arrest deserters and enforce the conscription. He says that he was conscripted about three weeks ago, and was shot at five times before he was captured and carried off.

—During the recent raid of Gen. Stoneman, three men of the 14th Illinois were captured while wandering alone, and nothing was known of their fate. Shortly after a large party of the same regiment were riding rapidly through the woods and came suddenly upon a squad of rebels who had just drawn up the three men in line to shoot them, and taking them by surprise, captured the whole party and liberated their companions.

—The result of Forrest's recent raid into Memphis is thus summed up: The rebels captured about 250 prisoners, including citizens and negroes. Nearly, if not quite all, the citizens were released. They killed 30 of our men and wounded about 100 more. The number of negroes killed and wounded is thought to be about 50. We killed about 40 rebels, wounded probably 150, and took 103 prisoners. Besides this the rebels lost about 50 horses, killed or disabled.

—It is proposed to introduce the mulberry tree into Australia and New Zealand for the purpose of breeding silk worms. The New Zealand Examiner says that an acre of ground will carry about 40 mulberry trees. These trees in four years will be available for the nourishment o the silkworm. The voracity of the worm is such that the leaves of an entire tree will not more than suffice for the development of a couple of ounces of silkworm eggs, which will produce in their turn about 200 lbs. of cocoons, yielding, on an average, 16 lbs. reeled raw silk, the commercial value of which ranges from £10 to £12.

—Galignani's Messenger of the 20th ult., says that experiments are now in progress, both at Mont Valerien and Vincennes, for the purpose of testing a new system of electric telegraphy invented by M. Armand Douat, who, it is said, has found means to do away with electric wires altogether, and transmit despatches by the sole action of the earth. A zinc and a copper plate, bent in spindle-like shape, are buried in the ground, with their convexity turned in the direction in which the despatch is to be sent. A similar system, invented in England a few years ago, met with no success.

The Electoral College.

The apportionment of Electors under which the coming Presidential Election will be held, (eleven States in secession not participating in the canvass), differs materially from that of 1860. The number of the Electoral College is seen in the following table:

Maine,	7	Ohio,	21
New Hampshire,	5	Indiana,	13
Massachusetts,	12	Illinois,	16
Rhode Island,	4	Michigan,	8
Connecticut,	6	Wisconsin,	8
Vermont,	5	Minnesota,	4
New York,	33	Iowa,	8
New Jersey,	7	Kansas,	3
Pennsylvania,	26	Kentucky,	11
Delaware,	3	Missouri,	11
Maryland,	7	California,	4
Oregon,	3

The whole number of Electors is 226, of which 114 is requisite to elect a President in the Electoral College. The Chicago Convention will have 452 delegates, having the same number of votes as the total number of Electors, namely 226. If the two-thirds rule be adopted at the Convention, the candidate nominated will have to receive 151 votes. In 1860, the popular vote of the States, including those now in secession, was against Lincoln, that is, the sum of the Douglas, Bell and Breckinridge votes exceeded the Lincoln vote. The political influence now rests largely in the States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, which cast within five votes of the number required to elect a President.

HOW AN EDITOR LIVES CHEAP.—The present prices of the necessaries of life develop a vast amount of economical resources that have heretofore remained unknown. How an Editor manages to live is best set forth by the Kinderhook Rough Notes: Our butter and milk, since we have reduced the thing to a system, only costs us twenty-eight cents a week! We use a pint of milk a day for which we pay four cents. The milk is skimmed twice a day—the cream thus obtained is sufficient to give two churnings a week. The butter properly moulded is put on a plate, and every meal time a little pantomime is gone through with, representing the act of taking butter and spreading it. What butter is left over at the end of the week is taken to the store and sold at forty-five cents a pound.

The State Sanitary Fair.

We hope our readers will not forget the Sanitary Fair which is to be held at Kalamazoo next week. Money and everything that can be converted into money or made available for the benefit of our wounded and suffering soldiers, should be liberalally contributed. EVERYBODY, don't let Lenawee fall behind her sister Counties in the number and value of her contributions.

☞ One of the things which give value to a local paper is the gathering up of all news of a local nature. We copy the following from an exchange paper and wish that all would aid us by following the suggestion:

"Friends everywhere in the country, give us facts of public interest that may occur in your respective neighborhoods. Let clergymen of all denominations report revivals, the erection of new churches, school examinations, or such other matters as may come under their observation; let physicians report deaths, accidents, &c.; let justices of the peace report trials or examinations of public interest. It is not opinions or essays that we want, but facts,—in brief, the cream of the matter."

From Ridgeway.

The 4th Quarterly Meeting of the M. E. Church for Ridgeway Circuit, was held on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10th and 11th. The opening sermon was delivered by Rev. Geo. Smith, P. E. The Sabbath services consisted in the usual Love Feast, at the close of which eleven probationers were received to full membership, according to the form prescribed in the revised discipline, five of whom were also baptised. The Financial report showed a deficiency, to be immediately provided for by special effort.

The morning sermon was preached by Rev. C. M. Anderson, of South Lyons; and after a collection of $29,24, the "Sacrament of the Lord's Supper" was administered. Next followed a funeral discourse for a young man by the name of Cook, delivered by Rev. E. Klumph. At the close of the service another funeral procession came to the Church, occasioned by the death of a child of Thos. Lee.

In the evening the S. S. Missionary Society was addressed by Revs. George Smith, H. M. Anderson and Alexander Gee. Some $18 were contributed, which, together with previous collections, will amount to $80.

Auction Sale! New Arrival!!

We would judge, from the crowd at Moore's Dry Goods Store, that he is selling out at auction. Don't fail to go in and look at his Stock. He always buys first class goods, and sells them at the lowest market price. He keeps an exclusive Dry Goods stock, and devotes his entire attention to it, and shows his goods freely. Look at his Dress Goods—they are beautiful! His Cloths and Cassimeres are of superior quality; he always has a full assortment of Ladies', Children's, and Men's Hosiery and Gloves,—in a word, if you want anything in the line of Dry Goods, go to Moore's. He sells at one price, and his terms are, Cash on delivery.

Daring Robbery!

A lady residing about two miles out of town, had the entire contents of her clothes-line stolen a few nights since.—Great indignation was manifested the next day by the lady, and great efforts were made to "get track" of the thief, but not the least trace of him could be found. Imagine the young lady's surprise, however, on finding the majority of her clothes on the kitchen steps the following morning. The secret was easily explained: the clothes were marked with indellible ink. The thief doubtless found it impossible to remove the marks, and to avoid detection returned the clothes. We think it would be a good plan for every body to have their clothes marked.—G. T. Ketcham has Payson's Indellible Ink for sale, warranted to stand washing, ironing, and all the trials that clothes are subjected to.

Quotas of Lenawee County.

The following table, made up from the official figures at the office of Provost Marshal Hill, shows the quotas under the last call, the credits and deficiency on the first day of September. It is proper to state that the first column, under the head of quotas includes, also, the deficiencies under former calls.

	Quota.	Credits.	Deficit.		Quota.	Credits.	Deficit.

It will be seen by this table that Tecumseh has filled her quota and is 26 men ahead, being a surplus of more men than any town in the State. Bully for Tecumseh!

☞ We copy the following from an Alexandria Va., paper. It will be remembered that the company it has reference to was recruited from this vicinity. It is commanded by Capt. E. Richardson and Lieut. Morris Roberts:

"We have several times during the past few months had occasion to notice the splendid appearance and strict military bearing of the company which has for so long a time been doing duty at the government bakery, in this city. We refer to company F. 26th Michigan Volunteers, commandee by Capt. E. Richardson. During a service of considerably over a year in our midst not one case of disorderly conduct has occurred in the company. We look in vain for another instance of equally meritorious conduct.

U. S. 7-30 Loan!

The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that subscriptions, will be received for Payson Treasury Notes, payable three years from Aug. 15th, 1864, with semi-annual interest at the rate of seven and three-tenths per cent. per annum,—principal and interest both to be paid in lawful money.

These notes will be convertible at the option of the holder at maturity, into six per cent. gold bearing bonds, payable not less than five nor more than twenty years from their date, as the Government may elect.—They will be issued in denominations of 50, 100, 500, 1 000, and 5,000 dollars, and all subscriptions must be for fifty dollars or some multiple of fifty dollars.

The notes will be transmitted to the owners free of transportation charges as soon after the receipt of the original Certificates of Deposit as they can be prepared.

As the notes draw interest from August 15, persons making deposits subsequent to that date must pay the interest accrued from date of note to date of deposit.

Parties depositing twenty-five thousand dollars and upwards for these notes at any one time will be allowed a commission of one quarter of one per cent., which will be paid by the Treasury Department upon the receipt of a bill for the amount, certified to by the officer with whom the deposit was made. No deductions for commissions must be made from the deposits.

Special Advantages of this Loan.

IT IS A NATIONAL SAVINGS BANK, offering a higher rate of interest than any other, and the best security. Any savings bank which pays its depositors in U. S. Notes, considers that it is paying in the best circulating medium of the country, and it CANNOT pay in anything better, for its own assets are either in Government securities or in notes or bonds payabl] in Government paper.

It is equally convenient as a temporary or permanent investment. The notes can always be sold for within a fraction of their face and accumulated interest, and are the best security with banks as collaterals for discounts.

CONVERTIBLE INTO A SIX PER CENT. 5-20 GOLD BOND.

In addition to the very liberal interest on the notes for three years, this privilege of conversion is now worth about three per cent. per annum, for the current rate for 5-20 Bonds is not less than nine per cent. premium, and before the war the premium on six per cent. U. S. stocks was over twenty per cent. It will be seen that the actual profit on this loan, at the present market rate is not less than ten per cent. per annum.

Its Exemption from State or Municipal Taxation.

But aside from all the advantages we have enumerated, a special Act of Congress exempts all Bonds and Treasury Notes from local taxation. On the average, this exemption is worth about two per cent. per annum, according to the rate of taxation in various parts of the country.

It is believed that no securities offer so great inducements to leaders as those issued by the Government. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties, of stock companies, or separate communities, only, is pledged for payment, while the whole property of the country is held to secure the discharge of all the obligations of the United States.

While the Government offers the most liberal terms for its loans, it believes that the very strongest appeal will be to the loyalty and patriotism of the people.

Duplicate certificates will be issued for all deposits. The party depositing must endorse upon the original certificate the denomination of notes required, and whether they are to be issued in blank or payable to order.—When so endorsed it must be left with the officer receiving the deposit, to be forwarded to the Treasury Department.

SUBSCRIPTIONS WILL BE RECEIVED by the Treasurer of the United States, at Washington, the several Assistant Treasurers and designated Depositaries, and by the SECOND NATIONAL BANK OF DETROIT, MICH., and by all National banks which are depositaries of public money, and all respectable Banks and Bankers throughout the country will give further information and AFFORD EVERY FACILITY TO SUBSCRIBERS. 717

THE SCANDINAVIAN Remedies

"No pent-up Utica contracts our powers,
For the whole boundless Continent is ours."

DR. ROBACK'S

and

BLOOD PILLS

have been introduced to the public for more than six years, and have acquired an

Immense Popularity,

far exceeding any Family Medicines of a similar nature in the market.

An appreciating public was not long in discovering they possessed remarkable

Curative Properties,

and hence their

Rapid Sale

and consequent profit to the Proprietor, thus enabling him to expend

Many Thousands of dollars each year in advertising their merits, and publishing the

Numerous Certificates

which have been showered upon him from

All parts of the Country.

The peculiarity of the

Blood Purifier and Pills

is that they strike at the root of Disease, by eradicating every particle of impurity

In the Blood,

for the life and health of the body depends upon the purity of the blood.

If the blood is poisoned, the body drags out a miserable existence. These medicines

for curing

Scrofula,	Syphilis,
Skin Diseases,	Old Sores,
Salt Rheum,	Rheumatism,

Liver Complaint,	Fever and Ague,
Leucorrhœa,	Female Complaints,
Erysipelas,	St. Anthony's Fire,
Tumors,	Eruptions,

Fits, Scrofulous Consumption, etc.

ONE person writes, her daughter was cured of fits of nine years' standing, and St Vitus' dance of two years.

ANOTHER writes, his son was cured after his flesh had almost wasted away. The doctors pronounced the case incurable.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever and Ague after trying every medicine in his reach.

ANOTHER was cured of Fever Sore which had existed fourteen years.

ANOTHER of Rheumatism of eight years. Cases innumerable of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint could be mentioned in which the Purifier and Pills

Work like a Charm.

The Blood Pills

are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relapse into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with simply a purgative pill.

They are really a

Blood and Liver Pill,

hich, in conjunction with the

Blood Purifier,

will cure all the aforementioned diseases, and of themselves, will relieve and cure

Headache,	Costiveness,
Colic Pains,	Cholera Morbus,
Indigestion,	Pain in the Bowels,

Dizziness, etc.

Try these medicines, and you will never regret it.

Ask your neighbors, who have used them, and they will say they are and you should try them before going for a physician.

Get a Pamphlet or Almanac of my local agent, and read the certificates, and if you have ever doubted you will

Doubt no more.

As a proof that the Blood Purifier and Pills are purely vegetable, I have the certificates of those eminent chemists, Professors Chilton of N. Y., and Locke of Cincinnati.

Read Dr. Roback's Special Notices and Certificates published in a conspicuous part of this Paper from time to time.

GREAT IMPROVEMENT,

TIGHT STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

WEED'S CELEBRATED PATENT

Never fail to satisfy those who give them a thorough trial, and wherever introduced are rapidly superceding all others.

They possess the merit of simplicity and ease of management, so that fifteen minutes instruction will enable any one to use them successfully. The following are some of their points of excellence:

They have a Straight Needle and Shuttle, which is acknowledged to be the only true principle for a perfect Sewing Machine.

They make a Lock or Shuttle Stich alike on both sides, and for economy in Thread, Strength, Durability, Elasticity and Beauty of Finish, is superior to any other Stitch used.

They are simple in construction, easily understood, readily adjusted and kept in order without taking apart or moving a screw.

The Tension is superior to any other in use. Unevenness or knots in the thread do not cause it to operate with irregularity.

The Feed is perfect, accurate in its operation, and warranted to run two years without requiring to be taken out, cleaned or repaired.

They are adapted to all kinds of Sewing, and are strong and durable in all their parts. This is important, for even light work will soon cause a frail machine to operate with uncertainty, and require frequent and expensive repairs. The Weed will last a life time and keep in order.

They Stitch, Hem, Braid, Fell, Cord, Bind and Gather without basting.

They do not break the thread, skip stiches nor form a chain ridge on the underside of cloth. They will sew over gathers and seams without breaking the thread, or requiring a change of tension.

They use Silk, Cotton and Linen Threads equally well.

They are the only machine using Weed's Patent Thread Controller. There is no other apparatus for the control of the 'Slack Thread' equal to it.

Every Machine is Warranted

Families and Manufacturers will find the Weed the most profitable machines for use, owing to their always keeping in repair and working order and their great speed and ease of management.

Forty per cent more work can be done in a year's time on the "Weed" than on any other Sewing Machine.

We publicly challenge machines of any and all other manufacture, to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on these machines.

All orders or communications from Families, Tailors, Seamstresses, Clothiers, Harness Makers, &c., in the country, will receive prompt attention. A Descriptive Circular and Samples of Work will be sent on receipt of letter stamp. Collections made on Delivery of Machines, if desired, so that the purchaser need not pay for them until they are received.

WHERE IS HE?

They have led him on to battle!
And my heart with dark fear teems,
As I hear the lead-hail rattle
Nightly in my troubled dreams.
Thousands of our braves are falling,—
And I know he will not lag,
While our nation's voice is calling
For defenders of her flag.

Where is he while I am writing?
Oft I question: "Where is he?"
Is the soldier bravely fighting
For his country—so for me?
It may be that he is lying,
Mid the wounded and the slain,
With none near to heed his sighing
For the love to soothe his pain.

Or it may be God has taken
Him from earth to dwell above;
But my faith is still unshaken
In His all-protecting love.
And while I am swiftly linking Thought to thought for him to night,
It may be that he is thinking—
Thinking of me while I write.

Holy Father! wilt Thou keep him
While the deadly missiles fly!
Let Thy sheltering wings o'ersweep him,
Till the conflict has passed by!
God of Love, oh, wilt Thou hear me
While I plead for CHARLEY's sake?
Keep, oh! keep the soldier near Thee
Till the morn of Peace shall break.

Georgia Cleave's Choice.

BY ALICE A. STODDARD.

It was more than a nine days' wonder in the village of Glendower when Georgia Cleave married Senator Morley.

For had she not been engaged ever since her babyhood to Albert Gray, captain of the 'Calcutta'? To be sure he was never at home, except for a visit of a week or two in so many years; and a young thing like her could not be expected to remember an absent lover always, provided there were other objects of sufficient interest to make her forget him.—But, on the other hand, a naval officer is not likely to be an object of slight with young ladies not over sixteen. Nor is a prosy Senator of fifty years, widower, and gray-haired, generally an object of very lively interest.

Nevertheless, they were married, and on their wedding tour!

Of course, each one had his pet theory by which to account for such a step. One sex declared that it was only for his money and position she had married him; the other, that it was against her will, but her father had forced her to it; and both pitied poor Albert Gray, when he should hear the sad news. They were just as correct in their judgment now as in other cases, for so it always is; the blameless receive the censure—the guilty obtain the sympathy of mankind.

It was a little mortifying to Judge Morley's pride that the conductor would persist in speaking of 'yourself and daughter;' but this was nothing to his chagrin when, calling for his old room at the National, the clerk gave him a pleasant room, but not his own, alleging, as the reason for the change, that he supposed he would prefer a room connected with another for his daughter. But after he had obtained his old room for 'Wilson Morley and wife,' and Mrs. Morley had laughed heartily over the affair, when he caught his reflection in the glass with that little figure leaning so child-like on his arm, her suit of gray with pink trimmings making her look less mature than usual, with her great childish eyes, and the curls that would not stay in their places, he thought—

'After all, it isn't so strange, for she is young and beautiful!'

He could not think of boarding; his deceased Mary had kept house for him—she was fifty the day she died; his little one must do the same.

Georgia had not thought of it; indeed, she could not think of it.

'Please, Mr. Morley,' she cried, 'I cannot.'

But he was of a different opinion; so, when the great tears came into her eyes, he took her in his arms as he would a tired child, laid her cheek upon his shoulder, and told her that it was his wish that she should do so; that they must open their own house with a large party.

So it was decided, and the tears were as quickly dried.

How Madame Grundy would have talked, had she seen tears on the face of a month-old bride, and heard a new husband's 'You must, my dear!' But she never say it. Some of the strong-minded did say she was an abused wife, when they saw her standing before her grand husband, childishly pleading with little, outstretched hands for a permission he could not grant. He was not stern to her, and when he said, 'I have expressed my wishes, child,' she loved him none the less. He knew when he married her she was but a child; she had the good sense to know it also. Even the aforesaid Mrs. Grundy, had she had the entree of their private rooms, (which, I am happy to say, she did not have,) would have been pleased with her perfect love and confidence in her husband. His morning paper never occupied his attention so closely he had no thought for her; and when she would take her seat on his knee, with her guitar, even the paper was laid aside to listen to her sweet voice; but when embroidery, or tatting, or other womanly work took the place of the guitar, then strong arms drew the yielding form close to the heart that beat only for her.—There was, to be sure, a contrast between golden curls and hair white with frost—between a face almost babyish in its early womanhood, and one filled with lines of care and thought; but the heart never grows old.

She had never been absent from her husband a day since they were married. The last winter she had spent at the Capital. The time had nearly arrived for him to go again, and this winter she was to remain at home.

Involuntarily she contrasted her happiness with those whose husbands were always at home. To be sure, she should receive frequent remembrances of him, and a letter with each evening mail, but that was not his own protecting presence, and she was sad. She thought of a tall, dark-haired man, who, in his early youth, had promised her she should be with him always. And he was near her own age—he would never refuse a request of hers, even were it best he should—so he used to say; and the little heart of Georgia Morley asked, 'Wouldn't you have been happier with him?' But he was beyond the seas, and even that thought, that she might never see him again, made her more unhappy still.

Her husband's visits from the Capital found her not quite the same loving child he had left her; but he attributed it to the right cause, ill-health and solitude.—He wished he had no duties at Congress, but as he had, they must be attended to, and he thought his return would bring back all the old love and joyousness. But to relieve her ennui he would send her old friend, who was visiting Washington, to see her.

"Ma Belle, Mr. Gray tells me he used to know little Georgia Cleave, and as he visits here this winter, I will invite him to call on Mrs. Georgia Morley. You will find him a pleasant companion for a few lonely hours.'

With a shudder she clasped her husband's arm, and said—

'No, no, I don't want to see him;—don't let him come!'

He only laughed at his little, nervous wife, kissed her a good-bye, and was off to Washington.

Albert Gray had always considered Georgia Cleave a childish little thing; pretty enough in her own way—not quite grand enough for him, though; but now, the Mrs. Morley who received him into her elegant home was beautiful. The new dignity of wife had improved her wonderfully. She had not lost her childish ways—they had only ripened into those of the woman. And her foolish little heart asked if she was really sorry that, in a moment of passionate pride, she had given herself to Wilson Morley. She thought she heard it answer 'Yes!'

The days passed happily. They sang, played, walked, and rode together. He was much more lively than her grave husband. With him she was growing quite a child again.

Albert Gray had never referred to their past until to-day; and that in such terms as no wife ought to listen to. So she had forbidden him her presence, and to-morrow her husband was coming home.

How queer it seemed she had a husband! She was glad of his presence, as a protection, so long as she was a wedded wife; but how could she meet him!—Unhappy Mrs. Morley!

The people of Glendower talked more persistently now than when she was married. They always knew what would come of such a match.

Did they?

Georgia Morley dressed herself in a blue merino—her husband's favorite color—to await his coming. Gray preferred a crimson velvet. She had just decided between cornelians and diamonds, in favor of the cornelians. It was almost train-time. She sat waiting, yet dreading, to hear the whistle which should announce his arrival. She would be very brave and tell him all, even if he were displeased with her. She would never see Gray again, and then she would try to love him just as before; for, after all, he had been not only a tender father but a loving husband to her.

She grew impatient for his coming.—Darkness came, but he did not. Unable to endure it longer, she sent a servant to enquire why the train had not come in.

By telegram the explanation came,—A terrible accident! Train off the track!

Her heart gave a great bound; a face whi[illegible] show told that she felt an interest there. But then it was impossible; her husband could not be hurt; and, in her unwillingness to believe evil, she believed, against reason, that he had been on another train.

Little sleep visited Mrs. Morley that night. She dreamed her head was in its old place, on her husband's heart, with his strong right arm around her; and she woke only to find herself alone.

Early her eye ran over the list of wounded in the morning paper. His name was not there. She knew he could not be hurt.

But, in sympathy with the bereaved, she would run over the list of the killed. Only the third name—"Senator Morley, skull fractured!"

She fell to the floor, threw up her white arms, but uttered no cry of agony.

Carefully kind friends watched over her for returning life. At last it came, but reason came not with it. A week later she opened her eyes upon the child that had lain by her side for seven days. She was quiet and calm.

It was just as people knew it would be—she could not be expected to mourn very splendidly for a husband she had never loved.

Her grief was too deep for words, or outward actions. She saw how false it was—how poor any other love would have been compared with his. If she could only have obtained his forgiveness before he died, she might have given him up!

How could she endure life? Only by watching his child, which grew daily more like him.

Mrs. Morley sat in her husband's library, in blue merino and cornelians, holding her baby, now a month old, upon her lap. The roses had not yet returned to her face. She was as much the picture of sinless childhood as the child on her lap.

Contrary to her express commands, the servants had admitted a caller; and Albert Gray had asked her to return to him the love he had once slighted, and which she had subsequently bestowed on a husband now dead. The fire flashed from her eyes and burned on either cheek as she commanded him to leave her presence, forever. She would not recognize him as a friend, having insulted the memory of her dead husband.

A step was heard at the door, and, leaning on the arm of Dr. Wood, Senator Morley called out,—

"This is fine business, when a man has been gone as long as I have, to look all over the house for his wife, and find her at last entertaining company in his own room! Why Georgia, what makes you look so pale?"

And she was caught, baby and all, in the arms of her husband, just in time to prevent her falling.

Senator Morley was surprised to find that he had been reported dead, and supposed that his wife had been duly informed that he was at N—— Hospital, being treated for an injury of the skull received at the time of the accident.

Mr. Gray did not accept Mr. Morley's invitation to stay to dinner.

And after the Senator had sufficiently admired his little son, his faithful wife told him all the occurrences of the past winter.

He never again invited company against his wife's wishes, excusing himself on plea of her nervousness; but he loved her, even more than before.

Now he never goes to Washington without his wife, and people have come to the conclusion that, after all, Georgia Cleave made a very happy choice.

☞ A young lady once hinted to a gentleman that her thimble was worn out, and asked what reward she should receive for her industry. He sent her a new thimble with the following lines:

"I send you a thimble for fingers so nimble,
Which I hope will fit when you try it;
It will last you long, if it's half as strong
As the hint which you gave me to buy it."

☞ "No one would take you for what you are," said an old-fashioned gentleman a day or two ago to a dandy who had more hair than brains. "Why?" was immediately asked. "Because they cannot see your ears!"

Tools for Boys.

It is too often the case that farmers boys are put off with old tools, heavy and rusty hoes, old forks, the poorest and oldest scythe, and a dull axe,—because he is only a boy, and can learn just as well with them as anything; "can't do much work any how."

Now this is not right. A boy will do as much more work in proportion to his strength as a man, if he has tools properly suited to his years. Provide your boy with nice, light, well tempered tools, and you will find him taking hold of his task cheerfully, and also that he has a pride in taking care of his implements. Boys thus provided will grow up, and become men of thrift and enterprise; they will see the mistaken policy of attempting any great work without proper pre-requisites.

Give him also a piece of land, that he may till for himself, and have the proceeds thereof. You will find that he will be anxious to realize as great a profit as possible, and this will cause him to study the character of plants, and the nature of the soil, and to read and inform himself in his pursuits. Do not allow your boys to over work, for in this there is no economy. It is better to pay heavily for hired help. Teach them to be industrious. Give them encouragement, it will make many a dull boy bright, and injure no one. Kindnesses in this line will not be forgotten—your sons will remember you when you are old.

A Strange Incident.

The following will be appreciated by those who have 'gone a coasting' in their boyhood's happy days:

A full rigged maid of fashion, with hoops all boldly set, moved up the sidewalk gailey, observed by all she met.—The walk was very wide, but the hoop skirts were much wider, and t'were useless to think of even walking up beside her. Her cheeks were red as roses, her face was all a smile, and her tread it was as dainty as though earth was all too vile. It was her hour of triumph, and she did not seem to know that a coasting sled was coming at a pace not very slow.—But it came, and ere she knew it, her props were knocked away, and she was going down the street, with a boy upon his sleigh.

The wind it blew quite roughly, turning all the hoops aback, and of partly smothered screams there wasn't any lack;—while she didn't know what she was or wasn't about, her person much resembling an umbrella inside out.

The people stopped and wondered as the swiftly speeding sleigh devotedly kept onward, rushed past and far away; the boy cried 'road' and liked it and safely 'shied' his sled, with his own feet pointing backward, and the maid's thrown out ahead. They gained the level safely and the maiden full of wrath, looked back in angry silence on the quickly traveled path.

'You good-for-nothing scamp,' she cried, 'I've a mind to shake you well.'

Your face was covered up, mem, and you know I'll never tell,' said the coasting lad quite boldly, and in jovial mood he bowed, and said, 'Good morning, mem; you held your feet up good!'

Good Vinegar.

Choose a stout, tight cask, if possible one that has been already used to contain cider, beer, wine, etc. Saw a square hole in the side around the bung, from six to eight inches square. Be careful to saw beveling, so the piece may at a future time be set back in the hole, and not fall in. Place this cask in the warm air out of doors, in some secure and sheltered place, where it can have the sun and yet be protected from disturbance. Pour into it a few quarts of good vinegar, warmed a little. Also at the same time a few quarts of good cider, which will very soon become vinegar. Continue to add cider according to the heat of the weather, and the ascertained progress of the contents of the barrel. In a few weeks all your barrel of cider will thus have become good vinegar. This being duly accomplished, the whole may be removed to a cold cellar. The object of the large hole is the admission of the air freely to the surface of the liquid. It will be well, while the vinegar is forming, to lay over the hole a bit of millinet or perforated tin, to keep out insects. When it is finished, the original block sawed out may be restored.

Anecdote of Lady Washington.

In conversing not long since with an aged lady of Morris County, I obtained an anecdote concerning Lady Washington, so entertaining and admirable, that I am induced to publish it.

There was residing in Morris County a Mrs. Troupe, the widow of a half-pay British captain. She was a frequent visitor at the house of Mrs. T., and on one of these occasions, before she had passed the usual compliments, she exclaimed,—"Well, what do you think, Mrs T.? I have been to see Lady Washington!"

"Have you, indeed!" said her friend. "Then tell me all about how you found her ladyship, how she appeared, and what she said."

"Well, I will honestly tell you," replied Mrs. Troupe, "that I never was so ashamed in all the days of my life. You see, Madam——, and Madam——, and myself thought we would visit Lady Washington, and as she was said to be so grand a lady, we thought we must put on our best bibs and bands. So we dressed ourselves in our most elegant ruffles and silks, and were introduced to her ladyship. And don't you think we found her knitting, with a speckled (check) apron on!—She received us very graciously and easy, but after the compliments were over, she resumed her knitting. There we were without a stitch of work, and sitting in state, but General Washington's lady, with her own hands, was knitting stockings for her husband and herself.

"And that was not all. In the course of the afternoon she took occasion to say, in a manner that we could not be offended at, that at this time it was very important that American ladies should be patterns of industry to their country women, because the separation from the mother country will dry up the sources whence many of our comforts have been derived. We must become independent, by our determination to do without what we cannot make ourselves. While our husbands and brothers are examples of patriotism, we must be partners of industry."

According to Mrs. Troupe's story, Lady Washington gave her visitors some excellent advice, she meanwhile adding force to her words by her actions. In all this she proved herself more worthy to occupy her distinguished position, than she could have done by all the graceful and elegant accomplishments even of Josephine. In the relations she occupied, her knitting work and check apron were queenly ornaments, and we may be proud to know that such a woman as Martha Washington set such an admirable example to her country-women!

A Novel Plea.

A Judge relates the following incident that occurred in his practice:—He was trying a petty case, in which one of the parties was not able to pay counsel fees, and undertook to plead his own cause.—But he found in the course of the trial, that the keen, and adroit attorney who managed the case for the other party was too much for him in legal strategy, evidently making the worse appear the better cause.

The poor man, Mr. A., was in a state of mind bordering upon desperation, when the opposing counsel closed his plea to the justice for decision.

"May it please your honor," said the old man, "may I pray?" The Judge was taken somewhat by surprise, and could only say that he saw no objection. Where upon Mr. A. went down upon his knees, and made a fervent prayer, in which he laid the merits of his case before the Lord in a very clear and methodical statement of all the particulars, pleading that right and justice might prevail. "Oh, Lord, thou knowest that this lawyer has misrepresented the facts, and thou knowest that it is so and so"—to the end of the chapter.

Arguments which he could not present in logical array to the understanding of men, he had no difficulty in addressing to the Lord, being evidently better versed in praying than pettifogging. When he rose from his knees Esquire W., the opposing counsel, very much exasperated by the turn which the case had taken, said, "Mr. Justice, does not the closing argument belong to me?' To which the Judge replied: "You can close with prayer if you please."

Esquire W. was in the habit of praying at home, but not seeing the propriety of connecting his prayer with his practice, wisely forbore, leaving poor Mr. A. to win his case as he did, by his novel mode of presenting it.

The Tecumseh Herald.

TECUMSEH, MICH., SEPT. 22, 1864.

Earnest but Kind.

In entering upon another Presidential campaign, which doubtless involves much which every earnest and patriotic citizen cannot but believe to deeply involve the future weal of this great nation, if any word of ours could reach or influence the contending partisans, it should be these—be earnest but kind.

In almost every other enterprise in life, men do not fail to appreciate the power of kindness and forbearance, but in politics just the opposite seems to be the favorite course.

We are sometimes at a loss to understand why this should be so, and although it is the favorite course of a partisan press, and partisan orators, yet we never listen to, or read, an effort bitter character without feeling quite sure that, so far as the success of the party or cause in behalf of which it is set forth is concerned, it has done more hurt than good.

Now what is the object of mass meetings, conventions, and a party press? Is it not to secure the co-operation and votes of those who are as yet not fully decided in their own minds, and might perhaps without these efforts eventually support the other side?

If this be so, it is arguments they want, not abuse. It is not in human nature to hear no one wilfully and wrongfully abused, or misrepresented, without feeling drawn instinctively to the defence of the injured party.

Thus, those we seek to win are thoughtlessly driven over to the other side, by the very unreasonableness and bitterness by which we seek to lead them to our own.

It is true that, in the midst of bitter partisan excitement, the more violent course secures the most vociferous partisan applause, but to those not so strongly partisan—and these are the very ones you are seeking to secure—it is only offensive, and by its very unfairness only tends to drive them farther in the opposite direction.

Besides, this is no time for bandying words. We are in the mindst of civil war, and men ought to be far to earnest for that. It is patriotism, not partisanship, that is needed now, and he who in this hour of our country's peril would sacrifice the one for the other, deserves to be a slave.

Men may differ, and must be allowed to differ in opinion, as to what the best interests of the country does really demand; but, whether differing or not, it is certain that their real interests are and must be one and the same, and they cannot afford to be mislead or mistaken; nor can they afford to act contrary to their best and most earnest convictions of duty in this respect. Earnestness, then, becomes a duty, and should offend no one, and, accompanied with a spirit of kindness and charity, it never will.

Sheridan's Defeat of Early.

The news from Sheridan is glorious.—Early is one of the best Generals in the Southern service, and is thoroughly acquainted with every foot of the ground on which the battle between him and Sheridan was fought. His soldiers were among the best of Lee's army. If he could not achieve victory with them, he could not have done it with any troops in the Confederacy. He was thoroughly whipped on ground of his own choosing, and with the best troops in the Southern armies.

When we remember that Early was engaged in all the raids into Maryland and Pennsylvania, that he commanded the rebel troops who twice crossed the Potomac but a few weeks ago, and that his possession of the Valley of the Shenandoph has done nearly as much as Lee's intrenched army for the defence of Petersbug and Richmond, we may well regard Sheridan's victory as one of the most important successes of the war. Fort Gaines, Fort Morgan, the Weldon Road, Atlanta and Winchester—all within hardly more than six weeks! The rebels are not invincible. We must conquer them if we will, and never have our arms progressed more gloriously than during these past few weeks.

☞ Maj. Pauline Cushman called on President Lincoln the past week, in proper female attire, and preferred her claim for five months of back pay, which had been refused her in the West after being wounded and her sex discovered. The President wrote a note to the Paymaster General, saying that, as she had received her pay the greater part of the time, he could see no reason why she was not entitled to the remainder, and therefore directed the payment of the balance.
